THE DAILY BYENDAR THE CRAPHE PHILADRIPHIA, WHELESTONAY, MARCH 21, 1800.

CHAPTER OF CRIME.

A NEW DR. PARKMAN HORROR-ATROCIOUS MUR-DER-THE REMAINS OF THE VIJIM BURNED TO ASHES BY THE NURDEBER,

A cool, brutal murder took place near Lineville, Wayne county. Iowa, on the night of the 22d of February. The victim was a German, named George Klider, a single man, aged thirty years, living alone in a house about half a mile distant from any other dwelling or any read. The neighbors suspected a German neighbor. named Hoogman, as the murderer, and on ar resting him and questioning him in regard to the missing man, the prisoner fainted, and gave some unsatisfactory answer in regard to him. His house was examined, and large spets of blook were found on the floor and wall of his room, and the whole premises emitted a most sickening odor: large quantities of human bones were found in the smouldering ashes of the tire-place. A lower jaw was found, but little disfigured, as was also large pieces of a skull, together with pieces of human flesh. An incision on the former showed that the body had been chopped to pieces with an axe preparatory to burning. The most of the bones had been pounded to pieces. The murderer must have been engaged in this hellish work of burning the remains during the entire night of February 22. A pocket-knile, a pecket-book, and other trinkets, identified as the property of the murdered man, were found on the prisoner's person at the time of his arrest. It was with great difficulty that the chizens could be restrained from wreaking summary vengeance on the prisoner. He is now in jail at Princeton, Mo., awalting The only motive for the terrible deed appears to be that of gain.

AN ELOPEMENT—THE PARTY POUND NEARLY PROZEN INCENSIBLE.

A pair of clopers at Chicago, the other day, were followed so closely by an enraged parent that they could not get the marriage rite performed, and tried to make good their escape with a borse and sleigh. But the weather was bitter cold, and before driving far their limbs began to freeze, and they soon became insensible. In this condition they were discovered, taken in hand and cared for by a hospitable family, who hadn't the slightest idea that they were not man and wife, and so put them to bed together. They recovered from their stupor just as the indelatigable parent introduced himself, finding their heads side by side on a pillow, and a first-class "scene" immediately ensued. After all this romance, of course, there must be a happy termination, and a minister made ANOTHER ELOPEMENT-A TINNER BUNS AWAY

WITH A MARRIED WOMAN. A tinner ran away a few days since with a married woman of Peoria, Illinois, The deserted husband followed the guilty couple to Davenport, They were found occupying the same room; the guilty man was arrested and carried to jail. In the meantime the husband and wife were lacked up in the same room. On the return of the officer the umon had been reconstructed, and the rebel pardoned, and they were snugly ensconced between the sheets not yet divested of the warmth communicated from the body at that moment agonizing be-tween "four thick and cold stone walls." A subsequent meeting of all the parties resulted in an amicable settlement of all difficulties.

EIGHTEEN PERSONS POISONED TO DEATH. A most distressing case of poisoning lately took place near the town of Lisbon, Grand Rapids, Michigan. It appears that a party of men were employed in the woods cutting out pine logs, and had a shanty boarding house, where they employed a man to do their cooking. A trapper happened that way at night, and requested permission to remain over night, which was granted. He had with him a paper containing strichnine, for the purpose of poisouing meat in setting his traps for wild animals, and on entering the shanty it was placed on a board shelf carelessly, and left there. The cook, in preparing the meal, took from the shelf, as he supposed, a paper of salaratus, but, instead thereof, poison, and mixed up and baked the biscuit, of which all parties parteck, from the result of which eighteen persons were poisoned, and died.

A Negro Sculptress.

Correspondence of the London Athenaum. Rome, February 20 .- An interesting nevelty has sprung up among us, in a city where all our surroundings are of the olden time. Miss Edmonia Lewis, a lady of color, has taken a studio in Rome, and works as a sculptress in one of the rooms formerly occupied by the great master Canova. She is the only lady of her race in the United States who has thus applied herself to the study and practice of sculptural art, and the fact is so remarkable and snique that a brief sketch of her life, given almost in her own words, will, I am sure, be acceptable to the wide circle of your readers. "My mother," she told me only last Monday, "was a wild Indian, and was born in Albany, of copper color, and with straight, black hair. There she made and sold moccasins. My father, who was a negro, and s gentleman's servant, saw her and married her. I was born at Greenbign, to Ohio. Mother often left her home, and wandered with her people, whose habits she could not forget, and thus we. her children, were brought up in the same wild manner. Until I was twelve years old I led this wandering life, fishing and swimming," she added with great glee, "and making moccasins. I was then sent to school for three years in M'Graw, but was declared to be wild—they sould do nothing with me. Often they said to me, 'Here is your book, the book of Nature; come and study it.' From this school I was sent to another at Oberim, in Ohio, where I remained four years, and then I thought of returning to wild life again; but my love of sculpture forbade it. Some friends recommended me to go to England, but I thought it better first to study in Rome." And here she is, the descendant and member of a much injured race, struggling against ignorant prejudice, but with genius enough to prove that she bears the image of Him who made all nations under the sun.

While her youth and her color claim our warmest sympathies, Miss Edmonia Lewis has a very engaging appearance and manners. Her eyes and the upper part of her face are sine; the crisp hair and thick lips, on the other hand, bespeak her negro paternity. Name in manner, happy and cheerful, and all unconscious of simcuity, because obeying a great impulse, she pratties like a child, and with much simplicity and spirit pours forth all her aspirations, present, she has little to show; she appeals to the patronage and protection of the civilized and the Christian world. There is the cast of a bust of Colonel Shaw, who commanded the first colored regiment that was ever formed, and who died "a leader for all time in Freedom's Chivalry." The bust was executed from a photegraph, and now, as a commission from the sister of Colonel Shaw, is being transferred to Another commission is a bust of Mr. Dio Lewis, I believe, of New York. Her first ideal group was to be executed under promise for some gentlemen in Boston, and, in the true spirit of a heroine, she has selected for her subject "The Freedwoman on her first hearing of her Liberty." She has thrown herself on her knees, and with clasped knees and uplified eyes, she blesses God for her redemption. Her boy, ignerant of the cause of her agitation hangs over her knees and elings to her waist. She wears the turban which was used when at work. Around her wrists are the half-broken manacles, and the chain lies on the ground still attached to a large ball. "Yes," she observed, "so were my race treated in the market and elsewhere." It tells, with much eloquence, a paintul story.
