

Correspondence of "Evening Telegraph"

To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph:—Boston, Mass., May 5, 1866.

My Dear Sir:—Having just returned from an extended trip through Pennsylvania and New Jersey, where I have been examining various localities for the purpose of selecting a home for myself and family, I take the liberty of giving you the result of my observations, thinking they may interest many New Englanders, who similarly situated to myself, are desiring to purchase.

In Pennsylvania I found great quantities of good land, but where it is cultivated, the prices demanded for it are such as to generally prevent its purchase by men of limited means. The farming in Pennsylvania is of a superior order. The farmers are thrifty, their dwellings of a good order, and great attention paid to their barns and outbuildings, while great care is bestowed upon their horses and cattle.

The settlements have been long made, and the crops raised are generally hay, corn, oats, and wheat, while great quantities of butter and cheese are produced. In Southern Jersey, however, I found a region which within the last ten years has sprung into public notice, presenting so many inducements for New England farmers that I am confident when its merits become known, it will be speedily populated by thousands of New Englanders who have hitherto determined to try their fortunes in the West, without ever knowing that here was to be found a delightful climate, a soil easily tilled, capable of producing every variety of vegetation, but so admirably adapted to the cultivation of fruits and the smaller vegetables, and so conveniently situated in reference to a ready and at all times reliable market, between the two great cities of New York and Philadelphia, as to give a perfect monopoly in the growth of the vegetables here produced.

About ten years ago attention began to be particularly attracted to this region, and since the completion of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, no section of the country has so rapidly improved as this, and flourishing settlements are already made at Vineland, Hammonton, and other localities upon the line of the Philadelphia and Cape Island Road, and on the Camden and Atlantic Road. But at this time no locality is attracting greater attention than that of Waterford, situated intermediate between the lands of Hon. W. C. Patterson on the southeast, and the property of Hon. A. K. Hay, on the south. The Waterford tract, comprising more than 5000 acres, possesses many advantages, having been cultivated for a great number of years by Hon. Joseph Porter, deceased, and is now brought into market by his enterprising successor, William C. Porter, whose liberal policy and whose favorable terms give great facilities to those who are here, making their settlements. The Waterford tract is within twenty miles of Philadelphia, with railroad trains passing to and from there twice a day; and within three miles of the junction of the Camden and Atlantic with the Delaware and Raritan Railways, thus giving the farmer on this tract the choice of the two best markets of the two largest cities in the United States. Already a large number of New Englanders have here made selection of their future homes, and society begins to here already a new England aspect. A good hotel at Waterford is already opened, and good schools are here to be found. The early completion of the Presbyterian church now erecting will be a great addition to the place. Mechanics and laborers are here of constant and steady employment while the price of land and the advantages of market render this locality which should be well examined before another selection is made. Yours truly, A. F. DAVIDSON.

Another Tragedy. Mysterious Murder in Connecticut—The Naked and Bruised Dead Body of a Young Woman Found Lying in an Open Field—No Clue to the Murderers—Verdict of the Coroner's Jury, Etc. Correspondence of the Hartford Times.

Waterford, May 6.—On Friday afternoon last our quiet neighborhood on the edge of Waterford was thrown into an intense excitement by rumor that the body of a woman had been found murdered in an open lot in the west part of that town, near what is called the Shunkpile, about two and a half miles from the village. The facts as we gather them from eye-witnesses are as follows:—On Friday morning Mr. Selden G. Ely went to a lot of his to repair the fence between him and that owned by Mr. David Edwards, and about 1 o'clock, while following the line of the fence he discovered the body of a woman lying on her back, stark naked, in the lot of Mr. Edwards, and about four feet from the fence. On going to it he found her to be quite dead. He immediately gave notice of the matter to Mr. Buckley Edwards, first selectman, as well as Mr. Timothy Ranney, Town Constable, of the fact.

A coroner's jury was summoned, and a number of the people went out to the spot. After the formation of the jury, with Mr. William A. Sickney as foreman, and Mr. Marvin R. Warner as clerk, a post mortem examination was held by Dr. Hutchinson, of Cromwell, and Dr. Hodgson, of Rocky Hill.

The corpse appeared to be that of a young woman, from twenty to twenty-five years old, fair complexion, auburn or chestnut hair, and a well-developed form; height, five feet one inch. On the forehead of the right hand was a plain gold ring. The legs from her knees down to her feet appeared to be much bruised; the left eye was gone, whether gouged or eaten out it was impossible to determine. The left side of her face was much bruised, as from bruises, and also the back of her left ear and over her left eye, as though a blow or blows had been given her. Around her body was a string or tape, and on her ankle was a piece of shoe string. In her right hand were a number of sprigs of bushes, which she was holding in her hands. Her feet did not indicate that she had walked or been footed and died there; nor was there anything about her person which indicated in the least that it was a case of suicide. The body was not in a violent state of decomposition, and the doctors could not agree as to the length of time the body had lain there, which might have been from three to twelve days. She appeared to be of German or Dutch descent.

After due deliberation the jury brought in a verdict that she came to her death from causes and means unknown to them.

About four of five feet from where she was found was a large pile of leaves, which had been placed there recently, and on which were placed several fence rails, by whom it is unknown, or for what purpose. These were within a few feet about nine days since; but the body was not then seen. About one hundred yards from where the body was discovered, on the bushes, was found a man's cotton shirt, with linen bosom and cotton collar and bands. The shirt was considerably worn and was torn down the entire front.

Tracks, as though two persons had run from the body to the street, were discovered, though rain had fallen since they were made.

Nothing further was found after thorough search to give any clue as to who she was or how she came there. The selectman took charge of the body and gave it a decent burial. The ring in her possession, which it is hoped, will be the means of throwing light on this mysterious affair, and if, as is generally thought, foul play has been at work, the villain may be detected and brought to justice.

The spot where the body was found was on the edge of a woods, and about one-quarter of a mile from the road, and the same distance from any house.

Kings of Laughing Gas.

No. 737 Walnut Street, May 4, 1866.—A roll of paper sixty feet long lays on our table, with the following heading:—This may certify that the Colton Dental Association of Philadelphia have, after admission to the Nitrous Oxide Gas, extracted for us, without pain, the number of teeth and at the dates opposite our respective names. The effect of the gas was pleasant, and the operation satisfactory. This paper is dated October 12, 1865—about six months ago—and is signed by one thousand nine hundred and forty-four patients, etc.

I have never had the slightest ill effects to attend the operation of the gas in a single case. Opposite each name is a blank space for any remark which the signer may think proper to make. One lady wrote yesterday:—The happiest moments of my life were when I was under the influence of the gas and had two teeth extracted. Another wrote:—I thought I was in Heaven. Another:—I went to the opera; "had a most delightful dream," etc. These cases are among the most pleasant. No one has ever complained of anything more disagreeable than an unpleasant dream.

A little deaf and dumb child describes the general feeling of patients:—I went to Dr. Colton's and breathed in a bag, and my teeth fell right out. He saw no instruments, and was not aware that one had been put in his mouth. Yesterday we extracted fifteen teeth, with one dose of the gas for a lady, and though in very delicate health, she said she felt as well after as before inhaling the gas. We have an experienced dentist whose whole time is devoted to extracting teeth. We are consequently able to extract teeth in the very best manner possible.

G. COLTON, Colton Dental Association, No. 737 Walnut St.

AMUSEMENTS.

Walnut Street Theatre.—Hamlet will continue its triumphant course. It is strange to the admirer and artistic getting up of this piece does not seem to have been thoroughly appreciated and understood by the public, or even by the press. One critic calls the characteristic arras horse-drawings, totally ignoring their historical exactness, the idea of the day in Europe has revived this idea of arras, which in turn has now called portions, and adapted in all the elegant drawing-rooms and parlors of the city. Another critic finds fault with the crude and grotesque drawing of the figures—when their very crudity and grotesqueness is an evidence of the truthfulness of the artist in copying the designs of the times. For a far was nothing but tapestry, the work of the artist's hands, as skilled in the arts of drawing unskillful in coloring, but patient and persevering from year to year, for in those days, weavers spent their lives within the sanctuaries of the room, their occupation, religious exercises, and tapestry working. At Antwerp, in Normandy, the tapestry worked by the Empress Matilda, the daughter of William the Conqueror, about A. D. 1099, is still to be seen. Just such drawing, just such coloring, just such Scripture scenes as the artists of the West have given us. For ideal truth, grandeur, and gloomy majesty, the get-up of Hamlet cannot be surpassed.

ARCH STREET THEATRE.—To-night Mr. McKee Rankin takes his first benefit in this city. He appears as "Robert Landry" in the Dead Heart, and as "Charles Paragon" in Jezebel. Mr. Rankin has all the original music of the Dead Heart, and as he has achieved a great reputation wherever he has performed the part of "Robert Landry," we may expect to see him to his great advantage. His fine figure and graceful manner, in "Charles Paragon," will be perfection to sell. We wish him success.

New Chesnut Street Theatre.—Mr. Edwin Adams, the favorite Puddin' Loaf star, will make his first appearance in The Heretic, a play of Judge Conrad's, of whom he purchased the copyright, and which he has created. Mr. G. Clarke, an artist of great talent and soul, will appear as a singer; and Miss Orton, Mr. Adams will be rarely surpassed.

American Theatre.—Miss Hudson, the well-known equestrienne, commences this evening with her popular comedy, "The Two Girls," with her number of popular dramas will be produced, with new scenic effects. Mr. Fox has some attractive novelties in preparation.

Academy of Music.—The last week of the Revels. All the attractions concentrated into a succession of most splendid and brilliant performances.

Howe's European Circus.—This fine company celebrated their advent to this city by a procession which brought the principal streets this morning. The knights of the ring in their gallant attire, together with the stud of horses connected with the establishment, finely caparisoned, were in line. It was a very creditable display, and it is perhaps well to say that it will be repeated on Wednesday next with an entire change of route. The first performance will be given this afternoon, and they will be continued day and evening for some days.
