A Modern Tantalus.—A writer in Fraser's Magazine says:—A useful, if hackneyed, moral may be enforced by a story told of M. de Beaujon, the financier, who built the Elysee Bourbon, and fitted it up in a style of luxury that made it one of the wonders of Paris. An Englishman obtained leave to visit it, and on entering the dining-room found a table magnificently laid out. "Your master," he observed to the maine d'hotet, "makes wenderfully good cheer,"
"Helas, sir, my master never sits down to a regular dianer; a single plate of vegetables is prepared for him." "Here, at least, is food for the eye," said the visitor, pointing to the pic tures. "Helas, sir, my master is nearly blind." "Well," resumed the Englishman, on entering the second suite, "he compensates himself by listening to good mustc." "Helas, str, my master has never heard the music which is played here; he goes to bed early, in the hopes of snatch-ing a few minutes' sieep." "But at all events, he enjoys the pleasures of walking in that magniti-cent garden." "Helas, sir, he cannot walk." In a word, the supposed Lucullus was leading the life of Tantalus; for all purposes of enjoyment he was the poorest of the poor.

PROPELLING VESSELS BY TURBINE WHEELS .-An interesting trial of a new mode of propulsion for steam vessels by steam has been made on the The Nauti'us, an eighty-seven ton boat, fitted with Ruthven's hydraulic propeller, was fairly and successfully tried against a river boat. The propeller consists of a turbine wheel below the water-line, which throws out with great force water admitted from the bottom by four nozzles, two at the stem and two at the stern. The vessel, of course, goes forward when the latter and backwards when the former is used. It the stream of water be sent in opposite directions the vessel turns as on a pivot, A rudder is not really wanted. Numerous advantages are specified, among them that the water of a leak would be rapidly forced out and made to serve instead of to sink the vessel. All the machinery of motion is wholly out of the reach of injury by an enemy, and the Govern ment has ordered the building of a gunboat on this principle.

RESTAUBANTS AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION. - Part of the "international" character of the Paris Exhibition next year will be illustrated in the restaurants which are to be established in con-nection with it. An attempt will be made to exhibit the peculiarities of diet in different countries, and the waiters are to be clothed in the respective costumes. A correspondent, speculating upon these different refreshment rooms, says:—"The Englishman will expect to have his roast beef and ale; the Yankee his pork and beans, buckwheat cakes, and green corn; the Du'chman his sauerkraut; the Spaniard his olla caldo and dulces; the Italian his maccaroni; the Esquimaux his blubber; and the Chinaman his rice and birds' nests-perhaps, in a quiet way, a rat or so. As a large space will be devoted to the Polynesians, some very curious culinary preparations from that quarter of the globe may be looked for."

Parisian Diet,—The regular victualling of Paris is one of its most wonderful features, During the year 1865 2,882,629 hectolitres of wine were absorbed by the thirsty population (a hec-tolitre is equivalent to 107 pints). During the same period 112,602 hectolitres of brandy and 76,000 of cider were imbibed, as well as 340,308 hectolitres of beer; of grapes, 7.549,898 kilos were eaten (a kilo 2.2046 pounds); of meat coming from slaughter-houses, 111,546,262 kilos; of dead meat sent up from the country or from abroad, 18,556,223 kilos; and of various other kinds of meat, such as venison, kid, etc., 7,062, 489 kilos; of pork, hams, and tongues, 1,800,000 kilos; of cheese, 13,291,231f. worth; oysters, 2,409,910f.; of fish, 13,009,000f.; of game, 23,000,000f.; of salt, 10,000,000f.; of ice for cooling purposes, 8,000,000f. worth; of charco:1, 4,000,000 kilos; and ot coals, 69,000,000 kilos; and ot coals, 69,000,000 kilos; kilos: and of coals, 695,000,000 kiles.

A Sculptor in Court.—The French sculptor Courtel recently sued one Fitzgibbon, son of the Mayor of Cork, for breach of a contract—the case being this:—Fitzgibbon ordered a statue of his father, for which the sum of twenty-two hundred dred dollars was to be paid. The work was un-dertaken, but after some time Fitzgibbon stopped it, on the ground that the people of Dublin had objected to the erection of a statue of Prince Albert; hence there was opposition to statues in Ireland, and the elder Fitzgibbon would ac-cerdingly not be honored in that way. The sculptor, however, insisted upon the fulfilment of the contract, and the court decided in his favor—decreeing that he should retain the plaster cast and receive one thousand dollars as damages from Fitzgibbon.

A New Abtificial Abm.—London papers notice an artificial arm of novel construction, It is hollow and light, yet very strong. The elbow and wrist movements are simply effected by cords working entirely from the shoulderjoint of the lost arm or forearm. The artificial arm is attached only by a cross-strap passing behind the back to the opposite shoulder and not crossing the chest. It enables the wearer to feed himself, to doff his hat, to drive and to PERILS BY RAIL. - A frightful disaster recently occurred on the Brighton Railway in England, by which many persons were killed and wounded. A survivor states that when the crash took place he was in a first-class carriage, with another gentleman and two ladies, and that when they attempted to extricate them-selves from the wreck they found the doors of their carriage locked. Luckily he had a railway key with him, and with it released himself and his fellow-passengers.
