BUFFALO, June 3.—[P. M.]—From four o'clock this morning...

At daybreak, as soon as the evacuation was discovered, nothing could exceed the jubilation of the so recently frightened Kanucks.

At eight o'clock it was reported that a large body of English troops was advancing, and at nine o'clock the heavy column appeared.

The column left Toronto at one o'clock yesterday afternoon at Port Dalhousie, by boat, and thence by rail.

On hearing of the evacuation by the Fenians the rage of the troops knew no bounds, and curses will harm the late invaders they are already destroyed.

On arriving at Waterloo ferry the 47th and 16th Regiments broke ranks and commenced examining the scenes of yesterday's battle.

The English troops are by no means well drilled, and do not present at all that imposing aspect expected, with the probable exception of the Grey Horse battery.

At six o'clock this afternoon Major-General James Lindsay, commanding the department, who has sufficiently recovered from the accident mentioned in my last, inspected the heavy reserves.

Colonel Lowery gave directions for the ferries to resume running, and will permit all persons having regular business to pass either to or from Canada.

Whoever else the Fenians may invade, further attack at this point is improbable.

BUFFALO, June 3.—5:50 P. M.—Large crowds still line the bank of the river, watching the military on the other side, and the Fenians on board the scow alongside the Michigan.

The one absorbing subject of debate here is what the United States Government will do with the men—six or seven hundred in all.

Early this morning Major Randall, pursuant to General Barry's orders, proceeded with a company of the 4th Infantry from Fort Porter to Pratt's Dock, near which the Michigan is lying, for the purpose of quelling any disturbance that might arise in an attempt at rescuing the prisoners.

The number of Fenians in the city does not exceed five hundred. They are under command of General Lynch, who arrived here last night.

A company of sixty men, armed with revolvers, got on the midnight train of the New York Central Railroad this morning, and stopped at Ely's residence at Ogdensburg.

Suspension Bridge Closed—Bitter Feeling of Canadians Against the Fenian Prisoners.

Suspension Bridge, June 3.—The news at this point is unimportant to-day. The bridge is closed and barricaded, and no passage across the river is permitted.

Great Excitement in Montreal—Expected Attack on Hemmingford—Active Movements of Canadian Troops, Etc.

Montreal, June 3, 10 P. M.—The excitement here incident to the movements of the Fenians in this Province still continues to be of the most intense nature, and is hourly heightened by crowds of people.

THREATENING MOVEMENTS. The Situation in St. Albans and Fair Haven, N. V.

St. Albans, June 3.—Many rumors are afloat about engagements above. Nothing official has been received here, however.

United States Marshal Henry is still here. Under his orders a number of boxes containing implements of war were sent to Fair Haven.

General Spear, in command of the Fenian forces, is patiently awaiting orders.

Colonel Michael Scanlan, of Massachusetts, Colonel Bannan and Lieutenant-Colonel John Brennan, of the 10th Connecticut Infantry Regiment, and Major McNamara, of Massachusetts, are here with troops.

Ogdensburg, June 3.—Every train on the Rome, Watowaga, and Ogdensburg Railroad coming east since Friday morning has brought from fifty to one hundred and fifty men, supposed to be Fenians.

At 3 A. M. to-day the Collector of this port received the following—

At 6 o'clock this afternoon Major-General James Lindsay, commanding the department, who has sufficiently recovered from the accident mentioned in my last, inspected the heavy reserves.

Reinforcements are now known to be on the way from the West, and the steamer Belgium will bring additional troops from England.

Some idea of the extent of the excitement prevailing here may be gained from the fact that the Montreal Herald has issued yesterday of sixty thousand extras to-day.

The News of the Capture of the Fenians at Fort Erie, N. Y.

Toronto, C. W., June 3.—Colonel Peacock is at Fort Erie, picking up Fenian stragglers, and taking care of commissary supplies shipped by the Great Western Railway to the Fort.

cial says all the Fenians escaped but one hundred and forty stragglers, and about twenty-five wounded of the 15th Fenian Regiment.

The excitement has somewhat subsided in Canada, but an attack is looked for at Cornwall, Sanda, and Windsor to-night.

Preparations of the Canadians to Repel Attacks—More Steamers to Be Put on the Lakes—Threatened Attack on Montreal, Etc.
