DEATH OF REV. JOSEPH H. KENVARD .-The death of Rev. Dr. Kennard was announced last evening. The deceased was, perhaps, the oldest clergyman of his persuasion in Philadel-phia, and had been paster of the Tenth Baptist Burch, in Eighth street, above Green, tor over forty years. During the lifetime and ministe-rial services of Dr. Kennard, there have been many powerful revivals of religion, and hundreds living can date their salvation through dreds living can date their salvation through his preaching, while many have died bearing testimony to his fidelity as a pastor. While the deceased was not a brilliant speaker, his earnestness of manuer and honesty of Christian character drew around him hundreds of young and old, who looked up to him with confidence. In their hours of want and spiritual depression the hours of want and spiritual depression the mourning and anxious seeker after religion could look to him with considence for direction and spiritual comfort. So highly respected was the deceased among the youth of the church that the Sunday Schools belonging to his congrega-tion were among the largest and most useful in this city. From these schools have been esta-blished several minor stations, which finally have grown into sell-supporting congregations, and the contributions for missionary purposes from the schools under his care were among the largest of any in this city. Dr. Kennard was also the young man's friend, and many of this class have been assisted into the gospel ministry through his instrumentality. The news of the death of 'his highly respected divine will send a theili of sorrow this morning through the hearts of hundreds in this and other cities. It can truly be said of the deceased that "a good man has fallen."

Nor was she aware of it until asked if she had lost anything by a young man who witnessed the theft. The defendants gave the names of Jane Phillips, Bridget Molloy, and Mary A. Davis. On the person of Bridget Molloy, though the pocket, as testified, was picked by Jane Phillips, the money stolen from Mrs. Edwards was found. Bridget said she was recently from Ireland, and the others represented themselves to be from New York. They were committed to answer. Charles Walker, who was arrested on Thurs day at the residence of Francis Caldwell, on Wallace street, near Eighteenth, in the act of robbing the premises, had a hearing before the Re-corder on Saturday, on the charge of having been concerned in the attempted robbery of Neil McCully's tailor shop on the 13th instant. Goods to the amount of $5000 had been carried from the shop and placed in a wagon, when some of the neighbors interfered, and the men taking alarm, fied and made their escape. Walker was identified by several witnesses as one of the men engaged in conveying the cloth from the shop to the wagon. He was committed for

On Friday afternoon the officers again visited the office, in order to make another search for stolen property, and while thus engaged they discovered a box containing the remains of an infant. Chloride of lime had been placed over it, and, when found, there was little left of the child except the skeleton.
