LETTER FROM COLONEL WILLIAM B. THOMAS.—CUSTOM HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA, July -To Charles H. Cummings, Esq., President of Meeting of Merchants, etc.:—Dear Sir:— I have read in the public papers, with a deep sense of my own unworthiness, your resolutions and proceedings in reference to my removal from the office I have filled during the last five years. I will not attempt to express the grati-tude I feel for the confidence you repose in me, nor the great satisfaction the complimentary terms in which you have been pleased to speak of my humble efforts to serve my country, as well as the merchants of Philadelphia, has given

However much I shall regret the severance of the business relations which have subsisted between us for so long a period, and anxious as I am to protect the true men I have called around me in the administration of my duties as Collector of Castoms at this port, I cannot consent to hold the office by the grace or tavor of the present incumbent of the Presidential chair for a single hour after my successor shall have been legally appointed.

I am conscientiously and unalterably opposed to the policy of conterring political rights upon the men who have been engaged for tour long years in the work of making widows of the wive nd orphans of the children of our lamented dead, except on such conditions as the enlight ened judgment of the patriotic men who have preserved the Union by their wisdom in council and valor in the field may dictate. The President, it seems, in order to build up a political party of his own, has determined to make opinion upon this subject a test of filness for

The traitors of the rebellious States having forsworn their allegiance to the United States Government, occupy by their own act the posi-tion of aliens to that Government, and should never again be permitted rights under it, until regularly naturalized ac-cording to law; much less should they be allowed an increase of political power as the result of their work in attempting to break up

In the inscrutable workings of Divine Providence, by which the "wrath of man is made to praise Him," the abolition of the barbarous institution of slavery, for the preservation of which the Rebellion was instituted, was brought about. The effect of the abolition of slavery, thus produced by slaveholders and their Northman allows in the state of the abolition of slavery. ern alites, is the destruction of one of the ioundation stones upon which the Constitution rests, viz.: the basis of representation; and I hold it to be the first duty of Congress to see that that basis is properly readjusted before they confer political rights upon those who by their treason have fortefied every right except that of being punished according to our Constitution and laws.

This is the only vial question which now agitates the nation. On one side are arrayed, with President Johnson at their head, the Val-landighams and Reeds of the North, the Davises and Stephenses of the South, together with a small retinue of anxious office expectants. On the other side, in as solid phalanx as when they brought victory to the Stars and Stripes of the Union on the battle-field, are the loyal men of both sections of our common country, ready as ever to sustain, with their intellects and lives, a Congress upon which they rely as the bulwark of the liberties of the people.

Having refused to "bow the knee to Baal," I have long known the intention of the President to remove me at the earliest moment in his power; and it has only been because he could not find a professed Republican of sufficient prominence to secure the indorsement of the Senate (whose confirmation was a necessary preliminary to my removal), and at the same time base enough to sacrifice his principles for office, that I have remained to the present time.

I may not agree with some of the gentlemen who have honored me by their presence at the meeting at the Board of Trades rooms, on the subject of rotation in office. Whilst I freely admit that experience is in many cases accessary to an intelligent administration of official duty, still I hold that change is a characteristic of our republican form of government, and it may be one of its evils; and I am not disposed to an exception to the practical application of this democratic principle

Governments are based upon the theory of rotation in office, or upon that of life tenure. Jurs is a democratic Republic, in which the will of the people is supposed to be reflected by their acts at the polls-when, therefore, they change the appointing power in any department of the Government, I hold it to be an expression of their will that a general change should take place in all offices in that department, except where such changes would be manifestly detrimental to the public good.

Let us apply this principle to the present policy of President Johnson to remove all officers who do not agree with him on the question of reconstruction, a question purely legislative in its character. Did the people signify a desire for change by electing him to the Presi dential chair? Did they constitute him the appointing power? or did they not rather express themselves opposed to change by re-electing our lamented Lincoln?

Thanking you, gentlemen, for your kind interposition in my behalf, I have only to say that I shall continue in office so long as I can do so, in disregard of the arbitrary will which now demands my removal against the wishes of the Senate of the United States, whose prerogative is wantonly invaded, and the mercantile community, whose interests I have always endeavored to promote.

WILLIAM B. THOMAS, Collector.

UNSAFE BUILDINGS .- The attention of the Building Inspectors having been called to the condition of the theatre in Callowhill street, above Fifth, a thorough inspection of it was made, and they declared it to be unsuitable for the purpose. As soon as their action was offi-cially communicated to the owners, steps were taken to have a new thea re erected, and it will be put up in the next lew months. The present building was formerly a church, and it underwent such alterations as were necessary to fit it for theatrical representations. the Building Inspectors shows that it never had a sufficient strength of walls for such a structure. There are several other buildings of the same character in the city.

WEAT WILL WE DO WITH THEM?-The Board of Health having closed up a large number of cellar and shed tenements in Baker and Small streets, the former occupants are left without homes. The Board of Health have referred to the Sanitary Committee, with power to act, the question of providing places for It is understood that the Commutee will furnish tent dwellings for them at Camp Cadwalader. Such a place would do far more towards keeping disease from getting smong such people than anything else that could be done.

HEAVY THUNDER STORM AT ATLANTIC CITY.-We learn from passengers who arrived last evening from Atlantic City, that a tremendous thunder storm prevailed there yesterday commencing shortly after noon. It laste i several hours, and filled all the cisterns of the houses. They were nearly dry. The island was completely flooded, the water being from six to twelve inches deep on the streets. prevalence of the storm the flagstaff on the Inite House was shivered by lightning. The fluid then passed to the conductor, and was carried off without doing further damage.

ACCIDENT ON A PASSENGER RAILWAY .-About 6 o'clock last evening a man was run over and killed at Fall's Lane by a train of ears on the Manayonk and Norristown Railroad, The deceased, who is unknown, was sitting on the track at the time, and was not discovered in time to prevent the accident. His body was brought to this city, and the Coroner notified to hold an inquest,

ANOTHER HOSPITAL, - The Christian Street Hospital (old Moyamensing Hall) has been handed over to the Board of Health to be used as a cholera hospital whenever needed,

AMBRICAN UNION COMMISSION OF PENN-SYLVANIA AND NEW JERSEY .- The following extracts have been made from a letter addressed to the Secretary by Miss H. N. Phillips, one of the ladies employed in the service of the Socicty:-

ATLANTA, Ga., July, 1844.-Dear Friend:-Could you step into our home just now, you would and us busy as usual. As some of the teachers have been writing you of the schools, I will pass on to other matters.

This morning I spent in visiting the families some of the most destitute scholars, and wished for a few hundred dollars, that I might minister to the wants of the sick and suffering

The widow Banes family was second on my list. Two of her little girls were sick, and the mother scarcely able to sit up. The helpless daughter told me she was hungry all the time and thought if she could get enough to eat, she would soon be able to go to school. I promised to send her a slate and pencil the next day. I then went home and prepared a basket of provisions suited to their wants. Mrs. Banes re-marked, "I know the delicacies your money has furnished is saving the lives of my daughters."

The next family visited was a poor delicate mother, and bright little girl of nine years; both had smallpox in the sp.ing, and have not been well since. The mother is almost blind; their poverty is extreme, I cannot describe it.

The next was a family of the Rays, whose children attend our school. Here I bound the mother in her coffin, ready for burial, two of the little girls were being carried to the City Hospital quite sick; four other children gath-ered around the lifeless body of their mother.

The next shanty I visited was occupied by Mr. Lee and family. Mr. and Mrs. Lee are quite in-telligent, and I think about as refined as any persons I have met with in the South. Mr. Lee was always a strong Union man, and greatly persecuted before he could get out of the State. The family refugeed to Nashville. I knew them there. When they returned to Atlanta with a family of nine children, they found their house in ruins, and had to live in a tent for three months, during which time it was very wet. Mr. Lee was taken sick, and has now been confined to his sharty for five months, and every member of his family has been quite sick. Robert, his son, ten years old, died a short time since. We turnished his burial clothes.

I next visited an old lady, who began to apolo gize for having sent for me; said it was huager forced her to do it. Her daughter, never very strong, had taken a severe cold when the retugeed, and lost her sight. She has been blind three years, but had never asked assist-ance until now. The blind girl knit, and thus supported herself; but lately they could not sell the work. They have also sold articles of better days, until now almost every comfort and convenience is gone. I expended two dollars for them, and bought some of their work for distribution.

These instances will furnish you with some idea of our work among this impoverished

The following is a list of articles issued to white children attending the free schools estab lished by the American Union Commission of Pennsylvania and New Jersey: — Coats, 94; pants, 202; shirts, 133; pairs of shoes, 112; dresses, 254; skirts, 163; chemises, 201; drawers, 15; sacques, 45; shawls, 16; bonnets, 13; aprons. ; waists, 13; vests, 20; pairs of hose, 81; handkerchiefs, 38; caps, 40; neck-ties, 6; pairs of suspenders, 4; combs, 4; Testaments, Sunday School papers, tracts, etc., 234.

INVESTIGATION OF THE YEWDELL MILL Explosion.—Coroner Taylor proceeded yester-day to examine into the causes of the late explosion at Hestonville. The following is the prin cipal evidence:-Jonas Suplee, sworn.—I am superintendent of Yewdell's mills, at Hestonville: Robert Hamil-ton, the engineer, who was killed, had been there three years; the last two weeks the engine d peen running night and day; the engmeen companied about three weeks ago of one of the valves leaking, and it was repaired; the watch man had charge of the engine at night; the en gineer did not complain to me that the engine was run beyond its capacity; there was a low water indicator on the boiler, the steam whistle of which could be heard outside the boiler room; before I went to the mill I was a conduc one of the city railroads; I had no general know edge of machinery; the botler was cleaned twice a year; it was found in good condition; the engine was of the Cottis pattern; we were not per mitted to have a greater pressure than seventy pounds to the square inch; we had a mercur gnage and a safety valve also.

Joseph G. Seal, sworn—I am employed in Yewdell's Mill; knew the engineer, Robert Hamilton; he told me he had been employed before in the Navy Yard; I was not at the mill at the time of the explosion; I had left but a few minutes before: I saw the engineer by the gaage cock before I left, and there was plenty of water in the boiler; the ergineer depended upon the mercury guage and steam indicator; I have heard him say that it was difficult to keep up sufficient steam in the boiler; I have examined the engine flues since the explosion, and there s no appearance of over-heating.

Edward Breen, sworn,-I am watchman at Yewdell's mill; I am on duty at night; I have run the engine for two or three months; the engineer had never run an engine, that I know of, before he came to the mill; I was never in structed how to run an engine, except by Mr. Suplee, who was there before Robert Hamilton: I know when a boiler is clean or dirty by the color of the water that comes out of the guage cocks; when the boiler was cleaned there was about a peck of dirt in it; the water in the race was not much used in daytime; a pipe was laid to the race some weeks ago, and the water used in the boiler, because there was not enough water in the well; I run about from 60 to 70 pounds of steam at night, and I fired up to 80 pounds in the morning; I watched the building it night, at the same time I tended the engine was away sometimes a quarter of an hour or I thought it safe to do so.

N. R. Suplee, the maker of the boiler, described the one that exploded; he said it was made of the best charcoal iron, manufactured by Charles L. Baily, of Harrisburg; it was 5-16 of an inca thick; the head # inch thick; had seen the boiler since the explosion; said that it was cleaned in May last, and the engineer told him that it was in very good condition; the en-gineer was a strictly sober man, and witness hought him competent to run and tend a boiler: after being pressed to state his opinion of the cause of the explosion, he said that it arose as he thought from the carelessness of the engineer; there was a new safety valve put on the boiler a few weeks before the explosion; Mr. Suplee did not think the boiler worked above its capacity; some parts of the boiler look as it it had been overheated.

Henry Cartright testified that he had examined fragments of the exploded boilers very thoroughly. Some parts of the boiler look as if they had been overheated. He considered the boiler constructed on as safe a principle as any that are made; the iron he had not tound as thick as the manufacturer of the boiler had stated it to be: a quarter of an inch was the thickest he had measured, and the head was but three-eighths; the cause of the explosion the witness thought to be the lowness of the water; rom what had been testified as to the cagineer he did not think him a competent person. James Gamble, foreman of the mill, testified that in his opinion the explasion was the result of pressure; he believed there was water enough n the boilers; the engineer was, in his opinion, ully competent. The inquest was at this point adjourned over for a few days.

BURGLARY.—The residence of William Cook, at the corner of Jefferson and Eleventh streets, was broken into on Sunday night, about o'clock, and robbed of eighty dollars in money. The thieves gained access to the house through a back window, VERDICT IN THE CASE OF EDWARD Sheridan.—The Coroner commenced an investigation vesterday into the circumstances attend ing the killing of the lad Edward Sheridan, who was shot during a riot on Taursday morning last, on South street, near the Schuylkill, growing out of the arrest and rescue of Patrick De vinny by Officers Donnan and Little.

Joseph Pflicker was the first witness called. He testified that he witnessed the arrest and the shooting; the officers arrested Devinny and he refused to go with them; the nippers were put on his wrists; and he threw himself on the ground and called on Jim Bradley to help him; Bradley said the officers should not take him By this time a crowd had gathered and some of them began to throw stones; the officers said to the crowd to keep back; Patrick O'Brien was in the crowd and be and John Bradley both threw stones; Officer Donnan drew his pistol and said that if the stones were thrown ne would fire; the crowd continued to throw stone and officer Donnan discharged his pistol. The crowd then rushed on, still throwing stones when the officer ran and Devinny got off; the boy Sheridan fell between my house and the crowd; Officer Donnan had the pistol and fired twice. He told the crowd to keep back before he discharged the pistol; I did not see a pistol in the hands of any one else; there was a large number of persons in the crowd and many o them threw stones at the officers; the boy Sheridan was shot between my house and the crowd The testimony of Mrs. Helena Flowers differed in some respects from that of the preceding She testified to seeing the shooting she heard but two shots fired, one by Oilicer Donnan, the other by an unknown man, who came from the crowd; at that time Officers Donnan and Little were draggi g the prisoner along; Little was trying to keep him down, and the unknown man advanced from the crowd. trying to rescue the prisoner; saw the boy Sheri dan fall; he was shot by the man who fired at the officers. Several other witnesses were examined, who saw the crowd throwing stones at the officers. All concurred in saying that Officer Donnan gave warning before he discharged his pistol. One of them testified that the women in the crowd threw stones, and that he recommended the officers to run and save their lives.

MORE ABOUT THE $50,000 SWINDLE,-Further developments in this case, referred to yesterday, show that the draft deposited with the First National Bank was a genuine draft upon the United States Treasury, the indorsement only being forged. It was deposited on the 24th inst., collected by the bank without turther indorsement on the 25th, and the proceeds paid to the party depositing on the 26th. The draft was obtained by the swindler or swindlers from the Treasury Department by means of a series of torged papers.

Cow THIEVES .- On Saturday night thieves stole at Market and Thirty-ninth streets the cows of Rev. Dr. Sanders. Through the exertions of Lieutenant Talbot and his corps of policemen they have been recovered. One of them was found chained to a tree back of the Good Intent Mills. One of the thieves was seen, and narrowly escaped arrest by Policeman Roan, at Fifty first street, near the place where two of the cows were found. Thieves on Sunday night broke into the stable of Daniel Dorey, and stole two sets of barness, a saddle and bridle, leaving large jimmy benind.

-Ruskin says, with his old pungency, in one of his new estays :- "You women of England are all now shricking with one voice-you and your clergymen together-because you hear of your Bible being attacked. If you choose to obey your Bibles, you will never care who attacks them. It is just because you never faifil a single, downright precept of the book that you are so careful of its credit. The Bible tells you to dress plainly, and you are mad for finery; the Bible talls you to have pity on the poor, and you crush them under your carriage wheels; the Bible tells you to do judgment and justice, and you do not know nor care to know so much as what the Bibleword justice means."
