THE POLITICAL WORLD.

Letter from Montgomery Blair. PRAISE OF ALEXANDER STEPHENS-REBELLION NOT TREASON, BUT HONORABLE.

To the Editors of the Evening Post:—A writer in your paper makes some severe animadversions on the Hon Alexander H. Stephens, provoked by a letter written by him to me. His assuasive tone, the patriotic feeting, the resigned sett-denying devotedness with which he acquiesces in the fortune meted out to himself in common with his fellow-citizens of the South, and would now turn adversity itself to good account by making it redound to a closer, more good account by making it redound to a cleser, more cordia: and secure Union than that which preceded it, finds in toleration.

It is amszing, after the horrid struggle in which our kindred of all the States have been decreated, that any one should now be found unwilling to be appeased, and to renew fraternal feeling.

Mr. Stepheus' great crime, in the eye of the Evening Fost's correspondent, is that the same spirit now animates him that made that most elequent of appeals—his speech to the people of Georgia—to avert the revolutionery conflict at the grant, by preventing the secession of Georgia. orenin, by preventing the secession of Georgia from the Union which now pleads for her restora-tion, having in the interval stood by his State and from the Union which now pleads for her restoration, having in the interval stood by his State and the South. But is there anything unear ural or unpaiderable in this? Do we not see the highest intailing on an noblest sensibility that anorm our nature a swin to it exists on those who have failed into error from honorable motives, authough these motives have been institled into the community by artful, intringuing, ambitions men, for selfish ends, at war with the public good? Does not any candid mind now perceive, that looks back on the thirty years history of secession, that it was a war of sections, gradually brought to the issue and heat of battle by the ambition of a few political leaders, who availed themselves of the differences in great interests. North and South, which had prevail no sway over the minds of the masses in the two sections, to produce the benefit sat there was an irreconcilable incompatibility between them, rendering separation is evilable?

Everybody knows that there were multitudes of well-meaning enthusiasts on both sides, who urged on this quarrol under the deusion that it was a mere matter of discussion, which would be ferminated by peaceful secssion, or pass off like other political questions, by a collapse of the inflammatory feeling excited by debrie. All such disputants and the great body of the people were taken by surprise on the outbreak of the war organized by a secret cabal of consorators. But when the war came, in spite of all appears to sober-minded patriots to stay its furr, when the thunder of camoon had begun, what could the lovers of peace an either section do
but submit to the lovers of peace and cheer section do
but submit to the lovers of peace and cheer section do

what could the lovers of peace in either section do what could the lovers of peace in coher section do but submit to the loves with which they were surrounded, in the states to which they belonged? Gen. Lee said to my father, when sounded by him, at the request of President Lincon, about taking the command of our army against the Rebelson, then hanging upon the certsion of the Virginia Convention:—"Mr Beatr, I look upon secession as americal. It I owved the four millions of slaves in the South I would sacrifice them all to the Union—but now can I draw my sword upon Virginia, my native State?" He could not determine then; said he would consuit with his friend, General scott, and went on the same day to Ricamond, probably to around edification. It is hard for a noble mind to tear itself from home, kindred, friends, and tarive soil, and go into opposite ranks to quasi them at

to coush them a l. This was the case of Stephens as we'l as Lee. It was the case of Stephens as well as Log. it was the case of nearly every elevated som in the South when the Government of the United States, deinquent in all its dunes, had infled to make preparations to arrest violence at the outbreak, and cure the freuzy by binding it in the beginning, and prevent it running on until it became a sectional war, and, in effect, a national war, in its influence on the feelings of the people of both sections, who were brought to consider the success of one the subwere brought to consider the success of one the subjugation of the ober. As the South grew weaker, and began to stagger under the heavy blows of the gigantic No th, at he brave spirits railied to a man in her support. Even the slaves were moved by the natural instinct, for when all the white men, young and old, had left their homes, their women and children, to be protected and led by their superior strength they would not desert to our conquering army as it marched through the shrinking South, but fled with the panic stricken families and gave them said and comfort. In this, did not the backs them and and comfort. In this, did not the backs prove themselves a loyal people? Would not the white man have proved almself a recreant if, under such circumstances, he had gone over to the in-

When the affairs of the South were absolutely desperate, and President Lincon had sent a message invoking peace on terms that Mr Davis at on time a semed inclined to take, the commissioners appointed by him, Stephens, Hunter, and Campbell, were all anxious to coording these goal leaves were in our President proposed. These gentlemen were for union and peace. Mr Davis, who had in charge umon and peace. Mr Davis, who had in charge the cause of the South, insisted on independence. Could the commissioners violate the trust which, a coording o the hape given by events to the cause they represented, and which they were bound to consider that of a whole people committed to Mr. Davis—could they take apon themselves to say it was treason and commit all that concerned it to the arbitration of President Lincoln?

The aspects to which I thus allude show that the spread and continuance of a war puts a new face on that which at its inception was treason. The war upon King Cher es the First in its inception was treason. It ceased to be treason long before the English common sealth was established. Our war for independence, when the first blood was seed at Lexington, was held in Eng and to be treason. It ceased to be thought so long before our rebubile was recognized as a nation. History is full of examples showing the distinction between violence and wrong proceeding from the heart of a community, and that without such warrant, though springing from the impu se of a multitude; and the history of all nations proves, a so, that this singular alchemy by which great wars convert great crimes into pardonable offenses, and somet mes into blessings, is well underod by the common mind of every other people as well as by our own.

That Providence will bring good out of the civil war of our unhappy conflict I most sincerely hope, but this devoutly wished for con-unmation can never be accomplished if the patriotic benevolent men who sought to prevent the severance of the Union and avert the war, and even those who passed through it, and whose only wait was in defending their homes and families from its calamities and now seek to restore the Union and perfect concord, are to be deemed unpardonable offenders.

I am, with great respect.

Your obedient servant,

M. BLAIR.

M. BLAIR. Montgomery county, Md., August 6.

FIVE-MILE FOOT RACE.

A CONTEST ON THE UNION COURSE-A CANADA BOY THE WINNER—TIME, 30°22.

A foot race of five miles for a stake of $1000 came off between Matt. Cassidy, of New York, and John Wild, of Canada, on the Union Course yesterday afternoon.

Both men are representative runners, and well-known among sporting circles; but from some cause only a few attended the affair. The Canadian appeared on the ground first, "stripped to the buff," excepting a scanty pair of blue tights. Cassidy was similarly attired, but his color was red.

In physical proportions there was little difference between the contestants, Wild being the taller and more powerful of the two, while his opponent was a light weight, with limbs hardened and apparently adapted to running. Both had their hair cut short, making their heads look terrier-shaped and altogether very unattractive. Each was girthed with straps around the waist, and held in their hands some pieces of cork which they gripped hard when they became exhausted. A few bets were offered and taken. Cassidy having the choice. On the first heat the running was slow, the intention of the contestants being to reserve their full powers to the last. Cassidy took the inside track and lea slightly over the first mile. The Canadian went ahead on the second mile, the speed being increased very little. On coming past the judges' stand the third time the gast began to get brisk, and the two seconds, who had been heretofore accompanying their respective principals, now turned back to meet them half way in readiness to sponge them and moisten their tongues with lemon luice. Canada was in advance, going on a kind of Indian lope, with his nead part of the time down, and his hands raised to his chest. Cassidy kept on a regular pace, but did not go over the ground with the ease of his competitor.

The second, third, and fourth miles had been run, Wild leading, and now the struggle for the victory commenced in good earnest. They both doubled on their speed, but Wild kept gaining, and at the second quarter was 60 yards

He gradually increased this distance, and came to the winning post without any signs of great exertion. The time for the whole five miles was 30 minutes and 22 seconds; the best time for a single mile was 5.47 on the fifth mile.

According to the agreement between Cassidy and Wild, the latter is pledge to run any man in the United States, for five or ten miles, for any amount from $1000 to $5000 .- N. Y. Tribune.

CITY INTELLIGENCE. [For Additional City Intelligence see Third Page.]

OUR STREET MUSICIANS.-The organ grinders, who have had the monopoly of our street music for so many years, are now about to be outrivalled by the Italian harpists, who are to be heard in all quarters of the city. The old time-honored hand-organs, which were the delight of the oldest inhabitant when he was a boy, and his execration when he arrived at maturer years, are now making a greater noise than ever to maintain their old time-honored importance. How often have we, when we were children, stood by with wondering amazement on our faces to behold the antics of the monkey, or the incomprenensible movements of the auto-matic figures! Even now there are some of these instruments that one can listen to with pleasure, as their rich heavy notes come out with all the swelling volume of a church organ, in the midst of the bustle and confusion of the business quarters of the city. Speaking of hand-organs, who does not know the old organ woman whose cupbourd-looking affair grinds out a most doleful series of ancient, tunes, that can scarcely be heard across the pavement when all else is silence. And yet the old woman appears to have an affection for that venerable instrument of torture. She hugs it as she turns the dilapidated handle as if it were of her own flesh and blood.

But we would speak more particularly of the Within the past year or two Italian harpists. there appears to have been an unusual indux of these people. Their music is really, in most very fine, and when accompanied by a first-rate violenist, is far better than the more pretentious music of the majority of our players on the piano. To the power classes the street music is almost the sole humanizing agent that comes within their notice.

POPULAR EXCITEMENTS.—It is a wellknown fact that the American people are the most excitable people in the world, not even excepting the French. As a consequence of this they are in the seventh heaven of exhibitation and hope, or in the very depths of depression. A most excellent example of this is the recent excitement and subsequent depression on the subject of the Atlantic Cable. While there were some who considered that it was perfect, and would never need any more care in respect to its good working, there were other old logies who did not believe it did or even would work, and that the report of its success was a hoax.

The most reasonable part of the community, however, were those who could look at the thing caluly, and without excitement of any kind could judge of the benefits it would produce, and the difficulties it would encounter. For few days, indeed, it seemed as it it had stopped working entirely and no v, by to-day's paper, we see that it has recommenced again. We have received very important news from Europe, as will be seen by reference to our columns. There is no doubt that the working of the cable will continue to exhibit great fluctuations, and no apparent means can be adopted to prevent them.

THE WORMS ON OUR SHADE TREES,-A few years ago when the measuring worm first began to be troublesome, everybody was raising a tempest in a teapot about it. The brains or our citizens were taxed to invent means to abate the nuisance, and the trees around our city were strung with curious devices to puzzle the worms in getting up and down the irecs. Now the reign of these nasty worms is again at its height, and nobody seems to care about it enough to make any remarks or suggestions as to the ways and means of ridding our trees of their presence. The trees which are most hable to be attacked by the pests are the mulberries and maples. It appears that one great cause of the great quantity of these vermin is the small number of birds we have in and around our city. Although we have laws to protect all insectivorous birds, yet they no sooner make their appearance than they are slaughtered right and left by our youthful population. There should be severer penalties than are now in torce, and the law in this respect should be more rigidly entorced than it is,

COLLECTING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRE-TENSES.—Yesterday afternoon Henry Thomas was arrested by Officer Fitzginger, at Fifteenth the alleged benefit of the Lincoln Hose Company. One of the members getting wind of the netarious operations of the enterprising Henry Thomas, informed the officer, who made the arrest, It is not known how much he managed to collect before he was put in limbo, but it is not supposed to be any considerable amount. People cannot be too much on their guard in respect to the honesty of those persons who call around for subscriptions for various charitable purposes. There are always sharpers and swindlers who are on the lookout to on the better feelings of our citizens. Thomas was held in $1000 by Alderman Hutchinson for a further hearing.

RECEIVER OF STOLEN GOODS.—Yesterday atternoon Mary Martin, who keeps a place at No. 25 Annapolis street, was arrested, and committed by Alderman Pottinger, on the charge of receiving stolen goods. It seems that she was in the babit of receiving small articles stolen by wharf rats in the ne ghborhood. of those captured yesterday while in the act of robbing the crates on Almond street wharf of crockery and china, were also committed by Alderman Pottinger to testify against Mary Martin, in default of $500. Their names are Ann Lanigan and Abbie Shea. Several others were taken at the same time, but were discharged to testify.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY WITH INTENT ro Kill.-Last night John P. Bantord, who had been an employe on board the Market street ferry boat, but had been discharged some time ago, met one of the deck hands and struck him on the head with either a black-jack or bra-s knuckles, making a fearful gash. The man who was wounded was insensible for several hours Banford was arrested this morning about 1.30 A. M., at Water and Chesnut streets, and was held by Alderman Beitler in default of $500 bail

THE RECENT RAIN .- The country, which for the past few weeks has been suffering from an almost universal drouth, is now showing highly beneticial effects of the rain of last night. The fields of corn and the meadows which were almost withering under the rays of the hot sun, and the influence of the dry weather, have taken a new start. It is indeed refreshing to look at the altered appearance of every green thing that grows, under its influence.

STEALING STAIR CARPET. - Yesterday Thomas Martin, a colored man, was arrested a Sixth and Fitzwater streets, by Officer McFet ters, with a roll of carpet under his arm. As he could not give a good title to the possession of the carpet, he was escorted to the Second District Station House, and at the hearing before Alderman Pottinger this morning he was committed in default of bail. The carpet is now at the Station House awaiting an owner.

ANOTHER HOUSE ROBBERY .- If people will go away from the city, and leave their household goods unprotected, they must expect to come back and find that some one has gone through them in their absence. The house o Mr. Fitzgerald, residing at No. 1626 North Broad street, was entered on the third of this month and ransacked. Clothing and jewelry were taken to the amount of $300.

STEALING WASH CLOTHES .- Anne Smith was arrested this morning, about half past five o'clock, on the charge above stated. She had, when arrested, a newly washed bed valance, which she had evidently taken from some of the clothes lines in the vicinity. She was arrested at Ninth and Shippen streets by Officer Sample. After a hearing, she was committed by Alderman Pottinger to answer.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A man died suddenly n a house in Bedford street, above Seventh, this morning. The Coroner was summoned to

SLIGHT FIRE.—A slight fire broke out at No. 312 Cypress street this morning, but was extinguished before much damage was done,

A PUGNACIOUS CUSTOMER.-An aggravated assault and battery was committed upon a young man named Henry Sprool by an Eng-lishman named William Wells. Wells drew a pistol on him, and then struck him in the mouth. He also made an assault upon Sproul's employer, Mr. W. H. Clough, After committing these outrages Wells-made his escape.

DARING ROBBERY,-There was a daring robbery perpetrated in the Twenty-seventh Ward. Some men entered the house of Mr. Krider carly this morning, on Gray's lane, and ransacked the house, taking a number of valuable articles. No arrests have vet been made.

CHOLERA ABATING .- Four cases only of chelera were reported to day, and no deaths. These cases are improving, and favorable symptoms of recovery are apparent.

LOYALTY UNDER TRYING CIRCUMSTANCES -In Lissa's recent naval fight, An iron clad blew up outright, With all that were on board; But, as into the air they flew, A loud hugga burst from the crew, Who shouled as they soared — "Hurrah for our Italian King!" Now, if as high some men were blown, Who have our mode of dealing known, With "lower Hail!" the air would ring!

Dr. Jayne's Alterative will, however, restore the purity of the skin, and will thoroughly cleanse the blood: it will also remove the obstinate state of the pores, and free the perspiration from all impurities and gross particles. A trial will establish its efficacy. Prepared only at No. 242 Chesnut street.
