HOTEL ROBBERIES.

Daring Theft at the Metropolitan Hotel-Robbery of United States Bonds at the Continental Hotel, Long Branch-Arrest of a Noted Hotel Thief, Etc.

A most daring theft was perpetrated at an amost daring their was perpetrated at an early hour vesterday morning at the Metropolitan Hotel in this city by a couple of ruffians. Among the guests at the hotel is Mr. John A. Chittenden, a wealthy resident of Idaho Territory, who is temporarily solourning in this city. On Sunday night Mr. Chittenden retired to rest, looking his door as usual. Nothing of moment locking his door as usual. Nothing of moment occurred during the night, but at about hali-past 6 o'clock in the morning Mr. Chittenden was aroused by some person stealthily endeavoring to abstract his vest from under his pillow. where he had placed it for sale keeping. Or looking round, Mr. Chittenden was surprised to behold two men standing in his room. He sprang from the bed at once, when the intruders took to their beels, carrying off with them Mr. Chittenden's vest, which contained gold certificates amounting to $1700, $300 in greenbacks, and a gold watch and chain valued at $600. Mr. Chittenden followed the thieves through the hall and down several flights of stairs, crying "Stop thief!" as he pursued. Quite a crowd collected, among them several ladies, and as Mr. Chittenden was but scantily he returned to his room to dress himself. While passing through the hallway he found his vest where the thieves had thrown it in their flight. On examining it the con-tents were found intact, the thieves being too much absorbed in their efforts to escape to empty the pockets of the vest. Mr. Chittenden hastily dressed himself, and on going down, learned that one of the thieves who had paid so unexpected a visit to his room had been inter-cepted and detained, but his accomplice had made his escape. Detective Tieman was sent for, and took him in custody. The prisoner gave his name as Charles A. Dawson. An examination of the room occupied by Mr. Chitten-den was then made, when it was discovered that the thieves had entered the room through the fan-light over the door, and then unlocked and unbolted the door, thus leaving a means of retreat in case of surprise. They then secured $55 in gold and silver coin, which they abstracted from Mr. Chittenden's pantaloons pocket. This money was not recovered, as no doubt the thief who escaped had it in his possession. Dawson was taken before Justice Dowling, at the Tombe, and committed for trail in default of $2000 bail. He is only 17 years of age; was born and resides in Baltimore. Theft of United States Bonds and Dia-monds at Long Branch.

There is now under arrest, at police headquarters, William Jackson, amas "Billy," alias 'Pat Malloy," the most noted and expert hotel-thief at present in the country. From information given our reporter by the police authorities, it appears that "Billy" has been in the "hotel business" for nearly twenty years, and there is scarcely a large hotel in the United States that has not suffered from his depredations. Jackson is about thirty-eight years of age, very intelli-gent and well educated, and, from his gentlemanly appearance and suave manners, is a dangerous customer, and a terror to hotel-keepers. Jackson was arrested under the following circumstances:-On the 1st of August the room of Mons, G. Lamorcier, a French gentleman, staying at the Continental Hotel, Long Branch, N. J., was entered by thieves, and $10,700 in United States Five-twenty bonds and $7000 worth of diamond jewelry stolen. When the robbery was discovered there was considerable excitement, a number of persons employed about the hotel were arrested, as were several of the musi-cians about the hotel, but they were subsequently discharged, as no evidence could be found to implicate them in the theft.

Monsieur Lamorcier came to this city and gave information of the robbery at the Inspec tor's office. The detectives were given the matter in charge, and one of the corps was despatched to the hotel to make an examination. Monsieur Lamoreier also gave a good description of two men who were seen hanging about the place, and the description of one of the men tallied so accurately with the appearance of Jackson, that he was arrested by Detectives Elder and McCord, when seen on Broadway, on Saturday last. He was taken to headquarters, and yesterday morning was arraigned before Superintendent Kennedy, who desired him to sit for his portrait. This he peremptorily declined. Mr. Kennedy said he was determined to have his likeness to grace the Mulber: v Street Art Gallery if he had to send half a dozen stal-wart patrolmen with him to hold him by the ears during the operation. Under these threats Jackson sat for his portrait, and an excellent likeness was obtained.

Subsequently Detective Elder took his prisoner before Justice Dowling, at the Tombs, and made affidavit that Jackson was a fugitive from justice, from Long Branch, Monmouth county, New Jersey, where he is suspected of having stolen the bonds and jewelry from Mons. Lamorcier, on the 1st instant. Deponent further prayed that Jackson may be held until the proper steps can be taken to take him back to the State of New Jersey for trial.

Captain Jourdan, of the Sixth Precinct, appeared, and also made an affidavit against Jackson, setting forth that the accused is a fueltive from the city of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, where he is under indictment on a charge of where he is under indictment on a charge of burglary. He is obarged with having forced an entrance to the premises of one Mr. Thomas, in Harrisburg, and stole $6000 worth of jewelry, Jackson was arrested at the time, and lodged in prison, and subsequently liberated on ball, which he forfeited, and fled to parts unknown, On these affidavits Justine Dowling commit ted the prisoner to await the action of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania authorities.

Jackson was taken back to police headquarters, and put in charge of the detectives. Super intendent Kennedy telegraphed to all of the precincts to notify the hotel-keepers and clerks to call at headquarters and see "Billy." During the atternoon a great number of gentlemen called, and Jackson was "shown up," much to his disgust and chagrin. There is every prospect that Billy's career will be brought to an abrupt conclusion for some time at least.—N. Y. World.

U. S. District Court-Judge Cadwalader .-This Court adjourned to-day, in commemoration of Mr. Vandyke, deceased, former District Attorney. Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Ludlow. Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Ludlow.—Edward Warker wasfcharzed with the larceny of $350, the property of Charles Falkner, and Charles Falkner was charged with assault and battery upon Edward Walker, with intent to kill. Mr. Falkner was qut; drunk at a gambling saloon, where he dropped some money on the floor, and lost it. When he was taken home by Walker, he accused Walker of having robbed him. Walker denied it, and started to leave. Falkner then shot at him twice. Falkner stated that he had his money in his hand when he was put into the carriage in which he was when he was put into the carriage in which he was taken home. He said there was no one with him except Walker. He accused Walker of taking the money. Walker ran, and he shot two or three loads

Adam Husser was charged with the larceny of a horse valued at $150, the property of Charles A. Edmonds. Edmonds stated that his horse was in a pasture near the "Punch Bowl Tavern." Town-hip-line road. There were other horses in the same pasture. The borse was taken and was not seen for a week. When ie was found Husser was driving him in a cart. Husser said that the horses looking very much alike, and being in the same pasture, he made a mistake in taking the horses, thinking it was his own. Edmonds says the horses were nothing alike, one having a bob-tail, the other not.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

Enthusiasm at the Baltimore Depot.

The Merchants', Mechanics', and Citizens' Turnouts.

DISPLAY OF THE MILITARY AND THE FIREMEN.

Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc.

The great event of the day is the arrival of the President in this city on his way through to Chicago. The event is one of stirring interest, and is made the most of by those who are fond of excitement and display. The greatest drawback against the reception being a thorough and complete one is the absence of the Mayor from the city, and of some others who would add to the weight of the representatives of our city.

The crowd did not commence to assemble as early as was expected. Up to the hour of noon the streets around the depot did not exhibit any unusual commotion, and judging from appearances, there did not appear to be anything unusual about to happen. After that time, hewever, the spectators began to assemble in small knots of two or three together. The difterent ideas of the contending political parties were well ventilated, and it was amusing to listen to the arguments for and against our illustrious visitor.

But amidst it all, in spite of the political differences of opinion, there appeared a general good-humored determination to accord to the President a cordial and hearty welcome to our city. The President left Washington in a special train, two passenger and one baggage, at 7:30 this morning, accompanied by Secretary Seward and others of his Cabinet, and the retinue announced in another column.

In addition to these were Messrs. L. H. Gobright and W. W. Warden, the correspondents of the Associated Press.

The President and his party left Baltimore this morning at 10.20, and was joined there by Governor Swann and several officials.

At 11.41 the President and party left Havrede-Grace, where Governor Swann and his party left them and returned to Baltimore. There was great enthusiasm expressed in Baltimore as the President passed through, but the time was too limited to make any other demonstration as he drove from one depot to the other, and left Baltimore as soon as the party were seated in

About noon the crowd at the Baltimore Depot began to gather in force. The cars of the Union Passenger Railway were crowded, and began bringing new accessions constantly to the gathering. Considerable remark was made by many different persons of all political creeds about the absence of the Mayor, and commenting rather severely upon that circumstance.

It was also said that the same thing occurred when President Jackson visited this city, the Mayor being absent at that time.

About 1 o'clock the scene in the neighborhood of the depot became very interesting. The different civic processions began to make their appearance on the scene. Every available spot was soon occupied. The expectant crowd, and the great masses of "washed" and "unwashed," began to get up their enthusiasm.

The different bands in attendance discoursed some most excellent music. Soon after the military, the Grey Reserves, under Captain Loudenslager, the senior captain of the regiment, and accompanied by Birgfeld's Brass Band, came on the ground.

There was some considerable time expended in marshalling the different bodies into order, and much amusement was derived from the Tailors' Association, who turned out in great

As the time approached for the President's arrival, the pent-up steam of the masses a-sembled had to get vent, and they a nused them-selves in cheering, yelling, etc., all in the most good-humored manner possible.

Towards two o'clock the crowd in the neighborhood of the depot, and all along the expected route of the parade became very great, The military, the firemen, and the civic bodies turned out very strong. The United States Council, O. U. A. M., were in full regalia, and carried in procession a full-rigged ship, representing the Constitution.

The military was under the command of Brevet Brigadier General Lyle. A squadron of the City Troop were formed, facing the entrance to the Depot. Dressed in their picturesque unituresque uniform, they presented a very impressive appearance.

National Guards, under Lieutenant-Colonel W. A. Leech, turned out in strong force, and also the Gray Reserves, under Captain Loudenslager. There was a strong force of Marines, numbering 200 strong, and presented an exceedingly neat and soldierly appearance.

The officers of the navy attached to the Philadelphia station were out in full uniform, with Commodore Selfridge, the commandant of the Navy Yard, at their head. The red shirts of the fire department was a very pleasant feature. There were great numbers of private carriages. In despite of the unfavorable appearance of the weather, there appeared to be a general turnout of everybody who could get away from their places of business or could leave their houses. There were thousands of "fair women and brave men" lining the streets, and waiting with anxious eyes for the advent of the Presi-

Two o'clock P. M. The President has just arrived, amid the enthdsiastic cheering of the dense mass assembled to greet his arrival and the music of the bands.

The different bodies are all in line to escort the President.

But few votes were given in the affirmative, while the negative vote was almost unanimous. So the Board of Brokers didn't adjourn. They are as incorrigible as the members of the Corn

ACCIDENT .- A man named John Jarvis got his hand caught in the cogs of some of the machinery of Wetherill's lead works, at Thirtieth and Walnut streets, yesterday morning, and had it crushed in a terrible manner. Mr. Jarvis had a sos killed a short time ago by being run over by the West Philadelphia Steam Fire

MORAL SUASION.—Our old friend, Rav. Dr. Saunders, is publishing his views on education. The doctor takes high ground. He writes:—"Love, advice, and everything else embraced in the unjustly ridiculed term 'moral waster' produce as much order industry consussion' produce as much order, industry, conaffection, and devotion as can be desired, and far more than can be secured by any other means. All classical schools and colleges, except, perhaps, a few for the incorrigible, must except, perhaps, a few for the incorrigible, must yet, in the progress of improvement, dispense with punishment in every form. The incorrigi-ble, whom generous motives will not win over —not the one hundredth part of our youth will be, in the good rime coming, withdrawn from seminaries quietly and without censure by their parents, through the advice of professors, and put into schools of correction; or what, perhaps, is better, disciplined by some suitable kind of business."

Row IN A BEER Shop,—Samuel Scott went into a beer shop on Girard avenue, above Shackamaxon street, yesterday afternoon, and geiting tight and boozy, was imprudent enough to leave his pocket-book, containing $35, on one of the tables. Some one made love to it and carried it off. Scott then got into a quarrel with the keeper of the saloon, Mr. Riehl, and beat him and threatened to kill him. Officer Bradshaw went in, and on attempting to arrest Scott he was beaten, and only succeeded in making the arrest after a severe struggle. Scott s a notorious character, and has been in trouble several times within the past few months. He was held in $1000 bail by Alderman Suoemaker.

SHOVING THE QUEER.-A new counterfeit made its appearance yesterday. A man named Samuel Mar-den attempted to pass what purported to be a five dollar note on the Essex and Worcester Bank of Saulsbury, Maryland. The engraving on the note is pretty good, and well calculated to deceive. Marsden presented the note at the counter of Smick & Forey's restaurant, Sixth and Chesnut streets, and was promptly arrested. Alderman Beitler held him or a further hearing.

ANOTHER BELLIGERENT .- Thomas Shaw is a man of an exceedingly pugnacious disposi-tion. He is also given to bad spirits, and under their influence frequently gets into trouble. During the "wee sma' hours" of this morning he got into a knock down argument with the bartender of a saloon at the corner of Cadwalader and Thompson streets and floored him. He was taken into custody, and this morning Alderman Shoemaker held him in $500 to answer.

AN UNNATURAL SON .- William Brophy was arrested yesterday, on the charge of making an assault on and threatening his father. Some time ago he was discharged from the employ of his father (who has the charge of hiring laborers on the Trenton Railroad), for drunkenness and idleness. Yesterday, he threatened to kill him for doing so. He was arrested, and held by Alderman Cloud for a further hearing.

NYMPHS ON A BENDER,-Lizzle Thompon and Clara Snyder made the night bideous in the neighborhood of Eighth and Chesnut streets at a late hour last night, by getting into a very loisy fight. There was a considerable amount of shricking, scratching, and hair pulling done They were arrested, and this morning had an interview with Alderman Beitler, who fined hem for fighting and dismissed them.

A PUGNACIOUS MAN .- Yesterday a rough, rejoicing in the name of H. L. Maguire, amused nimself in the neighborhood of Eighth and Race streets by knocking down an inoffensive cittzen. Officer Wilkins, who was near by at the time, promptly took him into custody. was held in $300 by Alderman Jones to keep the

IMPROVING ON NATURE'S PLANS,—Some old fog!es pretend that it is all folly to talk about making improvements upon nature as if even a last norse did not look better for having tassels affixed to his ears. Pray, what would beeisteaks be without cooking? What would the rising generation be without stelling-books and switches? What would the ladies be (in their own opinion) without hoop-skirts and waterialls, to say nothing of small waists and enamelled complexions? and what would the most of men be without that amazing improvement upon nature made by such elegant and becoming attire as that at WASHINGTON, August 28. The Presidential party left Washington this morning by special cars, attached to the regular 7:30 train for Philadelphia. Secretaries McCul loch, Browning, and Attorney-General Speed were at the station to see the party off.

The engine detailed to draw the train was No. 255, and it was considered somewhat ominous by some superstitious people, that it was the same special engine used to convey President Lincoln to meet the Rebel Commissioners at Hampton Roads, and which afterwards took his corpse from Washington on its way to Illinois. The engine was gaily decorated with flowers, and cheers were given to the distinguished party on the departure of the train. At Annapolis Junction the party will be met by Governor Swann, of Maryland, who will escort them to the Pennsylvania line.

The party will be absent from Washington about fourteen days, and will return somewhat leisurely by another route. The White House will be kept open during the absence of the President, but it has suddenly lost all interest to the crowd of office-seekers who usually loaf about there.

The statement in the New York Tribune that Lewis Clephane, Collector of Internal Revenue for this district, has been notified to vacate his office, is not true, though there is a great effort being made to effect his removal.

The story again started, that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Chandler has been removed is untrue, but it is probable he will soon

ARRIVAL OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON How He was Received at the Depot-Speech of Colonel Page-The President's Response-The Order of the Procession-Arrival at the Continental, Etc. Etc.

Colonel Page received the President as he arrived, and made a short speech congratulating the President on the cordial reception given to him by the citizens of this city, and expressed a hope that the Union may be established in harmony and peace.

The President responded in a very feeling manner, thanking the citizens generally for their kind and enthusiastic reception, and expressing also his sincere desire for the accomplishment of the kind wishes expressed by Colonel Page.

General Meade had general charge of all the military, both regular and volunteer, and was enthusiastically cheered throughout the entire route. The President got into his carriage with Secretary Seward on his lets, and General Grant opposite, and Admiral Farragut on General Grant's right.

The military headed the procession, and made a fine display. The City Troop acted as the body-guard. As the procession passed through the streets it was hailed with cheers and waving of handkerchie s along the whole route. After the President, came his suite and distinguished officers of the army and navy.

Then came the firemen in their red shirts, and preceded by brace bands, discoursing patriotic airs. The Franklin Engine, 97 men. The Marion Hose, 14 men. The Hone Engine, 24 men.

bering over 300, brought up the rear.

and the Government employes. Journeymen Tailors, 150 men. Then the Assessor and Collector of the First District, and his employes, 125 men. The Post Office employes, 200, and the Mint, 85. The Central Johnson-Clymer Club, num-

Then followed the mechanics, merchants, etc.,

The Chief Marshal of the civic procession was Colonel Peter Fritz. A. B. Sloanaker was Chief Aid, I with 36 other aids. The Seamen's Protective Union paraded in full regalia, and the United States Council carried in the procession a full-regred ship, representing the Constitution. The merchants, firemen, etc., were under Colonel Peter eritz. Jr. At ten minutes past 3 o'clock the President
