THE CITY CONVENTION. At the adjourned meeting of the Convention, hele at 3 P. M. yesterday, the following officers were elected:-

President—John P. Verree. Vice-Presidents—Erastus Poulson and James Adams; Secretaries, William R. Leeds, Isaac McBride, James Freeborn, and Charles M. Car-penter; Messenger—James H. Bradley; Door-keepers—J. L. Curry, T. B. Robinson, John Reed, W. Nichols, J. S. McBride.

Upon taking the chair, Mr. Verree made the following remarks:— Gentlemen of the Convention:—I thank you sincerely for the honor you have conferred upon me by my election as your presiding officer. Did Ipossess the qualifications to discharge the duties of the position, the honor would then be more than I deserve, but possessing no such qualifica-tions, it is only the greater, and I trust that an earnest and nonest desire to discharge the duties will render me worthy of your confidence. We have met in convention for the purpose of nominating candidates to be supported by every loyal voter of this city, and I hope the selections may be such as to deserve the confidence of the community, and receive, as I am satisfied they will, a decided majority on the second Tuesday in October next. The country has during the last six years passed through a period of great anxiety and suffering, and we have preserved this Union from the designs of the Rebel conspirators and the Copperhead sympathizers. We naturally expected that the spirit of rebellion would have been crushed forever, and this glorious Union become again a consolidated and united republic. I greatly mistake the signs of the times if we will not have to contend against another conspiracy led and sustained, not by Jefferson Davis, the inmate of Fortress Monroe, but by that archtraitor and aposiate. Andrew Johnson, sup-ported by that faithless and truckling dema-gogue William H. Seward. Whatever may be
