 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1866 . The Peopie in their Maissty.
Tres meeting last night on Broad stree one which ordinary language fails to adequately characierize. It was a grand and quately characierize. It was a grand and sublme uprising of the people. In numbers, in enthusinum, in intellivence, in determinain enthupinsm, in intellizeence, in determination, in solemn and indignant earnestness, $i t$ probably was nevar equalled on this continent. They who believe the American people can be misled or boodwinked as to toe tremendous issues of the hour, should have been present at the meeting last night. They who think that revolutions go backward should have listened to the sublime voice of the people, ellike the sound of many waters", as they responded to the most advanced and liberal sentiments of the hour. They who think that our brave "Boys in Blue" who still survive, and their in Blue" who still survive, and their three hundred thousand dead comtades who fell on the field of strite. had who tell on the field of strite, had no otber end in view than simply to restore periured trators and Rebels to power, slould have seen their crowded ranks and listened to their stern words last night. They who think that the great body of the American people are ready to give up their popular lorm of government, and to see the representative, law-maling power of the nation virtually abrogated, would do woil to change that opinion very speedily. They who think that a coup detat is practicable, and whio threaten war upon the logal masses of the North, would do well to pause and ponder betore they attempt to pat their thoughits and betore they attempt threats into acts.
The truth is, the popuiar beart is stirred to its depths, and the loyal millions are in no mood to be trifled with. Let reckess politicians who would traffic in the lives and liberas they gazed on that deose mass. It was the spirit of unanimity and radicalissumbich was found on excery side. It mittored not cal was the surese way of eilictint radi-wildest applause. If Montzomery Blair and others who, lite him, predict a civil war in tie could have stood on one of the stands and seen amazed faces, before whom were recalled the threats of "conservatism" and its fruits, they would hava coased to ent they would have ceased to endeavor to frigiten the Northern people by invoking the bugaboo of a coup d'etot. There were the bronzed countenances of tried vetarans in that mass; and the men who have a score of times fuced the cannon's mouth of Southern araitons, will not nesitate to dare treason ouce again, in whatever form it may appear.
We are not mad with enthus; asm. We sp the words of truth and sobernes. the words of truth and soberness when we say, that never in the history of our country has such a meeting assembled, in point of size, ot enthusiasm, atd of a fxed and doged determination to conguer at the polls in tober nest. On the 9th proximo Pennsylvania will speak in such tones as will compel those Northern States who follow her in poiat of Republican principles are concernce. "General" Rozer A. Pivor Redivivus W& had thought that the Ohevalier of the Appomathas was dead. Wena spot the eallieve that in soma bequeted spo lant spirit of that brave man who dida't fight the duel with Potter of Wisconsin had breathed Itself out, and gone into the presence of its Maker. That in some land where the wicked cease from trouling be could challenges and then shirk the contest. Most subilime in his own estimate of his courage, he could there convince others that he was Pryor has But our dream of Roger A Louis paper we find the tollowing call:-

 We cuppose that this must be the great Roger, but the tutle of General almost de ceived us. We suppose, however, that he We wonder whare Pryor has been for three years? In the early part of the war we three years? In the carly part or the war we heard of his exploits as a recruiter of troops, and as an orator to urge others forvard to do their duty by the "sacred South." In the "Come!" was seldom heard. If we are competent. Froin then until now we have not known ot hus existence. What blight could have occurred which would thus utterly crosh the spirit of the gallant "brave" we know not, but certain it is that, like "Aurora Foyd," he has a missing hour in. his life. We suppose that he will in .his life. We suppose that he will ouce more reappear upon the etare of public life, now that the stori is pasta and the now that the storm is past; and that he sympathizes with the orphans and widows of his late constituente, is testified to by his reappearing for the first time in the quoted call. In his return to public life, however, we ask him to remember but one event of his past career. "Be careful not to insult a Northern man unless you feel lare that you are not only abstractly five times his equal, but also five times as strong and five times as good a hot."

A Universal Diplomacy. W $\varepsilon$ have heard theories dscussed in regard to the possibility of acbieving a universal or the possibility of acbieving a universal or cosmopolitan langaage, and to the friends of such a consummat on we have good of such a consummat on we have good tidigs. Diplomacy, that mos mystic of sciences, that to which Machiovelli ciences, that to which Machiover which Taileyrand sacrificed their lives, for wher Bollingbroke and Richelieu lived and strove hass na last been reduced to a single system, and the tacher of it is Charles Dickens, Esq. His grand conception, ilrst expressed ha fon.
"PickwickPapers," bas been adopted by Hon.
Wm. H. Seward, our Prime Miniter. Wm. H. Seward, our Prime Minister, and will, we doubt not, rapidly spread all over the civilized world. The grounds on which. we base this grand assertion are lound in the
