ACTION AND DEPOSITE OF THE RESIDENCE OF STREET, STREE

A CARD.

PHILADELPHIA, September 5, 1868. To the Textile Manufacturers and other Manufacturers of Philadelphia and neighboring Counties:-

GENTLEMEN: - For many years past the premiums paid for insurance on your property have been barely sufficient to meet losses and expenses, and since the commencement of this year the mill fires have been so numerous and extensive as to render the business most disastrous to all offices underwriting these risks; and have rendered an advance in the rate of insurance absolutely necessary.

In view of these facts we venture up in a few recommendations, by strict attention to which you can avoid excessive rates of insurance on your property.

First-Use none but the best sperm or lard oils, or for lubricating machinery the best paraffine off. To the use of deleterious compounds and vegetable oils, we attribute the greatest number of recent fires.

Second-Do not permit one particle of greasy waste to remain over night in mill, not even what is termed clean waste, put aside to be used again. Have it also removed to an outside building.

Third-If coal or other oil is used for lighting mill, take care that it is kept and lamps filled at a safe distance outside of mill building, and that none but the best covered lamps are used, securely fixed on walls.

Fourth-Pickers of every description must be in separate buildings at a safe distance from the mill, or in building adjoining mill on side where there are no windows, and communications protected by solid iron doors.

Fifth-Dry houses must be a safe distance from the mill, and be thoroughly ventileted. Where patent steam dryers are used for drying stock, or where the mill is endangered by the proximity of dry houses, experience shows us that the premises are practically uninsurable.

Finally-We must beg you to exercise the greatest care and watchfulness. Where possible, make it a rule to go over mill before retiring for the night. See that hogsheads full of water are placed in convenient positions, and that full buckets are in each room. Where possible, have steam pipes, with cocks on the outside, by which steam can be thrown into picker and dry houses, and take all other precautions that your experience has demonstrated to be of value for your secu-

Although specially addressed to gentlemen engaged in textile manufactures, the concluding observations apply equally to those engaged in other industrial pursuits, in many branches of which (we would instance particularly workers in wood), our experience has been latterly extremely untayorable, the losses having been out of all proportion to the premium receipts.

We believe that attention to these recommendations will subserve our mutual interests, and preclude the necessity of an advance in rates of insurance to a point which will be a serious tax upon your industry. Charles Platt, Secretary Insurance Company

We have fallen on evil times, with indications another civil war. Should it take place it would be more terrible than the one from which we have just emerged. It would rend the Union into fragments, never to be again united except under a military dictator. From the meeting of officers, soldiers, and sailors, to take lace ou the 17th instant, I anticipate the mos layorable results. It is no less right and proces than indispensable that the people of the Union should know the opinions, feelings, and sentiments of those who have offered their lives as a

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

[For Additional City Intelligence see Third Page.]

A SAD CASE OF INFANTICIDE. - There ies to our notice a shocking case of this fearful crime. Margaret Quigley, the culprit, has had serious difficulties with her hashand, resulting in their separation from each other. By his abandonment she was left utterly withut support, and some four months ago she had to go to the Almshouse, where she had a child. The mother since that has been in very destitute circumstances, indeed, on the very verze of starvation. This, and the abandonment by her hu-band worked on her mind to such an extent that she resolved to drown both herself and her baby. So she heroically mustered up her courage, and started for the river Delaware to end her sorrows. She selected the wharf at Neaffic & Levy's works, in Kensington, as the scene of her operations, Standing on the whar', she wrapped her little boy, aged only four months, in her shawl, and then with ruthless hands flung the little innocent into the deep river. Its fittle pleading face in its nelplessness called in vain for pity, and its spirit took flight from amidst the warer. The sicked, heartless woman, after sae had de stroyed her child, did not dare to throw herself into the water, and in cowardly haste turned from the spot. She was followed, however, and arrested on Beach street. When asked why sae did not drown herself first, she said that she wanted to be sure that the baby died arst. She was committed by Alderman Cloud to answer the charge of infanticide.

FUNERAL OF MATTRIAS W. BALDWIN .-This morning at bail-past eleven our late fellow-citizen, Matth as W. Baldwin, was buried from his residence, at No. 1118 Chesnot street. The duscral obsequies were very imposing, and were adequate to express the public grief. Many of our oldest and most influential clizens attended his remains to their last resting-place, and his workmen turned out en musse to pay the last ribute of respect to their lamented employer. The procession, composed of about seven hunored men, mostly employes in Mr. Baldwin's factory, were led by twenty-five foremen of the locomotive workshops, followed by citizens, triends of the deceased, and workinen. The pall bearers were Judge Strong, R. Cornelius, J. B. Townsend, F. Peel, B. J. Kendall, and J. C. Strawbridge. The procession moved up Chesnut street to Fifteenth, up Fifteenth to Hamilton, around into Broad street, and from thence to the northern part of Laurel Hill Cemetery, where Mr. Baluwin's remains were consigned to their last resting-place. Rev. Mr. Caikins and Rev. Dr. Maren read the funeral service, and delivered a few remarks appropriate to the occusion.

Suspicion of Larceny.-The attention of the police was called to a rather singular-looking specimen of humanity, William T. Daws by name, yesterday afternoon, on Delaware avenue, below Race street. He was dressed something like the "Artful Dodger" was when "Oliver Twist" first made his acquaintance in This man had on an india-rabber overcoat which was thirteen sizes too big for him, and fitted, in tact, like a shir on a beau-He was trying to dispose of the coat for the very moderate sum of a one-dollar green As the garment was worth considerably more, the Harbor Police took him in charge, and escored him to the Station House, and this morning he was committed in default of $500 bail by Alderman Foland.

A CASE OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY.-Early this morning, as a Mr. Hassan was quietly walking along the street at Seventh and Bedford streets, two men orang upon him, and knocked bun down. He immediately raised the alarm, out did not succeed in getting help until the scoundrels had revieved him of his watch and about ten dollars in money. The two men con-cerned in the robbery, Samuel Watson and Altred Lilley, were arrested before they could cape with their booty. They are both hard cases, and are notorious for being vaggants and th eves, without any fixed place of residence, and living on what they can fileb and steal. They both had a hearing before Alderman Titorning, and were committed to uswer at Court. A BULLIGERENT. - Yesterday Samuel Boyd was agreated on the sharge of assault and battery. Boyd has had a grudge against a Mr. Hempfell, who keeps a livery stable at Twen-tieth and Filbert streets. In the atternoon he went into Mr. Hempfell's stable, and commenced to abuse him, and threatened to kill him. Thinking, nowever, that Mr. Hempfell was rather too big s man to take hold of, he knocked down one of the stable men, and then kicker poor proffending borse in the leg, injuring it in such a manner that it cannot walk. Not relishing this sort of behavior, Mr. Hempfell had Boyd arrested. Tals morning, after a hearing before Alderman Jones, he was held in $1000 bail to answer.

UNITED STATES HOTEL, ATLANTIC CITY. -This well-known house will remain open until further notice. During the months of September and October this favorite resort of our citizens will present its most attractive (eatures. The mild October weather, and the latter days of September, are the most beautiful and the most healthfui that can be spent at Atlan-For those who wish to derive real benefit from a trip to the sea side now is the time, and Atlantic City the place. It is too often the custom to spend a month or two of the hottest weather at the sea-side, and then, when the weather is really pleasant, and the ocean preexts its most pleasant aspect, leave it for the city or the country.

LARCENY .- A pseudo M. D., or at least we will suppose so, in justice to the profession, was arrested yesterday afternoon. He gave the name of William Crawford. He and a companion, or accomplice rather, attempted to make a raid on the shoe store of Mr. McKnight, at Eleventh and Market streets. Crawlord, aided by his accomplice, who distracted the at-tention of the attendants in the store, slipped a pair of shoes into his pocket, and was making off with his ill-gotten plunder when the police nabbed him. At the hearing before Alderman Jones this morning he said he was a doctor. He was held in $1000 bail to answer.

STREET WALKING .- There are numerous arrests of these nuisances every night. Lieutenant Connelly is making strenuous exertions to clear the streets of their presence. Not a night passes but a number are arrested and consigned to the Station House. There was a haul of a party of them made at Ninth and Locust streets last night. This morning they were all bound over by Alderman Swift to keep

CHANGE OF LOCATION.-We notice that the sales of property by Sheriff Howell, which formerly took place in Sansom Street Hall, will now take place at the Court Room of Common Pleas, located in the centre building, imme-diately opposite Independence Hall. This is a more central location than even the old place at Sansom Street Hall, and those attending the eales will no doubt find excellent accommoda

CASE OF SHOOTING .- Jasper Shull, who shot the boy Joseph Clements in the leg vester-day, was arrested at Chesnut Hill in the after He managed to escape from the officer at the time of the occurrence. The wound in-flicted is a severe one, but is not supposed to be dangerous. Shull was committed by Alderman Fitch for a further hearing.

THE FENIAN SENATE-A CORRECTION -Some of the papers have arroneously stated that Hon. P. J. Mechan had been elected Press dent of the Fenian Senate, at Troy, New York the other day. We have been authoritatively assured that Hon. James Gibbons, the Senator elect from Philadelphia, was almost unautmously elected President of the body alluded to.

FURTHER HEARING .- Lewis Holsworth had a further hearing before Alderman Wil -Why is a French franc of no value com-pared with the American dollar? Because it is ball for his appearance at court. The case was reported in yesterday's THLEGRAPH.

THE SEASON FOR BIRDS,-Now that the season has fairly commenced, there will a general slaughter of the birds. We see party after party of runners trudging their wayinto the rural sections in quest of their game. Reed-birds and rail are very plenty, and are seen in large quantities in our markets and our restaurants. The enthusi-asm amongst the juvenile portion of our community is great, and every old rusty-barrelled musket or shot-gun is impressed into the mur-derous service; and in those neighborhoods where the game is most abundant the sound of the guns reminds us of a smart skirmish. The wonder is that there are no more accidents occuring than there are from the careless use of firearms by inexperienced persons.

A WARNING TO ORGAN GRINDERS,-Peter Capell is the name of an individual who perambulates the streets with a hand-organ and a monkey. This morning, when opposite Logan Square, at the request of some laties and gentiemen, he commenced playing for the amuse-ment of some children. There being an ordi-pance against exhibiting mankeys in the streets, Officer Linn arrested and took him before Alderman Jones, who held him in $300 bail for his future good behavior. Security being entered he went on his way rejoicing.

FIRE,-The alarm of fire this morning at eleven o'c'ock, was caused by the partial burning of a stable owned by Mr. Tweeds, and pied by furniture carmen, situated in Willow street, above Nineteenth. Some boys were seen prowling around the vicinity previous to the fire, and the supposition is that they set it on fire. The damage will not exceed $100, DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION.-The Legislative Convention of the First District met hast night, and nominated Thomas L. Simpson as their candidate for Assembly.

TRIFLING FIRE,-A fire broke out about noon to-day in a stable in a small street north of Callowhill and below Nineteenth street. The loss was trifling.

MADAME ADELAIDE RISTORI

Her Arrival at New York. Five years ago Mr. B. Uliman, the well-known manager of musical and other celebrities, announced his intention of bringing to this counry the great Italian actress, Madame Ristori. The Rebellion and con-equent civil war, how-ever, prevented the fulfilment of his pian and the jublic were denied a gratification earne-tly anticipated. A year ago another distinguished impressario, Mr. S. Grau, was tortunate enough to nake a contract with the emment actress. and we have now to announce that Madame Ristori arrived in this city yesterday by the Pereire, from Brest, Much public curiosity has naturally been excited in view of the promised advent among us of so distinguished a lady. Madame Ristori, socially known in Italy as the Marchioness Caprenics del Grillo, but bester known by her tamiliar dramatic name, which is recognized in every civilized country, is unquestionably the greatest of living dramatic celebrities. That her arrival here should create great public interest is not surprising. Thousands of our citizens who have visited Europe have learned to admire her genius. Yesterday the tecting existing among our citizens found some expression in the throng that collected upon the wharf to greet and welcome the great actress. on the arrival of the Pereire, the crown testied its interest in the occasion by waiting se hour or more to see Ristori enter her carriage. The lady appeared, escorted by Mr. Grau, and followed by her family-her husband, the Marquis del Grillo, Signorina Blanca del Grillo, Giorgio del Grillo, Signor Luigi, Trojam, Madame Ristori's secretary, and their servants. Her dramatic company, composing more than thirty artists, were also present, and attracted a share of public attention. The Pereire had a rather rough passage, but the latter part of the voyage was delightful. As the vessel steamed up the harbor, and the city began to open upon her view, Madame Ristori expressed the greatest enthusiasm at the evi-dences of activity and enterprise which rose before her; but it was not until the great structures on Broadway met her sight that she fully realized the commercial greatness of our city. Surprise and delight moved her to give expression to her feelings, and, for a long tune, it was impossible to quiet her sufficiently for conver-

Madame Ristori's manners are very pleasing. Her grace, ease, and vivacity lend a charm to her conversation that at once enlists interest, Her complexion is rather light, and the glow on her cheeks is rather that of girlish youth than of the full maturity of womanhood. Her gestures are natural and graceful, and she takes a lively interest in every topic that is presented to her notice. A strong individuality marks her, and, although nothing of the conventional actress is seen in her manner, it is not difficult to divine that the emotions and sufferings of ideal beings will find in her a thorough exponent. Her eyes and hair are not so dark as seems fitting to Italian birth, but they are beautiful, and well adapted to the requirements of the tragic stage.

The fervor of her feelings may be noted in the drawing-room, and the spectator is prompted to natural conjecture as to their intensity in the arens of artistic lise. While in conversation at the Fifth Avence Hotel, a basket of the garest flowers, upon which was seen, in red floral let-ters, the words, "Welcome Ristori," was brought to her. This tributs excited her sensibilities beyond description, and she said that in all her experiences this unexpected kindness, at the moment of her arrival in a strange land, was one of the most affecting incidents, and she hoped that it presaged success in this country.

Madame Ristori did not have the good forune, last evening, to obtain her trunks from the officers of the custom-house; but every possible facility was extended to her. The amount of baggage on board the Pereire comprises 105 poxes or trunks, and about 40 of these coutain the wardrobes of the various plays in which she will appear. They are to be delivered this morning. Meanwhile, nothing will be omitted that can prepare the way for her successful debut on the 24th inst,—N. Y. Tribune.
