The Camden Senatorial Nomination. To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph: -

CAMDEN, N. J., September 24,-Sir:-My attention has been called to the communication in your paper signed by the Secretary of the County Convention. It does not do justice to Senator Scovel. When the vote for Senator was announced, it is true there were only four votes for Mr. Scovel, but the Secretary of the Convention forgets that besides these four there were ave votes from South Ward, which gave Mr. Scovel nine votes; and my recollection is that he had two more withdrawn when Mr. Betile's nomination was inevitable, making eleven votes. As Chairman of the delegation from South Ward, I had informed Senator Scovel that we intended to nominate him, and he then informed me before the Convention met that he was not a candidate, and gave me a letter declining to be a candidate, which I read in the Convention when I witherew his name, pledging his fealty to Republican principles. What I object to in the letter of the Secretary of the Convention is its unfriendly spirit towards Mr. Scovel. The effort to prevent his name being entertained by the Convention proceeded from his personal enemies, and was so well understood that one of the delegates from South Ward informed the Convention that South Ward would leave the Convention if it was persisted in. Yours truly, B. M. B., Chairman South Ward Delegation.

THE CINCINNATI BANK FRAUD.

A Man Deposits a Box Said to Contain $100,000, and Draws the Sum of $60,000-The Box Opened and Found to Contain Lead-Important Arrest.

From the Chicago Times of Thursday,

About the middle of July last, a gentlemanly looking stranger, giving the name of McBurnie, and representing himself as an extensive dealer in real estate, entered the First National Bank of Cincinnati and deposited a box containing, as the averred, $100,000 in specie.

The deposit was accepted by Mr. Griffith, the Cashier, and a certuicate of deposit for the amount given in return. McBarnie returned the next day and drew out $5000, and again the next for the same amount, and so on until $60,000 had been drawn, since when nothing has been heard of him by the officers of the

After a week or more had elapsed, and nothing seen or heard of McBurnie, the officers of the bank became alarmed, and, on proceeding to investigate the matter, found, instead of $100,000 in specie, a box filled with lead.

The matter was immediately placed in the hands of the police authorities, but not the least clue to the whereabouts of the swindler could be discovered. For a time this matter created considerable excitement and discussion, and detectives in fall parts of the country were on the lookout for the individual; but of late the affair has almost been forgotten, except by a few interested individuals. A day or two since the police authorities of this city received in-formation that McBurnie was on his way from Canada to Chicago, and would arrive here at a certain time.

A full description of the individual was accordingly given into the hands of certain officers, and a close surveillance was kept on all arrivals, but nothing in the way of information was gained in this direction. Yesterday, about 11 o'clock, while Officer Van Fleet was on duty at the crossing of Lake and Clark streets, he suddenly espied an individual answering in every particular the description given of McBurnie, as it was forwarded from Cincinnati, and immediately took him into custody. The arrested individual had just been making the rounds of the banks, and was about to return to the hotel—the Adams House—when his pilgrimage was directed to the Central Station. Deputy Super-intendent Nelson immediately sent a description of the man to Cincinnati, and received ar answer in return to send the man on, which leaves but little room for doubt as to his identity. He calls himself Francis C. Buwlett, and is a man of about forty-five years of age. Officers Van Fleet and Macauley instituted a search of his rooms at the Adams House, yesterday evening, but nothing of a criminating character

A number of letters of introduction were, however, found, directed to various bankers in the Northwest, in which he is represented as Francis C. Burdett, a gentleman of large means, and who was desirous of doing some business with them. He also had in his possession a draft on a bank of London, Canada West, for £100. These are supposed to be forgeries. At the Adams House he had engaged an elegant suite of rooms. He also has in his employ a male servant, whom he engaged at Detroit to accompany him on his travels. He will be taken to Cincinnati this morning.

MURDER AND SUICIDE IN NEW YORK.

Au Italian Sculptor Mortally Wounded by a Workman-The Assassin Blows

his Brains Out. The Fourteenth Ward was the scene of a terrible tragedy this moreing, one of the principal actors in which is now lying a corpse at the Spring Street Station House, and the other victim is rapidly approaching dissolution at his residence.

The fearful occurrence was the result of cuarrel between an employer and one of his orkmen, but what toe exact cause of the disareement was, has not yet been clearly ascer-

Our reporter visited the scene of the tragedy, ad the following is the result of his researches:-I the basement of a small wooden building, os Peter or Peitri Funari, an Italian, keeps wrkshop for the manufacture of those plaster inges of heathen gods and goddesses, distinguished men, remarkable animals, etc., which continue the stock in trade of those children of suby Italy who make this city their home, and whare not engaged in the precarious business of gan grinding or menkey training.

Finari did an extensive business in this sort of selpture, and in his workshop or studio he empyed several workmen, all of whom were Italus. He is married, and lives on the top flood a broken-down tenement house, No. 145 Elm reet, immediately opposite his workshop, Amor the workmen employed by Funari was one med Alessandro Urene, or Alexander, as he wamore familiarly called. This man was of an ritable and quarretsome temperament. and bhis frequent indulgence in quarrals and street awls, had gained the reputation of a vindice desperado. The fact, however, of his being good workman induced Funari to retain him in s employ. This orning, Funari repaired to his workshop assual, and soon after Urene entered and commend his labors for the day. Shortly after 8 dock a quarrel ensued between Funari and Ure, the cause of which has not yet been develope After the warlof words and been continued it some time. Urene drew a small revolver ho his pocket and discharged one chamber it at his employer. The bail from the weap struck Funari in the left breast. causing a aund from which it is feared deate will ensue Funari sank to the floor of his shop, and te life-blood gushed forth. The workmen thered around, and Urene, after gazing a meant at what be no noubt supwas heliteless form of his employer. rushed up to sps teading to the street, men, recovering from the stupe action into which they had been thrown by the unexpected act of the assassin, gave an alarm. Officer Matthew Hyndes, of the 14th precinct police, who was in the neighborhood, and whose atten-tion had been attracted by the pistol shot, per-ceiving/Urene/running towards Grand street, and followed in pursuit. The tugitive ran to Grand street and turned up towards Crosby, and then crossed over to the northeast of Crosby and Grand streets, in front of the unoccupied church. The officer was close behind him, and another moment would have had him in custody, when Trene suddenly stopped, and for the second time drew the revolver.

The officer, fearing that the desperado intended to shoot his pursuer, also drew his revolver, but Urene, in the twinking of an eye, placed the muzzle of the pistol to the right side of his own head, and fired. The ball went crushing through the skull and traversed the brain, causing instant death. The report of the pistol and the fall of the body to the sidewalk were almost simultaneous and head to be sidewalk were almost simultaneous and the sidewalk were sidewalk were sidewalk sidewal walk were almost simultaneous; and when the officer, who was but a few paces behind him, reached the body. Urene had ceased to live. The remains of the murderer and suicide were conveyed to the Spring Street Station House, and Isid out on a bench in the yard, where a great many of the neighbors called to view

In the meantime, Funari had been conveyed to his residence, and he was placed in bed. A physician was summoned and examined the left breast. It is feared that the bullet has penetrated the lungs, and the medical gentlemen in attendance have no hopes of his recovery. Funari is about forty-two years of age, is married, and has a family. Urene was apparently about thirty-live years of age, and a native of Italy.

Coroner Grover was notified to take charge of the case. He will take the ante-mortem deposi-tion of Funari and hold an inquest over the remains of Urene this afternoon.-N. Y. Evening

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT AT THE OIL REGION. We learn from Mr. L. H. Buckbee, who visited Tarr Farm yesterday, that a terrible explosion occurred there between 12 and 1 o'clock on Wednesday morning, resulting in the instant death of the engineer, named Frederick Wygant, and the tatal injury of Mr. A. Jones.

The accident occurred at the Chrisman well, lease No. 126. In the temporary absence of the engineer, the thumbscrew of the safety-valve had not been turned down. The engineer had not observed the circumstance, and while hands were employed about the well, the boiler exploded from the butt with the most terrible conquences. Wygant, the engineer, was thrown a distance of sixty feet, his body being shockingly mangled, and every article of clething except one boot stripped from his person. He was lifeless when found. Mr. Jones, one of the employes, was thrown about thirty feet and fearfully scalded; it is thought he cannot survive. The samson post was solintered to pieces, and the engine house literally blown into fragments. Two legs of the derrick were carried away and it toppied over, but the driller, who stood inside of the detrick, was unharmed. Mr. Chrisman was slightly scalded, but will recover. The end of the boiler was blown a distance of one hundred and forty feet up hid, and the door of the tur-nace was found two hundred feet from the well,

It was the most appalling accident of the kind we have yet recorded, and, resulting as it did from a reckless and inexcusable act, should be made the subject of an official investigation. This is the third or fourth accident of the kind occurring in the oil regions within as many weeks from the same cause. For humanity's sake we hope we snall now hear of some suitable measures of precaution, which shall be generally adopted.—Titusville Herold, 21st.

Fire at Long Branch-The Harwood House Destroyed.

LONG BRANCH, September 22 .- A fire out in the north wing of the Harwood House at 3 o'clock this morning, and in a short time it was completely destroyed. The fire is be-lieved to have been the work of an incendiary. We learn that the fire broke out about 3 o'clock. and in two hours the building was burned to the ground. Mr. Cooper, of the Metropolitan, saw the flames through the third-story windows, and the bell of the school house was rung, attracting large crowds. Nothing could be done to stay the flames. There were a few guests in the house. The servants were aroused by pulling them out of their beds. A large part of the furniture was saved. The total loss is estimated at $40,000; insured for not more than $3000. This house was situated near the Dela-ware and Raritan Bay Railroad depot, and was kept by J. Porter & Co. It was formerly known as the Allegheny House.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ABRAHAM LIN-COLN'S POLICY AND "MY POLICY" is clearly shown by the following letter, written by President Lincoln to General Banks, in August,

"Executive Mansion, Washington, August 5, 1863,—My Dear General Banks:—Winle I very well know what you would be glad for Louisiana to do, it is quite a different thing for me to assume direcon of the matter.
"If Louisiam shall send members to Congress, their admission will depend, as you know, upon the respective Houses, and not upon the President. A. LINCOLN."

"Yours, very truly, Andrew Johnson evidently thinks it his especial prerogative to denounce and abuse Congress for deciding this question of admitting members of both Houses. The opinion of Mr. Lincoln is given above.
