The Dissipation of Base-Ball.

YESTERDAY the base-ball fever culminated in a scene disgraceful to Philadelphia. The much-talked-of game between the Athletics and Atlantics was prevented by the ignorant conduct of the vast crowd assembled to witness the sport.

Yesterday was a fair sample of the ultimate result. The rush to see the contest was so great that the contest itself was prevented. So it will be with the whole system, unless something like moderation is instilled into its devotees.

Yesterday we witnessed betting freely and openly performed inside the field, and in the presence of a crowd of witnesses, notwithstanding the rules of the Athletics.

This great congregation of people drew together a vast number of liquor booths, rum shops, and lager beer dealers. They surrounded the outskirts of the crowd, and made the game tend to promote intemperance.

We like the game of base-ball. We think it calculated to strengthen the muscles, invigorate the system, and counteract the evils of the sedentary life lead by so many of our young men.

Our City and County Candidates. THE example of last year, when the independent voters of the city rejected a man, regularly nominated by the Union Convention, because of his private character, has had a most salutary effect on the delegates who selected our standard-bearers this year.

Richard Peltz, Esq., the nominee for the position of Receiver of Taxes, has been for many years engaged in that office in a subordinate capacity, and has, therefore, become thoroughly acquainted with all its workings.

Here, then, is the advice of two men, Southern in birth, education, and affiliation, of such a tone as gives us hope. If the spirit exhibited by the bench and the pulpit over all the South were but like that of Judge Clayton and Bishop Verot, a different order of things would be inaugurated.

Captain Henry Conner is a soldier of fine record. It is only proper that those who fought our battles should receive their reward in the shape of offices, now that the war is over.

people, will be eminently suited for such a post as Commissioner. He will have an enormous majority, and the Republican party will gain this year what they lost through their bad selection last year.

The duties of Prothonotary of the District Court require that some gentleman should be selected who is careful, courteous, and acquainted with the needs of the Court, and with the various legal technicalities which daily occur.

This year we expect to roll up such a majority in favor of the city ticket that will surpass that of all bygone elections. We court inquiry into the record and character of our nominees, and feel well assured that the stricter the examination the more clear will their merits appear.

Two Cheering Voices from the South. Two documents lie before us of a nature to give us hope for the Southern people. One is the charge of Judge A. D. Clayton to a Grand Jury of Alabama; the other the pastoral letter from Bishop Verot, of the Catholic Church of Georgia.

Judge Clayton was a former Rebel Major-General. He takes a plain, sensible ground of argument in his charge. He talks like a man uninfluenced by ignorant bigotry or passion; and if his advice be followed, we see no cause to fear that the future of the South will indeed be glorious.

"Now let us deal with the facts before us, as they are. The negro has been made free. It was no work of his. He did not seek freedom, and nominally free as he is, he is helpless beyond expression—helpless by his want of habits of self-reliance—helpless by his want of experience—and doubly helpless by his want of comprehension to understand and appreciate his condition.

This is all that we require. Let him be treated in good faith like a man. Let him be paid and not oppressed. Let him be protected in his civil rights, and allowed to rise if he can. Give him a chance. When that is done, the social scale will once more be adjusted.

The charge of the Judge refers to his treatment so far as civil law is concerned. The other document refers to his religious training. Bishop Verot speaks wisely and well. The spirit evinced by his letter is calculated to put to the blush those lukewarm philanthropists who preach and do not practice.

"African slavery seems to have commenced and to have been kept up by the cruel and evidently unjust proceedings of men kidnapping other men to sell them to the tiger-hearted authors and abettors of the slave trade, condemned by the Holy See and tormented by all enlightened nations.

Here, then, is the advice of two men, Southern in birth, education, and affiliation, of such a tone as gives us hope. If the spirit exhibited by the bench and the pulpit over all the South were but like that of Judge Clayton and Bishop Verot, a different order of things would be inaugurated.

CHEERING.—The Connecticut town elections took place yesterday, and were carried by large Republican gains. In every town, as far as heard from, we have unexpected increased majorities. This is but a continuation of the Maine victory, and but a precursor of the Democratic rout which will occur one week from now.
