TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1866.

Words for Those Who Have Not Voted. This article may reach the eye of some elector as yet undecided how to vote. To any such we would say. Go immediately and deposit your ballot for the Union Republican candidates. We say so simply because we believe the policy advocated by the Republican party to be the best calculated to prompte the peace and welfare of the whole country. Indeed, we should regard the triumph of what is called the President's "policy" as a most serious blow to constitutional liberty in this country-not so much on account of the inherent character of that policy, in itself considered, as from the fact that it is a direct and most flagrant trespass by the Executive upon the rights of the people, as represented in Congress. The Executive has no right to legislate; yet the President's policy is almost purely legislative; it is in effect, if not in direct terms, the making of law, and the making of law n our Government belongs to the people.

We know of no better guide, where a min is in honest doubt how he ought to vote, than to consider how those whom he knows to have been the enemies of the country would have him vote, and then to vote so as to disappoint them. And can any sensible man doubt as to how our late Rebel enemies of the South would have him vote? Does not everybody know that a Clymer victory to-day would be hailed with wild and enthusiastic joy by every Rebel and Rebel sympathizer in the land? This, of itself, ought to be enough to decide the vote of every true Union

Finally, let any candid man seriously ask himselt whether even the partial triumph of the Democracy, with their persistent threats of an illegal and revolutionary Congress, would not be traught with immense danger to the country? Of course, the attempt to organize such a body would plunge the nation into convulsion. Nobody supposes that such a coup d'etat would be tolerated by the people. Is it best, then, for the sake of supplanting such able, faithful, and experienced men as Kelley, Myers, O'Neill, and their compeers, with such men as Welsh, Buckwalter, and Hulme, to run the risk of a civil war? We commend this consideration to quiet, thought ul, honest men, who have great and valuable interests at stake.

In any event, we urge each man to votenot according to passion, prejudice, or persuasion, but according to the enlightened convictions of his own judgment and conscience. This is a government of the people, and their follies and errors react with fearful rapidity upon their own heads. Let each man vote, therefore, as a constituent part of this great republic, and as individually responsible for its welfare and perpetuity.

The Management of the Campaign. LAST year we had cause to complain that the campaign in our State was so badly managed that the fight was won without the aid of the State Central Committee. We are glad to be able to utter to-day sentiments the reverse of those then held by us. We have never had a political contest in which more system has been preserved, more care taken, and more ability displayed. At the time of the appointment of Colonel Frank Jordan, by Hon. John Covode, to the position of Chairman of the Committee, we stated our belief that he was eminently fitted for that delicate and onerous position.

His entire management of the campaign has been such as to more than justify the praise' bestowed on him then. We do not know what may be the result of all his efforts, but whatever decision the people of our Commonwealth may make, no blame for a defeat can rest on our Chairman; while, if we succeed, to him belongs much of the praise. He has left no stone unturned to gain the victory. He has directed all the energetic efforts of the members of the party, and, alded by the secretaries and members of the Committee, has managed the fight to perfection. We believe that a great victory will be won by the Republican party to day. We have arranged every plan which could aid the free expression of the sentiments of the people; but whether we win or lose, one fact is the same. the managers of the campaign have done all that could be done to secure for our principles an overwhelming victory.

National Thanksgiving.

THE President, by proclamation, has set apart Thursday, the 29th of November, as a day of National Thanksgiving. The custom of national thanksgiving, under appointment of the President, is one that grew up during our recent war. We see nothing objectionable in perpetuating it. It secures a uniform observance of the festival throughout the country, and is an appropriate recognition of the Divine hand in the blessings of life by a professedly Christian people. It has often been remarked that, as a people, we have too few holidays, and the addition of a national one, devoted to thanksgiving and gladness, cannot but be beneficial in its results.

SIXTY CONGRESSMEN,-Sixty Congressmen are to be elected to-day, twenty-four in Pennsylvania, nineteen in Ohio, eleven in Indiana, and six in Iowa. The present delegation from these States stands torty-eight Union to twelve Demograts,

The South and the Constitutional Amendment.

THERE are numerous and daily increasing evidences that the only thing needful to secure the prompt ratification of the Constitutional amendment by the late Rebel States is the general success of the Union party in the fall elections at the North. Several of the influential Southern journals have already shaped their course towards a full indorsement of the measure, and there is but little doubt that a Republican victory will be followed by the speedy ac ion of most of the Southern States in favor of the amendment. It is not impossible, therefore, that we may see the amendment adopted and the States restored at a very early day.

VOTE AT ONCE.-If this paragraph meets the eye of any Union man who has not yet voted, we urge him to do so at once. The polls close at 6 o'clock, and if you postpone voting to a late hour you may lose your vote altogether. Do not think that your vote is of no consequence. Every vote counts, and we want a majority for the Union ticket that shall tell in the country. Again, we say vote at once.

VALLANDIGHAM .- Mr. Vallandigham has just made a speech, in which he justifies his course during the war, assails the memory of Abraham Lincoln, and approves the present policy of President Johnson. Vallandigham has, at least, the merit of consistency. But what shall we say of any Union man who now goes over to Vallandigham?

GBANT REITERATES .- The Tribune of to-day contains a special despatch from Washington last night, announcing that General Grant reiterates his often expressed opposition to Heister Clymer, and the entire class of peace Democrats of whom he is a representative. We never had the least doubt that such were General Grant's true sentiments.

A Bat on the Stage.-The other evening, at the opera in Paris, the performance of L'Africains was enlivened by the incursion of a bat. On the rising of the curtain on the fourth act the animal made his appearance, diverting himself alternately by worrying the stalls, dashing himself against the large lustre, and swooping down on the chorus, to the mingled amusement and alarm of artists and audience. Nor did the bat show the slightest respect for "Vasco" and "Selika" during their duo of the act; but fluttered persistently in their faces, till M'me Sasscould not get out a note for annoyance. At last, M. Georges Hainl flung his bow at the creature with such precision as to knock it into the wings. "Twenty francs to him that catches the bat!" he cried, and forth sallied supers, carpenters, and chorus on the cha-e, while the tenor and soprano finished the duo. But at the commencement of act fith the creature reappeared. mencement of act into the creature reappeared, till at last a sagacious property man having got a dishing-rod from the theatrical repository, batted it with an insect, and fished from the flies until the animal yielded to temptation and Easy Treatment .- A writer in the London Field says that a successful dog doctor in his neighborhood, who bad an extensive custom amongs ladies of ashion, on retiring from practice made the tollowing confession:—"When very fat and apoplectic p ts were confided to my care, I slways tied 'em," said be, "to a crabtree at the end of my garden, and gave 'em nothing but water for a week. When I fetched 'em from home they used to refuse to cat what I should have been glad to get; and when I took 'em back they was glad to get what I would not have touched. I've had some dogs twice and even three times a year, but I always cured 'em at last. One of 'em was as good as three pound a year to me. I was terrible fond of him, but he couldn't abide me; and when he saw me a coming to fetch down his fat, he used to waddle away and how! fit to raise the dead.'

Homburg Gamblers.-Much anxiety has been feit by the inhabitants of Homburg as to what their fate will be, now that that little State is absorbed by Prussia. Public play has been forbidden in Prussia, and the play tables at Aix-la-Chapelle have been closed for some years. The Homburg burgomaster has, how-ever, announced that he has received no instructions from the Prussian Government on the subject of play, and that, for all he knows to the contrary, "rouge et noir" and "roulette" will continue as heretofore at the Homburg Casino twelve hours a day, every day in the year, on the same conditions and for the same stakes as usual.

Decripitation by Steam—Among the sensa-tional parsgraphs about the Paris Exhibition is one concerning a new model guillotine invented by a compatriot of Count Bismark. The guillo-tine is capable of cutting off six heads per minute, and eight if properly handled. The machine is worked by steam, and the knife, in stead of falling straight, cuts with a rotary movement. The guillot ne can be taken to pieces and put together again in ten minutes; the engine works the wheels, and the machine can steam to the place of execution, and take the body up to the cemetery afterwards!

The French Trade in Roses.-The trade in roses is of importance in France. Rose trees are cultivated in different parts of the country in open fields, like turnips or cabbages. Thus, there are 500,000 rose trees near Orleans; 200,000 near Metz; 1,000,000 near Angers; 1,500,000 near Lyons; 2,000,000 near Paris; and 2,000,000 in the thirteen communes of Brie-Comte-Robert. The varieties called Rose-The, the Bourbon, and Mousseuse flourish particularly in the environs of Paris and Orleans. A Dignified Brigand .-- According to the Giornate di Napoli, a brigand chief named Pace has exclusive ideas about the profession he car-ries on. He brooks no rivals, and not only denounces any other "gent emen of the highway" who may practise in his district as "impostors," but actually arrests and gives them up to the police. He lately sent four of these competitors to the nearest post of gendarmes, requesting them to be severely punished.

Disposession.—An association has been started in London to aid poor persons about to be ejected from their homes to make way for ratiways for metropolitan improvements. It is stated that the various schemes now on foot would dispossess no less than one hundred thousand people, in addition to twenty thousand who have already been evicted.

Killing Fish.—The tannets of Bewdley, England, have been brought before the magistrates for turning a quantity of white liquid from their yard in the Severn. In a few minutes the river was full of dead fish, and it was estimated that no less than one hundred thousand had thus been destroyed. The tanners were fined, and promised not to offend again.

Hudson's Bay .- The London Daily News says the Hudson's Bay Company are understood to ask two million pounds for the sovereignty and the bulk of their (rechold, while the Imperial Government bave long undertaken to guarantee one million pounds. The shareholders may therefore look to a bargain being struck at some intervening time.

An Untamed Beast—On the 7th inst., about the close of the Victoria Theatre (London) iten performances, one of the lionesses made an attack on her keeper as he was about leaving the cage. The animal caught the keeper by his leg, and severely scratched his flesh, but by his timely chastisement the brute ceased any further Menument to a Poet.—A monument has been erected in honor of the Danish poet Stensen Bilcher, at Viborg, in Jutland, his native town.
