CLEOPATEA Her month is fragrant as a vine,
A vine with birds in all its boughs Serpent and scarab for a surn Between the beauty of her brows And the amorous deep lids divine.

Her great curled hair makes luminous r checks, her litted throat and chin. Shall she not have the hearts of us To shatter, and the loves therein To shed between her fingers thus?

Shall rumed broken strays of light. Pearl after pearl she shreds them through Her long sweet sleepy fingers, white As any pearl's heart veined with blue, And soft as dew on a soft night.

As if the very eyes of love Shone through her shutting lids, and stole The slow looks of a snake or dove; As if her lips absorbed the whole

Of love, her soul the soul thereot. Lost, all the lordly pearls that were Wrung from the sea's heart, from the green Coasts of the Indian gulf-river; Lost, all the loves of the world—so keen

Towards this queen for love of her. You see against her throat the small Sharp glittering shadows of them shake: And through her hair the imperial Curled likeness of the river-spake

Whose bite shall make an end of all. Through the scales sheathing him like wings, Through hieroglyphs of gold and gem, The strong sense of her beauty stings, Like a keen pulse of love in them,

A running flame through all his rings. Under those low large lids of hers She hath the histories of all time; The fruit of foliage-stricken years; The old seasons with their heavy chime That leaves its rhyme in the world's ears.

She sees the heart of death made bare, The ravelled riddle of the skies,
The faces taded that were fair,
The mouths made speechless that were wise,
The bollow eyes and dusty hair;

The shape and shadow of raystic things, Things that fate tashions or forbids; The staff of time-forgotten kings, Whose names falls of the Pyramids, Their coffin-lids and grave-clothings;

Dank dregs, the scum of pool or clod, God-spawn of lizard-tooted clans, And those dog-headed hulks that trod Swart necks of the old Egyptians, Raw draughts of man's beginning God;

The poised hawk quivering ere he smote, With plume-like gems on breast and back; The asps and water-worms afloat Between the rash-flowers moist and slack. The cat's warm black bright rising throat.

The purple days of drouth expand Like a scroll opened out again : The molten beaven drier than sand, The hot red heaven without rain Sheds iron pain on the empty land.

All Egypt aches in the sun's sight ; The lips of men are harsh for drouth, The ferce air leaves their cheeks burnt white, Charred by the bitter blowing south, Whose dusty mouth is sharp to bite. All this she dreams of, and her eyes

Are wrought after the sense hereof. There is no heart in her for sighs; The face of her is more than love-A name above the Ptolemies. Her great grave beauty covers her

As that sleek spoil beneath her feet Clothed once the anointed soothsayer; The hallowing is gone forth from Now, made unmeet for priests to wear. Sne treads on -- '

And perisheth with what it brings.

She holds her mitre close, her lips Hold fast the key of things to be; Actum, and sound of war that dips Down the blown valleys of the sea. For sails that flee, and storms of ships; The laughing red sweet mouth of wine

At enoing of life's festival; That spice of cerecioths, and the fine White bitter dust funereal Sprinkled on all things for a sign; His face, who was and was not he,

In whom, alive, her life abode; The end, when she gained heart to see Those ways of death wherein she trod, Goddess by god, with Antony.

—Algernon Charles Swinbowne,

The Toy Business in this Country.

The manufacture of toys and "playthings," until within a tew years, has been almost wholly confined to Europe. The Germans and Swiss have furnished the rising generation with the most of these necessary adjuncts to the plea-sures of childhood. But lately the facilities of the Patent Office have stimulated production in this direction, and now our most amusing toys are those of American manufacture. And it is

are those of American manufacture. And it is a profitable direction for inventive genius.

Everybody has seen the comical dancing Ethiopian, cruelly impaled upon a wire, and ioreed to respond, with every joint in his supple body, to the rattle of the fingers on his pivoted platform. This ridiculous device, being patented, has brought its proprietor a fortune. Then there is the crowing cock, his intestines a tin whistle, able to excite the envy of the monarch of the barnyard by his clear, shrill, and natural challenge. This, also, is a paying investment. The Dervishes and Zouaves, fantastically dressed, suspended by an elastic cord, perform teats of leaping which put to shame the Buislays and Hanlons. On the same principle is the lays and Hanions. On the same principle is the return ball, which, like the Australian boome rang, comes back to the hand that projected it A top of thin metal, hollow, and gaily lac-quered, when started by means of the coiled spring in the handle, will continue its revolu tions for ten minutes at a stretch.

The flying top is a good illustration of the propeller screw. Released from the shaft on which it is made to revolve, it flies whirling at an which it is made to revolve, it flies whirling at an angle through the air until its momentum is lost, when it comes back, returning to the operator for a new start. We saw the other day a whistle, a mere gland of kid or thin leather, of a crescent form, holding, stretched between the two horns, a thin membrane, by the vibrations of which, added by the operator's tongue, a great variety of sounds can be produced. The grunt and squeal of the pig, the warbling of the capary the whistling of a gual, the priving of canary, the whistling of a quall, the piping of the curlew, and many other calls of animated nature, can be perfectly reproduced. This is a useful implement for the sportsman, and affords unlimited delight to incipient manhood.

Almost all these can be used as illustrations of natural laws. Philosophy may yet be taught in our schools by toys. The wonderful resemblance to life of our American toys in many instances makes a broad distinction between them and those heretolore furnished from Europe. These last are usually caricatures, and are mis-These last are usually caricatures, and are misleading to the young mind, which receives ideas through objects, and not through words mainly. Take our rubber toys. Some of them are worthy to rank with the productions of the artist. They are marvels of beauty and natural expression. The dolls made here of this material do not wear that appearance of corpse-like waxiness, or inanity, which the traditional doll from time immemorial has borne. They are pleasing to look at and wonderful in endurance, some by hidden machinery can walk, others erv Some by hidden machinery can walk, others cry and move their eyes, but none are hideous and repulsive in expression.

This toy business may be considered by some as unworthy of notice by scientific journalists; but as we are more or less educated by our surroundings, and as the toys of the child are a prollife source of ideas which will cling to him through life. through life, it is important that they do not convey false impressions. These improvements in our children's playthings are additional helps towards their education, and while their projectors realize fortunes from their introduction, young humanity and the world at large are pleased and benefited. - Scientific American.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE PICTORIAL BOOK OF ANECDOTES AND INCIDENTS OF THE REBELLION: Heroic, Patriotic, Romantic, Humorous, and Tragical. I here is a certain portion of the war that will never go into the regular histories, and will not get embodied in romance and poetry, which is a very real part of it, and will if preserved, convey to succeeding generations a better idea of the spirit of the conflict than many dry reports or careful narratives of events, and this part may be called the gossip, the fun the pathos, of the war.

This illustrates the character of the leaders, the humor of the sold ers, the devotion of women, the bravery of men, the pluck of our heroes, the romance and hardships of the service. From the beginning of the war the author has been engaged in collecting all the anecdotes connected with or illustrative of it, and has grouped and classified them under appropriate heads, and in a very altractive form.

The volume is profusely illustrated with over 300 engravings by the first artists, which are really beautinit; worthy of examination as specimens of the ser. Many of thein are set into the body of the text, after the popular style of Lossing's Pictorial Field Book of the Revolution. The book's contents include reminiscences of camp, picket, spy, scout, bivouac, slege, and battle-field adventures; thrilling lears of bravery, wit, grollery, comical and inderious adventures etc., etc.

Amusement as well as instruction may be found in every page, as graphic detail, brilliant wit, and authon-t. Bistory are skilluly interwoven in this work of literary art.

This work sells itself. The people are tired of dry details and partisan works, and want something humorous, romantic, and startling. Our agents are making from 100 to 200 to 200 per month, clear of all expenses—send for circulars, giving full particulars, and see our terms and proof of the above assertion.
