They urge the people to insist, is behall or the trae lovalists, on still further conditions precedent to the admission of the Rebel States, than those enuncould in the Congressional amendment, because the pre-sent State Governments of the South are not legal bodies, and therefore cannot legally ratify the amendment. They plead that the people insist that their repre-sentative shall at the next session declare the preseptatives shall at the next session declare the pre-sent State organizations in the South illegal, and proceed to organize governments based upon the principle of impartial loyal suffrage. A committee of seven was appointed to keep the subject before the people until the final dec sion of the reconstructhe people and the and testion of the reconstruc-tion question by Congress. This committee con-sists of Colonel Moss of Missouri, President; Gov-ernor Hamilton of Jexas, Binsham of Alapama, Griffin of Alabama, Tucker of Virginia, Eston of Tennessee, and Randolph of Louisiana. The Loval-ist deputation is now dissolved. Everywhere they have most the most control and dimension and have met the most cordial audiences, and every where ther pleas for impartial suffrage have been enthusiastically received, even in the supposed strongholds of conservatism in Indiana and litinois.
