sects, that has brought anything but honor upon the Christian name.

Having, as the Evangelical denominations do, common faith, and clinging to the same great a common faith, and clinging to the same great docrines that are the only true and effective weapons with which to make war against the strongholds of sin in the earth, the idea has fastened itself upon many minds that there is every reason for a higher and more complete unity in the various ranks of Christ's army.

But whi e good men have been forming and applying their theories for the accomplishment of this most desirable end, the work has been silently yet steadily advancing in the hundreds of associations, containing thousands of young men, scattered over the Protestant Christian world. Here Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Reformed Dutch, Episcopalians, Congregationalists, and Lutherans have met, prayed together, labored together, and know each other only as the followers of the Lord each other only as the followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. Their attention has been absorbed by carnest desires to save young men from the errors and vices to which they are exposed. and to extend in every possible way the Redeemer's kingdom. Imperceptioly their hearts have been drawn together in Christian fellowship and affection. The shackles of narrow prejudices and jealouses have fallen from their minds. While true to all the reasonable claims of their respective denominations, they have been led by the natural contractions. the reasonable chains of their respective denominations, they have been led by the natural culture that comes from concerted and earnest action with Christians of every name, to take broad and liberal views of the designs of Christ and of the work of His spiritual Church on the and of the work of His spiritual Church on the earth. They have been in positions to see that those bearing another denominational name could love the Lord Jesus Christ as sincerely as they—could labor with as pure desires and as carnest a zeal as they to save immortal souls, and could strive with as much andor as was ever kindled in their hearts, to be presented for death and secure the rewards. much airdor as was ever kindled in their hearts, to be prepared for death and secure the rewards of heaven. Indeed, many of them have been better fitted by their associated work and experience to labor successfully in their own individual churches. Having been trained to regard the spirit more than outward form of religion, having been dealing with the vital truths and great duties that grow out of Christianity, they are prepared to render the most efficient service in carrying out the best plans for the extension of their own branch of the Church. And from these associations we have reason to look for a more exciations we have reason to look for a more ex-tended and consolidated unity for the future. God may use them as a prominent instrumen-tality for marshalling His hosts for the great and inal battle with the powers of evil, that shall precede the dawn of millennial glory and the universal triumphs of the Christian faith. Speaking of the work of the young men, he said the fruits of a Young Men's Christian Associa-tion in this department are so varied and abundant, that it is impossible to present more than a partial view of them within the limits of this through the systematic visitation of many at their houses; and through the agencies that they brought to bear, young men arriving in the cities were placed at once under Christian influences. They have achieved a plessed work, the magnitude of which cannot be described. Could the history of the Association at New York, or the one at Boston, or at Philadelphia, or Chicago, be tully written, the commu-nity would be surprised at the results of the labors of these Christian young men. For example, the New York Association has been in existence for fifteen years, and besides the result of previous years, during the last two a great work has been accomplished for the moral, social, and spiritual welfare of the young men and of others in that great city.

According to their report, they sustain a Bible class for young men, ten religious weekly services, besides five weekly meetings among the Germans. They issued five thousand circulars to the clergy of their own and adjourning States, urging them to turnish young men boming to the city with letters of introduction to them. They also inserted advertisements in the various religious papers, calling the attention of persons. ligious papers, calling the attention of persons residing out of town to the objects of the asso-ciation, and asking them to send the names of any young men they desired to have visited and brought under religious induence. These measures have resulted in immense good. Young men have been visited, with the most cheering results. Multitudes have brought letters from the country, and been assigned to good boarding places, and placed in good business situations. The Chairman of the Employment Committee (W. F. Lee, Esq.) devotes a part of every day to this good work, and it has become a most important agency for the merchant as well as the clerk. Christian mer-chants make application to Mr. Lee for moral and Christian young men, and he furnishes them. Thus the interest of the mer-chant is awakened in the association, and the young men are at once brought under the best social and religious induences. During the past year hundreds of young men have thus been placed in good situations. These men have come from every part of the United States and from foreign lands, even from Turkey and Armenia. Altogether this Association expended this last year $10,000, yet it is proposed to erect a large and elegant edifice at a cost of $250,000, for the moral and religious benedit of the young men of the city. The idea is to present attrac-tions that will counteract the evil influences of the demoralizing amusements and temptations of the city. A grander plan than this cannot be executed. Already $200,000 have been subscribed to the enterprise by the princely merchants of New York. The membership is 1300. The last report of this Association says: "In no year of our history have we accomplished as much legitimate work as in the year just closed."

The Boston Association has a membership of 1500. From their report we learn that hundreds of young men have found the Saviour at the prayer meetings held by the association, and each month adds to the number. Prayer-meetings are also held on board the receiving ship Ohio, stationed in Boston harbor, every evening, resulting in frequent conversions among the sailors. A band of nine young men go forth every Sunday morning to labor among the seamen on other vessels in harbor. A class for literary improvement meets on alternate weeks, tor declamation, reading, essays, and debate. The social element is largely introduced into the association, with most excellent effect. The rooms are seacious and elegant, and are visited daily by about eight hundred persons, who come to read the papers and periodicals, and to take books from the library. The library numbers 3556 well-selected volumes, such as are calculated to exert the most beneficial influence upon the mind and heart of the reader.

Twenty associations reported last year libraries containing an aggregate of 32,105 volumes. What an instrumentality we have for good in this mass of sound Christian literature! And what a contrast does it present to libraries made up of fictitious works, silly novels, and the demoralizing narratives of fashionable pro-

The Philadelphia Association, four weeks ago, had upon its roll of membership fifteen hundred of your Christian young men. Since that time five hundred have taken their rank with the fitteen hundred, making a force of two thousand strong. The library numbers over three thousand volumes. Many young men have been aided in obtaining suitable employment and comfortable homes. The sick have been visited, the needy relieved, and many of those who were walking in the ways of death have been led into the paths of life and happiness. Literary and social meetings are held, and the monthly meetings and quarterly reunions are occasions of great interest. Classes have been established in the various languages—Latin, Greek, and German, and instruction is imparted by competent professors.

The Chicago Association is doing a great work in all departments. According to their report a year ago, they had obtained situations the preyear ago, they had obtained studions the pre-vious year for sixty-one young men and seventy boys, and permanent and temporary employ-ment for eight hundred and sixty-seven females. Their Boarding-house Committee had obtained suitable places for all the strangers who had applied to them. They speak of the previous year (1864) as one of rare, abundant labors and greater prosperity than any year since the l organization of the Association. Yet the last year (1865) surpassed that. They then afforded relief to five thousand families, and procured situations for three thousand persons. What a splendid spectacle, that city presents! This Association, as it were, is erecting an arch over the gate of the city; and over thousands, as they come within the influence of its power. In the department of city evangelization this asso-ciation is doing an immense work. In this de-partment they are most effective and successful partment they are most effective and successful. For eight years they have sustained a daily union prayer meeting and a Saturday evening social prayer meeting. They report the whole number of mission schools in the city as 29, containing 9543 teachers and scholars. Tract distribution is carried on more successfully than ever before. In response to their appeal to the churches, liberal contributions have been made to carry forward this work, while many active and devoted Christians have added their services to the work of personal visitation and distribution.

Permit me to read an abstract of a letter in regard to one of the meetings and good works of this association. The correspondent says:—

"I am happy to refer to a delightful meeting held regard to one of the meetings and good works of this association. The correspondent says:—

"I am happy to refer to a delightful meeting held here last evening under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city. It was held mone of the dining-roops of the Sherman House. The pastors of all evangelical denominations were guests. The object of the meeting was to graw the tide of general Christian reeiing into one clanuse, and it was fully realized. That there was a secondary purpose, to stir anew the sympathies of the charches for the Association is doubtless true. The Association is accomplishing a noble work in Chicago. Ever seeking to act as an anxiliary, not a rival, to the Church, it has done what the Church might have done, but has not. For many years, it has conducted a daily prayer meeting at its rooms, and no similar prayer meeting, except that of New York, has been more signally blessed. It has annually disbursed thousands of dollars for the reliet of the poor; it is, in fact, the great agency through which this work is carried on in this city. It has furnished hundreds of men and women with employment. It has distributed tracts and religious newspapers without number. Its members have been instrumental in the promotion of revivals throughout the Northwest. It labors as carriestly for the promotion of the spiritual as of the temperal well-being or all whom it can reach. It carries the load in one hand and the Gospei in the other. During the prevalence of the choicera, a few weeks since, its members were among the most fearless and active of the good samaritans; and curing the war its frequent and self-sacrificing ministrations were enjoyed by hundreds of our solders."

The report adds, "As the medium through which to reach the nearly 100,000 of our none.

The report adds, "As the medium through which to reach the nearly 100,000 of our population who neither attend church nor the Sab-bath School, we feel that no other instrumen-tality could take its place. In affording relief to the destitute and sick, the Association expended $22,000, an increase of about $8000 over the previous year. Last year they visited more than half the families in the whole city. Such facts as these are certainly most eloquent advocates of the noble institution."

The Washington Association desires to build a building through which they may reach the 20,00 young men and women in that city, a very large portion of whom are not under Christian influences.

The Buffulo Association employs a city missionary and sustains two or three large and flourishing Mission Sabbath Schools, in which there have been a number of hopeful converts. The Montreal Association reports thus:

Our general mission work—that is, visiting from house to house, the hospitals, jails, and other institutions—is kept up with varying success. Since our last report our missionaries have made about five thousand five hundred visits, that is, about fifteen per day. The parracks and all the vessels in the barbor are regularly. larly visited. About forty of our young men have, during the winter months, been engaged in cottage meetings in different parts of our city, with satisfactory results. A day prayer-meeting and two Sabbath evening prayer-meet-ings are held in the most thickly inhabited parts of the city. 80,000 tracts were distributed, and relief as well as spiritual instruction was afforded to the poor, the sick, and the dying. From New Haven we have the following report:- "The present work of our Association is port:—"The present work of our Association is the establishment and support of mission schools, prayer meetings, and temperance meetings in neglected and degraded parts of the city, among which is a Bethel meeting for seamen, which has been in successful operation for more than six years, and which has been repeatedly visited by our Heaventy Father, with converting power by our Heaven's Father with converting power. We also organize and sustain neighborhood prayer-meetings in various parts of the city. held at private houses, which have resulted in

But I need not multiply evidences of the usefulness of these associations. God only knows the blessings that have been thus carried to tens of thousands of precious souls.

The speaker then gave an account of the noble work of the Christian Commission, saying it sprang from the Young Men's Christian Associa-tions of the country. He then said that God has given to them the seal of His divine approbation. No one can for a moment doubt that they are destined in the future to be in His hand instruments of great spiritual power; for never in the world's history were there such openings, so attractive and wide fields of usefulness, as now present themselves to earnest Christian laborers. The susceptibility of lens of thousands to moral influences and religious impressions; the new vitality that seems to be infused into the heaven-appointed effort of the public and the press, through which masses of men can be reached and möved—all are powerful stimulants to prompt and energetic efforts for advancing the interests of humanity and religion. Then, events are transpiring that far exceed in importance the greatest revolution of the past, and are themselves germs of still mightier changes for the tuture. God is overturning and overturning, preparing the way for the reign of Him whose right it is to sway the sceptre of supremest dominion over the nations. A country, too, invites your efforts upon which great triumphs have already been achieved. Here treedom of thought, freedom of speech and of the press, occupy the thrones of power. Here, recently, liberty has crushed its adversary at the moment that it had gathered up and concentrated all its strength to establish its claims and extend its dominion. Here industry and commerce, education, literature, and science, are rapidly becoming the handmaids of religion. The signs of the times indicate that in this field the great decisive battles between truth and error are to be fought, and that here prizes are to be won that will shine with an eternal lustre. Upon the warriors in this struggle the eyes of the civilized world are fixed, and waiting with the civilized world are fixed, and waiting with deep anxiety the result. A great cloud of witnesses bend from the battlements of heaven to catch the first tidings of the conquest made for Jesus; and let this union be consecrated to Christ, and Europe will feel her power. In the cities, the richest rewards await those who are faithful unto death. Christian young men, go forward! The great and the good are with you. Patriarchs, prophets, apostles, the noble army of martyrs, the redeemed of all ages, are with you. All the boly angels are with you. God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost are with you. Be true, be earnest; draw your strength from God by prayer, and you must conquer. The darkness of error must be dissipated by your spiritual light. Vice will yield to the triumph of virtue. Evil passions will be subdued by heavenly love, and the kingdoms of the earth will become the kingdoms of our Lord.
