THE KIDNEYS.

The kidneys are in number, situated at the upper part of the loins surrounded by fat, and consisting of these parts, viz.—The Anterior, the Interior and the Exterior.

GOUT OR RHEUMATISM.

Pain occurring in the joints is indicative of the above diseases. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalky concretions.

THE GRAVEL.

The gravel ensues from neglect or improper treatment of the kidneys. These organs being weak, the water is not excreted from the bladder, but allowed to remain; it becomes feverish and sediment forms. It is from this deposit that the stone is formed and gravel ensues.

DROPSY.

Is a collection of water in some parts of the body, and bears different names according to the parts affected, viz., when generally diffused over the body, it is called Anasarca; when of the abdomen, Ascites; when of the chest, Hydrothorax.

TREATMENT.

Helmhold's highly concentrated compound Extract of Buchu is decidedly one of the best remedies for diseases of the bladder, kidneys, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatism, and scruvy affections.

By the Old Penn Mansion in November, 1816. But

The Old Penn Mansion a Century Ago, if we may believe the faithful chronicler of the day, was a far different structure without, so it certainly was within.

It stood in Second street, at the corner of Norris' alley, and was a singular old-fashioned structure, laid out in the style of a fortification, with abundance of angles, both salient and re-entrant.

This antiquated structure has had a history which is surpassed for interest by that of no other building in Philadelphia of a private character.

William Penn Resides in the Mansion. William Penn, the illustrious founder of the colony, arrived in Philadelphia, on his second visit, in October, 1699, just seventeen years after the location of the city.

During the term of Penn's second residence in the colony, he had the companionship and assistance of James Logan, a young Irishman of great industry and varied scholastic attainments.
