THANKSGIVING. The Governor's Proclamation.

Whereas, it nath been the good and worthy enterm of the Commonwealth to set apart, annually, a day for the special acknowledgment of the goodness of the Almith y, and for expressing, by the whole people, at one time and with a common worce, the thanks and praise which throughout the year are springing from the hearts of men; there-the area are springing from the hearts of men; therefore, I. Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. recommend that the good people of the Commonwealth observe Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of Thanks, piving and Prayer, and do then assemble in their respective churches and places of worship, and make their humble thank-off-ring to Almighty God in the blessings during the past year—

For the abundant gathered fruits of the earth. For the thus is roontinued activity of industry For the general preservation of health.
And especially for that in His divine mercy He hath stayed the threatened pestilence.
And, moreover, that they do beseech Him to continue unto us all His blessings, and to confirm the hearts of the people of these United States, that by the lawful force of their will, deeds of good justice, wisdom, and mercy may be done.
Given under my hand, and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this twenty-ninth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and of the Commonwealth the unnety-first.

wen'th the ninety-first.

By the Governor.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Thanksgiving-No Paper To-Morrow. ELSEWHERE will be found an exhaustive article upon the history and character of public thanksgivings, to which we invite attention. To-morrow (Thursday) having been set apart by the national, State, and municipal authorities as a day of general thanksgiving, no regular newspaper will be issued from this office. This course is adopted in order to allow all persons] attached to the paper to enjoy the national holiday.

Raphael Redivivus.

SEMMES-Raphael Semmes-Admiral Raphael Semmes - Semmes the chivalric -Semmes the illustrious-Semmes the prodigious-Semmes the gigantic-Semmes the overwhelming! What has Semmes been doing? Not much. He has simply stooped to follow the example of Mr. Robert E. Lee. some time General in the service of the late C. S. A., and now an instructor of youth in the little mountain village of Lexington. Semmes, we are given to understand, has put aside his warlike dreams. He has likewise awakened from his dream of dwelling in the marble halls of justice. "He has accepted." so the despatch runs, "the chair of Professor of Moral Philosophy and English Literature in the Louisiana State Seminary of Learning at Alexandria."

Good for Semmes! We think he has done well; we think he has done a big thing. In truth, of all the big things that Semmes ever did do, we think this is about the biggest. It is worthy of Semmes illustrious and chivalric career. The soul of Semmes is not wholly bound up in rivalry of Farragut and Tegethoff; he will find time to expound the mysteries of Plato and Whately; he will condescend to point out the beauties of Shakespeare and Dickens. Henceforth he will fire the youthful Southern heart to aspire to a comprehension of the immortality of the soul, and to an elegance of diction. When people desire to catch a glimpse of Semmes hereafter, they must cast their eyes upon the world of letters. "I am the Captain," cried the unselfish hero, when the waters of the English Channel were gurgling in his ears and dampening his courage. Now he has turned the tables; he no longer cries out for help-he calls to the Southern youth to draw near, while he soothes their troubled spirits with the sweet nectar of philosophy and rhetoric. Semmes the Professor-Semmes theprofound-Semmes the peripatetic-Semmes the dilettante! At one time we thought you ought to have been hanged; forgive us, it we still think the gallows has been deprived of one of its most graceful and becoming ornaments. But we are content, inasmuch as the cause of philosophic morality and elegant literature has gained what the cause of outraged humanity has lost-your head and heart.

Rebellion in Ireland.

THE Fenian troubles in Ireland have culminated in an actual outbreak. The tone of the English press shows the affair to be a serious one, and shows, too, in what spirit it will be met by the British Government. The Times says "the Rebellion must be s:amped out, as we stamped out the cattle-plague." England will now have a chance to put in practice the many pieces of good advice she gave us during the late Rebellion in this country.

THE LATE METRORIC DISPLAY, which was to have come off in this country, but did not, was witnessed in England and Scotland, and was very brilliant. The New York Herald of the next day published a special despatch by the Atlantic cable giving an account of the affair, which Professor Loomis. on scientific grounds, publicly pronounced a canard. For once the newspaper man beat the astronomer.

SMALL FAVORS THANKFULLY RE-CEIVED .- Eben F. Pilisbury, late Democratic candidate for Covernor of Maine, has been appointed and received his commission as United States Pension Agent at Augusta, in place of Charles F. Potter, removed. We hope Mr. Pillsbury is consoled.

Control of the Street Street, or W.

THE HEIGHT OF IMPUDENCE may fairly be assumed to have been reached by the Rebel General Edward Johnston, who, having just been pardoned by the President, walks over to the office of General Spinner, the Treasurer of the United States, and demands four hundred dollars back pay due him as Major in the United States Army, when he left the service of the country and joined the Rebellion. It is wonderful that he did not demand his commission back again also.

A Good BRIDGE.-While Chicago is rejoicing in her great Lake Tunnel, Cincinnati is equally jubilant over the approaching completion of the great Suspension Bridge over the Ohio river at that point. It is said to be the longest single-span bridge in the world, measuring from centre to centre of the boxes 1757 feet. It cost $2,000,000.
