CHESNUT STREET, SOUTH SIDE.

(Continued from Yesterday's Issue.) The second stage of our journey up the south side of Chesnut street brought us to the corner of Eleventh street, and there the shades of night evertook us. Resuming our journey this morning, the first establishment into which we made our way was that of William P. Campbell, Fur Goods and Ludies' Cloakings.

One of the finest establishments in the city, where can be found the richest of furs, most elegant of cloakings, and ladies' ornaments, which accompany such goods, is that of Wil-ham P. Campbell, No. 1124 Chesnut street Furs of the finest quality are here to be found manufactured into the most beautiful of articles for ornamental use-muffs, tippets, collars, etc., of great variety, great softness, and elegance of appearance. Especially is the assortment of ladies' cloakings extremely large and comprhensive. Cloths of all kinds, the finest of velocity of the state of the sta vets, glossy and heavy silks, exquisitely colored fabrics for opera cloaks, from which a selection can be made with the greatest of satisfaction. To fully know the extensive collection a visit is necessary. Rest assured that everything in the line of fur goods are substantial, though one; and beautiful cloths for cloaks can be found to most advantage at the store of William P. Campbell, Ne. 1124 Chesnut street.

Wilson, Hauer & Co., Dealers in Skating and Base Ball Paraphernalia.

You who enjoy the healthful and exceedingly pleasant exercise of skating, and are waiting in great expectation for its coming, and are making preparations to be ready, look at this: —SKATES! SKATES! SKATES! on which an eagle can be made to assume a most graceful form on ice, with which tan-bark is easy to cut, and with which figures of eight and figures of taree can be quickly performed. Wilson, Hauer & Co., No. 409 Chesnut street have an endless variety on hand, and all of the strongest, most unbreakable kind. Also rubber shoes, to keep the feet warm on ice. Skating muds, to keep the hands warm, and skating jackets, or beautiful patterns, to keep the body warm. Call on the above for your holiday presents.

W. H. Wood, Dealer in Bedding and Curtain Goods.

W. H. Wood, at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Chesnut streets, has a holiday stock of curtains, bedding, mattresses, etc., which cannot fail to please the most factidious. We noticed some very rich and exquisite pat-terns of curlains at this establishment. There are mattresses also at his store of the best and most durable make, and whose very appearance induces drowsiness in the beholder. Young housekeepers cannot fail to be suited.

Misses Thornbill & Burns, Dealers in Ladies' Undergarments. Perhaps there is no one thing that adds more greatly to a lady's appearance than a beautifully shaped crinoline. It used to be the lashion, when they first came out for the gentlemen to sneer and cry out against them. But, as usual, all to no purpose, for when the ladies have set their minds upon anything, they will have it. The Misses Thornhill & Burns, No. 1208 Ches-nut street, have the best articles of the kind in

James S. Claxton, Bookseller,

It is astonishing to see the great numbers of new works that are daily almost hourly, issuing from the presses of our country. It is probable that there is more general reading amongst the masses of our people than in any other country on the face of the globe. Our newspapers and periodicals are east broadcast over the land, and do their mission of good. Everything that is of value that is produced in the Old World is reproduced here very soon after making its appearance there. Speaking of books and works of general interest, we would call attention to the large and well-selected stock of James S. Claxton, No. 1214 Chesnut street. This enterprising firm is well known to all the reading public. On their shelves can always be seen the latest and most popular productions of both nations, and foreign authors. To those fond of a good book, we say go to Claxton's.

Lacy, Meeker & Co., Dealers in Sad-dlery and Harness, and all the paraphernalia in which the faithful beast of burden is arrayed for sturdy work, as well as for a morning canter, are located at No. 1216 Chesnut street. Their establishment is certainly one of the largest and most complete in the city, if not in the whole country, their stock embracing everything that comes legitimately within the scope of the trade.

T. L. Jacobs, Dealer in Gents' Farnishing Goods.

Gentlemen who are in need of all those necessary articles only to be found in a well-stocked furnishing establishment, when purchasing, will consult economy and comfort by calling upon T. J. Jacobs, at No. 1226 Chesnut street. There you will find the finest and best made shirts, the most tasteful ties, the best of collars and cutis, and all manner of necessary articles. Gentle-men, take particular notice that the terms are the most reasonable, and every button-hole article that you purchase will have strong buttons not to be torn off.

J. T. Gallagher, Jeweller. (Late of Bailey & Co.)

J. T. Gallagher, at No. 1300 Chesant street, invites attention and examination to his new and large selection of the finest jewelry. There will be found everything in the jewelry line of the very best quality, elegant workmanship, and of beautiful appearance. There will be found the most appropriate of Christmas gifts, every one of which will prove satisfactory to the purchaser in the price and quality of the articles. All goods are warranted to be of the first quality of thetal and highest skill in workmanship. Especial attention is given to workman hip. Especial attention is given to the setting, recetting, and polishing of dia-monds. Do not fail to call on Mr. Gallagher, at No. 1300 Chesnut street.

Howard Challen, Bookseller and Sta-tioner.

Howard Challen, at No. 1308 Chesnut street, has just received for holiday use the late it edi-tions and the newest books, that will please the mind and gratify the heart. A most choice selection of the most noted and interesting authors can there be had for the lowest possible

Books of travel, of science, of history, of blography, of romance, and books of all choice literature, are here to be found in great numbers, expressly received for supplying the appre-elative public with holiday gitts. All kinds of stationery, of the very best quality, constantly kept on hand. If you desire to purchase, go direct to Mr. Challen's repository, and there find a volume for an appropriate gift, at the lowest price.

H. & A. C. Van Beil, Dealers in Liquors. To you who enjoy the comforts of the inner man, by the use of sparkling and exhilarating beverages, and who are perplexed to know where can be most advantageously purchased the pure and unadniterated, especially do you desire to know where can be found the best of biquors, for the use of the holidays and wlater's consumption.

Messrs. H. & A. C. Van Bell, No. 1310 Chesnut street, are fully and extensively supplied to meet the wants of the people. The purest of brandles, best of old rye and Monongabela, sdarkling champagne, the sweetest, most exhibitating, and oldest of wines—in fact, so large a stock of the best liquors to be found in the market, that a visit to the establishment will only satisfy those desiring to purchase. Do not fail to take an early opportunity to examine this stock, not to be surpassed in the city.

Mrs. J. Hamilton, Bookseller. The best way to gain the attention of children The best way to gain the attention of children is to catch the eye. In general, anything that will interest that sense will command their attention when nothing else will. See a child pick up a book. It always looks for the pictures, and is disappointed when it finds none. Mrs. J. Hamilton has ather book store, No. 1344 Chesnut street, a large quantity of Sunday School cards and other pictures, for the use of children at Sanday Schools.

W. H. Patten, Denier in Bedding and Cur-

W. H. Patten, at No. 1412 Chesnut street, has now on hand at his large establishment a most complete assortment of curtains, bedding, matresses, upholstery, etc.

Curtains of great variety, of every size, of every shade, tasteful in colors, and of the finest of materials. Bedding of all kinds, substantial, and the best in its line. Mattresses of all kinds, soft and yielding as the finest down. Upholster ing of all descriptions is here performed to satisfaction, the most substantial materials being used, and the work being done by those thoroughly skilled in the business.

Leave your orders, examine the unsurpassed stock, and purchase articles that can ornament as well as be of great use.

This completes our tour of the south side of our main business thoroughfare. Retracing our steps to the river, we again start, taking in our journey this time the NORTH SIDE OF CHESNUT STREET. The first establishment in order is that of

J. J. Kromer, Dealer in Fancy Articles. Patent medicines, the merits of which have often been tested, and not found wanting in any essential as safe remedies; fancy articles of all sorts and kinds to please; periodicals of the choicest literature foreign and domestic. John J. Kromer, No. 403 Chesnut street, has an establishment filled from floor to roof with all that can please, with all that can cure, both bodily and mentally, with all that can gratify and educate. Christmas presents in great abundance: an assortment of the very best of holiday selections.

Health is necessary to happiness. Ill-health is misery and horrors untold. You who are suffering with bodily pain, bear in mind the unequalled merits of the medicines bere to be found.

You who are suffering from mental debility, from lack of mental gratuication, take notice that here can be found all the most popular works or literature. Mr. Kromer is agent for Done's illustrated Bible, which surpasses anything of its kind. Mr. Frederick G. Adams has in charge the department of foreign literature and is agent for Cassell's publications. All o the London magazines and newspapers, all of the leading serial publications of Europe, may here be obtained, as may also any kind of rancy articles and hair-dyes for those who boast of shining tops. Call and make an exami-

Richard Penistan, Dealer in Unadulte-

Who has not heard of Penistan ? Not to have heard of him is to argue oneself unknown. Perhaps there is no one firm that has been more successful in their way than Mr. Penistan, whose store and warehouse, at No. 489 Chesnut street, is constantly filled with those who desire pure and unadulterated liquors, at a reasonable price. The visitor to this place can see large quantities of every kind of liquor known to man. The finest wines, the most cost y brandies, and the most sparking ales, are here in profusion, and the connoisseur and the epicure can each go away sa isfied, both in palate and in pocket, after a visit to this place of popular resort. The establishment does not depend on the aid of music or the other outside adornments to enhance its attractions, but only on the meness and good quality of all that is sold. A glass of the sparkling old ale, as it comes up from the vaults built away down beneath the level of the pavement, is a refreshing draught, and a giass of the sparkling Catawba, as it glitters and flashes in the light, gives a new zest to the appetite. In cases aquor obtained at Penistan's can be relied on for being pure and harmless. The visitor would be richly repaid for a visit to this establishment by a view of the many contrivances that are availed off to add to the comfort and convenience of the employes. To give a description of all that is worthy of notice would be almost too difficult a task, and we would ask the reader to go and see for himself. at No. 439 Chesnut street, opposite the Post

McCallums, Crease & Sloan, Manufac-turers of Carpetings.

The first and most essential thing that a good housekeeper looks to in first taking to house-keeping, is a good carpet. That is, as it were, the foundation. In olden times, when the pol-ished caken floors rang with the iron heels of the knights and retainers, or the rude earthen floors of the peasantry echoed the rude tread of their possessors, carpets were unthought of. Sometimes, indeed, a matting of rushes would be used as a sort of covering to hide the inequalities of the floor, or to break the sound of the footsteps of the inmates. But it belongs to the modern nations to carry our floor coverings to their highest pitch of excellence and beauty. To be sure, the Eastern countries, and especially Turkey and Persia, turned out from their looms the most ravishingly beautiful fabrics, that for a long time were considered inimitable. But now the inventive mind of the more civilized and enterprising nations has improved on even those fine speci-mens of skill and patient work, and we have carpets of home manufacture that can compare in durability, fineness of texture, and beauty of coloring and design, with any that can be produced in the world. In our own city we have at Germantown a manufacturing concern that turns out most exquisite patterns of carpets. We refer to the Glen Echo Mills, whose proprieters, McCallams, Crease & Sloan have their wholesale rooms at No. 509 Chesnut street, and their retail store at No. 519 Chesnut street. Any one deserving a good, curable, and cheap article of carpeting had better give them a call,

James K. Kerr, Dealer in Chinaware. James K. Kerr, Dealer in Chinaware.

Paris tancy goods, for Christmas presents and holiday gifts, select, appropriate, elegant, combining beauty with utility. Kerr's China Hall, No. 529 Chesnut street, is stocked in the most complete manner with a selection of articles that will fully meet the wants of the people. Mr. Kerr is now opening a very elegant assortment of Paris fancy goods for holiday gifts, imported for the special wants the coming immemorial days will create. The latest designs of vases, card-receivers, bronzes, coffee caps, cologne sets, ornamental boxes in chomy, walnut, oak, ann rosewood, with a large and select stock of other goods too numerous to mention. An invitation is extended to the public to make an examination before purchasing elsewhere. Those desiring a choice of articles, both useful and ornamental, should call at once at the establishment of James K. Kerr.

Rockhill & Wilson, Clothiers.

Rockhill & Wilson, Clothiers.

The clothing business is the one that seems best to adapt itself to the times. Within the past few years there seems to have been a regeneration of the whole trade. A few years ago we saw none of the palatial clothing-houses that now tower aloft in all the beauty of Picton. brown-stone, granite, or iron. They were, of former'years, hardly more aspiring than a three-storied brick, and were mostly confined to Market and Second streets. But now the most enterprising of them are entering into Chesnut street. The Messrs. Rockinll & Wilson have one of the finest stores in the city, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street. The building itself is of fine Pictou stone, and is one of the ornaments of the street.

On entering, the eye is greeted with the most complete and elegant assortment of everything in the gentlemen's clothing line. Every possi-ble shade and quality are displayed to the curible shade and quality are displayed to the curious eye, and one naturally is at a loss to make a selection as he looks around upon such an immense variety. But if he inquires of the obliging salesmen, who are around in such numbers, he will be as equally surprised at the cheapness of everything. Indeed, the motto of the firm is "quick sales and small profits," and well they carry it out in all their dealings. Every one can find something to sait him. Every one can find something to suit him, both in material and in price. The ploughboy, or the poor hard-working mechanic, or the man of fashion, can each go away satisfied with proprietors of the "Great Star Clothing Empo-rium," No. 609 Chesaut street, above Sixth, at the sign of the "Star," have on hand a large stock of ready-made clothing, the best quality of cloth, and the latest styles, coats of all sizes, heavy and light, broadcloth, beaver, cassimere, etc.—coats in number to clothe all. Young men, old men, and lads can here obtain warm-ing coverings of goodly appearance of fineing coverings of goodly appearance of finest qualities, suits of clothes, of the latest and most tasteful colors, perfect sits, and moderate prices. Perry & Co. have long held the enviable reputation of the most thorough of fitters, the best of cutters, and have the best of workmen. If there is anything that does detract from a person's personal appearance, it is a coat that draws in at the back, a choke fit about the neck, a wrinkled front, skirts that stick out in every conceivable direction — an irrepressible coat-skirt—which pinches, and chokes, and prevents the wearer from bending over without fearful danger of a split. Messrs. Perry & Co. have always had the skill to manufacture one of the best his man ever wore, and they always guarantee entire satisfaction to those who order at their establishment. We would advise our gen-tlemen friends to take immediate steps to have their wardrobes replenished by ordering at

C. Somers & Son, Clothiers. C. Somers & Son, No. 625 Chesnut street, under

Jayne's Hall, offer great advantages to the public. Let all those who desire to replenish their wardrobes in the most economical manner take the earliest opportunity of visiting the emporium of Somers & Son, and providing themselves with warm and durable clothing.

There is kept on hand at all times a full stock of fashionable, ready-made apparel for gentle-men, worked up from the finest materials, in the most substantial manner, and which is selling at the lowest possible rates. They have ascertained the regular prices of all the leading clothing establishments, and buying in the most profitable manner by quantities, are fully able to put their prices below any in the city.
Il any gentleman desires to secure a well-made and stylish garment, let him visit No. 625 Chesnut street, and thereby receive great profit to Farrell, Herring & Co., Manufacturers of Safes.

The inventive mind has found no more fruitful field for its operations than the develop ment of the fire and burglar-proof sa'e. essential to the general safety and security of the business man in all his operations have these guards against loss become, that the patent saie is or national importance. Origi nally the chief aim was to render it fire-proo nt any reference to its capabilities to with stand the efforts of burglars to force entrance into it. Now to such a pitch of perfection has the manufacture of safes arrived, that all the aris of the most accomplished burglar, sided with the most perfect soils, are anable to force their invulnerable shells.

There has lately been invented an exceedingly hard metal, that has been named the "Spiegel Eisen." It is so hard that not even the finest-tempered cast-steel can make any impression upon it. This metal is used to form the outside plating of outside plating of the burglar-proof door the Messrs, Farrell, Herring & Co.'s safes. its efficacy the account of the attempted robbery of the Kent National Bank, of Kent, Ohio, is a most striking example. The bink was entered on the 3d of last month. The burglars succeeded in forcing the outer dre-proof door, but the bink was entered on the 3d of last month. but the inner or burglar-proof down, which was faced with the "Spiegel Eisen," detel their utmost efforts. After the robbers left, the officers of the bank got an experienced safe manufacturer to open their safe, which had been damaged to some extent. It required three men, working for thirteen hours, to door. Besides its burglar-proof qualities, the Hening safe has been known to sustain the most intense white heat of burning buildings or hours, and even days, witness injury to itthe company's office, No. 629 Chesnut street, the curious vicitor can see some of these salamanders that have stood a flery baptism in safety.

Fairbanks & Ewing, Manufacturers of Scales.

"An incorrect scale will gnaw the very vitals out of an apparently presperous business." This is a fact that every business man has fully tested when he settles his books, and finds small returns for the paying out of large quantities of preduce. In order to be successful in a grocery store, drug shop, wholesale or retail establishment of any kind you must be retail establishment of any kind, you must have a pair of scales that will not sheat yourself or your customers. The great difficulty with business men is to find a pair of scales that can be relied upon, and which will not want constant repairing. Fairbanks & Ewing have long enjoyed the enviable reputation of being the best and most reliable manufacturers of every kind of scales, from one that will weigh with the most of scales, from one that will weigh with the most exactness a small particle of gold, to one that can be used in giving the true weight of the most bulky articles. .

Weighmasters' beams and frames, with books, bottoms, etc., complete for every description of weighing. Fine gold and druggists' scales, in weighing. Fine gold and druggists' scales, in great variety, for brokers, jewellars, banks, etc.

Let all business men immediately look to the correctness of their scales, and if found wanting, cast them aside and buy those of Fairbanks & Ewing's manufacture, which can be fully relied on. Be cautious in your purchasing, for the well-earned merit of these scales has caused the throwing upon the market of a multicaused the throwing upon the market of a multiplicity of imperiect and worthless ones under the name of Fairbanks' scales, but which are spurious and entirely unworthy of attention.

At the warehouse, No. 715 Chesnut street,
Masonic Hall, these valuable and reliable bulances can be seen, and obtained if desired, and also a pamphlet, with diagrams of the different modifications of these scales, in great variety. Call around and make an examination, and you will find that they are the best balances made.

Helty, Carrington & Co., Dealers in Shades and Curtain Materials.

There are some persons who seem to shut themselves up within their domiciles as close as hermits, and grudge the outside pedestrians even the glimpse of an open door. They sur-round their gardens with high dead walls, and favor the French shutter system, which enables them to close their windows against the glances of the outside barbarians. There are others who seem to have consideration for the tired and weary perambulator, and present something to cheer his vision. We are in our journeyings day by day greeted with some of the most beautitul flowers, shrubs, and costly tropical fruits, the property of the heirs of one of our wealthlest and most lamented citizens. A conservatory, crowded with the choicest specimens, is open view of every passer-by, and manya lover of the beautiful in nature pauses on his or her way to cast a look apon their beauties. How kindly every one teels towards those who show so much regard for the stranger, and for his teelings! Perhaps there is nothing that adds such attraction to the exterior of a dwelling, or any building, as the adornment to the windows. If they are not in good taste, they detract just as much. The interior, to be sure, is the main thing to be looked after, but still there is something due to outside appearances. It is just as if a man were to store his mind with the richest gems of literature, and clothe himself in rags and fith. What is more beautiful than the rich draperles that can be found in such infinite variety at the establishment of Messrs, Kelty, Carrington & Co., No. 723 Chesnut street? Every taste, even the most fastidious, can be suited, and, what is of equal importance, every pocket can be also. Furniture covering of all kinds, coverings for shades, and everything of that nature, are to be seen in endless varieties. The looms of all countries are here represented.

Mrs. M. A. Binder's Temple of Fashion A "love of a bonnet!" Wno has not heard the pretty feminine exciamations as the gentle fair one dwells upon the beauties of some beau-tiul head-gear that she has seen and wished for. To the poor husband who has to loot the bill, the exclamation causes a cold thrill of borror to run through his veins. And yet it need not cause such terrors to the initiated mind, when we know how cheaply those beau tient bonnets and dresses can sometimes be had. We were foreibly reminded of these lacts as we passes by the attractive windows of Mrs. M. A. Binder, No. 1031 Chesnut streat, the other day, (To be continued in our usue of to-mornes,)
