CHESNUT STREET, NORTH SIDE.

(Continued from Yesterday's Issue.) This afternoon we resume our journey up the north side of Chesnut street, in search of goods that are suitable for gifts during the holiday season now so close upon us. Beginning where we left off yesterday, we first encounter the establishment of The Schomacker Plane Company. A Christmas present to your daughter, of a sine toned piano, would be presenting yourself with enjoyment torever after. It is one of the most difficult tasks to make a selection out of the great number in the market, bu Schomacker's planes have ever enjoyed the en viable reputation of being the most substantially made, the most elegant, and having the most harmonious and sweetest tones. The Schomacker Piano Company. No. 1103, having largely increased their facilities, and having fitted up a beautiful wareroom on their pre-mises, are fully prepared to supply the demandfor their justly celebrated instruments. Planos to rent, and repaired equal to new. Faning also attended to. Call and see for yourselves.

J. H. Burdsall, Confectiouer. Confectionery of all descriptions, delightful can lies, delicious sweetments, delectable pastries, the purest, the sweetest, the best, can be had in any quantity, at J. H. Burdsall's confec-tionery, ice-cream, and dining saloon, No. 1121 Chesnut street, Girard Row. Ladies and gentlemen who are arranging for parties, sociable or fairs, should bear to mind that Mr. Burdsall has the best selection of excellent refreshments. which cannot be surpassed; creams of all flavors, the coolest and sweetest; fruit and pound cakes of all sizes, frosted an i unfrosted, especially made for the expected good time. Leave your orders, and rest assured that they will be filled to satisfaction.

Mrs. E. Keyser, Dealer in Children's Clothing.

We stopped in at Mrs. E. Keyser's Children's Clothing Emporium the other day, and were surprised and delighted with the beauty and style of the garments that were displayed. Mrs. Keyser has constantly on hand the very latest styles, and is enabled to satisfy the most unreasonable. Her establishment, No. 1227 Chesnut street, below Therteenth, is the resort of the most fashionable and tasteful people in the city. A most excellent present for the little onewould be an order on her establishment.

Charles Desilver, Bookseller. HOLIDAY BOOKS .- Charles Desilver, No. 122 Chesnut street, has on hand a large, select, and handsome assortment of the latest editions of the best works of Inerature-books to educate. books to amuse, books to meditate over, and books to laugh over; and not only books to enteriain the adults, but toy-books of endless variety to please the children, beautifully illustrated, printed in the neatest style, and with large type; primers, out of which to learn ridiments of our tanguage; unterrable books, printed on hnch, and tastefully colored.

What a contrast is presented between the stiff, uncomfortable manner in waich some houses are furnished, and the snue, cosy way in which others are fixed up! In the days of our grandtathers, the people were content with the stiff, upright, and purnanical looking fur-niture that gave anything but an idea of comfort to the spectator. Why, the old upright chairs would give one a backache by merely looking at them. This is one thing, at least, in which we moderns have improved upon our foretathers. To see how much we have done, it is only necessary to call at the extensive warerooms of the Messrs. G. J. Henkels, Lacy & Co., at Nos. 1301 and 1303 Chesnut street. There can be found all varieties of furniture. from the cheapest to the most costly rosewood and ormolu, and at prices to suit every one.

All the latest and most fashionable styles are constantly kept on hand.

Penney & Co., Dealers in Furniture. Heads of families, married couples who as yet do not come under this classification, ladies and gentlemen, and all who contemplate the purchasing of furniture, take notice of this most advantageous offer made by J. Penney & Co., No. 1307 Chesnut street, manufacturers of all kinds of cabinet-ware. They have now on hand an elegant assortment of upholstered and cottage turniture at most reasonable rates of sale. It is one of the very worst of follies that people can fall into, that of paying large prices for gaudy and very showy furniture, which is too brassy for appearance, and to unsubstantial for use, when for a much less sum they can pur-chase that which is durable and more elegantly appearing, at rehable establishments, such as Penney & Co, are the proprietors of. Their stock comprises all varieties of furniture; their prices put the possibility of furnishing a house ubstantially within reach of all; they are fully able to furnish a cottage or ornament a man-Spring beds, covered with the softest of mattresses, that have the magic power of composing everybody to sleep after touching their surfaces for five minutes, are here in countless numbers. Call, buy, and be satisfied.

EIGHTH STREET-WEST SIDE.

Scholz & Janentzky, Dealers in Artist' Materials, Etc.

Christmas presents in endless variety, and of the most interesting and useful nature, are to be found in numbers beyond computation at Scholz & Janentzky's, No. 112 South Eighth street. Here is the place to buy those little articles which always delight the youngsters and interest the elders. Paint-boxes, their own manufacture, and English paint-boxes. A new and elegant assortment of Decalcomania pic tures, with which persons can so beautifully ornament porcelain, metals, furniture, etc. Vases, wax flower materials, framed and unframed pictures, and everything else, which can only be learned of by visiting this establishment. J. C. Strawbridge & Co., Dealers in Dry Goods.

We recollect reading a rather good-humored account of the manner in which living is gradually becoming more within the means of the lower ten million. Comfort was also given to that much-despised portion of humanity, the bachelors, that there was still a hope for them in the gradual but certain reduction that was taking place in the prices of dress goods, so that he would not be so terrified at the mighty row of figures that would a year or two ago frighter the unhappy husband on the presentation of his wife's dry goods bill. We were torcibly reminded of this as we were going alone Market street the other day. At the corner of Eighth and Market streets our attention was directed to the beautiful and tasteful assortment of dry goods and dress and fancy goods that were displayed in the establishment of J. C. Strawbridge & Co. Having a little spare time, and being interested in the trade, we stepped into their establishment to take a look at prices and things. As we went around, attended by one of the obliging attendants, we were forcibly reminded of the great break in prices in the dry goods trade. Cotton goods were perfectly splendid for purchasers, but decidedly ruinous to the sellers. Just to think of a good article of Canton flanuel at 20 cents per yard, and the finest qualities at 31 to 37 cents; most beautiful Merrimac calicoes at 20 cents; and yard wide shirting muslins at 23 cents. were strongly tempted to do as Mrs. Toodles did—lay up a good supply for a time of need, if it were not for one consideration, i. e., our greenbacks would not hold out. The Messrs. Strawbridge & Co. have, perhaps, as fine an assortment of unbleached muslins, sheetings, and flannels as can be found anywhere in the city. Besides these staples, there is a great and beautiful variety of lancy dress-goods, which are selling at a marvellously low price, and lancy goods of all kinds. One, as he looks around, cannot wonder why the ladies are so fond of shopping when such tempting goods are dis shopping when such tempting goods are dis played to their eyes, and such ravishingly low prices asked for them as are asked by the Messrs, Strawbeidge & Co. M. Shoemaker, Dealer in Children's Clothing.

Mothers, you who have your children's comtort in thought during these chilly days, notice, and then act, by visiting M. Shoemaker & Co., Nos. 4 and 6 N. Eighth street, who have a large, full, and complete stock and selection, in the latest style. While the inducements that this drm offer are before you, visit and purchase a good stock of winter clothing for your children. Do not allow them to go shivering around with tight, thin, and tattered sacks, with sleeves that are equi-distant between elbow and wrist; with trousers that are worn without warmth, without mitts, or a scarf: do not allow them to be so illy clad that they are required to be kept within, and not allowed to enjoy the cool fresh air and out-door exercise, but clothe them warm with good and substantial clothing. Shoemaker & Co, have all that can warm the body and cheer the heart. Their prices are the most moderate; their goods the most substantial; their quality the finest. Call upon them. They invite your special attention and examina-tion to their complete stock, and rest assured your purchases will be money well expended.

Price & Wood, Dealers in Dry Goods. It has been said that in the square on Eighth street, between Arch and Market streets, there is more retail dry goods business done than in same space in any other city in the United States. The statement is certainly a very bold one, and would need some most convincing data to satisfy any one of its truth. Yet it is, nevertheless, a fact. The square is wholly de voted to the retail trade. There every day resorts the isshino and the beauty of the city to purchase their "fixing," to adorn their pretty selves. There is hardy an hour during the day, when the weather is at all favora-ble, that the street is not jammed. Even after nightfall the stream of humanity, or rather hu-womanity, continues to flow along until late at night. To be sure there are a great many who promenade up and down to see and be seen, but the great majority are bona side

Right in the centre of this busy square stands the store of Massrs. Price & Wood. Their large and the establishment is at the N. W. corner of Eighth and Filbert streets. Their business is principally in auction dry goods—that is, in goods that are sold by the manufacturers and importers at auction to keep up a constant supply in the markets. As they generally buy cheap, they are enabled to other great bargains to the public. Their stoes, too, is always rest, and of the most novel and fashionable kind. There are no old goods to be found upon their counters or upon their shelves. And then, too, as we have said, the prices are most be witchingly low—that i-, bewitching to the purchaser, but not to the seller. For it is almost ruthous to sell as low as hey do, owing to the pressure of the times. Dress goods, flannels, gloves of all kinds -indies' and gentlemens' cloth, kid, silk, and cotton, are spread around in profusion. It is well worth a visit even to make a call to look over their splendid zeror ment, and yet it is rather a dangerous experiment, for the prices are so tempiingly cheap that we can hardly resist the inclination to buy their cheap but rich poplius. Only think, too, of good quality real kid gloves selling at $1.25 per pair. Indeed, we could hardly find a place in the whole city where the ourchaser would be so apt to be suited as at

Price & Wood's. Rapson, Dealer in Trimmings. Rapson, at the northwest corner of Eighti and Cherry screets, is prepared for all demands upon his large and varied assortment of goods. Zephyr worsted, so useful in working household ornaments and beautifying furniture, is sold full weight. Slippers, worked in zephyr and beads, which are so appropriate as a present to a father who has been walking or standing all day long in thick, heavy boots; buttons of every style, and ornaments of every beauty. Cluny lace in abundance, and a full line of staple trimmings. Do not forget the location, and at your earliest opportunity give Mr. Rapson

McCurdy & Dunkle, Dealers in Dry

McCurdy & Dunkle, No. 140 N. Eighth street, having purchased very largely at the late sacracing prices, they are now able to dispose of their full assortment of dry goods at twenty five per cent, below old prices. Muslins of the finest texture, from all the different manufacto-ries; brown sheetings, strong and of excellent make: large selections of warm flaunels; cloths tor ladies' cloaking: Lyons velvet, warrante all silk, and a full line of household furnishing goods, constantly kept on hand, at prices far below competition. This great inducement should cause a visitation to Messrs, McCurdy & Dunkle's establishment to purchase holiday We predict that everything purchased will be fully worth the amount paid out.

Barber, Manufacturer of Spectacles. You who suffer under that terrible affliction f weak eyes, unable to read, to work, and but barely able to see, take notice of the following, which, if you act upon, will be of everlasting benefit to your future welfare. It is one of the most difficult things to be suited with a pair of glasses that will not strain the eyes nor weaken By calling at No. 248 N. Eighth street you can there find Barber's improved periscopic pectacles, superior to all others, which by their nequalied success excite the wonder and admiration of all who use them. The finest opera-glasses, suited for the neatest, most elegant, and appropriate Christmas pre sents, of varied assortments and very moderate

Freeman & Co., Dealers in Millinery Goods.

The cheap store, where substantial and tasteful articles bought never fail to satisfy the pur-chaser-Freeman & Co., corner Eighth and Vine streets, have every size, style, quality of ladies', misses', and children's hats. No similar stablishment is selling for such moderate and extremely liberal prices.

Prices have been greatly reduced, and every inducement which a good article and cheap rates can give are offered to the public. All the latest styles and all the beautiful shades of color are to be found at this establishment. They have also made a great reduction in their large stock of millinery goods, which cannot be surpassed. Do not fail to bear in mind, ladies, that you cannot do better at any other place. EIGHTH STREET-EAST SIDE.
