CAMDEN AFFAIRS.

ECONOMY .- Our City Councils are practising economy to such an extent that it is beginning to be the subject of complaint. The gas lamps are lighted on an average once in nine days. We do not worder at this, taking into consideration the small pittance that is appro-riated by Councils. Until recently there was to appropriation at all: but now the amount paid for lighting the whole city of Camden is $9 per month, and that is to be divided among

The policemen who received this amount are expected to light, keep in order, and put out the lamps. They pay a boy $1 a month for light-ing them, and have 25 cents for doing all else that is required. Four-fifths of the lights are in miserable order. They have been reported over We think, if the citizens would appoint a committee to wait upon Councils, and request them to give the matter a little consideration, it would have the effect of having the gas lighted every eveniug.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

ALMOST & TRAGEDY-TRBEIBLE AT-TRAIT AT MURDER-A BROTHER TRIES TO KILL. His SIATER FOR LMADING A BADILIFE. | About half-past 11 o'clock last night, as Officer Blee was walking his beat in the vicinity of Pine and Juniper streets, he heard the report of a pistol. He instantly rushed to the spot from whence the filing proceeded, and as he came near he heard some one open a window and call out, "Murder! murder!" He went into the place, No. 323 5, Juniper street, from whence the cries were heard, and, rushing into the parlor, he found a young man sanding in the middle of the floor with a large horse-pistol in his hand, still smoking from the discharge. At his feet, all smoking from the discharge. At his feet, all bleeding and genseless, lay a young woman about twenty-two years old. Officer Blee raised her up, and found that the load from the pistol, consisting of No. 2 dack-shot, had taken effect in her head, arm, and barcast, inflicting severe yet not dangerous wounds. The man's name was Patterson. He refused at first to give up the pistol when demanded, bu't it was taken from him. from him.

The story of the prisoner is mainly as follows: -He resides at No. 1502 Jefferson skeet, with his father and stepmother. The young woman whom he had shot was his sister, and has been leading a bad life for some time past, according to some accounts. She was a fine-looking, rather handboxed at the source of the sour handsome girl, with a clear complexion and large full eyes. He said that the day before yes-terday he had gone to see her at No. 323 Juniper street, and had attempted to reason her out of her wicked course of life, and told her that he would pay her board at any respectable board-ing-house, and to leave her course of life for her own sake and for his and her relatives. She refused, and said she preterred to live as she had been doing. He then went away, and yesterday he bor-rowed the horse-pistol, and going to the house where she was stopping last night, he again begged of her to leave the house. Hs thea said he would rather see her dead than see her as she was, and fired full at her, intending to take her life

When taken to the Fifth District Station House, he told Licutenant Connelly that he was glad he had not killed his sister, but that he hoped she would not get well enough to get out efore she had time to repent of her bad conduct. She had been going by the name of Laura Gordon. Patterson will have a bearing at the Central Station this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, before Alderman Beitler. The prisoner is a quiet, inoffensive man, and leeply feels his position.

The horse was recovered. Tinsman had a hearing before Alderman Beitler, and was held in $1000 ball to answer a charge of larceny. Officer Griffith attempted to arrest a rough named Michael Bargnell, last evening, at Tenth and Filbert streets, for being disorderly. Barz-nell turned upon him, but after a struggle the officer succeeded in securing his prisoner, and took him before Alderman Jones. After a hear-ing he was held in $600 bail to answer the Michael Koen was held in $1700 ball by Alder-Michael Koen was held in $1700 ball by Alder-man Wilkins, to answer the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. from crown to sole; that the coffin pressred was for her decent burial; and finally, that he was ready himself for the nurderer's gibbet. Mriters assumed a serious look. What at first was considered a joke began to wear a solema phase. Protestation, entreaties, and threats were unavailing: Frank was immovable. The intended bride's friends were troubled and annazed, she herself almost frightened to death. In this emergency the clergyman was sought before his time and consulted. Surveying all the situation, he finally gave the opinion that the disparity of years presented an almost in-superable obstacle, and that, under the circum-stances, it would be wise and expedient and eminently indicial to have neither wedding nor funeral. He advised a discontinuance of further funeral. He advised a discontinuance of further arrangements. The match was broken of, the coffin removed empty to the family vault, the meat-axe buried—or rather put by for the ensu-ing hog-killing season—the liquotish old groom "at drunk to bed, and Frank stood entirely victorions."

WET WEATHER .- Judging from this morning's appearance, it is evident that the citizens of the "Quaker City" are not yet to enjoy that pleasurable exercise—sleighing. At an early hour the rain, which then was falling, changed to snow, which so carnestly came down for a time that expectations were raised to the highest pitch; but raised to be dashed down again, for the snow soon changed into rain again, and from appearances at the present time, our city is not yet to be covered with winter's mantle of white.

The season, so far, has been a mild one, compared with those of preceding years. No doubt but that all feel satisfied with its mildness, notwithstanding many are disappointed by the nen-appearance of snow. To the poor, who in nen-appearance of show. To the poor, who in their poverty cannot effectually protect them-selves from the chilly, biting winds and vio-lent, blustering storms, it is a god-send; and surely it is to this fact that all should look, and EXTENSIVE "BORROWING" OF PUSH-CANDS.-David Painter, a glazler by trade, was arrested at Sixteenth and Wood streets yester-day afternoon, by Officer Bennett, on the charge of stealing a push-cart, which he was attempt-ing to sell when arrested. It appears that Painter has been doing quite a business in bor-rowing push-carts and selling them. Mr. Buckman, residing in the upper part of the city, leat him a push-cart about the first of the month. and Painter took it off and sold it. Buckman has since been on the lookout for Painter, and found that his push-cart had been sold to a mau in Sansom street, above Tenth. At the hearing, before Alderman Hutchinson, five or six men before Amerinan Hutchinson, hve or six men who had lost push-carts identified Painter, and testified against him. When he was searched at the Station House a billy was found upon his person. He was held in $2000 bail for the lar-cenics of the push-carts, and $500 additional for carrying concealed deadly weapons.

A DOMESTIC ROMANCE.

A Widower of Seventy-five Falls in Love with a Woman of Twenty-four-A New Way to Stop a Wedding.

Springfield (Ill.) correspondence St. Louis Republican. In the adjoining township resides Alexis P., a well-to-do farmer. He is a widower of twelve years' standing, and has attained the patriarchal age of three score and fifteen years. His family consists of an only son, Frank, not quite of age, and three daughters, of the ages respectively of twenty-four, twenty-seven, and thirty-two.

Though in intellectual dotage, Mr. P. 15 physi-cally, for one of his years, a very proper man; hale, erect, and vigorous. His large possessions have aroused the cupidity of not a few advanced widows. Indeed, he is regarded as a decided "catch," and strenuous efforts have been made to ensure his affections. But the aged gentleman, though sympathetic enough, is after tender deer. Having a liquorish tooth, or rather no tooth at all, his preferences tend to the more youthful of his admirers. Miss Fanny B. (we suppress names for the sake of relations) is the daughter of poor, but respectable farmers, neighbors of the P.'s. She is a genteel girl of unsophisticated manners, but limited education. She had been taught to idolize the wealthy man. The playfeliow of P.'s daughters, she has grown up with them and is of the same age with the youngest, to wit, twenty-four years old. Strange to say (for it is strange)? old Mr. P. has fullen desperately in love with Fanny. His suit has been favored by her folks, actual marriage contracted, and nothing remained but the solemnization. Our informant, Rev. Mr. O-e, of the Episcopal Church, had been summoned to celebrate the nuptial ceremonies. Although hostile to the marriage, the daughters of the gay Alexis had made no opposing demon-stration. On the day previous to the ceremony, the son Frank exhibited a decided belligerent spirit. And here comes in the romance. Frank declared, amid a whole cataract of profane embellishments, that his father should not bring such a young mother into the house. He swore the old mau should not marry the zirl. Despite license, priest, and inclination, there should be an end to it; there should be no marriage. How would he prevent it? He would show them about soon of the day preceding the one appointed for the wedding. An undertaker from Springfield brought a coffin to the house of Mr. B. Frank took charge of it, and de-posited it with suitable gravity in the principal room. Frank then caused the family meat-axe, a ghastly, horrible cleaver, to be ground and sharpened. Then he announced his design. He swore (for Frank is a fast and spolled youth) there should be a fumeral, but no wedding. Reversing the order of things, he declared the wedding-baked meats should coldly turnish forth a funeral; that Fanny, instead of a bride, should ne a corpse; that his father might have a fune-ral, but no wedding; that, standing there at the threshhold of his paternal mansion, when she came to celebrate the nuptials, he would, with that same sharpened meat-axe cleave her
