MEBCANTILE LIBRARY MEETING .- Last night the general meeting of the stockholders of the Mercantile Library took place at the build-ing, and was largely attended. S. Morris Waln, Esq., was called to the chair, and James G. Barnwell acted as Secretary. The annual re-port of the Directors, an abstract of which we ublish elsewhere, was read, and the existing Board nominated for re-election. On motion, it was resolved that the By-Laws be so amended as to allow the members who take out two books to return one of them, but have the other charged. Mr. H. F. Ken-nedy moved that the Board of Directors be directed to rescind the rule exclud-ing gentlemen from the Library on Saturday afternoon. This gaye rise to considerable dis-cussion. A motion was made to submit it to a vote of the leading stockholders, which was de-feated Teilers being annointed, reported a two-Board nominated for re-election. On motion, feated. Tellers being appointed, reported a two-thirds vote in favor of the repeal, which was received with applause. A gentleman moved that the high stools in the reading-room be removed, as the ladies had complained to him that it was impossible to climb up on them. As it was replied that no one compelled the ladies to do so, and, further, that no one ever saw more than two ladies in the reading-room at one time, the motion was lost. At the request of the President, a resolution was introduced looking towards the requirement of a ticket from all who frequented the building, which resolution was defeated by an overwhelming majority. At a late hour the meeting adjourned.

A'MIXED-UP CASE .- Some days ago, Officer Wolf arrested a man giving the name of Wil ham Searls, for an assault and battery upon Mr. William Smith. On his way to the Station House he managed to escape from the officer, and elude all pursuit. The way in which the escape was made showed considerable cunning on the prisoner's part. When arrested he was driving a horse and wagon, and when they had got about half-way to the Station House he told the officer to stop at a house, whilst he went in to get a gentleman who would go his bail. got out, rang the bell, and went in, and the officer waited outside for him in the wagon. That was the last seen of him at that time, He had represented that the horse and wagon belonged to him, but afterwards the keeper of a livery stable on Fortieth street, below Wal-nut, said that they belonged to him, and sued out a warrant against William Searls before Alderman Ailen on the charge of stealing the horse, wagon, blankets, etc. The horse itself had been injured whilst in the charge of Searls

Yesterday morning, Officer Wolf went to Bethlehem with the warrant, and arrested Searl at his place of business in that town. He had been carrying on a shoe shop under the name of William Johnson. At the hearing before Alderman Allen, it was allered that he has been going under the names of William Searls, alias Smith, alias Stuart, alias Johnson, or almost as

AN AFFECTIONATE HUSBAND .- Phillip Hess is, in his own opinion, a model husband He loves his wife, and loves her "hard as a mule ean kick," tojuse a backwoods expression. Last evening, at half-past 6 o'clock, Phillip get into a slight family disturbance at his home, on Montgomery avenue, near Seventh street. It was said to be the old story of the knife and the scissors. Neither party would give in and he seeing that he was getting the worst of it in the warfare of words, changed the tone of operation, and tried the knock-down argument, a tolerable amount of success. A police officer, however, stepped in just at the critical moment, and escorted him to Alderman Cloud's office, where he had a hearing. The wife refused to testity against her lord, and he was held in $300 bail to keep the peace.

FIGHTING THE TIGER.-An eager aspirant alter knowledge got a supposed friend to initiate him into some of the mysteries and miseries of city life. He went around and "saw the elephant," and after seeing that large animal he thought he would like to see the "Tiger," and have a bit of a scrimmage with the latter animal. Finding that one of those animals was in a jungle near Seventh and Shippen streets, he proceeded thither and saw The game that was going on was called three-card monte, and our green friend got Consider scratched" to the tune of $20 on it. ing that he had paid rather too dear for his ittle amusement, he had recourse to law, and had William Brown arrested and taken before Alderman McCloskey. After hearing the facts of the case, he was committed to answer. AN OLD STAGER .-- Ellen Costella, who comes under the denomination of a street-walker, was suddenly brought to a stop in her weary perambulations around Washington Square, st the "wee sma' hour" of half-past l o'clock this morning. She had been pacing her weary rounds until she became an eyesore to the policeman on that beat, and he escorted her to the Station House, where she had a few hour rest and lodgings free, until she appeared beford Alderman Beitler. That gentleman, after hearing the facts of the case, sentenced her to thirty days' confinement in Moyamensing. By that time she will have sufficient rest to take another walk. GROSS CARELESSNESS .- In spite of all that has been said upon the subject of securing stores and dwellings properly for the night, and the numerous cases of burglary that happen, storekeepers and their attendants will persist in leaving their doors open. A large number of cases are reported to the Mayor every morning showing almost criminal carelessness in expo-ing their property to the thief and the incendiary, thus endangering not only their own property, but that of others. 1000

CORONER'S INVESTIGATION. - CONONER Daviels this morning held an investigation in the case of James Kalston, who perished in the lames at the fire at Broad and Race streets, Dec mber 19, 1866.

James Douglass affirmed-I live No. 107 S Twelfth street; I was acquainted with the de censed; the last time I saw him was when I was coing home from work, about 7 o'clock, the vening of the fire, in Thirteenth street, above Arch; he was a sober man, for what I know; I told a police officer I saw him going towards the building.

Fire Marshal Blackburn sworn-The cause o the fire is a mystery; I am satisfied from all the evidence that I have obtained that Mr Ralston was either in his room or in some part of the building; I heard that he was very old and infirm, and could scarcely get out of bed; the supposition is that the fire commenced in his room from the stove; Mr. Allen, the proprietor persists in saying there was no fire about the building Officer Conher sworn-I was acquainted with Mr. Ralston; he was a delicate man, and was temperate; he has slept in the building ever since I have known him; I saw him about a week previous to the fire, in Third street, between four and five o'clock; on the morning of the fire I saw a light when I was some way down Broad street; I thought it was a board yard; when I got up the flames were issuing from the windows; I have been in his room; he had two ooms, and a bed in each; there was a bed in he room where he was found; Ralston had to my knowledge $1000 in coupon bonds, and he always kept his papers in the room in a tin box; I have heard nothing at all that would convince me that there had been foul play, although there are rumors to that effect. The following verdict was rendered :- "That the said James Ralston came to his death by being burned at a fire on Broad street, above Race, on the morning of December 19, 1866."

RECAPTURED .- Dutch Winters, who recently broke fail, was arrested yesterday by Officers Pew and Nuit, at Jefferson avenue and Wharton street, on the charge of being a fur-tive from justice. He had a hearing at the Central Station on several charges about two weeks ago, and was committed. On the way to prison he pried the back part of the van out with a chisel, on Passyunk road, near Wharton street, and escaped. He was recaptured yester-day, as above stated. Upon his arrival at the Second District Police Station, he slipped out of his coat, and left the garment in the hands of the policeman. He did not succeed in getting off, however, another officer seizing him by the neck. This morning Winters was taken into court for trial

The bill to admit Nebraska, as amended in the House, was taken up. The amendment was read as published in the House proceedings of yes erday. It was to strike out what was known as the Ed-muros amendment, and insert in lien thereof a proposition similar to that offered by Mr. Wilson in the Senate, that the act of admission shall rake H. B. hir. Wade (Ohio) moved that the Senate concur in the House amendment. Mr. Edmunds (Vt.) hoped that the Senate would not concur. It was evident to his mind either that Congress had the right in admitting the State to impose the condition of universal suff-age, or else at must be left to the people of the territory, in their original caracity, to decide. There was no middle ground. The question might just as well be left to the Council of the city of Washington as to the Louislance of the territory. Legislature of the territory.

yesterday, tound the latter to be the case with them. A special train, starting just on the heels of the eleven P. M. through train of Monday night, promised them a speedy arrival at the Capital of the State: but the journey occupied about six hours, or two hours more than the schedule time.

Arriving at Harrisburg, the "boys" were marched to their quarters at the different hotels, not to sleep, but to wash and eat. To eat in Harrisburg, yesterday, was more than an ordinary undertaking. The town was full of people; and one who went in search of a meal would imagine that, like himself, all the rest of the multitude wanted something to eat. At dinner time this hungry feature of the crowd was even more manifest than at breakfast. companies of the Reserves stood a full hour in the halls of the Jones House, waiting for a mere chance to assault the door of the diving room. The proprietor probably feared some such manœvre, for his guests were conducted on their way to dinner through a sort of small inte-room, which could have been easily defended, thus giving additional advantage the system of double doors. Meanwhile, the hungly veterans were striving to keep their spirits up by singing and whistling, and cheer-ing for Governor Geary; and now and then a melancholy voice was heard putting the inquiry-"Is dinner aimost ready?" However, the Reserves and the Guards contrived to get something to eat and to have a good time generally, tramping through the snow, and shouting for the new-made Governor with a lusty vigor that recalled the days of their life in camp. And at length, about o'clock in the atternoon, they started on their homeward journey in a special train, which one of them swears was a mile and a half long, and which certainly contained near a score of cars. By some strange coincidence the same special train was destined to convey a hundred or two of the square-headed and hard-fisted traternity on their way home from the mill between Collycr McGlade, McGlade himself, the discom dted bruiser, was a candidate for a seat; ited ormser, was a candidate for a seat; but just as he was about entering the car, the Har-risburg police made a descent, and bore him off captive, Many of these bruisers possessed the additional quality of being lightthe They first experimented upon ingered. pocket of the gentlemanly conductor, relieving him of a purse containing $50. Successful in this first venture, a number of them made a raid upon the "boys" in uniform. Some half-dozen of these latter were successfully manipulated before a square-head was caught in jiagrante detictu. The unfortunate rough was very roughly handled as the result. His face was pummeliel into as much of a jelly as was the face of McGlade when he received his last attentions at the hands of Collyer. It is also probable that he had a few black and blue spots on the shoulders and under the ribs. And, finally, he was about to make an involuntary exit from the train while in full motion, when the impoverished conductor interfered in his persuading the indignant soldiers to release him on the condition that he should return to the company of his fellow-chevaliers,

Which he did in speedy fashion. But the veterans escaped from the thieves orly to tall into a worse peril. The load of iniquity in the bruisers' car was rather more than an honest train could carry without an accident. So a short distance east of Parkesburg, at about half-past 8 o'clock, the axle of the car in which the National Guards were riding snapped, and down came the whole concern. Three cars were thrown from the track, the end of one was torn out, and the platforms of the others were smashed after the usual manner. But fortunnately, no one was hurt.

It was one o'clock this morning before the nishap was sufficiently repaired to permit the train to proceed. But on arriving at Downingtown the forward car was again thrown from the track, and another vexations delay ensued, so that it was not until eight o'clock that they reached their destination, thus making the moderate time of one hundred and ten miles in
