THE CITY ICE-BOAT.

Her Merits and Defects-A Description of the Vessel and Machinery-Insuffictency of the Boilers-The Heavy Ice in the River.

The closing of navigation in the Delaware has necessarily made our City Ice Boat a very popular institution, or, at least, one that is much talked about. The daily papers have discussed her pretty extensively, and shown up her supposed merits and defects. But still, everything was merely presupposed, and none of them thought it necessary to take special pains to find out the real merits of the case. Feeling that the public ought to know what the Ice Boat is really capable of, and where she is deficient, we sent a special reporter on board to take a trip in her, and find out what was the cause of her being such a failure, if she were so. This gentleman went aboard last Monday night, the 28th instant, and started down the river on her. We append the following as the result:-

About half-past 9 o'clock Monday evening, we went aboard the Ice Boat, which then Inv at the foot of Pine street wharf. Captain Schol-lenger gave us a hearty welcome, and gave us every facility to accomplish what we desired took a walk over the boat, and made a few notes of her build and machinery. Of the boat we can say that she is a strong and well-built vessel. Her hull is of fron. The plates are of boiler fron, and are well riveted, and she has also a garboard streak of 3-inch fron additional. On her bow the iron is of double thickness, being 11 inch, for a space of forty feet from the cutwater. On the latter is a griping piece of 3 by 8 inch iron that extends to the keel, and binds the edgeof the plates sould. Over this is placed a bar of iron, 44 inches by 3 inches thick, covers the plercer, and running under the bottom from the keel of the boat. The interior of the hull is strongly braced. The frames are of strong angle iron, and are placed at an average distance of 18 inches apart. Her manguard beams and cord-beams are of iron celular tubes, by 12 inches on external faces, and | of an inch She is 181 feet in length over all, and 175 feet between perpendiculars. Her breadth of beam is about 50 feet. She is well and strongly built, and well braced. The wheels are 26 feet in diameter and 13 feet in width. The dash-boards are of oak, and faced with f-inch iron

Her engines, as is well known, are the old ones that were formerly in the old City Ice Boat. They are two in number. The cylinders are forty inches in diameter, with seven-leet The engines are of the old Mussissipp style, of high pressure, and are calculated for about 800 horse power. They are amply sufficient to do all the work that would be required of them, if it were not that the boilers were totally insufficient to supply them with steam.

The boilers are cylindrical, of the locomotive pattern, four in number and 18 feet about six feet three inches in external diameter Each boiler has two furnaces, with a grate surface of about 15 square feet in each, or a total of 138 square feet. There are two tube boxes to each boiler, and 32 tubes, three inches in diameter and 8 feet in length, in each, making a total of 416. The heighth of the steam run is about two and a half feet in the centre of the water. Each boiler has a steam drum four feet in diameter and eight feet in heighth. There is about 1000 cubic feet of steam room, and as the engines follow full stroke and consume 200 feet of steam at each revolution, there is but enough for five revolutions. The consequences are plainly to be seen in the working of the vessel.

We started at 10 o'clock, with about seventy pounds of steam, and in about fifteen minutes the boat came to a stop, and the steam had run down to about forty-five pounds. The fires were in splendid order, and in about two minutes we started ahead again. Instead of carrying from eighty to one hundred pounds of steam, and making lifteen revolutions, which she was calculated to do, she carried at the highest seventy pounds of steam, and the greatest number of revolutions she made at any one time was about thirteen, and that only tor a few minutes. As long as she could be driven ahead she worked splendidly

Rushing at the bard, thick field of ice that covered the river, she would cut through it with her iron cutwater, and churn it into small pieces with her powerful wheels. We would lay still a few minutes, and then get up about sixty pounds of steam. The bell would ring, and we would rush at the heavy mass of ice, and crush through it gradually, going slower and slower until we would bring up at a dead stop, then we would back off for a little piece, and then rush at it again. In this way we forced a passage as far down as the Horseshoe, an hour after midnight. lay to until Tuesday morning, when we started off again, forcing our way, by fits and starts, as far as the fleet of oyster boats that were lying ice-bound off League I-land. We reached there about 11 o'clock, and then cut out the tug Colonel S. L. Brown, and two of the oyster boats.

Shortly after 12 M, we started down again, 7 o'clock in the evening had forced our way as far as Billingsport, where two of tag Southern Mail Steamship Company's vessels—the Tonawanda and Juniata-were lying ice-bound. We lay to along side of them for the night, and in the morning succeeded in cutting them both out, the ice being about a toot thick in the channel where they were lying. We then took the Tonawanda in tow, to take her up the river

To sum up our experience, and the results of observations made during our two days and night's stay upon her, we would say that she is a failure only in regard to her power of making steam. Her engines are strong and well built, and capable of doing all that is required of They work easily, and are well propor tioned. The hull is strong, well made of the best material, and thoroughly braced. The boilers are too small by one-half. They are well made, and are very strong, but are entirely inadequate to supply the engine with steam.

What the boat requires is about twice to two and a half times the capacity of boiler, or sufficient to keep the engines going at fifteen revolutions per minute, when she would all that the most sanguine could ever expect of an ice-boat. But until the boilers are taken out and larger ones put in, she is and will be a failure, and it is utter folly to expect any One of her engines could easil use up all the steam that all the boilers could generate, and with perfect ease.

There is another thing, too, that should be attended to. We refer to the insufficient help that is allowed to her. She should have mer enough to keep going both day and night. But There are only two engineers on board, who are thus continually on duty whilst the boat is under steam. The consequence is, that she is unable to keep under way both night and day and in these times, when a few hours suffices to close the channel, much more time and money are expended that could be avoided if she were so manned as to keep constantly in motion

While she can be kept in motion she works well. The ice, which in the channel is about a foot thick, is readily crushed through by her.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.-Daniel Hawk twenty-two years of age, living at No. 627 Fitz-water street, was arrested by Officer Peck, at Ninth and Green streets, for damaging the appearance and causing numerous injuries to another individual. For this offense he was held by Alderman Massey in $500 bail to answer. Robert Torrance, living on St. Joseph avenue, indulges now and then in beating his wife for any little and trivial disagreement. This yesterday, and once too often, consequently he was strested and held to answer in the sum of $500 bail.

Lewis Poster, being out of his regular practice for some time, plied it on some person, for anjunknown cause, and sustaining his assertion with a knock-down argument, Alderman Pottinger held him to answer. ger held him to answer.

RECRUITING ON DOCK STREET-A CON-TROVERSY ON THE SUBJECT. In our "City Intelligence" columns on Friday last was published an article on the manner in which recruits are obtained for the regular army at the present time. In response to this arrive, the recruiting officers on duty in this city have sent us a communication, which we give in full, as follows:

RECRUITING OFFICES, DOCK STREET,

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jahvary 23, 1837.

Fditor Evening Telegraph:—An article unear the head of Gity Intelligence appeared in yesterda, "" Evening Telegraph: imputing dishonest practices in recruiting men for the United States Army, parvicularly at the offices in Dock street, in this city.
The false statements therein, as your paper has a large circulation, are calculated, among a certain class of people who are not well informed in these matters, to injure the service and the character of matters, to injure the service and the character of the officers on duty. It is not denied that the writer of said article may have seen the man in uniform in a state of intoxication after he had emissed; but it is a certainty that this man was perfectly sober when

The examination of the mon is attended to by the The examination of the mon is attended to by the commissioned officers in person, and the care that is taken will be appeared from the number of rejections which the records in the offices show. Recruiting is not the slowest kind of business, as was stated, but has been very lively, enabling the officers, in accordance with orders from the War Department, to be exceedingly particular in selecting recruits.

The slur at the graduates of West Point does no injury, and is not noticed further.

In conclusion, Mr Editor, we would call your attention to the wrong this article, written by a prejudiced person who probably has some pique against the officers, may do the service and the officers in question; these officers on General Research, Service having been alcohol by order. cruiting Service having been selected by orders from the War Department from those who served the longest in the field during the war.

Will you please do us the favor of inserting the above.

Gaptain 6th U.S. Infantry; Brevet Lt.-Colonel U.S. Army; Brevet Brigadier-General Volunteers.

Captain 5th U. S. Cavalry and Brevet Lt -Colonel U S. Army.

S. Army.

W. P. HUXFORD,
Captain 42d U. S. Infantry.
W. R. KAMSEY.
Brevet Major and Assistant Surgeon U. S. A. In addition to the four signatures given above, the name of an individual styling himself a "Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel of the 26th Infantry" was appended. This last name we decline to print. The four other officers appear to be gentlemen as well as soldiers; and as we had no personal knowledge of them whatever and therefore cannot possibly have any personal pique against any one of them, as it wrongfully intimated in their communication, we have no objection to opening our columns to them in explanation or defense of their offi-cial conduct. But with regard to the "Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel of the 26th Infantry," we contess to entertaining a trifling prejudice, in-asmuch as that individual so far lorgot himself, and the dignity which should characterize one in his station, as to inform us by word of mouth that the article which appeared in our columns was "a --- lie, from beginning to end,"

ince Congressmen are at present endeavoring to better their manners in this respect, we do not think it will be at all amiss for the army to make a similar attempt at reformation. In answer to the communication above given we can only say that we have investigated the matter, and as the result, are quite convinced that our article of last Friday was nothing more nor less than the truth. Among those persons in whose neighborhood, and under whose eyes the business of recruiting is carried on, there is prevalent the impression that a great number of recruits are obtained for the regular service only through the agency of intoxication. The Court of Quarter Sessions, on Saturday morning last, was the scene of an affecting incident, which grew out of this very practice of the recruiting service, although this particular case happened to be that of a man who had been thus inveigled into the Navy. His name was Patrick Benson; ne was brought into Court on a writ of habeas corpus, accompanied by his wife and three children. The testimony sho wed that he was out of work, and on December 13, while in a state of intoxication, he was enticed into an enlistment in the Navy. Being effectually sobered by this time, he was anxious to undo what he had unwittingly done in his drunken fit, and the Court granted his discharge. It is possible that the commissioned officers are not aware of the reprehensible practices resorted to by their subordinates; and it is quite certain that, as these practices have been common in this and all other cities in the country, for many years, they are not responsible for their origin. This, however, does not remove continuance. That the technical duties of the commissioned officers, as prescribed by the regulations of the War Department, are faithfully performed, we doubt not. The only cause for complaint is the generally recognized fact, that the recruiting runners succeed in their calling, in many cases, by first inducing their victims to partake of strong drink until they are practically non compos mentis, and then persuading them to enlist in the regular service. We repeat, that such a practice is a cheat and a fraud, and that the sooner it is done away with the better it will be heir responsibility in some measure for their

for the service and the country.

The officers claim that recruiting is by no neans dull. We give them the beneut of figures, as shown by an examination of their own books. During the month of December there were enlisted at the six different offices in this city 419 men, of whom 141 were rejected the examining surgeon, leaving 278 to find their way to the army. From January 1 to January 28, the surgeon examined 366 men. of these and accepting 240. In a little more than eight weeks, therefore, 510 were obtained for the army in the city of Philadelphia and surrounding country, and the public must judge from the figures whether the business is slow HEBREW WEDDING .- The neighborhood of Sixth and South streets, last evening, was tartled by an unusual excitement, something unprecedented, so much so, that public atten tion was immediately on the qui vive. Carriage after carriage setting down the privileged few who were especially invited on the interesting occasion. Of co rse, however wealthy the modations of our more aristocratic squares. For those who, by limited arrangements, kepvirtually "out in the cold," no less than seven hundred and fifty tickets were issued for the entree of the Jewish Synagogue, at Eighth and Cherry streets, where the marriage took play with all the imposing and characteristic cere monies of the Jewish ritual. The streets a both ends of the route were thronged by specta tors. The father of the bride is a very sive clothing dealer. The expenses of the wedding, we learn, footed up nearly $3000. As the announcement of the event has not appeared in the morning papers, we omit names. All joy.

A PHILADELPHIA ARTIST ABROAD -Carl Schussele. Every one of our artist rea lets remembers Carl Schussele, whose fine and now seasonable picture of "Coasting" attracted so much public attention and admiration. in the practice of his art, he was indefatigable, industrious, and laborious, with an almost divine enthusiasm in the pursuit of his art. His health lailed. By some strange and most unfortunate dispensation, his right hand became paralyzed. The constant con-traction of the muscles in his perpetual mani-pulations produced this painful result. A return to his native climate was deemed advisable, and with his family-his wife, two children, father and mother, two sisters, and his brother-in-law—he sailed for Europe in June, He spent about a year at Bouxvilles the Rhine, in France, and is fiving now at Stras-bours. He writes sadly, but hopefully, in good general health, and dreamingly of the return of the use of his limb. His many friends here will hope that his wishes may be realized.

POLICE REPORTS for last night are meagre in everything but notices of arrest for drunken-ness and street walking. A number of Germans, mostly, and immigrants from the Emerald Isle, believing that cold without could be fully eradi-cated by warmth within, pariook freely of beverages which are supposed to kill at forty rods, and the "fancy," notwithstanding the bit-terness of the night, were perambulating as usual, picking up victims, FALSE PRETENCES .- William Fairchild, eventeen years of age, who halls from Hart-ord, Connecticut, was arrested yesterday by ergeant Crout and a Hariford officer. He left Hartford a few days since, and came here by way of New York. The officer was on his teack, and arrived in this city shortly afterwards, and lodged information at the Central Station. Fairchild was found in the billiard room of the Continental, at which hotel he was stopping, where he had represented himself as a Sallingwhere he had represented himself as a Sailing-Master in "he Navy, being in uniform at the time. He had been "he Somers & Sons', and or "ered a complete suit of naval uniform, valued at $80. He took the pantaloons with him, The coat and vest were to be sent to the hotel mext day. He offered a check in payment, but it was refused. He told them his father would be on the next day and settle the bill. He then went to Leonard Benkert's shoe establishment, in Chesnut street, above Seventh, and ordered a pay of books. He took with him and ordered a pair of boots. He took with him a pair of gallers, telling the goutleman to send the boots to the hotel, and he would settle. The amount of the bill was $27. The Hartford officer recognized Fairchild as the man who bad been obtaining goods in that city under talse pretenses. He was remanded to the custody of the officer, and last evening was taken back to Hartford. It has been ascertained since that he had ordered goods of several other parties, but neglected to pay for them.

A WIFE SERVES HER HUSBAND IN A LAUDABLE MANNER.—There lives at present on Seventh street, near Shippen, a couple who at one time required nought to make their happiness complete. The wife was, and is, in all respects, a perfect lady, and by her individual hard work laid by little by little until she accumulated a large sum. She invested this in buying a number of horses and carts, with which ber husband was enabled to engage in a profitable and steady business. But the husband, after entering on a prosperous career, commenced to spend his evenings from home with a regularity which at once excited the suspicions of the good wife, until this absence became so aggravating that she determined to learn the cause. Last night he was traced to the apartments of a frail "critter." This was too much for the trust-ing wife. She rushed in, and in a twinkling her husband and thefrail woman were hors de combat. For this her husband had her arrested, and she was held by Alderman Tittermary for a turther hearing.

ALLEGED LARCENY .- A young man, respectably connected, was before Alderman Beitler this morning, upon the charge of the larceny of a diamond ring, valued at $175, the property of Samuel Sneider, whose place of busi-ness is at No. 204 South Eleventh street. It appears that the defendant went to the store and borrowed the ring, representing that he wished to wear it at a party, and promised to return it soon. The days flew by, but no ring came

Mr. Sneider asked him for it repeatedly, but was informed that it had been lost, and he would be paid for it in instalments, but they have not arrived yet. It also appears that Sneider had, at different times, loaned defendant morey amounting to forty-five dollars,

The Alderman after hearing the evidence, felt himself justified in holding him to bail in $700 for his appearance at Court. The defendant is about seventeen years of age.

A DISHONEST INDIVIDUAL. - John Recht. an avaricious Teuton, about twenty-five years of age, put up, night before last, at a boarding establishment, and, of course, a lager beer saloon, of a brother Teuton. After partaking freely of the catables there to be had, and after making one of the longest and most satisfactory acquaintances with the too-tonic beverages con-tained therein, he went to his room; according to his intentions, he got up when all the inmates were asleep, and prepared to leave, leaving his bill unsettled, and laying hands on the only object of interest within his reach — a pair of boots. He was caught in the act by a watchful member of the household, and was arrested, taken before Alderman Toland, and held in $500 bail to answer the charge of larceny.

MESSES, WILLIAM H. TAYLOR & Co., having succeeded the late firm of Granello & Taylor, Merchant Tailors, will continue the business at the old and familiar stand, No. 132 South Fourth street. Mr. Wm. H. Taylor has is-sued a circular returning thanks to the numerous patrons of the late well-known firm, and in-forms the public that they will keep constantly on hand a large stock of superb cloths, cassineres, and vestings. Mr. Taylor's well-known taste in the selection of goods in his line needs no comment from us. The cutting department is under the charge of a well-known and artistic cutter. They are fully determined to make their prices at the lowest possible rates the market will afford.

DECLINES THE NOMINATION.—We noticed in our issue of yesterday, with reference to the Presidency of the Mercantile Library, the proposed nomination of a well-known citizen, Mr. J. B. Lippincott, to fill that position. We have since learned that this gentlemen, fully appreciating the compliment intended, regrets the necessity of declining the nomination, compelled by a pressure of business engagements. Those whom the proposition originated receive grateful thanks for the compliment they intended to convey.

ESCAPE OF A THIEF.—Two constables went to Progress, Burlington county, New Jersey, on Wednesday, for the purpose of arresting a man for stealing. They discovered about $1550 worth of goods in the house. A little child and men were the only ones home, and not wishing to leave the little thing alone, one of the officers went to a neighboring house and requested them to take care of it. While he was absent, the man set upon the other officer, beat him most unmercifully, and made his escape. He has not been heard of since.

KEEPING A DISORDERLY HOUSE, -Officer Leyton made a descent upon a den kept by Elizabeth Deine, a woman 45 years of age, in the Twenty-seventh Ward. This is a place which has always given much annoyance to the peace-loving citizens in its vicinity, inasmuch is there arises many tumults and pugilistic encounters of male and female "distles," Un-doubtedly there was much satisfaction when the proprietress of the place, Mrs. Deine, was arrested. She was held in $500 bail by Alderman Allen for a further hearing.

GERMANTOWN .- In consequence of the treat decression of trade, nearly every factor in this locality has suspended operations, and the extreme severity of the weather prevent all outdoor labor, thus causing considerable suffering amongst the poor. To somewhat meethis deplorable state of things, Philomathean Lodge, No. 10, I. O. of O. F., has appropriated one bundred dollars, and appointed a committee of religi to solicit further subscriptions. The operations of this committee will not be confined to the members of the fraternity,

FROZEN TO DEATH .- At a late hour last night, as some persons were passing up Grape street, near Ellis, they saw an object which appeared to be the body of some grown person, lying on the steps of a dwelling-house. On going up to it, they found it to be that of it woman. They immediately woke the inmate of the house, and the body was identified a that of a Mrs. Geysel, a middle-aged lady, who the night before she could gain admittance. The Coroner is to hold an inquest this afternoon

CARRYING DEADLY WEAPONS,-Another German, by the name of Jacob Fry, came to grief by carrying a deadly weapon, that is, large dirk-knite, which he flourished in a wild manner on Walnut street wharf, while in semi-intoxicated state. He was arrested, and Alderman Burler held him in $500 bail to auswer. LECTURE TO-NIGHT, - Mrs. F. E. W. Harper, a pative of Baltimore, will lecture at 8 P. M., at the National Hall, under the auspices of the "Social, Civil, and Statistical Association." She is said to be very eloquent, and is claimed to equal, if not surpass, Miss Anna

ILLICIT DISTILLING.—Before United States ommissioner Smith, at 12 o'clock to-day, James

Maboney was charged with distilling without a William McKee sworn-I know defendant; the first time I saw him was at his place of business in this city; I can't tell the exact loca-tion of it; I went there to purchase two barrels of molasses; derendant keeps a liquor store; a pian hamed McBride went with me to the place; the still was in a barn attached to my place; it is about six miles from Media; whisky has been manufactured there.
Mahoney was held in $1000 bail.

THE AWARDS OF CITY STATIONERY .-To-day, at noon, the City Commissioners awarded to the following gentlemen, as bidders, the furnishing of the city stationery; -C. E. Smith, G. N. Town, R. T. Gill, and Thomas W. Price. Each of these gentlemen have received awards of a certain portion of the whole bid, they offering the lowest prices. The variety of articles included in each portion are too many to allow LARCENY. - Adam Fraley was arrested this morning by Detective Taggart, upon the charge of larceny. He will have a hearing at the Central Station at 2 o'clock.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO EVENING TELEGRAPH.] WASHINGTON, January 31.

Detective Baker before the Judiciary Committee.

General L. C. Baker, of detective renown, has been summoned to Washington from the West, to testify before the Judiciary Impeachment Committee in regard to the operations of female pardon brokers at the White House. He will appear before the committee to-day. Something About Surratt.

A letier has been received in this city from an officer of the steamer Swatara, at Lisbon, stating that Surrattis very reticent, answering in monesyllables. He is self-possessed and sullen. He wears the Zouave uniform yet. Precautions are taken to prevent him from having any opportunity to commit termination to do so. Political-The Impeachment. In the meeting of the Republican Association, last night, Congress was denounced for not carrying out the radical measures for which they were elected. At a meeting of the Southern Loyalists' Association, last night, Congress was denounced for timidity, and it was proposed to hold a National Convention on March 4th to urge the impeachment of the President Personal. The death of Mr. H. S. Magraw is expected at any moment.

Not Tonsted. The friends of the President express great indignation that he was not toasted at the dinner of the Washington Board of Irade last night. He was invited to be present, and made no snewer whatever as the only means of bringing the South to terms.

The Tariff Bill. Mr. Fessenden will make another attempt to-day to the invitation, and consequently he

to get a vote on the fariff bill. CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Semate. WASHINGTON, January 31 .- Petitions on various subjects were presented and reterred.

Mr. Ramsey (Minn.), from the Committee on Post Offices, reported favoraby a bill to legalize the bridge across the Missouri river, St. Charles, Missouri; also the bill to authorize the construction of the submerged tubular bridge across the Mississippi at St. Louis; also the bill amendatory of the postal laws.

The last-named bill makes certain modifications in The last-named bill makes certain modifications in the Senate report a few days since.

Mr. Sumner offered a resolution, which was adopted calling upon the President for copies of any correspondence that may have taken place between the Department of State and Foreign Ministers upon the subject of the policy of the Administration towards the rebellious States, and any inquiries that may have been based on couversations reported to the Department of State.

Mr. Fa terson (Tenn.) offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Clighus to Inquire into the expedience of compensating the was adopted, instructing the Committee on Claims to inquire into the expediency of compensating the loyal critzens of East Tennesses for their war losses in accordance with the recommendation of a Commissioner appointed by General Burnside. The discussion on the tariff has been resumed to day and Mr. Fessenden hopes to pass the bill before the final adjournment to night.

Mr. Wilson has plainty stated the position of Maschusetts on the till as it now stands. Massachusetts, he said, does not demand it, and, in his opinion, there is nothing in the bill to compensate for these increased duties upon coal, upon iron, upon steel, and upon wool. If the duties on these articles that enter into our manufactures and our mechanical enter into our manufactures and our mechanical arts were to be enormously increased, he could see what the contest would be in the inture. It will be pretty hard lowering the duties on coal, on iron, on steel, or on wool, but the war upon textle fabric, and upon the various productions of the mechanic arts, will so on.

arts, will go on.

It will be the issue on every slump in the country, and while the benefits of this measure are to go to others, the reproaches are to be heaped upon Massachusetts. Now, said Mr. Wilson, I want gentlemen chusetts. Now, said air. Wilson, I want gentlemen here to take the full responsibilities of this measure upon themselves. I will protest against this bil in senate or in the country, in the pressor before the people, that this bill before us, or the bill passed by the House of Representatives at the last seasion, is demanded by the people I represent, or is to promote their interests. If I had my way to day, I would prefer, for our interests, to stand upon the laws as they now are

Mr. Kasson (Iowa), on leave, introduced a bill for the relief of Lucas county. Iowa. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

The House proceeded to the regular order of business, the consideration of the Consular and Diplomatic appropriation bill.

Mr. Le B ond (Ohio) called for a vote on the amendment adding an appropriation for the mission to Portugal, and asked for the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were not ordered, but the amendment was rejected.

The next question was on the amendment striking out the Mission to Rome, and providing that no money should be paid for the expenses of that Mis-on after the close of the present fiscal year. Mr. Ancona (Pa.) called for a vote on it, and asked for the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were not ordered, and the amendment was agreed to. The other amendments were agreed to, and the bill passed.

The House then took up the Military Academy

Appropriation bill, as reported yesterday from the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union. The amendments adopted yes criday in Committee of the Whole were agreed to by the Bouse, and the bill was passed.
Mr. Trowbridge (Mich.), from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported as a question of privilege

the following:—

Whereas. The bill to repeal section 13 of the act of July 17, 1862, to suppress insurrections, etc. (depriving the Fresident of his ammesty powers), and the bill to regulate the elective franchise in the lerritories of the United States, were severally passed by both houses during the present session of Conby both houses during the present session gress, and have been reported by the Committee on Enrolled Bills to the President of the United States, the former on the 9th and the latter on the 13 hin-stant; and whereas the President has tailed to notify the House that be has signed the same, and has also miled to return the same to the House of Represen-latives, in which they originated, with his objec-

The Speaker intimated the point would have been The Speaker thitmakes the point would have been a good one if it had been made in time.

Mr Hall inquired whether that was a precedent for this procedure. He supposed that similar cases must have arisen before and that in such cases the acts became laws under the operation of the Constiamined by officers connected with both branches of Congress for a long time, but they could not find any case in point.

Mr. Hale said he had no objection whatever to the resolution, is that was the proper course of proceeding. After considerable discussion, the resolu-
