SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1867.

The Development of Our Pacific Coast. THE development of our Pacific coast is a subject of great interest in itself, and derives additional importance from the more intimate relations which the completion of the Pacific Railroad bids tair to establish between the East and that far-distant region. California, which was a Mexican province down to our conquest of the country about twenty years ago, has gone on increasing steadily in population, production, and commerce, until she begins to occupy a commanding position. Her exports during the year just past foot up the handsome sum of over seventy-three milhons of dollars, of which nearly twelve millions were domestic produce and merchandise-not including treasure, which amounted to over fifty-six millions. In her early years she imported everything from the Atlantic coast, but last year she raised twelve millions of busnels of wheat, and is to-day exporting flour to Philadelphia and New York, while the vast bulk of her arable lands has not yet been touched by the cultivator. The mining of the precious metals will undoubtedly form a leading branch of the industrial pursuits of her people for an indefinite period. but it is evident that in the agricultural resources of the State she has a source of wealth as exhaustless and more abundant than in her mines.

But the vision which now particularly inspires the hopes of Californians is that of Oriental commerce-that prize for which all maritime nations have contended for centuries. The establishment of a mail steamship line, under a subsidy of $500,000 per annum. for ten years to come, from the Government, and the actual departure from San Francisco of the first vessel, the new steamship Colorado. for Yokohama and Hong Kong, has caused this great matter of the "trade of the East" to loom up into new importance. The contract of the Government with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company calls for first-class steamships of 3000 tons burden; but the Company, with a comprehensive prescience of the demands of the future of this great trade, are building six steamships of 5000 tons burden, two of which are already launched, at a cost of one million dollars each.

The current ideas in regard to the Chinese, that they are a people who make everything for themselves, and will do nothing but sell foreigners their supplies of teas and silks, and take specie in return, are altogether erroneous. Great Britain exported in 1860 fifteen millions of dollars' worth of cotton goods alone to China, and has continued to export largely of cotton and woollen goods ever since. The exports of produce, etc., from California to China have increased from $286,075 in 1856 to $1,465,630 in 1866. The exports of wheat have run up from 2100 sacks in 1861 to 203,764 sacks in 1866; and of flour from 20,000 barrels in 1861, to 106,000 barrels in 1866; and the people of California estimate that in China they will find a market for all the surplus wheat and flour they can produce in the future.

If such results as these have been obtained by the prosecution of trade with China under the disadvantages of meagre, slow, and uncertain communication, it is easy to see that with the establishment of a regular steamship line, making frequent, sure, and rapid trips, a vast increase of business may be expected. The population of China alone numbers four hundred millions. It is evident that even a limited use of the general manufactures of other nations by such a mass of people would result in the establishment of a commerce of great importance. The success which has attended the effort to introduce cheap cotton goods in the face of Chinese manufactures of the same article, is proof that the traditional immobility of that singular people cannot hold out against the well-directed efforts of modern commerce.

The establishment of this steamship line must also exert a powerful influence upon California, in the way of keeping her constantly supplied with cheap labor. The Chinese are the great laboring force of the Pacific coast. They furnish cheap and efficient workers for the mines. Thousands of them are laboring on the Pacific Railroad, and tens of thousands more will be needed in that and other works of public and private industry. The completion of the Pacific Railroad will lead to a great influx of capital to California, Nevada, and Oregon, for the development of their wonderful resources. An unfailing supply of cheap labor will then constitute an element of powerful influence in the growth of those States.

On the whole, then, the prospects of our States and Territories upon and in the neighborhood of the Pacific, are such as may well justify the buoyant and almost exultant tone of their inhabitants. The national growth in that part of the republic is gratifying to all who believe in the future greatness and glory of the country.

PASSAGE OF THE TABIFF BILL BY THE SENATE.-The Tariff bill was passed by the Senate on Thursday by a vote of 27 to 10. Messrs. Buckalew and Cowan, of this State, dodged. The bill now goes to the House, where it will doubtless receive many changes before it is finally passed. As it stands, it is the highest tariff ever enacted in this country.

State Exemption Laws and a General Bankrupt Law.

A POINT of considerable interest in connection with the Bankrupt bill now before Congress, was discussed in the Senato yesterday. The bill contains a clause exempting such "property as is exempted from levy and sale upon execution by the laws of the State in which the bankrupt has his domicile at the time of the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, to an amount not exceeding that allowed by such State exemption laws in force in the year 1864."

This amount varies largely in the different States. It has been a cherished policy with the Western States to make large exemptions. covering homesteads and other preporty of considerable value. In California the amount thus exempted is $5000; in Kansas a homestead of at least eighty acres of farming land may be exempted; and in other States various amounts are by law exempted from forced sale.

In discussing the bill Mr. Trumbull maintained-and stated that the Judiciary Committee agreed with him-that it the clause above quoted were allowed to remain, the law would not be a "general bankrupt law," the only one Congress had a right to pass.

On the other side, Mr. Howard, Reverdy Johnson, and other Senators maintained that the uniformity required by the Constitution was simply that there should be one general law-not a special law for this State and for

The point is a nice one, and the authorities in the Senate seem to be about equally divided upon it. The Senate adjourned without coming to a vote.

Removals from Office.

THE President's reply to Mr. Myers' resolution of December 6, calling for information in regard to removals from office, reveals the fact that Mr. Seward has reappointed no persons in his department after rejection by the Senate; that no names were withheld from the Senate during the session; and that only ten removals have been made.

The Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy have reappointed no persons after rejection, and have intentionally withheld no name from the Senate.

The Treasury Department seems to have been prostituted the most of any one. In this Department two hundred and seventy removals were made during the recess of Congress. Twenty-six were reappointed, in defiance of the Constitution, after rejection by the Senate.

The Post Office Department shows one hundred and fity-nine removals for partisan political purposes, the Department of the Interior nineteen, and the Attorney-General's Department nineteen.

Of course these figures reveal but a traction of the changes that have been made, as they do not cover the large number of subordinate officers whose appoint ments are not reterred to the Senate.

THE BILL TO TRANSFER THE INDIAN BUREAU TO THE WAR DEPARTMENT.-The House of Representatives, on Thursday, passed the bill transferring the Indian Bureau to the War Department. We have strong hopes that, if this measure becomes a law, the frauds and rascalities which now characterize the workings of the Indian system will, to a great extent, be abolished. Under the control of the War Department, the system ought to be at least less extravagantly costly than at present.

THE RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS .- It is stated that in Mississippi two fruitful sources of dissatisfaction to the freedmen are the laws prohibiting their carrying firearms, and owning and holding real estate. Each of these laws is unconstitutional. The right of the people to bear arms is especially guaranteed in the Constitution. The freedmen have as good a right to carry firearms as their late

THE POOR.

Benevolent Association.

The inclemency of the winter is greater than for years past. Deep snows put a stop to all out-doop labor Many who sust ain life in winter by gathering garbs ge fuel, etc. from the streets have now no occupation but to freeze and starve. A poor woman was found in a cellar, with a babe at the breast, both frozen, and with difficulty resuscitated. Another sick Woman, with two small children, and a young woman dving with consumption, were found in a sarret, without fire, and only kept from freezing by an old carpet which covered them. They had had no food for twenty-four hours. There are hundreds of such cases pleading for help al over the city.

The Union Benevolent Association prefers helping the poor to employment rather than distributing alms to them; but labor is now scarce, and this appeal is for MONEY-MONEY immediately. The Visitors are walting to visit, but they have no means. Let this appea ome home to all who are enjoying the home comfort and the luxuries of lite.

FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS WILL BE REQUIRED TO SUPPLY BUT ONE-HALF THAT IS NEEDED.

Two months of the worst of the season is left, and no less a sum will suffice to keep from starving the families those now in charge of this Society, The Collectors, Messrs, EVANS and WATSON, will make their second calls immediately. Money can also be left with EDMUND WILCOX. Esq., Treasurer, or at the Office, N. W. corner of SEVENTH and SANSOM, Streets.
