TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1867.

The New Reconstruction Scheme. FROM the circumstantiality with which the new scheme of reconstruction was set forth in our Washington despatches yesterday, we are led to conclude that the movement means something. Anything which promises to bring the nation and the late Rebel communities into better relations is so far to be commended. An effort on the part of the South to accommodate itself, even in a small degree, to the public sentiment of the North, is a hopeful sign. It is certainly better than that sullen, dogged persistency which refuses to recognize the gravity of the situation, or to take any means for its amendment. It is a concession at last that something more must be done before the work of reconstruction shall be completed. It recognizes, too, if we may assume this new movement to be in earnest, that the war has made great social changes which must be respected, and find expression in the constitutions and laws of the Southern States.

The plan, as nearly as we can gather it from the somewhat meagre despatches, is for the so-called Legislatures of the late Rebel communities to pass resolutions indorsing "impartial suffrage" based on the qualification of the electors being able to read and write, and being possessed of two hundred and fitty dollars' worth of property, and then for the President to recommend these resolutions to the new Congress, which assembles on the fourth of March next, as a basis of reconstruction, instead of the pending Constitutional amendment.

If this scheme means to make the above qualifications truly impartial - that is, to apply them to all voters within the late Rebel States-then a long step may at once be made towards a satisfactory adjustment of our present difficulties. But if it means that they shall be applied only to the population of African descent, while others who can neither read nor write, and who do not own two hundred and fifty dollars' worth of property, are to be allowed to exercise the elective franchise-in other words, if a distinction in political rights is to be made on account of race-then the scheme amounts to but very little, and will not satisfy the public mind. Practically it would exclude almost the entire colored population from the ballotbox, and that, too, under- circumstances of hardship and injustice. Just escaped from a life-long bondage, in which they were denied all means of education, and every possibility of acquiring property, it would be exceedingly unjust to require of them alone both knowledge and wealth as a prerequisite to the exercise of the elective tranchise.

Still, as we have before said, we we wome this indication that the South is willing to do something. "It is the first step that costs." We cannot expect the wide chasm which separates the ideas of slavery and full political enfranchisement to be crossed at a leap. The prejudices of a whole generation cannot be changed in an instant. We must rejoice at the first faint streaks of dawn that break upon the blackness of night. The morning does not come all at once, but when the light begins to break then we know that the morning is at hand.

The Proposed New Amendment. FULLER particulars in regard to the newly proposed scheme of reconstruction show it to consist of a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States, providing -First, that no State shall withdraw from the Union or be ejected from it, or deprived of its equal suffrage in Congress; secondly, that the public debt shall remain inviolable, and no debt incurred in aid of insurrection against the United States shall be paid by the general Government or by any State; thirdly, that all persons born or naturalized in the United States shall be citizens both of the States and the nation, and shall be entitled to the equal protection of the laws; and fourthly, that the basis of representation in any State that denies the right of suffrage to any of its citizens on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude, shall be reduced by the number of the entire class thus excluded. Further, it is proposed that the Constitutions of the States lately in rebellion shall be amended so as to extend the suffrage to all male citizens of full age, not now entitled to the same, who may be able to read and write, or who shall be possessed of two hundred and fifty dollars' worth of taxable property.

This scheme, it will be seen, comprises most of the features of the amendment now proposed, except that one depriving certain classes of the late Rebels from holding office. It also adds some features peculiarly its own, such as that referring to the secession or expulsion of States.

The Fortieth Congress. Ar the close of each Congressional term onethird of the Senate go out of office. Such will, therefore, be the case on the 3d of March next. The elections for the vacancies thus made have all been held, we believe, and the result is that in the Fortieth Congress the Senate will consist of forty Republicans and twelve Democrats and Johnsonites. The Senate now stands, Republicans, thirty-eight, Democrats and Johnsonites fourteen. The political changes are, Cowan (Democrat) of Pennsylvania, succeeded by Cameron (Republican); Creswell (Repub.), of Maryland, succeeded by Swann (Dem.); Nesmith (Dem.) of Oregon, succeeded by Corbett (Repub.); McDougall (Dem.), of California, succeeded by Cole (Repub.) The other new members are O. F. Morton, of Indiana; Charles D. Drake, of Missouri; Roscoe Conkling, of New York; Orris S. Ferry, of Connecticut; James Harlan, of Iowa; James W. Patterson, of New Hampshire; and Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont. Senators Davis, Howe, Sherman, Trumbull, Pomeroy, and Nye have been re-

The new House of Representatives, as far as elected, stands 127 Republicans to 38 Democrats. Eighty-nine of these are members of the present House. Among the new members are such men as Generals Butler. Logan, Washburne, and Dodge, and Messrs. Judd, Blair, Covode, and Van Wyck; while among those who retire are Kasson, Stillwell, Hubbell, Delano, Farqubar, Kuykendall, Latham, Whaley, and Raymond.

Messrs, Morrill, Patterson, and Conkling, of the present House of Representatives, take seats in the Senate on the 4th of March. Senator Poland goes to the House.

As a body, the Fortleth Congress will be an abler one than is the Thirty-ninth. Some of the strongest men in the nation will be among its members, and it will come fresh from the people as the latest representative of their

Proposed Removal of the Naval Academy On motion of General Schenck, of Ohio, the House of Representatives yesterday, by the overwhelming vote of 108 to 35, adopted the following resolution:-

Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Af-fairs be instructed to inquire into the propriety of an immediate removal of the United States Naval Academy from its present location in the State of Maryland, to some point in a loyal State where the pupils of the institution will be secure against the surroundings of political and social influences hostile to the National Government, which now predominate at An-napolis, and report by bill or otherwise.

As Maryland has passed completely into the hands of the class of men who murdered our soldiers in the streets of Baltimore, in April, 1861, we trust the removal contemplated in the above resolution will be immediately made. Let us have our young men educated under such influences as will not make traitors of them in the hour of danger.

The Anti-Contraction Resolutions. THE House of Representatives yesterday put at rest, for the present, the question or contracting the currency, by the passage of the following resolutions:-

Resolved, That the public interest demands that there shall not, during the current year, be any reduction of the amount of outstanding United States notes, commonly called "green-Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to report such a bill as may be necessary to effect this object.

This action of Congress has already imparted a better feeling to business circles, as is witnessed in the rise of stocks. It may sately be assumed that there will be no immediate contraction of the currency.

-The Tribune this morning publishes the following editorial, which only confirms what we have long since believed. The man-"Brick" Pomeroy-as he calls himself, is a vulgar braggart, who admired the assassination of President Lincoln, and whose contemptible position was his only protection from

We lately heard with some surprise that General Butler had sued for libel the Western miscreant who openly threatened President Lincoln with assassination, and who was a too of the Rebellion throughout, laying his damages at $100,000. We judge it perfectly easy for the at $100,000. We judge it perfectly easy for the worthless fellow to prove, if placed on his defense, that nothing he might say could possibly damage any one to the amount of half a dime, postal currency. We are glad to learn by the following card that General Butler has perpetrated no such folly as has been asserted:—

Traited no such folly as has been asserted;—
"To the Editor of the New York Tribune:—
"Si:—May I ask you to stamp a lorgery? An announcement is going the rounds of the papers that I have brought a suit against one Pumeroy, of the La Crosse (Wis.) Democration libel. That action, so contary to my determined silence as to newspaper slan ders, needed confirmation, so the Democrat publishes a letter purporting to be signed by me, offering to withorsw the suit, to which he makes a grandlioquent and abusive reply. Need I say that I have brought no such suit against him or any other standering scribbler."

The letter is a forgery to bolster a lie. "Yours, truly, BENJAMIN F. BUTLER." "New York, February 4, 1867,"

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Court of Quarter Sessions—Judge Ludlow.— Prison cases are before the Court. John Duffey plead guilty to a charge of assault and battery upon Catherine Conner. Mrs. Conner was one lay sitting in her room nursing her child, when Duffey entered, saying if she did not leave the place he would put her out. She said something to him, and he struck her several blows. Duffey said he had rented Mrs. Conner his back kitchen, she being out of a home, and she dis-turbed the other inmates of the house by soiling the clothes they had washed. Mr. Duffey remonstrated with her, and said if she didn't do better he would have to turn her out. She instantly struck aim in the mouth, and no in the heat of the moment returned the blow. The Court this morning was very much em-barrassed in being unable to get any business whatever on. The old business lying over from last term it was attempted to resume this morning, but in nearly every case the witnesses and prosecutors were present, but defendants were absent. Therefore, the jury were discharged, and the court adjourned until Thursday morning, when, by the very best efforts of the offi-cers, it is hoped the business will go on.

Supreme Court—Judges Thompson, Bead, and Strong.—The following cases were argued this morning:—Field vs. Haines and Hughes vs. Hughes.

An Unnoticed Revolution.

The London Teerraph says that the Isle of Man, which is only thirty miles long and nine wide, and contains about fifty thousand inhabitants, has just been the scene of a revolution quite as remarkable for its effective character as for the bloodless and quiet manner in which it has been brought about. has been brought about.

has been brought about.

The Government of the Island is vested in two bodies. The upper house is called the Council, and consists of the two Deemsters, or Judges, the Clerk of the Rolls, the Attorney-General, the Vicar-General, the Water Balliff, and the Bishop and Archdeacon of the diocese. This Council is presided over by the Lieutenant Governor of the Island. The lower house is quaintly designated the House of Keys. This body is so ancient that it is now impossible to assien a date to its origin. It consists of twenty-iour members and a Speaker. Its most curious feature is the fact that it has been, until the last year, a close corporation, filling all vacanlast year, a close corporation, filling all vacan-cles by a vote of the House. This anomalous lovernment, existing under the British crown, and within six hours' sail of Liverpool, had o late years become very distasteful to the islanders, and repeated efforts had been made by local reformers to bring about a reform These, however, were unavailing, and the Manxmen owe their present enjoyment of the franchise to an ill-advised act of the House of Keys itself. That august body took offense at some criticisms in a local newspaper, and sentenced the unfortunate journalist, without any trial, to six months' imprisonment in the Danish tort known as Castle Rushen. This matter was taken up by the English press, and the journalist was released, after something more than a month's imprisonment, by a writ of babeas corpus from the Queen's Bench.

The Lieutenant-Governor, who had long de-ired to bring about a reform, promptly availed himself of this opportunity. He introduced, some months ago, into the insular legislature a bill, the object or which was to effect a com-plete change in the constitution of the House, by importing the elective franchise into the island. The Keys and their few friends stood aghast at this sweeping measure; but notwithstanding their determined opposition, the bill has passed through its various stages, and has now become the law of the island, having been formally promulgated. This promulgation must be a curious ceremony. All the constituted authorities assemble for divine service in the Church of St. John the Baptist, in the centre of the island, and at the termination of the service they form into procession, and march to a very ancient artificial mound, called Tynwaldbul, said to have been constructed hundreds of years ago by the Scandinavians. From the top of this mound the act is read in the English and Manx languages, and then it be

The Montana Gold Mines.

The St. Louis Republican gives recent in-formation about Montana affairs, derived from a Mr. Whitiatch, who left the mines on the 3d of last month. Up to the time when he left Helena very little snow had fallen. On the mountain range this side of Virginia City the snow was three or four feet deep. Passengers and mail- were transported by the stage company in sleights, the sleighing being admirable as it was also all the way from Salt Lake to Fort Bridger. Mr. Whitlatch has been for two years in Montana, engaged in mining. He car-ried with num the experience of two or three years' prospecting and labor among the mines of Colorado. He represents the mineral riches of Montana to be very great, superior to anything he saw in Colorado or Nevada. They were widely diffused through the Territory. very small portions of them having been de-veloped. The quartz lodes are unusually rich. The tide of immigration to that region is large.

American Trading with Borneo. In connection with the extension of our interourse with China by the new steamships of the Pacine Mail line, it is of interest to our mer-chants to know that Abdul Mumine, Sultan of Borneo, has granted to American, under the title of the "American Trading Company of the entire northern portion Island of Borneo, together with three adjacent slands; supreme power and jurisdiction over the property and inhabitants thereof being vested in the President of the above company under the title of Rajah of Ambong and Marooda, with power of life and death over the inhabitants. The company also possesses the rights of property vested in the Sultan, and the rights of making laws, coining money, creating an army and navy, levying customs rates on foreign vessels or people, and taxes on the in-habitants of Borneo. This new opening in Borneo affords a rich field for American enter-

"Ferocious An'mals' in the Potato -Here is an alarming statement from a Paris journal, La Patrie: - "The microscope reveals to us the existence of a small black spot of the diameter of a pin's head in the potato. In this small space can be detected some two hundred ferorious animals of a coleopteric form, which bite and tear each other with continued fury. It is easy to comprehend the potato disease when such an intestine warfare is raging.'

A Warning —It has been discovered at the General Post Office, in England, that many per-sons in the United States are in the habit of sending over to that country sums of money wrapped in newspapers. In consequence of the existence of this practice, American papers are now examined at St. Martin's-le-Grand. mpossible to examine every paper; but selections are made at London, and frequent seizures are the result.
