THE DAILY EVENING TELEGRAPH .- PHILADELPHIA, TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1867.

BRYRNING TRLEGRAPH EFECTAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, March 2. The Liberty of the Press in France. The bill which the Government intended to present to the Legislative body for discussion, contains so many obnoxious clauses that there is every probability of its being very much modified. It is also more than likely that the enormous amount of caution money required to be deposited before starting a new public paper, and the imposition of the Timbre, or stamp duty, on non-political papers that hitherto required none, will be totally aban-.doned.

The Right of Interpellation.

The members of the opposition in the French Chambers already complain of their being cabined, cribbed, and confined by the new measure, which obliges a member to ascend the tribune every time he wishes to speak. Regular business may now be said to have begun, and for want of matter of more importance to discuss, the members of the opposition had made the most of the letter tampering business, which has caused so much sensation in France.

The International Imperial Society of Mutual Assurance Against Fire for the Universal Exhibition of 1867.

The Imperial Commission, by the terms of its regulations, is not answerable for the risk ef fire, and leaves the exhibitors to insure themselves against it. On the other hand, the French companies, limited as they are to their statutes, can guarantee only a very small portion of the products exhibited, and foreign companies show little cagerness to charge themselves with the risk, over which, from the distance, they have no control. It is for these reasons that the Society has been fermed. The insurance comprises fires caused by lightning and those proceeding from explosions of gas.

The maximum of the contributions in case of disaster is fixed by the statutes in the following manner:-Palace, 4 francs for every 1000 francs; Park, 5 francs per 100 francs; Annexes, 6 frances per 1000 frances of the articles exposed. The insurer, without distinction of site, pays on receiving his policy of insurance 1f.50c. for every 1000 francs' value of the objects insured viz.;-1 frame as contribution 19 ine fund, and half a franc for expenses of "administration. The fund (fonds de prévoyance) is applied to immediate compensation for any disaster that may occur. If there be no disasters, or if they do not absorb the fund, the Board of Direction divides among all the members, in the proportion of the sums paid by each, the said fund, or such portion of it as may remain on hand. The central office of the Company is Rue de Rivoli. The Board of Directors is composed of Monsieur Ferdinand Barrot, Senator Baron de Bonnemain, Mayor of the Sixteenth Arrondissement, Monsieur Donon, the Duke of Galicia, Mr. Hankey, of the firm of Hankey & Co., London, the Count Lagrange, Deputy, the Count Leo de St. Poncy, Monsieur Matterel, and Monsieur Aîmé de St. Didier.

Doings in Italy.

Hungary took place in that town, have been set at liberty. "Don Carlos."

The first performance of this long-talked-of opera is to take place without fail on the 8th, at the Grand Opera, in the Rue Lepelletier. There is to be a public rehearsal, to which, however, not more than a thousand persons will be admitted. The Maestro is desirous of bringing together a good number of connoisseurs and artists to hear his work before it is given to the world.

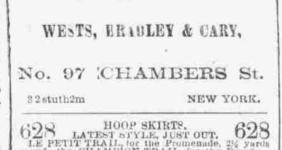

Verdi, we hear, intends quitting Paris the day after the first performance of the opera. He will proceed to Nice, where he has bought a beautiful palace, which he has had furnished by one of the first Parisian upholsterers in a manner lit to lodge a prince. It is in this charming retreat that he intends seeking that repose of which he is so much in need.

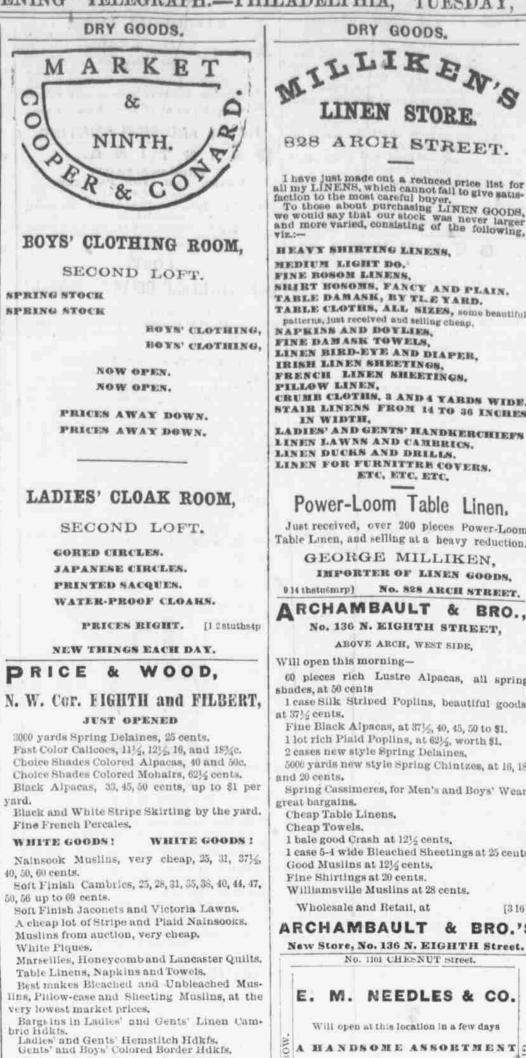

Mons. Ponsard's "Gailleo." Galileo will be one of the pièces de résistance during the Exhibition. The rehearsals of this play are being pushed forward with much activity.

Our correspondent in Florence writes us that the political interest, up to the present time concentrated in the Italian capital, is now spread over the provinces, where there is great activity being displayed in view of the coming elections. He writes us further, that the Carnival in Florence has not been very gay this year, as the lower orders seem to have little mind to amuse themselves, hampered as they are by heavy taxes and the constantly rising prices of the necessaries of life. There is great wailing amongst the retail traders. The discontent was so great that there was some fear of disturbances. The fact is, this has not been a very brilliant winter for the trade of Florence. Foreign visiters have not been numerous, and even those who intended remaining through the season gave up the idea as soon as they found things so very dull. The Carnival of Venice.

We hear from the City of the Sea that great efforts are being made there to revive the Carnival, which has been slumbering for so many years. It will be a means of encouraging trade and diminishing the misery suffered by many in the city now freed from foreign yoke. Our correspondent speaks of much gayety now going on, crowds of masks, music, and merrymaking on St. Mark's Square at night; but the most perfect order reigns everywhere. What a contrast with the Carnival the mourning city had been used to for many years past, when the fear lest the mask should cover the face of a Kaiserlich spy sufficed to drive away every one from the Piazza de San Marco !

C

Those who had a mind to amuse themselves -and they were few, indeed-were fain to do so in their homes. None would give the hated Austrians a pretext for affirming that Venice was satisfied. Now all is changed. The silver lining of the cloud is turned towards the City of the Sea, and trade benefits by it. To close the masquing, very gorgeous fetes are preparing, in the hope of attracting many foreigners.

Hungary.

The new Ministry of Hungary has just announced to the authorities, by two circulars dated February 23, that the Hungarian Constitution has been re-established, and that they have taken in hand the government of the country. Nevertheless, they will not be able, to charge themselves de facto with the administration till after the 10th of March, by reason of the impossibility of their obtaining the various offices before that day. These circulars bear the signatures of Count Andrassey, as President of the Council, and Baron Bila Hinkheim, Minister of the Interior. The same Ministry has just obtained a first success. At the instance of the President. Count Andrassey, the persons arrested at Finmne, when the demonstration in favor of
