THE MANLY ART:

TOM KELLY vs. BILLY PARKINSON.

One Round, of Two Minutes, is Fought when Parkinson Commits Foul Play, and Kelly Bears Off $1000 in Stakes, as the Consequence, Etc.

In The Evening Telegraph of Monday afternoon we stated that a mill had been arranged between Thomas Kelly, of this city, and William Parkinson, of Potsville, and was to come off yesterday morning, not many miles from the city. The preliminaries of the match were arranged at Reading, on the 21st of Janu-ary last. It was then and there agreed—the were arranged at Reading, on the 21st of January last. It was then and there agreed—the agreement being in writing, and attested by William Draper—that the fight should transpire on the 19th of March; that it should be a fair stand-up encounter, conducted according to the new rules of the London Prize Ring; that the stakes should be $500 a side, the first deposit of $25 to be placed in the hands of Joseph Laurence, of Harrisburg; the second, of $75, in the bands of Frank Queen; the third, of $100, in the same hands, on the 5th of February; the fourth, of $100, in the same hands, on the 19th of February; and the fifth and final, of $200 a side, in the same hands, on the 12th of March, It was forther agreed that the fighting weight should be one hundred and twelve pounds; and that, in case either of the combatants exceeded this on the day previous to the encounter, the stakes to be briefeted. The same result was to follow if every instalment was not paid on time, and, also, if either man was not at the place of weighing, ready to toss for the choice of ground, at the appointed time.

If the authorities happened to interfere, and no referee had been appointed, the referee was to name the time and place of fighting; and if either combatant were arrested, the fighting to take place outside of Pennsylvania. The men were to be in the ring between the hours of and 10 A. M., when the referee was to be mu tually chosen, and the money won in a fair and square stand-up encounter, or not paid over by Frank Queen, the final stakeholder, The gentlemen who into entered this solemn covenant are not unknown in the sporting world. Thomas Kelly, when ready for the onset, stood five feet five inches in height, and weighed but one hundred and nine pounds and weighed but one bundred and nine pounds and a half. He is a native of St. John, New Brunswick, but for eight years past has resided in this city. He istwenty-three years old. Twice already had be entered the prize-ring.

His first contest was with Adam Exfort, whom he easily vanquished in 1865, after fighting twenty-seven rounds which occupied one ing twenty-seven rounds, which occupied one hour and twenty-seven minutes. In this affair he passed by the name of "Hashings' Kid." Subsequent to this affair, under the alias of "Buckshot," he gained another victory in thirty rounds, lasting one hour. He was trained by Mile Care. by Mike Carr, at Point Breeze, in this city, and was in splendid condition when he appeared on the ground yesterday morning.

William Parkinson, a Welshman by birth and a puddler by profession, is thirty-four years of age, five feet three and a half inches in height, and weighed one hundred and eleven pounds and a half. He has been work-ing recently in an iron foundry at Tamaqua, Pennsylvania.

Before coming to this country, he acquired a game reputation in England, where he was engaged in several mills, all of which he claims to have won, excepting one. Four years ago he came to this country, and has several times attempted to get into a fight, without success. Parkinson finally met Kelley at the fight between Collyer and McGlade last January, when the preliminaries were arranged for the contest which came off yesterday. Parkin-son at once repaired to Pottsville, where he went into training under Ned Williams, of peripatetic renown, by whom he was put into Superb condition.

At the appointed hour at least one thousand persons were present to witness the fight. The scene was about one mile west of Donglassville, in Berks county. "Oyster Jack," of this city, ficiated as ringmaster. Near the ground was a high hill, which was crowded with specta-tors, while many of those who were in the immediate neighborhood of the ring climbed up the trees, to avoid standing in one foot of

The crowd was about evenly divided between the friends of the rival parties, and outside bets were freely offered by both sides, and as freely accepted. Kelly's seconds were Paddy Maley and Johnny Lazarus; while Parkinson was backed up by P. Jones and C. Jones, Esqs. Johnny Hickey officiated as Kelly's umpire, Johnny Hickey officiated as Kelly's umpire, and John Churchill as Parkinson's, and after considerable wrangling, Mr. Coleman was chosen referee. Just before the fight commenced, Johnny Hickey, whom Parkinson had previously challenged in vain, stepped excitedly forward and offered to maul the victor for $1000 or $3000, as he chose.

When time was, called both men came up to the scratch, and after sundry preliminaries, grinnings, posings, and feintings, each let his left fist fly at the other's face, but each blow fell short. Another pass, preceded by several feints.

was then made, Kelly contriving to plant his left fist on Parkinson's mouth, drawing first blood, while Parkinson smote his opponent kindly upon the forehead.

The action then became quite lively, and several blows and counter-blows were mutually inflicted, when the two specimens came to close quarters. Parkinson thereupon seized Kelly by the leg. just above the knee, when the cry of "Foul!" was forthwith raised.

They continued to tuz away at each other, however, until Kelly sank upon the ground, just as he planted a furious left-hander in the ribs of his opponent, who tumbled over on him as he fell. The referee promptly decided that Kelly was the winner of the fight, and entitled to the stakes; although there was a great deal of dissatisfaction at this summary termination dissatisfaction at this summary termination of the sport, and loud cries, amid considerable confusion, for the continuance of the conflict.

SHOPLIFTER ARRESTED. - Sarah Miller, colored woman, was arrested in South street, near Fourth, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of larceny. Sarah was walking along South street, when her attention was attracted to a piece of calico and a piece of crash that were lying upon a bench in front of a store No. 335 South street. She went towards the bench, with the runrose of taking care of them in her with the purpose of taking care of them in her mind. First picking up the calico she looked at it, and then thinking the crash would sult her better, she put the calico down, and picking up the crash, she walked off with it. Having a bad memory, she forgot to say any-thing to the owner about the transaction, and the consequence of that neglect was that she was arrested and taken before Alderman Butler. That gentleman, after hearing the facts of the case, held her in $500 ball to answer the charge brought against her.

FAMILY DIFFICULTIES .- A case came up before Alderman Massey this morning, in which the defendant was accused of beating his wife in a very savage manner. The accused lives at Thirteenth and Wood streets; and being of a different religious faith from his wife, is constantly quarrelling with her. All of his relatives are mixed up in the matter, and the quarrel arose from their interference. The Alderman held the defendant in $500 bail to answer the charge of assault and battery, and notified the meddling relatives that if they did not mend their ways they would get into trouble.

"TAKEN IN AND DONE FOR."-A verdant young man from the country came to this city the other day to see the sights, and inspect a specimen of the elephant, He put up at a house No. 8 Bergen place, in the rear of St. Stephen's Church, last night, and there made the acquaintance of a young female who gave the name of Josephine Welsh. The result of the acquaintance was that the countrymen was relieved of his pocket-book, containing thirty or forty dollars. He made complaint, and had his false friend arrested this morning. a hearing before Alderman Jones, who held her in $500 bail to answer the charge of larceny,

AN UNPROFITABLE OPERATION .- W. Johnson colored man, was arrested at Seventh and a colored man, was arrested at Seventh and South streets yesterday afternoon, whilst endeavoring to dispose of some wash-clothes at a very low figure. Not being able to give a straight account of how he came into possession of the clothes, he was taken into custody, and when examined before Alderman Butler it was proven that he had taken them from the yard of Mr. Levy, at Eighth and Lombard streets. He was held in $500 bail to arswer the charge of inceny.

ECLIPSE THE MOOI .- It was predicted by astronomical sages that an eclipse of the moon would take place at soont 220 this morning; and for once, at the exact time mentioned, the disc of that shining orb was overshadowed, excepting in one smal spat, where it peeped out from behind its daskening veil. The clearness of the night made the observation relationship. ness of the night made the obscuration plainly

OBSERVANCE OF THE HEBBEW THANKSGIVING, THE FEAST OF PURIM.—The following is a brief history of the origin of the Festival of the Parim, which will be celebrated by the Hebrews

all over the world to-morrow:—

In the days of Anasuerus, King of Persia, who is said to be the Artaxerxes Longimanus of thistory, the Jews were scattered over his hundred and twenty-seven provinces, where they enjoyed comparative peace and prosperity. This continued for some time, or rather until a courtier, Haman by name, was raised to the rank of Prime Minister. So full of pride was he at his promotion, that his arroof pride was he at his promotion, that his arrogance knew no bounds, and he even commanded every one to bow down to the earth as he approached. This was acquiesced in by all except an Israelite of the tribe of Benjamin, named Mordecai, who, believing it to be wrong to bow down to any save the great King of Kings, refused to pay such undue homage, which so incensed Haman that he determined on the destruction, not only of the offending Mordecai, but of the whole Jewish race.

Esther, the Oueen who was a Lewess learned

Esther, the Queen, who was a Jewess, learned of the intended destruction of her race, and gave a banquet, at which she intended to see and prevail upon the King to save her people. At this banquet Esther unfolded the tale and, told the King what a wicked man proposed doing to her people. The King, in a burst of anger, demanded the name of the Inhuman monster, whom Esther pointed out in the person of his Minister Haman. Frantic with race son of his Minister Haman. Frantic with rage the King ordered his immediate execution on the gallows he was told he had prepared for Mordecai; and as the laws of the Medes and Persians could not be changed, the royal pro-clamation went forth that the Jews should declamation went forth that the Jews should defond themselves from their enemies on the memorable 14th of Adar. But there was little heed of this, for "fear was on the inhabitants," and instead of a day of sorrow and wailing, it became one of joy and feasting, and so ordered to be observed.

The origin of the name of the feast is from the "lois" cast by Haman, the Hebrew word for "Purim," and ever since the feast has been kept up as a season of rejoicing, in commemoration of the goodness of God to His people of Jarael, whom He has declared "shall never be destroyed, even though they be in the land of their enemies."

On the Saturday preceding the Feast of Purim. sermons are preached upon the observance of the feast in the various synagogues. The evening before the day of the festival is generally season of rejoicing, and was formerly almost as much observed amongst the Hebrews as Carlstmas eve is amongst Christian nations. On the morning of the day, which occurs to-morrow, there is a service in the synagogues, and the history of the origin of the feast is read instead of a regular sermon. During the evening the people meet in social gatherings, and all are merry, and congratulate each other upon the great blessing that the day commemorates. In former days, the custom generally obtained of giving and receiving presents, but of late years it has not been so generally observed.

OUR SOUTHERN STRAMERS-THE NEW STRAM-SHIP WYOMING—ARRIVAL OF THE STAR OF THE UNION.—The event of yesterday on our river front was the delivery of the new steamer Wyoming to the Southern Mail Steamship Com-pany, About half-past 2 o'clock she moved out from Kaighn's Point, N. J., where she was built, and steamed slowly up to the Company's wharf, second below Spruce street, where she now lies. Perhaps a more perfectly modelled craft never walked the water, and she floats almost like a feather. She is an exact facsimile of the Star of the Union, differing only in the recent of teams. in the amount of tonnage. She is 200 feet in length, with 80 feet breadth of beam, and I feet in depth. She will carry 850 tons of mer-chandise. She has direct-acting engines, 46-inch cylinder. Her revolutions are 65 to 70 per minute. Wheel is 19 feet, with 17-foot pitch To insure safety to the passengers, she is pro-vided with four self-righting life-boats and vided with four self-righting life-boats and patent disconnecting apparatus, by which they can be thrown evenly on the surface of the sea. It will be impossible to submerge or swamp them. She is brig-rigged. James Thomas, of this city, having had that matter in charge. Her interior arrangements, with cabins above and below deck, are exceedingly chaste and complete. Her contractor was Mr. Henry Simons, of Kaighn's Point, and her machinery was made by the National Armor Shipping Company, at the same place, and works to a charm. She is rated first-class, cost $91,781-23, and has a marine insurance of $50,000. She is intended solely for the Savannah trade, and is under command of Captain Teal, formerly of under command of Captain Teal, formerly of the Tonawanda, of which she is the consort. The Star of the Union, Captain Cooksey, New Orleans via Havana, same line of steamers, arrived shortly after midnight, making the run in seven days, with a large freight and passen-gers from both cities. She lies at Arch street

Luce, will give any information that visitors may require as to the prices of the various pictures, where they are slaced, etc. The catalogue embraces some ninety-three specimens of the finest works of art that have been offered to the Philadelphia public. Most of the contributors are pupils of eminent artists and in some cases the great eminent artists, and in some cases the great artists themselves are represented by beautiful specimens of their workmanship. Among them we may mention the name of Gustave Dore, Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, the great delineator of the human countenance. He presents a specimen entitled "Christus Insulted by Soldiers," a brief description of which would perhaps not be amiss here. It represents Christ sitting down, with a crown of thorns upon His head, and the blood trickling down His face. One of the soldiers is represented in a kneeling posture, as if in mockery at the patient suffering of our Saviour in His trial. The great characteristic of the picture is the expression of the countenances, which are, to use the remark of a bystander, "as natural as life." The Gallery is well worth a visit, and those who are desirous of adorning their parlors with masterpleces could not do better than purchase a few of those offered at the time of sale. eminent artists, and in some cases the great

AN OUTBAGEOUS PROCEEDING .- This morning, An Outrage core Proceeding.—This morning, as a lady with a small child in her arms, was getting out of one of the passenger cars near the Exchange, the conductor pulled the strap before she had time to get off the platform, and the platform-guard catching in the lady's crinoline, she was dragged for about twenty feet on the track, at the luminent risk of her own life and that of the child. This practice of starting the cars before passengers have got safe from the platform is an evil that will lead to some serious results if it is not stopped.

Latest and Most Important Discoveries in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases. DR. S. W. BECKWITH'S

No. 1220 WALNUT ST. During our investigations in the treatment of disease in its various forms by the agency of electricity, we have obtained very many valuable and startling facts, which, added to the previous though limited information, possessed by other and less fortunate operators, place us beyond all previous knowledge of this mysterious agent. The brain, mucous and serous membranes, the skin, tissues, and fluids constitute the negative and posi-tive torces, and every action, whether mental or physical, is the result of these antagonistic torces Digestion, respiration, circulation, secretion, and excretion are due solely to electrical influence. There is a polar action established throughout the nervous system which connects with every part of the body, establishing and preserving a proper balance of the electrical element which consultates health, and a disturbance of which causes disease. There are strictly but two conditions or disease one of inflammation, or positive; the other weak, debilitated, negative—and as electricity contains these two conditions in the action of the positive and negative currents, all we have to do is to neutralize the disease and restore proper, healthy
