A SUBSTITUTE FOR CALOMEL

The medical and scientific talent and ingenuity of both Europe and America have long been actively, but unsuccessfully, exercised to provide a substitute for CALOMEL, that powerful, dangerous, poisonous, destructive substance which, notwithstanding its known ruinous results, has acted a leading part in the practice of most physicians all their professional lives. Days and nights, year in and year out, have been laboriously and persistently passed by eager heads and hands to learn if, in all the wide realm of nature, there could not be found something that would perform the varied offices of calomel, and at the same time not be followed by its deplorably baneful effects. Fortunately for mankind, and to the perennial glory of science and the medical art, this great desideratum has been discovered by Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia. Schenck's Mandrake Pills combine precisely the purpose, the power, and the need which has so long been sought; and henceforth calomel, in all its killing forms, from mercury to its most distant dilution, may be laid on the upper shelf of obscurity, to repose in the merited dust and rubbish of ages. The Pills have been in use in Dr. Schenck's very large practice for several years, and their marvellous virtues have been fully demonstrated. Their effect is precisely wha is wanted-at once active, friendly, searching, and thorough on the human system.

It is not probable that so really great and efficacious a discovery in medicine has been made for centuries, and it redounds all the more to the extraordinary spirit of investigation, observation, and sagacity of Dr. Schenck, that he should have reached the proud distinction of making it. The Doctor puts forward no special claim to be a scientific man, but he is certainly that and very much morea man of rare common sense and intelligence. He has had, and is daily having, an immense ractice in the cure of disease, and has sadly seen too often the disastrous and fatal effect of calomel, in its various phases, not to have for

The very extensive demand for the Pills from every section of the country shows at least that they are beginning to be appreciated. As a commercial fact of interest, we may state that no pill in the country is selling so rapidly at the leading medical depots. The great resources of the fine laboratory in Philadelphia are taxed to the utmest, and yet the supply is far behind the demand. He has struck upon a most fortunate discovery-fortunate for the world, and fortunate in a double sense to himself. Schenck's Mandrake Pills have just entered upon their beneficent career. Their course will circle the round of the nations, and no people upon whom the sun shines or stars look down will ere long be without their health-restoring, life-giving aid it a just and abiding horror.

Disease, routed, dismayed, disheartened, will flee from its hiding-places in the human system, shorn of its power to curse and destroy. Combining as they do not only the best efficacy and virtue of Mandrake, itself a most remarkable growth of nature, but other rare and active products culled from her profuse cornucopia, and compounded as they are in the nicest proportions and after the most approved chemical methods, the Pills are truly an achievement in medical science which will bear the severest test of time, and grow in popularity in proportion as they are used. They act not upon any one, but several organs; and above and more than all, they clear the system of that gross, impure, filthy bile which causes so much disease, and which, while in the system, utterly prevents anything

Columns could easily be written upon the multifarious virtues of these Pills. This is, perhaps, hardly necessary at the present time, for they are surely as well as swiftly making a welcome place in every household in the Schenck's Mandrake Pills will make his name dear to the firesides of the world, and many a prostrate form will rise in joy, health, and strength to bless him. He has achieved, by the force of common sense, and close, consecutive study, a triumph in the healing art which all the grave and revered professors of the medical institutions of the world would give their entire honors and emoluments to to have made. Thus it is that the world moves on, its progress and momentum being made not by the so-called great men, but by the practical, the hard-working, the robust, and industrious possessors and users of comagon sense. Such a man is Dr. Schenck, and his name will go down to posterity a treasure to grateful millions for his noble, life-inspiring discovery-THE SCHENCK MANDRAKE PILLS .-Evewing Bulletin.

SCIENTIFIC REUNION .- A grand affair came off SCHNTIFIC RECENOS.—A grand allair came on the evening of the 12th instant, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Associa-tion, in Chesnut street, above Twelfth. The Committee on Scientific Lectures had conceived the happy thought of inviting to an entertain-ment the gentlemen who had voluntarily rendered their valuable assistance in lecturing before the Association during the season just closed. A number of the members of the Board of Directors of the Association and other invited guests were present.

A very pleasant hour was spent in the parlor in introductions and conversation, after which, when all had become well acquainted, the when all had become well acquainted, the company sat down to a handsomely decorated and well-loaded table, to which ample justice was done by all present. The Chair was occupied by Mr. George W. Mears, Chairman of the Lecture Committee, who called upon the President of the Association, Mr. Peter B. Simons, to express the gratitude of the Association to the scientific gentlemen present for their valu-able services rendered the Association during the winter.

Professor Hayden, of the Academy of Natural Professor Hayden, of the Academy of Natural Sciences, responded most happily, after which short addresses were kept up until a late hour; they abounded in sparkling wit, brilliant repartee, happy scientific allusions, and a rich appreciation of the noble aims of the Young Men's Christian Association, endeavoring to draw the young men of the city to a love of all that is truly emphiling in science as well as in that is truly ennobling in science as well as in

He thought that the small number present denoted that the majority of those present at the last meeting were receiving the amount, asked last meeting were receiving the amount asked for—$3 a day.

Mr. Shedden thought the press of the city should aid the cause, and he suggested that a committee be appointed to wait upon the different papers, and request them to insert an article in their editorial columns, asserting that the cause of the journeymen was just. In accordance with the suggestion, a commit-tee waited upon some of the papers, and re-ceived a favorable response to their request.

Brown was taken to the Episcopal Hospital, and it is not expected that he will live. Haggart was committed by Alderman Cloud to await the result of the man's injuries. PROSPECTIVE ACTIVITY AT THE NAVY YARD.—
An order was recently issued from the Navy Department at Washington, for the complete overbauling and repair of the United States steamer Florida, and the Navy Yard near Norfolk, Va., was selected as the place for the work. But the Hon. Samuel J. Handall, who deserves credit for being alive to the business interests of his constituents, procured a revocation of the latter part of the order, and the Florida will shortly arrive at this port to undergo the necessary repairs at our Navy Yard, instead of at the one first selected. The Florida, we understand, is in a very unsatisfactory condition, and considerable time and labor will be required to renter her entirely seaworthy. A SPLENDID IMPROVEMENT.-Amon A SPLENDID IMPROVEMENT.—Among the many fine improvements projected in Philadelphia lately, there are none that seem to have struck the public eye so forcibly, and withal so favorably, as that of Conrad Brothers, extensive manufacturers and importers of Gents' Furnishing Goods, and Tollet and Fancy Articles, "Girard Row," No 1107 Chesnut street, Their religible store was consend to the public Their splendid store was opened to the public for the first time on Saturday evening last; and its magnificent show windows—the glass in which alone cost over $1600—and the strikingly beautiful arrangement and adornment of the interior of the establishment, presented such a perfect coup d'ail of beauty and effect as to keep a crowd in front of it almost to the closing of the store. The windows are diagonal shaped, and so constructed that every article can be seen at glance, while the interior of the store is fitte up regardless of expense—carpeted, and other-wise tastefully adorned. The enterprising firm will, no doubt, do a thriving business in their beautiful establishment; for in addition to the unusual attractions, the assortment of goods they open with is almost endless, and in such variety and quantity—from the most plain and domestic to the finest and most recherche imported goods—that all tastes can be suited. The gentlemen composing the firm are noted for their suavity of manners, tact, and energy, and their motto being "No trouble to show goods, even if you don't buy," their success in business is so assured, that a reasonable doubt can-

The subject of the above notice was a child of singular beauty and promise. Though mature beyond her years, there was something so delicate and spirituell about her that she constantly seemed like one destined to tarry but a little while on earth. After a protracted and painful illness she was called home, and the brief and beautiful earthly life went out forever.

The present disposition of the Imperialists is to stand a stege for some time longer. They can doubtless hold out a month if they wish. The population of the city being in favor of the empire, aid them in every way possible. A considerable quantity of grain, it is said, was stored at Queretaro before the siege; but the reports of the amount of supplies in the city are so conflicting that it is impossible to believe anything. One thing is certain, it is found to be almost as difficult to feed the besieging army as it is the besieged, and the question is, who will be starved out first. The Liberals are making great efforts to maintain their position, and, I judge, will be able to do it. Their principal supplies are now draws from Gnanajuato and San Luis Potosi, although presiones are levied on all the supplies are now draws from Ghanajuato and San Luis Potosi, although prestamos are levied on all the neighboring States to sustain the army. I have before stated that I have no confidence in the Liberal commander. Exceled. He is commeletely unfitted for his position, and should be replaced by Corons or Regules. If the Liberals are not successful in front of the besieged city it will be for want of a leader; not for want of good troops, of which they have an abundant supply. If Junrez does not reach Maxico within a mouth it will be because the Liberal commander displays no generalship. A war which might be concluded within thirty days may yet drag along for six months; and in the meantime Mexico is suffering terribly. Her commerce is entirely prostrate, and the merchants, upon whom the weight of every prestamo falls heavily, are almost disheartened.

The Laguna district of Southwest Coabulla is again in rebellion, and General Herrera, who commands about one thousand somewhat lawless men, demands that this section be erected into a separate district, instead of its boing under the rule of the Parras authorities, who, it seems, are much deteated by the Laguneros, as they are called, or the "extreme volunteers," as the Minister of War calls them. They may give some trouble just at this moment, and might readily march on Saltillo and liberate General Gonzales Ortega, now confined there.

Newspaper Accounts.

The New Orleans Picayana publishes the following extracts from papers in the interior of Mexico:—
Colonel Zepeda, of the Liberal army, writes from front of Queretare on March 11:—
At 11 o'clock this morning the enemy came out with a column of three hundred cavairy, almost surpraining my advanced post at the gate of San Pablo, consisting of lorty or sixty men strong, of Naranjo sharpshooters placed under my command by order from headquarters.

ers placed under my command by order from head-quarters.

The enemy at the same time advanced by the hill on the left of my camp and by the road, thinking no doubt to cut off the brigade established at about a thousand yards on the left of said road; but as soon as I learned what was going on I sent sixty riflemen to the assistance of the advanced post, which were sufficient. Thanks to their bravery and the quality of their arms, they put the enemy to flight. They pursued them up to their lortifications, killing three and making five prisoner. On our side Second Lieu-tenant Rabago and two men were wounded and one horse killed.

and making five prisoner. On our side Second Lieutenant Rabago and two men were wounded and one horse killed.

Our camp is at the Haceada de Albarabo. It is very well fortlified, and, moreover, very pionresque. We are, therefore, not only in perfect security, but also at our ease. The traitors cannot come out of Querctaro, and they have no oner resort than to surrender or let themselves de of hunger.

Another letter, of March II., was.—

We had a grand parade yesterdar, and we were drawn in line within cannot snot of his Majesty file himperor's tent. He did not live a single snot. Today the famous Mender cannot on white four hundred men and was besten and just to fight by our good Victoriano Zepeda and fifty men, who kirled five of the enemy and took eight prisoners. We were called to arms, thinking we were to have a day of fighting. I forgot to mention that filva Palacios will join us suortly. Then, poor Imperialists no chances of escape, and at Querctaro is gathered the head and tail of treason. In a few days the place will be in our power, together with the Emperor, the nobility, and the garrison; for we are besieging it with more than twenty-four thousand men, of well-disciplined and enthusiastic forces, while those in the city are demornized, and are short of previsions, and casectally water. This we learn from prisoners taken in three reconnoissances made by the enemy. In these three attempts we have taken about thirty prisoners, and the Imperialists have lost from prisoners taken in three forces with which we have put them to flight were at isaat two-thirds interior to their numbers.

The Onion, of Mexico, says that in all the districts in the power of the dissidents a tax is collected for the three years past, to which is added the interest at six per cent.

The same Mexican paper states that although wounded, in the stable of the Haclenda de Tepetatos, become forced and the world to Joaquin Miramon that he would not have him snot, the former received a formal order from Joarez to do so, and he was exec
