The Organization of the Republican Party in the South.

It is no longer a matter of doubt that the Republican party is to be organized in all the Southern States. Indeed, in several of them it has already been organized, and in others steps towards that end are being taken. A great delegate convention, numbering over three hundred members, has been in session for the past two days at Richmond, Virginia, for the organization of the Republican party in that State.

We look upon all these movements with undisguised pleasure. It is better for the country that its political organizations should not be bounded by sectional lines, but should prevail all over the land. The Republican party would long ago have been organized in all the Southern States, had it not been for the fact that, until after the overthrow of slavery, freedom of speech and freedom of the press were not tolerated in that section of the country. The principles of the Republican party were always national: its organization was for a time sectional simply because its enemies compelled it to be so. We should have polled a large vote for Fremont in 1856 in the South had freedom of speech and of the press, instead of mob violence, prevailed there. We should have polled there a still larger vote for Lincoln in 1860, had we not been prevented by violence from doing so. In the old "Union as it was," the South was dominated by the slave oligarchy, and any organization in opposition to its designs was impossible. Now, however, the doors are opened, and the Southern people are at last to be permitted to organize themselves into parties the same as other citizens of the republic. They are not slow in embracing the opportunity, and we shall soon behold a well-organized Republican party in each of the Southern States. It may not be dominant in many of them for some time to come, but it will be of great public utility to have even a sound and intelligent political minority in those States. It will tend to break up Southern unity, and that bad habit which the secession politicians have educated their partisans into indulging, of looking upon "the South" as something separate and distinct frem the rest of the republic. The Southern people will begin to feel themselves citizens of the Union, and not merely or primarily citizens of their own States. The old sectional feeling will gradually wear out of them and be forgotten.

Hence, if for nothing but for its incidental blessings, we hope that the organization of the Republican party will be triumphantly prosecuted in every Southern State. We look also for more pronounced results, for we believe that there are several of the late Rebel States that will become sound and reliable Republican States, as much so as Iowa or Michigan.

Suffrage in New Jersey.

WE publish in full Hon. James M. Scovel's recent letter upon the question of suffrage. It has the right ring, and we trust that his labors in behalf of so wise and just a cause may be the means of accomplishing much good. The old Revolutionary patriots of New Jersey never thought of disfranchising a good, honest, tax-paying citizen on account of his color. They would have spurned such an idea with infinite contempt. From the days of the Revolution down to 1844 the Constitution of New Jersey knew nothing of disfranchisement on account of color. That monstrosity of injustice was the fruit of that later infamous pro-slavery sentiment which so foully disgraced our whole country down to the breaking out of the Rebellion. The remnants of that sentiment still linger, but are fast passing away like mist before the rising sun of equal rights.

The Peabody Educational Fund. FROM the circular issued by Dr. Sears, General Agent of the Peabody Educational Fund, we infer that this new and great benefaction is likely to be administered with more than usual discretion. The principle upon which assistance is to be afforded is that of securing, as far as possible, self-help on the part of the people. It is intended to operate as a stimulus to their exertions. The direct aim of the Agent will be to encourage and aid common schools in the South, schools established. supported, and superintended by the Southern people themselves. Normal schools will also be regarded with particular favor.

This plan may not appear as imposing as would the erection of some one or more great universities, but it will be of infinitely more benefit to the Southern people. It seeks to reach the masses, and to do it through stimulating the efforts of the people themselves.

SENATOR WILSON'S SOUTHERN TOUR. - Senator Wilson is about to commence a stumping tour through the principal cities of the South. We anticipate great good from his efforts. The Southern people have heard so many foolish and malignant lies about the "radicals," that they will probably be astonished when they hear the real doctrines of Republicanism from the lfps of so wise and dispassionate a speaker as Senator Wilson. They will find that the Republican party is the true friend of the South, seeking its highest political and social good, ready to forgive its past errors, and to welcome it to our new, purified, and regenerated Union.

Democracy in Kentucky.

WE learn by telegraph that the Hon. R. T. Baker, Union candidate for Lieutenaut-Governor, was prevented from speaking by a gang of returned Rebels at Germantown, Ky., a day or two since. He was warned that violence would be done him if he made the attempt. A part of the town was burned.

Kentucky is a standing example of partisan Democracy, such as now seeks to obtain control of the nation. Its true spirit is acted out there without restraint. It tramples down free speech, and overrides the Constitution and the laws with mob violence. Give the Democratic party power, and the whole South would soon be as badly off as Kentucky is. Suppose it had been a party of freedmen that had prevented some Democratic candidate from speaking, and had burned part of a town, what a howl of indignation would Democratic journals have raised allover the country! How would they have argued from it the unfitness of the black man to exercise the elective franchise! As the work of Kentucky Democrats, nothing will be said about it.

The New York "Herald" in its New Quarters.

THE New York Herald gives notice to-day that it will be found to-morrow in its new building on Broadway. The change, it says, will be effected quietly between midnight tonight and daybreak to-morrow morning.

The Herald is, in many respects, the leading and most successful paper in this country; and with its growth and prosperity there seems to be on the part of its proprietor a higher appreciation of the duties it owes to the public. Some of the best and ablest articles on public topics, whether political, social, or artistic, are now to be found in the columns of the Herald.

THE ANTAGONIZING OF RACES .- We agree with our Democratic contemporary when it says that "No organization that seeks to antagonize the races in the South can lay claim to be the friends of that section." And yet this is exactly the work which our contemporary and its party have for a long time been engaged in. No antagonism can be greater than that which necessarily exists between master and slave, and the Democratic party is the great proslavery party of this country. Our contempo. rary opposes the political equality of races at the South, and favors the oppression of one race by another. What is this but seeking to "antagonize the races?" Equal political rights are the great harmonizer of races, and these the Republican party supports.
