Office of the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia To the Presidents and Members of the Select and Common Councils. Gentlemen: To my great surprise, on Saturday last I was officially presented with the following:

Resolution of Request to the Mayor.

Resolved by the Select and Common Councils of the city of Philaceiphia. That the Mayor be and he is hereby requested to use and exert all the powers vested to him by law to secure the enforcement of the Sunday Liquor law, and all willing abuse of the sale of liquors to minors, and all willing abuse of the sale of intoxicating drinks throughout the city; and that he be requested to instruct the police force under his control to manifest the numest care and vigilance that the lews in this particular be strictly enforced, and all offenders brought to justice

Attest:

Bunjamin H. Haines.

Cierk of Select Council.

As during the frequent visits to this office by

As during the frequent visits to this office by members of your bodies no allusion, direct or remote, had been made by any of them to this resolution, nor any intimation been given that there existed or was alleged to exist any cause for com-plaint in the matters to which it referred; and as on its passage through Councils it provoked no comment, I presume it was not in ended nor sup-posed to express anything unusual or important. Considering the kind and friendly relations I have striven to cultivate with the legislative branch of the city government, I am not willing to believe that the latter would wilfaily have cast cannot that the latter would wiffully have cast censure on this department without any notice of such a purpose. But insdvertence does not change the fact that I am charged at least by innende, with official dereliction. A formal application to any one to do a special act involves the suggestion that the act has not been done; and when Councils request the Mayor to perform his duty, they convey the imputation that his duty has not been performed. This imputation is unfounded, and against its utterance, as here made, I respectfully but earnestly

I do not pretend to understand what is meant by the enforcement of "all wriful abuse of the sale of intoxicating drinks throughout the city," but for myself, and in behalf of the force under my command, I assert that "the Sunday Liquor Law, and all laws prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors," so far as they come within the powers and duties of the police, are faithfully and diligently executed; and that for this reason, if there were no other, the recommendation "to instruct the police force un-der" my "control to manifest the utmost care and vigilance that the laws in this particular be strictly enforced, and all offenders brought to justice," is wholly gratuitous. In legislative bodies comprising so many well-read lawyers, and so many well-informed citizens as are to be found in Coun-cils, it ought not to be doubtful that the provisions of the laws referred to are properly understood.

What those provisions are was so clearly set forth by my learned predecessor. Mr. Henry, in reply to a request made to him by a large number of clergymen, similar to the request now made to me by Councils, that I reproduce a portion of his letter:

men, similar to the request now made to me by Councils, that I reproduce a portion of his letter:

"There are three statutes, and but three, which relets to the sale of liquor on Eurday, within this State. The first in order of date is a Provincial act of 1705, the 5th and 6th sections whereof are in these words:

[5,] "And be it further enacted. That all persons who are found drinking and tippling in ale-houses, tavers, or other public house or place, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or any part thereof, shell for every offence for feit and pay one shilling and sixpence, to any conside that shall demand the same, to the use of the poor; and all constables are hereby empowered, and by virtue of their office required to search public houses and places suspected to entertain such tippl rs, and them, when found, quietly to disperse; but in case of refusal, to bring the persons so refusing before the next Justice of the Peace, who may commit such offenders to the stocks, or bind them to their good behavior, as to him shall seem requisite. And the keepers of such ale-houses, taverns, or other public house or place, as shall countenance or tolerate any such practices, being convicted thereof, by the view of a single magistrate, his own confesion, or the proof of one or more credible witnesses, shall, for every offence, forfeit and pay ten shillings, to be recovered as and for the uses abovessid, [6,] Provided slaws, That nothing in this act be construed to prevent victualing houses or others, on the first day of the week, with victuals and drink in moderation, for refreshment only; of which necessary occasions of travellers, inmaces, lodgers, or others, on the first day of the week, with victuals and drink in moderation, for refreshment only; of which necessary occasion for refreshment, as also moderation, the magistrate before whom complaint is made shall be judge—any law, usage, or oustom in this province to the contral public houses and suspected places, and dispersing tipplers, may yet surviv day, and as absurd in remodial agency as the punishment of the stocks, which has long since been abandoned.

"The next statute bearing upon this subject is that of 22d April, 1794 commonly on let the Sunday law, which, among other provisions, enacts that 'If any person shall do or perform any worldly employment or business whatsoever on the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, works of necessity and charity only excepted—and be convicted thereof, every such person so offending shell for every such offence forfeit and pay four dollars, to be levied by distress; or, in case he or she shall refuse or neglect to pay the said sum, or goods and chattles cannot be found whereof to levy the same by distress, he or she shall suffer six days imprisonment in the House of Correction of the proper county.' Prov ded always, that every such prosecution shall be commenced within seventy-two hours after the offence shall be committed."

"The prohibition of selling liquor is within the general interdict of this act, but the process which it gives is punitive in its nature, and not preventive. The serving of all legal process on Sunday, except in cases of treason, felony or breach of peace, is forbidden by statute. The violation of the Sunday law is a misdemeanor; but unless accompanied by noise or disorder, it is not an actual breach of the peace. Such is the language of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in the decision of a case arising under this law. The remedy for its infraction is by complaint within seventy-two hours thereafter before a justice of the peace, who, upon due evidence, may impose a fine of four dollars can be incurred by any one offender for all the acts, however nume-ous, performed during any Sunday in the exercise of his business.

"The third statute, before referred to, is the act of 20th of February, 1855, which is in these terms:

[1] "Itshall not be lawful for any person or persons to sell, trade or batter in any spirituous or mait liquors, wine or cider, on their ast day of the week."

"The second secti

their agents or servants, on the said first day of the week?

"The second section imposes a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recoverable as debts of like amount are now by law recoverable one-half for the guardians of the poor, the other for the benefit of the grosecutor, unless he is a witness, in which event the whole penalty is to be paid to the said guardians.

"The third section enacts that.

"In addition to the civil ponsities imposed by the last preceding section, for a violation of the provisions of the first section of this act, every person who shall violate the provisions of that section shall be taken and deemed to have committed a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof, in any criminal court in this commonwealth, be first in any sum not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, and be imprisoned in the county jell for a period not less than ten nor more than sixty asys, at the discretion of the court."

imprisenced in the county yell for a period not test than ten nor more than sixty ways, at the discretion of the court."

"Although the sale of liquor on Sunday is made by this act an indictable office, there is no power of a directly preventive nature conferred by its provisions. The Mayor of Philadelphis having no jurisdiction in civil suits, can entertain no prosecution under any of those statutes for the penalties thereby imposed; but since the restoration of the Mayor's functions as a Committing Magistrate, by set of 28th of March, 1863, he may, in common with all other magistrates, upon affidavit before him. issue warrants for the arrest of parties selling liquor on Sunday, and upon satisfactory evidence, bind them over for trial before a criminal court, and with the return of the transcript from his decket, his official duty in these cases ends.

"It must then be apparent that there is no patter vested in the Mayor or in any mas state to close up or prevent access to a facera, or other drinking place on Sunday. And that upon such day no policemen can lawday. And that upon such day no policemen can lawdow. And that upon such day no policemen can lawdow. And that upon such day no policemen can lawdow. And that upon such day no policemen can lawdow. And that upon such day no policemen can lawdow to what these resorts, or to arrest p ursons committing misdemeanors by setting at naught the restrictions of the law.

"The sale of a commodity, whether in shop or tavarn, is not a breach of the peace and if through miscocived duty the Mayor should station an officer in each bar room within the city, during every Sunday of the year, not one violation of the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on that day could thus lawfully be prevented."

"It may, however, be alleged that the police should." It may, however, be alleged that the police should."

sale of liquor on that day could thus lawfully be prevented?

'It may, however, be alleged that the police should be detailed to visit taverns on Sunday, that their ovidence might be used in the presention of those who violate the law; but a moment's reflection should show the illegality as d impolicy or such a course. A police man, in his official capacity, unless charged with the service of a warrant to arrest for treason, falony or breach of the peace, or unless called upon for the prevention of violence or disorder, has no greater right to enter on Bunday a place of public entertainment than he has to treapass upon the annetity of a private house. The law does not permit its agents to annoy the citizen by domicillary visits in search of evidence to convict him of crimes. Moreover, should a policeman be thus detailed to visit, in his uniform, places where it is presumed that liquor is uniawfully sold, the aim of such visit would of course be frustrated,

But if he doffs the distinctive dress that bespeaks his official authority (and promotes alike his self-respect and his regard for the crudit of the public service,) that, es a spy, he may mingle among the inmates of the tunday bar-room, to denounce on the morrow the offerces which he has witnessed, either his manhood will revolt at the degrading errand or he must be unfit to be trusted with the honorable protection of the community.

will revolt at the degrading errand or he must be unfit to be trusted with the honorable protection of the community.

How, then, under the existing statutes, is the sale of liquor to be prevented on Sunday? By detering all persons from committing such offence through estimity of 1s prosecution to punishment, upon complaint, and evidence of citizens specially aggrieved, or actuated solely for the public good.

The concerted resolve of a few determined residents of each ward that this traffic on Bunday shall be stopped will do more to prevent a public disregard of the probibitions of the law than can in any otherwise be effected.

Where, then, is the power which this memorial greations as the probibition of the sale of liquor on Sunday? True, in popular appelension, the Mayor for enfercing the probibition of the sale of liquor on Sunday? True, in popular appelension, the Mayor is clothed with anthority to shat up the resorts of the lewd, to check the devices of the gambler or policy dealer, to seize the persons of reputed criminals to suppress all nuisances, to satisfy all complaints, and that, too, upon more suspicion or allegation, without one tittle of legal evidence to sustain the process of the law. But the Mayor possesses no such autocratic attributes—he is the executive of the law not the giver of the law—he is commissioned to vindicate the law rumor or suspicion, to make its mandates odious and its process insufferable.

This exposition, which was widely published before I entered into the office of Mayor, was accepted not only by those to whom it was directived.

before I entered into the office of Mayor, was ac-cepted not only by those to whom it was directly addressed, but by the general public, as conclusive of the subject. By me it was certainly so regarded, and acting on this conviction, and satisfled that in whatever concerned the public morals I might safely follow in the footsteps of a magistrate distinguished alike for purity of personal character, and wisdom not less than firmness in maintaining public order, I have not, as the "executive of the law," felt called upon to resort to those "illegal inquisitions" which "make its mandates odious and its processes insufferable." At the same time I have endeavored to prevent presents of the other processes. prevent breaches of the quiet and decorum of the Sabbath occurring through this agency, by requiring that all persons engaged in disturbances in taverns, or the vicinity of taverns, should be summarily dealt with to the extent of my au-thority; and I have reason to believe that, with occasional exceptions, my orders in this respect have been strictly carried out. It is not to be denied that the present condition of things in Philadelphia on a Sunday in regard to drinking houses is a scandal and opprobrium. On many of our thoroughfares, people, in passing to and from their respective places of worship, are offended by the inducements to dissipation which are flaunted before them, and many a heart is made sad by the knowledge that some relative or friend is led astray by these temptations. Moreover the red of the relative show that in certain sections. over, the police returns show that in certain secover, the police returns show that in certain sec-tions, owing to the opportunities offered, what should be a day of rest is converted into a day of debauchery, and the week which should begin with reinvigorated strength and spirite is begun by too many under the exhaustion of excess and the disgrace of exposure.

In no other of our great northern cities is this state of affairs permitted; and with the confessed inadequacy of our existing laws, it is deplorable that there has been no suitable legislation to remedy the evil. In this connection I may say that at the very period—as I have learned since its passage—when a leading committee of Councils was engaged in considering the resolution I complain of I was engaged in prefer the Legisland of I was engaged. plain of, I was engaged in urging upon the Legis-lature of the common wealth the passage of a law which would enable the Mayor to abate this great wilsance. And I feel well assured that if, in-stead of calling upon me now to fulfil duties I have never neglected, Councils had co-operated with me then to secure powers which the Chief Magistrate of the city ought to possess, much real good might have been accomplished. MORTON MCMICHARL. Mr. Hodgdon called up the ordinance awarding to R. Wood & Co. the contract for supplying pipe to the Water Department. The Chamber declined to consider the ordinance

An ordinance was offered by Mr. Cattell appro-priating $6329 from the income of the Girard estates for alterations to premises in Chesnut street, above Eleventh.

The special committee on the House of Correction reported a resolution instructing the City Solicitor to take such measures as are necessary to have Eleventh street, in the rear of the prison, vacared. Agreed to. A resolution repealing the resolution of request to the Mayor was then offered, and on a vote being aken, no quorum voting, the Chamber was de-

Coroner's Investigation .- An inquest was beld yesterday afternoon at the Coroner's office, on the body of Robert Shultz, who died at the Pennsylvania Hospital on Tuesday evening, from the effects of a stab received during a row in a public house on Fitzwater street, below Seventh, on Sunday morning, the 7th of April. The most important testimony was the follow-

James O'Neill sworn-A little while before the affair, Shultz was sitting on the floor; Dunn was applying an abusive epithet to an old man; Shultz emarked he ought to be ashamed of himself Dunn went towards Shuftz, and asked him what he meant; I then left, and coming in a short time after, found Shultz sitting on the chair; was told he was struck by some man who was with

Joseph Green sworn—In the early part of the evening Burns and Duan came into the house, and called Mr. Melloy a hard name; Shultz said it was not right for a young man to call an old man such a name; Dunn asked what he had to do with it; Schultz told him to square him-self; the matter was settled, and they left, and came back; Meiloy was sitting on a barrel; Burns took hold of him and threw him on the floor; Shultz said that was not right, and that he was a triend of his; Dunn and Shultz clinched, when Burns pulled out a knite and put it into Shultz in the back; the knife dropped out of Burns' pocket, which his brother picked up; I was called outside, and saw a number of shoemakers; Burns came out and re-marked, "I have killed that old ____."

A number of witnesses corroborated this statement, but also that both the parties were Dr. E. B. Shapleigh testified that he made a post-mortem examination on the body of the deceased; discovered a penetrating wound in the left side of the back, extending into the left kidney; inflammation insued; an abscess had formed on the left kidney, and the left lung was destroyed by this inflammation; the cavity of the left pleura was filled with a bloody fluid; the deceased came to his death from inflammation caused by the above wound. The jury then rendered a verdict that the de-ceased came to his death from a wound indicted by George Burns, on the morning of the 7th of April, at a tavern No. 609 Flizwater street.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Benefit of Mr. Augustus S. Pennoyer, the Business Manager of the Richings English Opera Troupe. Auber's brilliant opera called The Crown Diamonds will be presented, with an excellent cast. CHESNUT STREET THEATRE. - After Many Days ontinues its successful career at this house. The scenery is really magnificent. The new play is full of beautiful situations and scenes, and is withal well constructed, and is almost entirely independent of the novel upon which it is tounded. Miss Josie Orten, Mr. Lawler, Mr. Lennox, and Mr. Mackay have all excellent parts assigned them, in which they appear to good advantage. To-morrow afternoon the usual family matinee will occur.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE.-Those who witnessed the wonderful acting of Ristori in the Italian play of Eazabeth, will be anxious to see Italian play of Eazabeth, will be anxious to see Mrs. Lander in the title role of the same play translated into English. We have no doubt that Mrs. Lander will be second only to the great tragedienne in the part. Mrs. Lander produces the new play for her benedt. Mr. James H. Taylor will play the part of "Robert, Earl of Essex," and Mr. J. B. Roberts will resume the role of "Lord Eugleigh." will assume the role of "Lord Burleigh."

ARCH STREET THEATRE. - Benefit of Lady Emily Don. She will personate "Fanny" in Brother Bob and I, and "Perseus," in Perseus and Andromeda, Lady Don will also sing a dozen delightful songs. m424 AMERICAN THEATRE,-This evening the perstrelsy, buriesques, and farces, in delectable variety. To morrow atternoon the usual ladies gift matinee will take place. THE FAMILY RESORT.-Carneross & Dixey present this evening the burlesque of East Lynne, Freedman's Bureau of Education, and A New Course of Study, together with the usual olio entertainment. Monday evening Mr. Robert Frazer's
