ARCH STREET PRESENTERIAN CHURCH.—In answer to a correspondent, we give the following sketch of the Pastor-elect of the West Arch Street Presbyterian Church:—

The Rev. Mr. Willitts was born in New Jersey, but early "emigrated" to this city, where his parents resided many years (his mother is still living in Philacelphia), and received his early living in Philacelphia), and received his early education under the care of Rev. James Goodfellow, with many of the now influential and leading men of the city. Subsequently, he entered the Classical and Theological Seminary in Pennington, N. J., and after graduating with the highest honors, was, for three years, one of the most efficient teachers in that institution.

From the seminary Mr. Willitts went into the pulpit, and the first seven years of his ministry was spent in the Methodist Church, in the leading churches of that denomination in Rexbury and Lowell, Mass. In 1819, he was called to the Reformed Dutch Church, in Crown stree!, above Race, which was then in a very embarrassed condition. To work successfully in this cource was a severe struggle, but by embarrassed condition. To work successfully in this courch was a severe struggle, but by hard labor and the mithful co-operation of the little band of Christian men and women, the pews were all filled within three years, and the church prospered so much that the floating debts were paid off, and the congregation freed from liabilities. The building was afterwards sold to the city for a market site, and the Dutch Reformers of Crown street began their public enterprise at Saventh street began their noble enterprise at Seventh and Spring Garden streets with some $17,000. and Spring Garden streets with some $17,000.

This magnificent church was built at a cost of upwards of $90,000, and when Rev. Mr. Willitts left it in 1860 the only debt remaining on it was about $15,000. Our readers will remember how rapidly the church on Spring Garden street filled up under the min stry of Mr. Willits, and for a long time prior to his separation from that people, the edifice, large as it was, was too small for the crowds that visited it on Sundays. The income of the church was annually from one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars in ex-one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars in excess of the current expenses,

In 1860, at the carnest solicitation of the late Rev. Dr. Bethune Mr. Willits left the Reformed Dutch thurch here, and took charge of the First Reformed Dutch Courch in Brooklyn, New York. That was the oldest church of that denomination in Brooklyn, and contained several prominent and wealthy men, but was very slimly attended. His ministry there, like here, was greatly blessed, and soon after his labors commenced the congregation increased, and the church filled up. The building and church were remodelled at heavy expense, and in 1864 the courch contributed ten thousand dollars for the endowment of Rutgers' College dollars for the endowment of Ratgers' College one-tenth of the entire endowment of that institution, In 1865 Mr. Willitts left this strong, healthy, and wealthy church, and took charge of the celebrated Lee Avenue Reiormed Dutch Church, which had been nearly two years without a pastor, and whose people had become scattered from various causes. During the two years he was at the head of Lee Avenue Church it has been a magnificent success. Nearly every sitting is occupied on the Sabbath, and all the floating debts have been paid off. The Sunday Schools have largely increased, and now now Schools have largely increased, and now num-Ler upwards of 1500 in regular attendance. Some seventy persons were added to the com-munion of the church in the same period. Such is the history, in brief, of the distin-guished clergyman whom the people of west Arch Street Church have had the good sense to Arch Street Church have had the good sense to call to their elegant edifice. Already several of the pews have been sold and rented to wellknown citizens, and by the time Mr. Willitts commences his pastoral duties here (it is said that will be on the last Sunday in this month), it will be difficult to purchase or rent a very desirable pew in the church. We are giad to welcome Mr. Willitts back to Philadelphia, and we predict for him a career of great usefulness and success.

During his ministry in this city before, Princeton College, in recognition of his talents and services, bestowed upon him the degree of A. M., and while in Brooklyn, Rutgers' College gave him the title of D. D.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO A LITTLE BOY .- About seven o'clock last evening, a couple of little boys, one named Henry Baltz, aged four years, were playing upon a lumber pile standing in the street at Third above Buttonwood. In a playful mood the other boy pushed Henry off, and he fell upon the track of the Second and Third Streets Railway, just as car No. 29 came along, and notwithstanding efforts were made to stop it, the car wheels passed over his left arm, seriously injuring it. Amputation is thought necessary. The driver and conductor were both exonerated from all blame.

ELEGANT COUNTRY SEATS AND FARMS, RESI ELEGANT COUNTRY SEATS AND FARMS, RESIDENCES, STORES, ETC.—Those of our readers seeking investments, or a delightful home in the country, would do well by getting Thomas & Sons' catalogue of twenty-eight pages for their sale on Tuesday next, at the Exchange, comprising upwards of fifty properties, including elegant country seats, farms, stores, desirable dwellings, building lots, stocks, etc. See their advertisements under auction head.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT .- Samuel Hance, an Englishman, manifested his supreme contempt for his neighbors in and about Randolph and Master streets, by using, as it is alleged, insulting language, and being constantly engaged in disorderly conduct. When arrested and taken before Alderman Shoemaker, he used such disrespectful and disgusting language to the magistrate, that he was committed in default of Englishman, manifested his supreme contempt $1000 bail to answer at Court.

JAMES E. MURDOCH'S LAST APPEARANCE .-The special programme arranged for the last appearance of James E. Murdoch, at the Academy of Music, to-morrow evening, will be found in another column. The programme has been selected with the greatest of care, is entirely new, and embraces a number of pieces in the regulation of which Mr. Murdoch cannot be equalled. Seats should be secured at once, Malicious. - Patrick Keller, residing at Taney and Brown streets, got into trouble with a German family who resided in the upper rooms of the same dwelling. He committed an assault on the German's wife, smashed the Germansault on the German's wife, smashed the Germansault of the German's wife, smashed the Germansault of the German's wife, smashed the Germansault of the Germa man's furniture, and with an axe backed pieces the German's hen-coop. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Alderman Massey, who held him in $800 ball to answer.

DEFACING PROPERTY .- Let all who visit any of our public parks remember that it is a penal offense to delace or destroy the surrounding property. Two young men were yesterday taken into custody for this act, and bound over by Alderman Warren to answer at Court.

BRUUAL .- John Camill, who resides at Cadwalader and Jefferson streets, beat his wife last night, for which he was arrested at Jefferson and Frankford road by Officer Moffet, and com-mitted by Alderman Riddle in default of $800

HEARING BEFORE UNITED STATES COMMIS-Hearing Breore United States Commissioner Smith —The case of Mich'l Fitzpatrick, which was postponed from Monday last, was heard before United States Commissioner Smith. The Revenue Inspector of the first five Congressional Districts being aworn, stated that Mr. Fitzpatrick keeps a rectifying and wholesole liquor establishment at the northwest corner of Firth and Christian streets, that he called on him and examined his books. Mr.
Fitzpatrick possessed the proper rectifier's book, but failed to make the proper entries, having omitted to enter some 1300 gallons, which his day-book showed nejhad purchased and sold. The day-book further showed that he and sold. The day-book further showed that he had purchased and sold liquor at a less price than the Government tax. He (Fitzpatrick) than the Government tax. He (Finspanish had paid the special tax sprescribed for rectifiers. He was held in $1500 bail to answer at

LOOKING FOR HIS FATHER .- A little German boy, named Louis Coken, aged fourteen years, was directed by his father, who then was in Detroit, Michigan, to come to Philadelphia, where he would meet him, sending money and his address, which the boy says is at No. 1019 Meyer street. Louis came from Hesse-Darmstadt to this city, but is unable to learn his father's whereabouts. Any information would be gladly received at the Mayor's Office.

A SPURIOUS BEGGAR, with a haggard and dejected countenance, ragged clothes, and one foot done up in a nuge bundle of old rags, looking every bit like a lame pedal, entreated the people at the Merchants' Hotel for money. Detective Reeder examined into the case, and found the apparently lame boot to be sound, but a little the worse for dirt. The man, named James Smith, was committed by Alderman Hurley to answer in default of $500 ball.

OBITUARY.

In this age of money-getting, when men seem to live only for the world and its pleasures and honors, is mockeries and hollow-heartedness, there is a freshness of feeling and real joy in contemplating the charscier of one who has lived an unright life, and left to his wife and children the reputation of an honest man and an humble Christian. Such a man was GEORGE A. SHRYOCK, who died in Philadelphia on Monday last, and whose remains have since been laid in the cemetery at Chambersburg, upon the pleasant hills where in childhead he loved to rove.

A paper manufacturer, largely engaged in business yet ever thoughtful of his duty to his fellow men, and of that foture which is eternal. Mr. shryock devoted the best days of his life not only to advancing the interests of his vocation and benefiting society by his successful experiments in the production of paper out of straw and similar materials, but also through his influence and example aiding in the advancement of Christianity. Commercial crises came and compelled him to relinquish his proprietorship in the mills; yet with that nounlily and resignation which ever distinguished him. Mr. Shryoch rerined not, but at once sought another business path, and for twenty years performed with scrupulous exactness and fidelity the new duties assigned him.

A man of clear and far-seeing mind—approving only the right, and honestly condemning the wrong—he fashloned his ways according to his understanding of God's laws, and sought the path that leads to everlasting happiness; therefore he feared not death, and hopenily and calmly yielded up his spirit when the summons came. Nearly threescore and ten years were permitted him to live in this (to him) preparatory world, and he has now gone to meet the reward which is prepared for the just in heaven. yet ever thoughtful of his duty to his fellow men, and

IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO EVENING PRESSRAPS.] WASHINGTON, May 10.

Public Anniversaries.

The religious and benevolent societies of Washington are making great preparations for the anniversaries next week. They will be held as tollows:—On Monday evening, the Union Christian Convention; Tuesday, the Bible So-ciety; Wednesday, the Young Men's Christian Association; Thursday, the Temperance organization; Friday, the Orphan Asylum, National Finances. The statements of public debt for some months to come will show considerable increase of the same. The amount of cois and currency required to pay the interest falling due on the 1st of May, June, and July will be large, and the receipts from Internal Revenue fall much short of expectations.

Repentant Patriots.

The whites of this district who refused to egister with the colored people are making tremuous efforts to have the registry reopened. This morning a motion was made in the upreme Court of this district for a rule on the Judges of Election to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not issue to compel them o register the names of certain parties who failed to register at the time the registry was

The writ was ordered to issue, returnable next Monday. Should the registry be reopened, the Democrats expect to register enough white votes to carry the city.

RESPECT TO THE MEMORY OF MR. LINCOLN The French Canadian Delegation Visit Mrs. Lincoln.

From the Chicago Tribune. On Wednesd y, at 12 o'clock, fourteen of the delegates to the Franco-American Convention were presented to Mrs. Abraham Lincoin. Dr. J. N. Cadleux, of Detroit, in the name of the delegation, read the following address:—

To Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, Chicago, Ill .:-Madam:—The delegates from Canada and the West to the Convention of Franco Americans beld at Detroit, on the 25th of April, 1867, while visiting their compatriots at Chicago, thought proper-nay, believed it to be their duty-to pay to you their respects.

The American national calamity of 1865 was deeply felt by the French Canadian patriots. Our compatriots have fought and ble lon many a pattle-field for American principles sustaine by Mr. Lincoln. We have mourned with the by Mr. Lincoln. We have mourned with the Americans in their defeat, we have rejoiced in their victories; consequently the terrible sorrow of the 14th of April has wrung the heart of every French and Canadian patriot. Abraham Lincoln was universally loved, but the French Canadians particularly cherished him because they saw in him the savior of a country from which they expect their salvation—in which is their only hope. Many of us never saw Mr. Lincoln, but we know him since we have seen his soul. You, Madam, mourn your noble husband; we mourn the liberator!

Let us bow before the decree of Providence.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

His character is very much misinterpreted. David, in his humble manner, said of himself that he was a "Shepherd's boy, come with pebbles from the brook;" but the holy writers say of David that he was a man of war even in his youth, when he was recommended to Saul. Nay more, that he was a cone ely person. Nay, more, that he was a man of prudent sense. Nay, more, that he was a man of prudent sense. Nay, more, that he was a man of prudent sense. Nay, more, that he was a cunning player. In one thing at least I must adm. that the counsel for the prisoner has resembled David.

When David prayed for Saul to banish the evil spirit from him, he was limited to the simple harp of Jews. He played perhaps our, two, three, four, five, or ten strings; but the counsel for the prisoner came here playing upon a harp of athousand strings. "The spirit of the just made perfect," (Laughter, We bave music and mel-dy of a most excellent character, the music of the spheres.

We have the outward world demonstrated before us, and we have all the inner world; all the untoil recesses of the human mind are portrayed before hs. It is also said that I am to make capital out of this Capital. What capital. The capital of sitting here from day to day, sight after night, and then when this is over taking up Leis case, and sit day after day and night after night, controverting theories.

Here I am to remain, day after, day, for eighteen months, although the public are warned not to repeat the cose. To make capital: I am here, as you are, in obedience to law, to do my duy. You are to duyour duy, and you will not, by your verdict, whatever it may be, strive to make such a verdict in order to make capital, any more than I will strive to make the cose.

This was a case which the evidence convinced him to make capital, any more than I will strive to make it.

This was a case which the evidence convinced him should be tried speedily. Was the public presecutor to wait, wait, and wait, until somebody more interested in the prisoner than in the cause of justice should spirit away the boy who had found the razor, or the man who identified the razor should die, go away, or become insane?

A warning was taken from the case of Gottleib Williams, and if it was considered baroarism to bring a red-handed, murderer to a speedy trial, he would give the murderers of Philadelphia to understand that, so long as he occupies his present position, there might be more of it.

Then as to the case in discussion, the first question is, I did his prisoner kill Dorcas Magilton? Counsel for detense, at the beginning of the case, were satisfied in their bearts that he did it, and their doubt, now about it are the result of study. It was at first stubbornly denied, but now only partially because they were comrelled to relinquish the grasp with that hand in order to pull harder with theother upon the line of insanity.

It is the Commonwealth's theory, that the prisoner was let into the house, by Mrs. Magilton; that he quietly put his hat on the table; the prisoner engaged her attention while she was knitting, and watching his opportunity, he stole the hammer and struck the blows; the old lady felt forward, and before using the razor he robbed her, for there was not a drop of blood upon the notes; then he completed his hellish work by cutting her throut; he threw the razor into the sink and washed his hands at the hydrant in the yard: he there let Mr. Magilton in he opened the door, and told the world that he had visited the place and tound the world that he had visited the place and tound the world that he had visited the place and tound the world that he had visited the place and tound the world that he had visited the place and tound the world that he will not man explicately calm and collected. There was not a plation, a certification han't it been produced.

The counsel for the defense did not get this razor immediately, because warning was, taken from Berger's boot. In that case the oom was given to the counsel for the defense. Ind because of something peculiar about the track it made, they had snother one made that very night, and brought it into Court the next morning, with the nails and pegs driven in in exactly the same places as the other.

In reference to the subject of animal magnetism, which the defense have brought up, suppose, for instance, that Mrs. Magliton had the power of magnetizing this man, and she really did exercise this power, and he had the affection which the magnetized one is said to have for the magnetizer, now is it reasonable to suppose that had she magnetized him it would make him take up that hammer and strike her in the head one, two, three, four, five, six, seven blows, and then cut her throat with a razor? Such a presumption, to say the least of it, is simply absurd.

No, that will not do—those pictures of the flowers of paradise, spoken of as baving such an effect upon the prisoner. Those pictures or the flowers of paradise, spoken of as baving such an effect upon where Mrs. Maglitox was killed. If this foolish idea is to be entertained the prisoner must have purposely marched up and down before those pictures in another room until he had worked himself into a murderous state of mind, and ther walked into the room where she was sitting, and taking the hammer, killed her, Epileptic fits have not been proved. The prisoner may have had fits, but no person who professes to know anything about the mater says that they were epileptic and they were not.

There is no scientific svidence whatever for discussion. The prisoner's melancholy, which no doubt was consequential to a low state of finances, is no evidence whatever of Insanity. If his seeing spirits were an evidence of Insanity. The behaviour of an oversequent mind. The arm the broduction of an oversequent mind. The arm the bendencies of an oversequent mind. T testified to that fact are in-alie, and therefore not to to be believed.

Halluclustions are not evidences of insanity. They are the lendencies of an overwroughs mind. The prisoner, if he had them, was not listane. We cannot condemn the things we cannot comorrhend. Admitting that the subject of spiritualism is correct, and were it allowed in the flesh to see the spirits of the dead, did this prisoner see them? No! He is a mere adventurer. He was impositer. Two leaves of his diary are torn out, and they undovotedly made « ay with in order to hide the deplorable state of his tinances. You cannot project your little ones whom you leave at home if you don't execute the law. If you are satisfied that this man committed this high crime, I am satisfied you will say so by your verdict.

The Habeas Corpus Case of Jefferson Davis.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 10 .- The writ of habeas corpus for Jeff. Davis was served today on General Burton, by Marshal Underwood and Deputy Marshal Duncan. General Burton at first decided to deliver Davis to the Marshals to-morrow morning, but subsequently determined on obeying the writ literally, requiring him to produce Davis before the Richmond Court. General Burton, Jeff. Davis and his family, and the Marshals, will to-morrow morning take a steamer for Richmond, stopping at the Spottswood House.

General Burton will, on Monday, personally produce the prisoner in Court, and in the event of Davis being released by Judge Underwood under the writ, he will be immediately rearrested, and placed on trial on the indictment for treason. Robert Ould and many other visitors, bearing bouquets, reached here to-day to visit Davis' family. The utmost interest and anxiety is manifested in Norfolk respecting the probabilities of the trial and release. The following is a copy of General Burton's order:-

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8th.—Brevet Brigadier-General H. L. Burton, U. S. Army, or the commanding officer at Fort Monroe:-The President of the United States directs that you surrender Jefferson Davis, now held confined under military authority in Fort Monroe, to the U.S. Marshal or his deputies, upon any process which may issue from a Federal Court in the State of Virginia. You will report the action taken by you on this order, and furnish a copy of any process, served upon you, to this office. By order of the President :
