Who are the Promoters of Discord Between Races?

Ir is very amusing to hear the members of the Democratic party accusing the Republicans of fostering a spirit of antagonism between the white and black races at the South. Inequality and injustice are the fruitful sources of discord between great bodies of men. Equal rights and privileges are the bonds of concord. The whole past course of the Democratic party, as well as its present attitude, stamps it as the promoter of the bitterest hatred between the races. What condition could be more antagonistic than that of master and slave? And has not the Democratic party been openly and avowedly the pro-slavery party? Did it not defend the accursed institution as long as that institution lived, and does it not now mourn its death? What form the staple of nine-tenths of Democratic harangues from the stump and Democratic demagoguery om the press, during every political camaign, except assaults upon the negro, and efforts to arouse against him the vile passions a. prejudices of the mob? And yet these te the men who have the effrontery to accuse Republicans of fostering dissentions be-· en the races! Discord between the races xactly what the Republicans would destriv; and they would accomplish that desirai 'e end by the simple and rational means of away with all unjust and unequal laws, d allowing all men, of whatever race or L. ne, to stand upon an absolute equality before the law. The Democratic party, on the e hand, seeks to perpetuate those un-1 t distinctions which inevitably breed hatred and discord in the political community, by dividing it into privileged classes and oppressed classes, thus necessarily arraying one rortion of the people against another. The epublican party would leave no man any just cause of complaint, because it would give to every man his rights. Equal rights are the great bond of concord in civil society. These 1. 3 Republicans are laboring to establish, and 1 by are therefore the party of peace, of order, tranquillity, and of national permanence scome Returns of the Present Year. "in croakers have had a good deal to say about the falling off in income returns the present year, as compared with the last. Doubtless there has been some diminution. Congress reduced the income tax by exempting all incomes of less than one thousand dollars, and by reducing the rate on the higher class of incomes, so that with the usual gains on the part of the people a considerably diminished revenue would have been received by the Government. In the general decline of prices, however, it was inevitable that the profits of trade should be less than usual. But the losses have probably not been so large as was expected. Thus we have heard it reported in the streets that Mr. A. T. Stewart, the great New York merchant, had this year returned an income of less than $100,000. We see, however, by the published returns in the New York papers, that Mr. Stewart returns an income for the past year of over seven hundred thousand dollars. We do not think he has much occasion to complain of dull times. Nor in looking over the returns for that city, do we find that there is any lack of large incomes. There is, generally, a decline as compared with last year, but not always.

It should be borne in mind that the incomes of the past few years have not generally represented what might be called the legitimate profits of trade. They have been made up largely of the advance in the nominal value of stocks while on hand. So, too, now while prices are declining to their natural level, a diminution of incomes does not necessarily represent a decline in trade. Indeed, if the business of the country can be carried on during this return to a normal condition without absolute loss, we may well rest satisfied. But we are doing much better than that.

THE DELEGATES TO THE COMING CONVENTION. -To-morrow evening the members of the Republican party will meet at the different designated places, and elect one Judge and two Inspectors of election, and on Thursday evening, from 6 to 8, the party will elect delegates to the Williamsport Convention, to be held on the 26th of June, at which a Supreme Judge will be nominated. It would seem like tautology of ideas to urge once more upon our readers the necessity of attending these meetings. There is little good to be gained by disguising a threatened evil, and we might as well open our eyes to the fact that unless the Williamsport Convention nominates a remarkably strong man for the position made vacant by Judge Woodward, our chances of success are exceedingly slim. The Democracy will nominate, beyond all doubt, their best man. The choice has almost been made already, and their candidate will be a very strong one. If we send as delegates the same political backs as have been running the party machine for years, and they make a bad choice, as they doubtless will, then Pennsylvania is gone already for the Democracy. It will require a very strong nominee, a lawyer of ripe experience, a man of unblemished reputation, and one who stands well in the eyes of the community. Mediocrity or insignificance will not secure a triumph, and whether our candidate be worthy or unworthy rests with the voters on Thursday next.

"Auld Lang Syne."

THE fellowing advertisement appears in the Maryland Eastern Star, and recalls vividly the days which are gone by. It would seem that the Governor of Maryland, desirous of creating as much patronage as possible, has seen fit to appoint a Commissioner for each county in the State, whose duty it is to take an inventory of the various grievances to which the slaveholders of Maryland have been subjected. We do not exactly see what expectation can be entertained for reimbursement, as the slaves of Maryland were liberated by a State law, and not affected in any respect by the Constitutional amendment. But here is the advertisement, and we wish the owners joy of all the compensation they may get from an appropriation by Congress:-"Notice to the late Slaveholders of Talbot County,—The subscriber having been appointed and commissioned by the Governor of Mary-land 'Commissioner of Slave Statistics' for Taland 'Commissioner of Slave Statistics' for Taltot county, under the act of the General Assembly, passed at the January session, 1867, and having qualified according to law, I hereby give notice that I will attend at the 'Chapel,'

who wish to preserve the evidence of the same, to order to make spood their claim against the in order to make good their claim against the General Government for indemnification, are requested to come forward and furnish the proof of ownership required by the said act of Assembly. The oath of two witnesses in addi-tion to that of the owner is required; and pertion to that of the owner is required; and per-sons are also required to furnish the names, number, age, sex, and physical condition of their slaves; whether they were slaves for life or a term of years, and how many years; whether they have been collisted or drafted into the military service of the United States, and into what regiments they were placed, and what compensation, if any, has been received from the State or General Government by the owner, for such slaves so enlisted or drafted into the military service. "After Monday, the 20th day of May, I will attend at Easton until further notice, "WILLIAM H, NABB."

The Injured Cable. WE have to congratulate our readers that we have two cables instead of one, or else we would have been deprived of the meagre European news to which we have grown accustomed. It seems that on the 5th of May an iceberg paused in the neighborhood of the cable, and after remaining there a few days resumed its march. No damage was supposed to be inflicted until it was suddenly discovered that the insulation was affected; the signals were inspected, and suddenly they ceased altogether. It is stated that the injury can easily be repaired. We earnestly hope that Neptune will protect the cable in the future. While we had no such means of communication we did not feel the want of it, but now, when our readers have grown accustomed to reading at their tea-tables in THE EVENING TELEGRAPH what occurred in St. Petersburg, Madrid, Paris, Berlin, and London in the morning, it would be a great deprivation. We hope soon, however, to see the completion of the communication through the back door of our country, and have despatches from Paris via St. Petersburg, Sitka, and San

The Academy of Fine Arts.

THERE are three hundred and eleven paintings of various degrees of merit in the present auabove time-honored institution. Most of the foreign works are sold, and very large prices have been paid for them, and it is quite right that the really fine productions should be thus appreciated. Artists are delighted when a masterpiece is brought from Europe, and accord to such the commendation it may deserve; and if they have recently evinced a desire to be protected from the flood of foreign pictures that now deluge the country, let it be understood that it is not against the introduction of such paintings as come from the easels of men like Gerome, Gallait, Gastaldi, Bouguereau, or Messonier to which they are opposed. No; such canvases as they produce will always be welcomed by the artistic fraternity; while, on the other hand, the inferior and mediocre effusions of Belgian and German studios are by them considered a bane and a nuisance. There is something bitter in the fact of there

tures on the walls of the Academy. Out of that number two have been disposed of-not a very brisk demand, certainly-and we should like to know if the contributors have the right to feel encouraged by this state of affairs? I. having some knowledge of the facts of the case think not. It is a matter of much time and labor to paint a good picture; sometimes months are given to the task, and when, after placing an expensive frame thereon, it has to remain unsold for a long time, the prospects of the artist may be classed as discouraging in the extreme; and yet, curiously enough, when these same productions are disposed of under the hammer of the auctioneer, they often real-ize better prices than could be obtained at private sale. The reader may ask why the artists do not adopt this manner of disposing of their works; to which we answer, that among of their works; to which we answer, that among so large a number of the profession it is very difficult to arrive at any harmonions action, and then there is the uncertainty that necessarily attends enterprises of this sort, for it often happens that a really wretched picture will bring more than the most meritorious work in the collection. Of course, results like these when they occur are very aggravating in their effect; and rather than incur such possible their effect; and, rather than incur such possible humiliations, most painters prefer suffering in silence. Capitalists who deal in paintings and sell by auction are generally successful by the aggregate results of a sale. If they sell one picture under its cost price, they are indemnified by getting five times the value of another; whereas in an artists' contribution sale, to reli half-a-dozen pictures below the price is to ruin a corresponding number of painters, for we are assured that the fortunate contributes who realize high prices for their works will not who realize high prices for their works will not share their profits with their less lucky brethref. The Directors of the Academy afford bretbrež. The Directors of the Academy afford every opportunity to parties desirous of buying paintings; and we are really astonished to see how many successful works of art are now for sale in the galleries of the exhibition. As friends of the artists, we have felt it our duty to call the public attention to this fact, and would urge it upon our citizens to show more inclination to encourage the followers of art in their pursuit. The high praise that has been universally accorded to the present display of pictures at the Academy, is really a tribute to the merits of the paintings that we have spoken of as awaiting purchasers. The throngs of lashionable people who growd the rooms of the institution give evidence of the estimation in which the collection is held; and we sincerely advise all who have not yet seen we sincerely advise all who have not yet seen this display to do so at the earliest moment, and while there to aid the struggling cause of art by making the acquisition of some of the charming works that are marked thus (*) in the eatalogue.

THE PENNSYLVANIA BRANCH OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BRANCH OF COMMISSION appeals to the public for aid in support of its work of Educating the Freedmen. It has sixty-three teachers in the field, who are supported entirely by veiluntary contributions, at a cost of over Four Thomand Dollars a month. Unless the friends of the work give liberal aid, many of the schools must be closed for want of means of support. The Managers think the schools ought to be kept o en until the Southern States are prepared to take charge of and sustain them, and they do not feel justified in closing any of them without making known to the public their need, and appealing for aid.

THE CHINGARORA ANTI-NERVOUS SMOKING TOBACCO!

The CHINGARORA TOBACCO grows from the rich soil of the "ORIENT," and is possessed of a peculiarly delictous flavor, entirely unknown to the tobaccos of all other climes. But its unprecedented popularity has sprung from the fact of the entire absence of that deadly poisen, Nicotin, which permeates every other tobacco, and which is the one and sole cause of the distressing nervous diseases, dyspepsia, etc., which most invariably, sooner or later, follow the indulgence of the pipe and cigar. At the recent analyzation of tobacco from all parts of the world, at the Academy of Sciences, in Paris, the renowned Chemist, M. Lamoureaux, occlared that while European and American tobacco contained faily eight per cent., and the purest Havana tobacco from two-toft-epper cent. of Nicotia, the CHINGARORA did not contain one discoverable particle of that deadity poison, a drop of which, extracted, will destroy life.

Our Agent at HOMBAY has shipped us large quantities of the CHINGARORA during the last two years, and although we have been pressed to supply the demand for this delicious luxury to the veteran smoker, yet we are now prepared to offer it in unlimited quantities, at a price much lower than some American tobacco of a lar inferior quality.

A connoisseur has but to smoke the American tobacco and cigars, which are invariably chemically flavored, to be disgusted with the medicinal taste, which leaves a nauseous, unhealthy coating in the mouth, and in time never islis to shatter the nervous system.

The natives of the "ORIENT" smoke the CHIN-system.

The natives of the "ORIENT" smoke the CHINGARORA from morn till night, from youth to age, and are happily unconscious of the wild, distressing fire which courses the ough the veins of the inhaler of the iumes of tobacco containing Nacotin.

We invite every lover of the weed to try the CHINGARORA, and guarantee unprecedented pleasure in its delicious flavor. Bold everywhere at $1 per B. EDWIN M. COOK & CO.,
