UNDER THE NEW REGIME.—The EFFECT OF THE ANTI-LIQUOR LAW.—Yesterday marks an era in the history of this city for peace and quietness. For years past there has never been a Sabbath which has been so universally observed in so peaceful a manner as was yeaterday. The new liquor law had an immediate and salutary effect upon all the saloons, summer gardens, and taverns which line our avenues and streets. and taverns which line our avenues and streets. From all the reports coming from all the various localities of the community, we can learn of no open violations of the law; though there are well-grounded suspicions that more than one back door of a few salcons were passed by the bibulous in starch of drinks. To the accompishment of this general quiet, the meeting of the hotel-keepers and tavern proprietors, on the afternoons of Friday and Satarday, aided largely, inasmuch as one and all decided to obey the law in its every import, and await the test of its constitutionality before the Supreme Court.

All the salcons were vesterday darkened

Court.

All the saloons were yesterday darkened, with shades down and doors closed, exhibiting no signs of convivality and drunken excitement. The street corners, for once, were bereft of their usual habitues, except where here and there a few persons would look ominously at each other, and longingly at the tavern doors, while earnestly discussing the probable longevity of the new regime, its universal observance, one and all—hard drinkers feeling undentably the good influence of the law—declaring that it was right and for the public good. From the various summer gardens no sounds were heard of clashing glasses, loud calls for more, and bacchanalian songs. Many of our thirsty and bibulous citizens, feeling their desolate condition without their regular round of potations, endeavored to escape by going to the tions, endeavored to escape by going to the rural places near the outskirts of the city, and over to the shores of Jersey. They returned wiser and much thirstier men, learning that the law prevailed as strongly in those precincts as in Philadelphia.

Those whose habits furbade their remaining twenty four hours without a drow at the strongly.

great number of arrests made by some of our police lieutenants on Saturday evening. Lieutenant Hampton, of the Second District, with a posse of men, captured sixty-three in the vicinity of Seventh and Fitzwater streets.

The number of arrests for drunkenness yesterday was 57, against an average number of 150 for preceding Sabbaths, and the majority of those arrested were taken into custody very early on Sunday morning, when laboring under the effects of the frequent tipplings committed on Saturday night.

on Saturday night.

We hear of some disturbance by the tipplers, irritated by being debarred from their usual drunken sprees. This morning a huge Dutchman collared a gentleman in one of the markets on Girard avenue, and there assaulted him, for onblick spitanting the law hears the door of publicly sustaining the law before the door of this enraged Teuton.

The scarcity of items of corner lounging, disorderly conduct, wife-beatings, etc., are wanting in our columns, evidences of the successful results of the new law. The dealers in liquors seem satisfied with the change of affairs some even doing a larger business on Saturday night than on both Saturday and Sunday here-tofore. Let this good and salutary law be fully upheld in our Quaker City, and benceforth all will acquiesce in a change of affairs for the bet-ter, both individually and publicly.

AN APPROVED AND THEORETICAL METHOD FOR KILLING A HORSE.-For the benefit of that portion of Jenu fraternity who derive a peculiar pleasure by torturing the animals they drive, the following reasons are given in extenuation for their conduct, which at the present time is such a prominent object for public censure and Sweat is not always a sign of warmth in a Sweat is not always a sign of warmth in a horse. As a test, place the hand upon the chest; consequently you can belabor and urge them till the foam flickers from his mouth, which will be satisfactory evidence that you have simply warmed him.

Since, by this method, you can keep him in a good state of perspiration without danger. He should not be fed, for any manner of food given to a horse when heated is deleterious to his health.

Since he is kept hot continually, and no grain or water dare be given him, drive him with the greatest speed possible, for it is only dangerous after having partaken of food; as this is never done, because the horse is always hot, running him can do no harm.

Since the above sets forth the fact of his inability to eat without injury, the general rule to "feed regularly, and in quantity according to the appropriate of the appropriate of the second sets." the appetite of the animal and the labor he per-the appetite of the animal and the labor he performs," will be of no avail.

Horses should not be kept in the stable for a long period without exercise. To avoid the results occurring from a non-compliance with this rule, be sure to exercise them well all the time. This action will at once do away with the need of a stable. For why a stable if the necessary where withal, horses and grain, is wanting to stock it.

And, seeing that no stable is necessary, and the horses are always exercised, you avoid

And, seeing that he state is necessary, and the horses are always exercised, you avoid another difficulty, grooming, for this cannot be done while the animal is continually in mo-tion. And the saying, "Not to let them stand in the stable encased in mud and matted hair," will seem tautology.

"At all times in the year make your horse comfortable when tied in the stable." Having no such accommodations, this declaration is entirely effete

If by the practical application of this comprehensive theoretical method of starving, beatling, and running, your horse exists beyond one week, which is certainly most dubious, the event will be miraculous, and the animal a marvet of immutability, by the public exhibition of which, at present exorbitant rates, a fortune would soon be accumulated.

CAPTURE OF A FEMALE PICKPOCKET .- Last Saturday evening a lady, having in her dress pocket a box of valuable coins, entered a Fifth and Sixth street car, and was soon followed by and Sixth street car, and was soon followed by an elderly female, who sat down in close proximity to her. This latter, when the car was well filled, by the use of a pair of scissors cut the seam of the former lady's dress, cut the pocket, handled the box, took off the cord with which it was tied, turned it upside down, and lifted the lid, so that the coins slipped into her hand. This she did without detection, and soon after left the car. THE TURF-DEXTER AND LADY THORN,-The THE TURF—DEXTER AND LADY THORN.—The first of the four great matches between these celebrated horses will be trotted at the Fashion Course, Long Island, Tuesday, May 28th. It is mile heats, three in five, in harness, for $2500. The horses are doing as well as can be, and are going very fast. As they are the acknowledged champions of the trotting turf, a good race and a fast one may be expected. The start will be at 3 o'clock P. M. The facilities for reaching the Course are numerous and ample. An affection Course are numerous and ample. An efficient police force in attendance. J. Simmons, Prop'r.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY .- About 10 o'clock yesterday morning, some person unknown attempted to enter the dry goods store of D. Murphy, on Main street, between Unity and Church, Frankford. By the aid of a two-and-a-half luch centre bit he cut the panels from a rear door, but was frightened off before accomplishing his design. plishing his design.

ARRESTED FOR AN ALLEGED ROBBERY .- David Green was arrested about five o'clock on Saturday morning, at Twenty-first and Girard avenue. He is charged with complicity in garroting a man at Belmont College, and robbing him of a gold watch and chain, and thirty dollars in money. Alderman Beitler held him for a further hearing.

LIBERTY MILITARY BAND .- This spirited organization, under the lendership of Mr. Joseph Whittington, have procured a splendid new uniform, and will parade with it for the first time on to-morrow, with the Cadets of Tem-

AFRICAN M. E. CONFERENCE.—The Conference met this morning as per adjournment.

Religious services were conducted by Rev.
Lewis J. Conover. Bishop Wayman presided.
Rev. James Lynch, from the Committee on Education, made the following report:—

REPORT ON EDUCATION.

REPORT ON REPORTION.

Your Committee would beg leave to express their deep conviction of the necessity and importance of education to our ministry. Without a certain degree of it no man can intelligently explain the Scriptures, or fully understand the law of our Church. Ignorance is a dangerous the law of our Church. Ignorance is a dangerous enemy. It tends to make narrow-minded, suspicious, lesious, and conceited.

We are happy to state that the recent election of a young man to Edder's Orders, who had spont several years in study at an institution of learning in the bounds of this Conference District, and the admission of another to a Conference membership, who has studied for four years at the same place, is gratifying to us, and a sign of progress to the right direction.

And while we are picased to note the fact that the edpositional cause is advancing in this District, we are compelled to express our regret that we caunot bear testimony to a higher state of general improvement. Your Committee are of opinion that in view of the length of time which the Palladelphia Conference has been in existence, and the intelligent communities in which her ministers officiate, and her general full supply of preachers, that she ought to admit no man to her litherant ranks who has not a good, common lengths discation.

This Conference your Committee feel, could take to her liberant ranks who has not a good, common English education.

This Conference, your Committee feel, could take this stand without detriment to themselves, and thus elevate the standard of mulsterial qualifications.

The report further speaks of the general interest in the cause of education throughout the District and consections; of the progress and prosperity of Wilberforce University (a college belonging to the consection, and located at Xenia, Ohio); of the progress belonging made in the South, and of the duty of our ministers to assist and encourage the schools, especially those in the South, in the education of our children. The report was adopted. The report was adopted.

An appropriation was made to pay the Secretaries of the Conference.

The hour of ordination having arrived, Rev. J. W.

Smith lined the bymn:—
Let Zion's watchmen all awake, And take the alarm they give.

Prayer was offered by Rev. William E. W. Schurenan, of the Baltimore Conference.

Choir sang, "I have set watchmen upon thy walls, Bishop Wayman selected for his text the following words:-"Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over which the Holy Ghost hath made words:—"Take heas therefore into yourseves, and to all the fock, over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers," etc.

He said there were periods in the history of every man's life that are more solemn than others. There are periods that are so solemn that they produce upon the heart an impression that the tongue, however eloquent, is inadequate to describe. And it depends a great deal upon the position a man is about to assume, whether the tongue is or is not able to describe it. And the position to be assumed often causes doubt or the ability to perform in the minds of modest and unassuming men.

This has always been so and always will be so. Our text is what may be called a farewell address to the elders of the Church. The Apostic had heard a voice, as it were, calling on him to come over to Macedonia and help us; and he was on his journey to its fulfilment when they (the elders) gathered around him for his farewell and parting address, I imagine that I hear him recommitting the labor of three years to them, of which they were able to bear him witness.

Ever the voice of the Lord summoned him away, and imagine that I hear him recommitting the labor of three years to them, of which they were able to bear him witness.

But the voice of the Lord summoned him away, and sow he came to charge more elders, more watchmen upon the walls: more who of God were appointed to preach the unisarchable riches of eternal stuth. Of all responsible positions in life, there are none so great as those imposed upon the ambassadors of Chilst.

We may talk of the responsibility of our officers of the united States, or of the potentates of earth awaying imperial or absolute authority over nations; but all this but small in comparison to those whose mission as to all the world, and whose teaching is for eternity. You are as light to the world, to potentates and dignituries of all climes and in all ages, and you are to take head to yourselves that your teaching is not alone by precept, but both by precept and example you are to be your Hight so shine that noss may see your good works and glorify your Heavenly Father. Why, if your light is in accordance with the Gospel, it will shine in the family and in the Church: in society and the State; the example and the light, like ac to all one of take head to a hill, will shine forth respiandent, and constrain men to glorify our Father in Heaven.

You are here especially charged to take heed to the

and the light, like a c t - 8 st opo - a hill, will shine torth resplandent, and constrain men to glorily our Father in Heaven.

You are here especially charged to take heed to the flock over which the He by Ghost hath given you charge. Oh, what a responsibility is here contemplated: How many of our poor need this watching! While the merchant, the mechanic the statesman, and the philosopher repair to their respective deliy avecations, it is yours to go to the old and desitute. These who need most the care of those who on come with the weiceme word of blying graths—the message that though all the world may fors the their trust in Him. How necessary it is for us to be watchful! As shepherds we should ha dly slumber, lest the dogs of the enemy of our souls should devour some of the flock.

Many are the times that the enemy, entering as it were by night, steals away one of the flock, and after it wanders, as upon the barren mountains of sin, and follows the counse to death, crying. The harvest is post, the summer it ended, and I am not yet saved. On! horrible thought, and how great our responsibility!

And there should be no lane or no alley, or no

p. st. the summer is ended, and I am not yet saved.
On! horrible thought, and how great our responsibility!

And there should be no lane or no alley, or no streer, too low or to.) degraded to comman't your earnest and affectiona's labor, to call most of the lost sheep of the House of Israel. And there are various classes or kinds of minds to be mat; and, therefore, you should adapt yourselves to every necessity or emergency. I reloce to see that the apostle has here on every distance the Holy Ghost is our monitor to point us in the way of eternal life.

I have often compared the Holy Ghost to a lighthouse pointing us, as a maraner, to the brighter shore. Let us love education, let us lower as Caristian philosophers, if need be; but, above all, let this be crowned with the blessed unction of the Holy Ghost. Oh, I put the question to you now, my dear brethren, are you called of the Holy Ghost to preach this holy Gospal of our Lord Jesus Christ?

If you are annoluted by the Holy Ghost your mission will be a joyful and a successful one; but if you are not so called, oh. If you are not now, under God, blessed with the Divine sanction of that Spirit which descended upon the disciples on the day of Penecost, oh, iet me adjare you to stop!

Stop now, before you further go, for no earthly preparation, aside from this Divine sanction, will make you successful missiers. You must remember that your lot at best is hard in this life. You are sent out as lamba among woives, and you need Jesus with you to support you in your days and hours of trouble. I do not know that there is a great deal of concern as to who shall do most in this great and glorious work, but let us all make up our minds to do our best.

Oh, I remember the testimony of one good minister who had followed this rule, and as he was approaching the hour of his dissolution, he looked heavenward and said:—

'What is this that steals upon my frame? Is it death, and said:—

* What is this that steals upon my frame? Is it death, is it death?

If this be death, I soon shall be from every sin and sorrow free: I shall the King of Glory see—all is well, all is well!" And then, with a shout of triumph, he passed away

And then, with a shout of triumph, he passed away from earth.

I want this to be my happy lot when I am about to depart. I feel that I should wish my brethren or the ministry and the Bishops and the Church to be there, and I want to tell them all what a blessed thing it is to take heed to our mission here below. Let us cherish these blessed and glorious truths, and ist us, above all things, take heed to our great and glorious mission—the precious charge inculcated in the text—and blessed and glorious will be our final triumph in the day when earth's redemption shall draw nigh.

The sacrament was then administered to the several candidates, after which business was resumed.

Mrs. Meyers had in her pocket a small, last. Ors. Meyers had in her pocket a small, last. street car on Saturday last. Mrs. Meyers had in her pocket a small box, containing about thirty valuable gold and silver coins. These were abstracted by cutting the pocket of her dress. This was accomplished by the use of a small knife, such as is used by ladies for ripping the seams of dresses. The defendant cut her finger while cutting the pocket, and left some blood remaining on the lady's dress. Detectives Tryon and Levy captured her at a place in Front street, near Dock. She was held in $2000 bail to answer at Court.

House Rossery .- Yesterday morning, the House Robbert.—Yesterday morning, the house of Mr. Fisher, on Sansom street, above Sixteenth, was entered and robbed. The entrance was gained by the agency of false keys. From a bedroom, two drawers were taken from a turcau and carried down stairs, where they were ransacked. The thieves obtained and decamped with a 5-20 hond for $500, 2500 in cash, six large and six small silver spoons, a watch, a policy of insurance on the house, and some coal oil stock.

MEDICAL ELECTRICITY. Latest and Most Important Discoveries in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases. DR. S. W. BECKWITH'S ELECTRICAL INSTITUTE. No. 1220 WALNUT Street.

During our investigations in the treatment of dis-ease in its various forms by the agency of electricity, we have obtained very many valuable and startling facts, which, added to the previous though limited information possessed by other and less fortunate operators, place us beyond all previous knowledge of this mysterious agent. During the course of our practice we have treated and cured, through the knowledge thus gained, many thousands, and by means of our new discoveries have established ourselves as the most successful Medical Electricians in this country

Electrical investigation has proved that the human body acts on the principle of the galvanic battery. The brain, mucous and serous membranes, the akin tissues, and fluids, constitute the negative and posttive forces, and every action, whether mental or physical, is the result of these antagonistic forces.
