OITY INTELLIGENCE.

[FOR ADDITIONAL LOCAL IVENS SER INSIDE PAGES.] THE HORTICULTURAL HALL.

THE ORAND OPENING BARAAR-ABRANGEMENTS FOR THE INAUGURATION THIS EVENING.

FOR THE INAUGURATION THIS EVENING. This evening is the time fixed for the formal insuguration of the new hall of the Horticul-tural Society, at the corner of Broad and West-moreland streats, a fall description of which was published in THE EVENING TRIEGRAPH of Monday last. At the time of our visit to the scene this morning everything was in confu-sion, and this was even worse confounded by the uproar created by laborers of every char-acter, who are busy putting the finishing touches upon the interior and exterior of the half. But the force of fadies and gentlemen is large and efficient, and ere the hour for the opening this eventhes arrives, order and beauty will be evolved from these chaotic elemonts. The numerous niches in the wall, as well as the posts in the gallery miling, are made receptacles of large urns containing evergreens and tropical plants. In the centre Hall, a large iron fountain has been arcted and when the is of water is play.

In the centre Hall, a large iron fountain has been erected, and when the jet of water is play-ing in this, the whole scene will have a de-cidedly romantic aspect. The interior arrange-ments are further composed of winding tables, which are scattered about the floor. A full list of the variety and character of articles to be embraced in the exhibition has already been published in THE EVENING TREE-GRAPH. But in addition to these we noticed this morning, a bandsome set of firemen's equipments which will be displayed by Mr. Frederick W. Migeod; and also a base ball and bat, which are undoubtedly the handsomest ever manufactured in this country. These last will be under the care of Mr. Charles P. Hays, Both the base ball and firemen's equipments which the base ball and firemen's equipments are to be awarded to the club and company which receive the largest number of votes from their respective admirers.
