THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

PARIS, June 21 .- Thackeray speaks of a place Ireland where the sense of elegance was so een that the servant brought up the coals for ae parlor grate on a clean plate. I am-to hange the subject-constantly reminded of his experience of the author of the "Irish sketch Book," when looking at the safes in he Exposition. In America we know tolerably well what a safe should be. With our pleasant practice of burning up everything once a year, It has been forced upon us to study the matter of security. We have done so practicallyhaving the fire at hand -and successfully, inasmuch as safes are in universal use in every part of the United States. As a rule they are solid angular objects, plainly painted green, and indicating strength rather than beauty. A few, to be sure, have been made for parlor use, and these are gay and brilliant in decoration, but they do not alter materially the broad definition. A broker, merchant, or storekeeper pro cures one of our green iriends, and it stands quietly and faithfully in the corner, a silent sentinei, iendy to perform its duties on the shortest notice. This simplicity of outward show does not seem to be acceptable to the taste of Europe. Some of the most extraordinary objects in the Exhibition are called safes. They are constructed in the most fanciaul way, and are filled with singular contrivances for doing nothing. Externally they glisten and glitter in the sun like gems, being polished and burnished with all the care that is usually bestowed on the latter. The effect is pretty enough, but it seems superfluous in an object of absolute utility. There is a safe in the French Department which has a sheet of looking-glass in front-a matter of vast convenience to the clerks, but of very little practical utility in case of fire. The interior is subdivided into an infinite number of boxes, pigeon-holes, drawers, trays, secret recesses, etc. I can easily imagine a poor discon-solate $1000 bill being lost in such a maddening labyrinto.

The history of safes extends only over a period of forty years. There are many who still re-member the old-fashioned "knob-chests," as they were called. They were simple wooden boxes, covered first with thin sheet-iron, then banded and strapped, and the whole made fast with large knobby nails, in imitation of the rivet-heads of a boiler. The wood with which these chests were constructed was submitted to a chemical process. It was saturated or soaked in salt water or brine, and so long as the moisture was retained served as a good non-con-ductor. The fibre charred instead of igniting, and combustion proceeded slowly. It was found, however, in the course of time, that saturation produced decay, and in the lapse of a few years he wood became a mass of dry rot, exceedingly liable to take fire of its own accord, or from the slightest external circumstances. Something different had therefore to be discovered. It was speedly but accidentally found in the material called plaster of Paris. The accident was in this wise:-A young mechanic, who had been engaged in making moulds or casts with plaster of Paris, having unished his labors, was preparing to "wash up" and go home. For this purpose he attempted to heat some water in a kettle wherein previously he had mixed his plaster. After stirring the fire impatiently on several occasions he was surprised to find that the water did not get warm with its accustomed rapidity, and a further inspection showed that the kettle contained the debris of his plaster castings. Upon throwing them out the difficulty was immediately obviated, and the idea of the non-conducting power of plaster of Paris was conceived. Its application as a filling for safes followed almost immediately, but several years elapsed before anything like success was attained. The calcined plaster was of no use as a fire-proof cement unless mixed with water. and the water made the interior of the safe moist, and so mildewed and destroyed the books and papers, oxidized the iron, and laid the foundation for an early and certain decay. Premiums were offered for dry fire-proof fillings. and the result has been a steady and constant improvement in preproof protectors when properly made. Water is still an element used in fillings, even when called dry fillings; but it does not evaporate or lose any of its qualities until attacked by the fire. It is unaffected by the heat of the atmosphere, or the temperature of the room in which it is kept There is but one American safe in the Exposition, but it is creating more discussion than all the others put together. I am under the im-pression that it will take the prize; at all events, it deserves the most marked consideration. And, indeed, Mr. Silas C. Herring, whose houses are situate at New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, and Chicago, is determined that it Orleans, and Chicago, is determined that it shall have the most marked consideration. Mr. Herring, I need scarcely add, is the manu-facturer. His name is well known in this branch of industry. So long ago as 1840 it came prominently before the public. In that year a great trial of safes took place at Coffee House slip, foot of Wall street, New York, in which all the leading fire-proof safes then climbing into popularity were destroyed, save the Sajamander Safe, with which Mr. Herring the Salamander Safe, with which Mr. Herring was associated. Since then Mr. Herring has devoted himself exclusively to the business. The manufacture, which in the year I have named occupied a dozen men, now gives em-ployment to more than 300. Mr. Herring does not think that the jury had made a sufficient examination of the various safes in the building, and ne is, perhaps, a little irritated at the effect which mere external work seems to have on the At all events he desires a further public mind. test, and has affably proposed to make an inter-national bontire of their safes in competition with his own. He is willing to stake from one to 50,000 frances on the result. This is "toeing the mark" in true Yankee fashion, but it is not all. A safe in these days is a protection, not only against fire, but against burglars. Mr. Herring, therefore, proposes, for a like sum, to subject his burglar-proof safe to a test by experts, in comparison with any safe now ex-hibited at the Exposition.

JESSUP & MOORE'S ROCELAND PAPER MILL .-JESSUP & MOORE'S ROCELAND PAPER MILL.— The prediction made that from the ruins of Jessup & Moore's large paper mill at Rockland would spring up another, larger, more substan-tial, and convenient, is coming to pass. A large force of workmen, under the direction of Mr, William Lusk, are busily engaged in clearing away the debris of the ruined mill, preparatory to building a new one. The walls of the old building have been torn down to the founda-tion, with the intention of building on a more modern plan. Mr, Henry J, Taylor, of Phila-delphia, has been engaged for several weeks past in preparing plans, etc., for the new struc-ture. It is Messers. Jessup & Moore's intention to ercot a very part. They also intend widening proof in every part. They also intend widening the race and putting up another water-wheel, for the purpose of gaining more power. The capacity of the mill will be a "three machine mill," which paper-makers will understand is a very large one. Messrs, Jessup & Moore have given all their hands employment in tearing down the old mill and removing the debris, so that the only has or so the late fire will be themselves. They have certainly shown a commendable liberality in this respect, especially when we consider the fact that their own losses by the fire, over and above the insurance, were $200,000 and upwards.

A SMALL CHAPTER OF ADDITIONAL ACCORDENT

-owing to a too faithful observance of the "Fourth"-consists as follows:-Mr. John Johnson, residing at No. 2047 Ger-mantown road, had his hand severely and pain-fully burned in setting off a "pin wheel." After being ignited, it stuck tenaciously to his hand until the powder had avaended thealf until the powder had expended itself.

Mr. Theodore P. Warnick, a young man re-siding at No. 2106 N. Sixth street, was painfully injured by a flying stone from a torpedo, thrown by a certain mailcious youngster, who took ex-ceeding delight in celebrating the Fourth by keeping up a hot fire upon passing individuals. James K. Wolbert, living at the corner of American and Front streets, had his clothes pretty well destroyed and his body scorehed by receiving the charge of composition and balls in a roman candle, that had been playfully pedinted at his back pointed at his back.

A sky-rocket, not having the right elevation, flew into the midst of a lot of beys on the cor-ner of Columbia avenue and Thirteenth street, injuring none of them badly.

GLASSBORO CELEBRATION. — The Fourth of July was celebrated in the old-fashioned style at Glassboro, N. J. There were 3000 people as-sembled in the grove half a mile from the town of Glassboro, with a fine band of music from Mullica Hill. The address of the morning was delivered by James M. Scovel, who took strong grounds in favor of the Congressional-Phil,-Sheridan plan of reconstruction. The speaker was severe on the usurpations of the Executive and Secretary of State, and held his audience for over an hour. The meeting in the after-noon was addressed by Rev. Dr. Fernley, of Philadelphia. The Declaration was read by Rev. Mr. Platt. Much enthusisam was dis-played throughout, and at the close of the meetplayed throughout, and at the close of the meeting in the morning three cheers were given for the Union, and three more for the speakers. Thirty-eight little girls, dressed in white, repre-sented the thirty-eight States in the Union, including Walrussia.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT AT PROENIXVILLE -On Saturday morning last an accident occurred in the borough of Pho-nixville of a fearful nature, and wherein two girls, aged respectively twelve and eighteen years, and a little boy, narrowly escaped a ter-rible death. It appears they had been to the borough with milk, and were about crossing the Branch Railroad running from the Read-ing Railroad to the Pucenix Iron Company's ing Kallroad to the Phœnix Iron Company's Works, when they were run into by a passing train. The engine was backing a train of empty coal cars, which struck the horse, threw him off the track, dragging the oldest girl out of the wagon by the lines. The little boy jumped out of the hind end of the wagon, and escaped uninjured. The youngest girl was taken out from among the ruins after two of the cars had passed over her, without much injury.

THREATENINGS TO KILL .--- One Bernard McDermot has for some time past sought opportuni ties to waylay, abuse, and beat a man named James Kelly, who resides at Fourth and Thompson streets. During the past week, for public demonstrations of his innate hatree for Mr. Kelly, Bernard has been taken up three times. Last night he demanded admittance to times. Last night he demanded admittance to Kelly's house, banged the door, and threatened to shoot the owners thereof, when he was taken in custody, and held by Alderman Shoemaker in $1500 ball to answer.

THE WAR IN AFRICA received a finishing The WAR IN AFRICA received a mining touch last night, and additional lustre to its puglistic fame, by a challenge to mortal com-bat issuing from Catherine White, a black woman, to a peer of like standing, color, and disposition. They met at Hurst and Lombard, where the encounter took place, which ende i in a vietory for Catherine, since abe battled, mal-treated, and pounded her opponent most vigor-ously. She was arrested and held in default of $800 ball, by Alderman Morrow, to answer at court court,

A FURTHER BRAMINATION INTO & COMPLICATED A FORTHER EXAMINATION INTO A COMPLICATED WHISKY CASE was had to-day before United States Commissioner Smith. John, James, Pa-trick, and Thomas Kelly were charged with in-tending to defraud the Government by receiv-ing illegally from a bonded warehouse loads of of whisky for the purpose of rectifying. John Brown, the storekeeper of the "Weed" bonded warehouse, at Hancock and Norris streats, is alleged to have aided and abetted the Kelfwin receiving these spirits in an unauthorized and illegitimate manner. illegitimate manner.

illegitimate manner. John Hetherington, a carter, living at No. 1529 Philip street, testified that he had received pay from Brown for carting whisky to various places, about thirty barrels. from this ware-house-one load to Patrick Kelly's, at Second and Diamond streets; one to James Kelly's, on Germantown road; one to John Kelly's, on Ger-mantown road, below Diamond street. This was taken during March. Hetherington stated of his having no knowledge of how the barrels were marked, or of any secresy in their trans-portation. portation.

The facts in the case were given in full a few days since in THE EVENING TELEGRAPH. The defendants, Kelly brethers, were held in ing and abetting in illegally removing this liquor, and was held by the Commissioner in $3000 ball to answer at Court.

$3000 ball each to appear at Court during the next term. Mr. Brown, the storekeeper, was held for ald-

FURTHER PARTICULARS IN REFERENCE TO THE SHOOTING OF MRS. HUGH GAMBLE ON THE FOURTH OF JULY .- Mr. Hugh Gamble, who resides at and keeps a grocery store at No. 1219 Fitzwater street, observed a man by the name Fitzwater street, observed a man by the name of John Basler, a baker who lives on the oppo-site side of the street, using a Spencer repeating rifle very carelessly. He went over and remon-strated with him (Basler), telling him he should be more careful, as he might hurt some of the women and children. Mr. Gamble then went to attend to his horse, the stable being in the rear of his residence A short time elapsed, when Basler came out with his rifle and appeared to have taken deliborate aim, and fired into the Basier came out with his rife and appeared to have taken deliberate aim, and fired into the store where Mrs. Gamble, her son, a young man of twenty years of age, and daughter, aged fi-teen years, were standing in close proximity in conversation, they being about five feet inside the door. Basler was arrested and held to ball by Alderman Tittermary. The defendant made an excuse that he was shooting at a dog in the street at the time. On inquiry, it appears that no one could be found who saw a dog in the vicinity at that particular time.

Mr. Carrington said he had agreed that Rhodes should be recalled.
Judge Pierrepont said that, as there was some doubt as to the recall of Susan Jackson, she could be recalled; but the prosecution would then put some additional questions to her also.
Mr. Bradley said the defense agreed to that.
Mr. Bradley then said that before proceeding with his evidence he would move to strike out all evidence in relation to Jacob Thompson, as he had not been connected with the case at issue.
Judge Fisher said it was not worth while to cut the case to pleces now. Let the defense go on and examine their witnesses, and all these points will come up for argument hereafter.
Mr. Bradley then ashifted objections to other portions of the testimony, and the Court ruled that it was not the proper time to make the objections.
Mr Pierrepont said that all the evidence would be conceded before the trial was over, and at the proper time.
