NOTICE

CAPR ISLAND, July 5. The "Fourth" passed off delightfully, although there was not much of a pyrotechnic display. The streets were crowded with ladies in their may holiday attire.

A party of about two hundred ladies and gentlemen from Salem arrived here in the morning , and promenaded the beach and streets until their departure, late in the afternoon. It was a beautiful day; not a cloud was to be seen, and we had a bracing and invigorating breeze from the sea throughout the whole of it.

The beach presented an animated scene yesterday at the bathing hour. There must have been at least two hundred ladies in the ocean at one time, and as they rose and fell with the surf, they presented a very striking and pleasing picture. I would here remark that the ladies this season spare neither pains nor expense on their bathing dresses. They are made up out of all the gorgeous and britliant hues of the

There are more cottagers here than ever before known at this season of the year. There appears to be a grand rivalry between them as TION OF to which shall turn out the fastest and handsomest teams. They make a very pretty show on the beach as they dash up and down it in the evening. One young gentleman of wealth, of Philadelphia, seems to outshine all the rest. He has a sort of nondescript barouche, very handsomely gotten up. By his side is seated a beautiful young lady, while on the back seat is his "tiger," with his arms folded, dressed in most elaborate livery.

I have visited the Island for a number of years, but never saw so much wealth representing the fashionable world before. This arises from the fact, I presume, that quite a number of new cottages have been put up, costing from ten to thirty thousand dollars each. The fashionable ladies here dress more costly for promenading on the Beach than they do for promenading on Chesnut street. So it is reasonably to be supposed that they intend this season to eclipse Long Branch in beauty and brilliancy. It is no hard matter for them to do, either, if they make up their minds to it.

The leading hotels are beginning to rapidly fill up. The Columbia, Congress Hall, and the United States, of course, take the lead. The next two best houses are the American and and Centre. Then follow the Sherman, Merchants', Surf, Washington, Franklin, Philadelphia and one or two others. phia, and one or two others,

I notice among the arrivals during the past two days quite a large number from Philadel-phia, General Richard Coulter, of Westmoreland county, Pa., is at the Columbia.

No less than five bridal parties arrived here yesterony and scattered themselves among the different hotels. The weather to-day again is very refreshing, with a fine sea breeze. The Park and track at Diamond Beach are being rapidly pushed to completion. It is expected that they will be opened during the next two weeks. Colonel John West, of the United States Hotel, is the lessee.

Mark Hassler's two bands will be down on Monday. Then the season will commence in earnest. The first "hop" of the season will take place on Monday evening, either at the Columbia House or Coagress Hall.

CHINESE BURIAL CUSTOMS. A Chinese of some distinction died in San Francisco a few weeks since. One of the attaches of the Atta, who attended his funeral, gossips in this wise:-

A coffin of superior description was in the A come of superior description was in the room, but attention was given exclusively to the gathering up of bedclothes and garments that must have been used by the deceased. A woman, draped in white, sobbed bitterly, and efforts were made to console her by other females, apparently without effect. Close by her was an intellectual-looking Chinaman, who gave very little heed to her sorrows, but who went on reading rapidly from a book, occasionally varying the ceremony by throwing scraps of paper on the body of the dead man. When the proper time arrived the undertaker's assistants made short work of coffining the deceased, as the weeping woman, doubled in consequence of apparent grief, grew louder in lamentation. The usual supply of provisions, suon as meats, rice and lowi, was conveyed after the coffin and placed in a separate wagon, which formed part of the tuneral procession, and in which were bedding and wearing apparel. The woman was led, almost carried, to a back, and in presence of a large number of spectators (who were not edified), the cortege moved off, leaving several carriages behind, the drivers of which had falled to induce the friends of deceased to pay for joining in the procession.

There is an extensive plot of ground set apart in Lone Mountain for the interment of Chinese. There is also a vault where the remains of the wealthy classes are kept until opportunity offers for removal to China. In most cases the burials take place in the ordinary manner; a grave is dug and the coffin covered. But, as is well known, the remains are not allowed to return to dust in foreign soil; the companies take charge of this matter, and carry out the wishes of their countrymen. Periodically, after sufficient time has elapsed, the bodies interred are exhumed, the flesh is carefully scraped from the bones, which are exposed to the action of the sun until thoroughly dried; they are then wrapped in white muslin and packed in rough boxes for shipment. The bodies placed in the vault are transported to China in the coffins obtained at first from the undertakers. first from the undertakers.

A writer in an Eastern paper not long since drew attention to the commerce between San Francisco and Hong Kong, in the transportation of dead Chinamen. It is believed that the desire of Chinamen in California to be interred in their native land does not arise from a love of country, or the sentiment which leads men to wish to be among their kindred; but it is that their bones may be duly cared for, sacrificed to, and supplied from time to time with money, food, raiment, and other articles in the spirit world. which articles, made of paper, are transmitted through the medium of fire. If facilities for transportation existed in Australia and other countries where the Chinese are to be found, they would have been availed of; but no Chinese junk would receive a corpse on board, and no opportunity has been presented for shipping them by foreign vessels. In fact, it is a sort of freight that only an American skipper would think of receiving.

The collection and transportation of the dead takes place in some cases annually; in others after the lapse of a long period, until it can be done on a large scale and economically. In this city the companies have an organization for the purpose. Persons are sent from time to time all over California, Oregon, and Nevada, on bone collections. After preparing them in the manner stated before, they are isbelled and sent to Hong-Kong, where friends of the de-ceased receive them. The remains of the friendless are cared for by guilds or benevolent societies. Religious ceremonies accompany the final interments, in which the attendance of a final interments, in which the attendance of a priest is not essential. In Honolulu, however, when a Chinaman dies, his friends often solicit the services of a minister, as they attach some importance to the rites of Christian burial. In many countries the Chinese eive their dead permanent interment; and in Spain they comply with the customs of the country, and practise cremation. We believe that San Francisco has a monopoly of carrying by wholesale deal bodies thousands of miles across the ocean.

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY.

THE COMMONWEALTH THEIR FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AS AN INVESTMENT.

The rapid progress of the Union Pacific Railroad, now building west from Omaha, Nebraska, and forming, with its western connections, an unbroken line across the continent, attracts attention to the value of the First Mortgage Bonds which the Company now offer the public. The first question asked by prudent investors is, "Are these bonds secure?" Next, "Are they a profitable investment?" To reply in briet;-First. The early completion of the whole great line to the Pacific is as certain as any future business event can be. The Government grant of over twenty million acres of land and fifty million dollars in its own bonds practically guarantees it. One-fourth of the work is already done, and the track continues to be laid at the rate of two miles a day.

Second. The Union Pacific Railroad bonds are issued upon what promises to be one of the most produble. lines of railroad in the country. For many years it must be the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific; and being without competition, it can maintain remunerative rates.

Third, 376 miles of this road are finished, and fully equipped with depots, locomotives, cars, etc., and two trains are daily running each way. The materials for the remaining 141 miles to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains are on hand, and it is under contract to be done in September, Fourth, The net earnings of the sections already finished are several times greater than the gold interest upon the First Mortgage bonds upon such sections, and if not another mile of the road were built, the part already completed would not only pay inte rest and expenses, but be profitable to the Company. Fifth, The Union Pacific Ratiroad bonds can be issued only as the road progresses, and therefore can never be in the market unless they represent a bona fide property.

Sixth, Their amount is strictly limited by law to a sum equal to what is granted by the United States Government, and for which it takes a second lien as its security. This amount upon the first 517 miles west from Omaha is only $16,000 per mile.

Seventh, The fact that the United States Govern ment considers a second lien upon the road a good investment, and that some of the shrewdest railroad builders of the country have already paid in five milllon dollars upon the stock (which is to them a third lien), may well inspire confidence in a first lien. Eighth. Although it is not claimed that there can be parties who consider a first mortgage upon such a property as this the very best security in the world, and who sell their Governments to reinvest in these bonds, thus securing a greater interest. Ninth. As the Union Pacific Railroad bonds are offered for the present at 90 cents on the dollar and any better securities than Governments, there are accrued interest, they are the cheapest security in the market, being 15 per cent, less than United States Tenth. At the current rate of premiums on gold
