THE SÆNGERFEST.

THE PRIZE CONCERT LAST EVENING.

Grand Parade and Picnic To-day,

The Academy of Music was last night crowded even with a larger multitude of people than on the occasion of the general concert of the preceding evening. The exercises, the programme of which we published yesterday afternoon, passed off with great celat, the concert being in all respects a success. The competing societies had evidently prepared themselves for the contest in the most thorough and systematic manner, and it is fair to presume that each one displayed the full attength of its musical powers and acquirements.

Notwithstanding the interest manifested, both by the participants and the public at large, been held, the crowning event of the week, and the one on which the greatest share of attention has been bestowed, is the grand pionic of to-day. The following programme was laid down for the event:—

At 7 o'clock the different societies resorted to the headquarters at National Grands Hall to in the two monster concerts which have already at intervals of ten minutes will be the signal for the singers to assemble in front of the Temple of Donations, on the eastern side of Engel & Wolf's Farm, the stand being occupied by the Honorary Committee. The exercises will then commence with the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" by the assembled mul-titude, after which Charles Buckwalter, Esq., will deliver an oration in English, Mendels-sohn's chorus, "The Hunter's Farewell," will then be sung, followed by an address in Ger-man by Frederick Schuenemann Pott, Esq. Not less conspicuous than other things mentioned were two cosmopolitan beer tanks, placed near an ice bouse, around which gathered a thirsty and longing crowd.

The rotunda for the occupation of the Honrary Committee and the Prize Judges was finely draped with flags, while on each of its octagonal sides, in the centre of a shield en relief was the name of some of the greatest German musical composers, such as Mozart, Haydn, Fluch, and Bach.

At balf-past eleven o'clock, announced by a salute of many guns, the procession, with ban-ners, flags, and bands playing, entered the enners, sings, and bands playing, entered the en-closure, and at the signal, each division de-ployed from the mass, and took up its station allotted to it in the programme as laid down.b In this respect there was hardly a variation; so nicely had all things been arranged that each society found its locality without diffi-

The police regulations are excellent. Chief Ruggles has under his charge about 300 men, who, in turn, are under their respective Lieutenants. They are so placed around the large tenants. They are so placed around the large ground that none who would can scale the fences, and any disturbance will be quickly quelied. After the heat of the day, when the prizes have been announced, speeches made, and toasts given—then the full choruses of all the societies in united beautiful song will well up from this rural retreat, and re-echo through its woody bounds, testifying surely that, though from distant cities and other States, our German friends are all in one great bond of brotherhood and friendship.

The Exercises this Afternoon.

waiter, Esq. delivered the following interesting address:—

Friends—Members of the German Singing Societies:—The agreeable duty and privilege has been allotted to me of actively uniting with you in this grand national celebration. I would not do justice to my feelings if I did not how, in the very beginning of what I promise shall be but a brief address, publicly express my thanks for the distinguished honor which has been bestowed in your invitation to fill the important place occupied by me to-day.

The Tenth General Steugerfest is about drawing to its close, after having attracted to its festivities societies from all parts of our land, who met with the kindliest interchange of social feelings in a generous rivalry for the palm of excelence in the ulvine science of mosic. It has been a marked and interesting even in the local history of our city, and it there has been no greater good achieved than that infinence arising from the exhibition of thousands of strangers, logether with the entire German population at home, meeting in free holiday indulgence with a decency, good order, and general sobriety rarely to be met with among any people in the enjoyment of restive occasions, it would have been both granifying and sufficient. The welcome his Honor the Mayor extended on behalf of the city of Philadelphia has been most heartily and warmly endorsed by all of our citizens, who have been the witnesses of the pleasant reunion of the past few days. But there is another result of a higher character. It has brought us again into a closer intimacy and acquaintance with a portion of our population who have largely added by trugality, industry, and intelligence to the weath of our fand—we o, after reaching our shores, have, with honest labor, steadily advanced through our valleys and across our vast territories, making the forest and the field bloom with rich harvests of plenty:—who, by their love of freedom, their appreciation of republical institutions, their faithful adherence to the country of their adoption, nave b together in a fraternal unity which will bring forth fruits in charity, mutual concessions, and good-will, remembering that the closer and more friendly the association the more effectually will the two nationalities be moulded into one nation.

But, my triends, we recognize in this celebration a devotion to science and art ennobling to the heart and mind. With you the attainment of a knowledge of music is not a mere accomplishment, but made part of the education of your life. In harmony with your natural tasts you received your first lessons in your youth, and have pursued them eagerly and earnestly. The civilization of your native country has, nader its influence, been advanced, and in the exatted perfection which has been attained there has been found one of the richest lewels of national distinction; for German music has an individuality which is acknowledged among men—a depth of feeling unsurpassed, and a grandeur of beauty and power unequalied. With this high cultivation you have come into our midst. You have organized and perfected societies whose object has been and is the advancement of musical knowledge.

You have organized and perjected societies whose object has been and is the advancement of musical knowledge.

You have axhibited to us with an ease the most impressive, the compositions of the master minds; and in your friendly contention for victory have proved that you are entitled to and must receive the high prizes of public commendation and appiause. Your visit here, and this minor of the friends and lovers of music, must necessarily create a deeper interest; it must arouse the feelings and excite a desire among us all to cultivate that which, while it is most entrancing to the senses, quickens the sensibilities, stimulates the imagination, and awakens into life all the better and nobler emotions of the sout. Let those who are worshipper of the idois of the real and practical, and who, in their daily treadmill existence, can find no valuegbut in moneyed profit, not forget that there is in this love for and culture of music not only gratifying pleasure and delight, soothing the wearlness of life, out that there exists a value which is experienced in the destruction of the ruder and grosser character of society—an immediate good resulting from the refinement of the mind and the elevation of the moral life.

We are all indeed too apt to entirely overlook, or to be indifferent to the quiet but powerful influences which is round us. We seek upon that which is bold and startling in the world, and fall to inquire beyond what meets our eye or strikes our sense. The historian faithfully chronicles the times and reproduces the stirring scenes of the past, to be accepted by us without a question or thought as to their origin. The primary motive power is overlooked in the magnitude of the result, But, my friends, this is not the conduct of the wise and careful student of life. His mind investigates from result to cause—he searches for and finds the secret influences which has retruded the world, however much you may not the hearts they have touched—the minds they have arroade—the patriotism revived—the hearts in the peaks to him in poesy and song, will forget too the and of his adoption. land of his adoption.
You come to us as children of the great masters of music, not forgetting your lathers. You come to us with the spirit hovering about you of Mozart, Besthoven, and all that band of illustrious men who have interpreted.

—those grand old masters, who drew inspiration from the gods, and thrilled the wondering world with beavenly symphonies. Am I seifish when it asy we claim them with you." Bo I fail in rendering them full meed of houor when I say that they belong to no country or clime, but to the world? They who have by miraculous touch opened man's heart, and joined together in generous brotherhood the nations of the earth,—they belong no more to Germany than shakespeare to England—no more than the sun belongs to the land upon which its raw first felt, for its glorious effuigence breaks up the darkness, and quickens life in every quarter of the earth. They are the children of genus, whose birthniace is with the Immortal, and who, as they wander in their pilgrimage, may rest their burthened spirit in some ravored apot, but wing their flight over the world's limit—the holy teacher's or mankind.

My Iriends, we have again listened to the moving eloquence of their voice, again been retreshed and instructed, and in the atmosphere of the beautiful and good have approached nearer to our God. Let us then again rejoice in this celebration. Its innocent festivities, its grand concerts, its genial sociability will be remembered, and the happy infinance of these days will long dwell with us of Philadelphia.

AN OLD VAGRANT .- Officer Donaway this morning arrested, at Second and Green streets, a man named George Briesly. George is one of that class of individuals who may be found in the dens and low places of the city, drinking whisky made of all kinds of the most poisonous ingredients. His daily babits are somewhat varied. One day he begs, and receiving enough to sustain him the next, with a little over, he

The next day he repairs to one of the low drinking saloons on St. John street, and imbibes the poisenous concection to such an extent that he is oblivious to all around him. After sleeping off the effects, he begs again, and so he goes on from day to day, sinking desper into degradation and vice. Alderman Toland committed him to prison. committed him to prison.

class of the community. It is a desideratum which would be greatly beneficial to the citizens at large.

WAR OF THE AMAZONS .- Yesterday Sarah Jenkins visited the house of Mary Ann Gardel, in an out-of-the way place in the upper portion of the city. It appears that Sarsh's mother lived in the house with Mary Ann, and she wished to see her. lived in the house wished to see her.

Sarah commenced quarrelling with the others about keeping her mother, whereupon Mary ordered her out of the house. She refused to go, and a regular set-to was the result. Hair was pulled and the cheeks of the parties were pretty well scratched and their clothing torn. After they were completely exhausted they stopped Mary then had a warrant issued by Alderman Huriey for the arrest of Sarah, who was bound over for trial. This morning a warrant was issued for Mary at the instance of Sarah, and she was also held for trial.

AN OLD DODGE .- On Monday last two men AN OLD DODGE.—On Monday last two men arrived at the Bingham House, corner of Eleventh and Market street. One, who had a large carpet-bag, having the appearance of being pretty well filled, registered his name as Witham H. Tillinghurst. The other did not give his name. On Tuesday their actions led the proprietor to entertain the idea that they were about to depart without paying their board. Tillinghurst was arrested, but his companion escaped. Upon searching the carpetpanion escaped. Upon searching the carpet-bag it was found to contain a number of old newspapers and scraps of waste paper. prisoner was conducted before Alderman Jones, who held him in $600 ball to appear at Court and answer the charge of obtaining board by the false show of baggage, with the intention to cheat the proprietor.

AN OUTRAGEOUS PROCEEDING. - Yesterday AN OUTRAGEOUS PROCEEDING. — Yesterday about a dozen men entered a house on Osborne street, between Eighth and Ninth, and below Walnut, occupied by a colored family. Among the inmates of the house was a pregnant woman, whom the ruffians beat in a shocking manner, knocking her down, and kicking her in the stomach. A premature birth was the result. Two of the alleged participants in the affair, named Phillips and Horner, were arrested and taken before Alderman Swift, by whom they were held for a further hearing this afternoon. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the others.

A WHISKY CASE .- On Monday a number of men went into the yard of Michael Githens, on Elisworth street, above Twelfth, and rolled five barrels of whisky which were there out into the street, and carried them off in a cart. The whisky was taken to John Lawler's house, in South street, near Front. The police officers who were watching around saw the ardent de-posited there and took charge of it, and ar-rested Lawler. This morning he was before Alderman Hurley, and was held for a further hearing to-morrow (Thursday) atternoon, at 3

A DELIGHTFUL EXCURSION IN PROSPECTIVE IS that announced to come off to-morrow under the auspices of Lady Washington Social Temple of Honor and Temperance. In past years the excursions given by this organization have ever met the fullest expectation of those induced to accompany it, and have attained a merited reputation for the pleasure and sociability they afford. Good music will be in attendance, and we doubt not that due honor will be paid to the Terpsichorean muse. The excursion extends down the Delaware to Bombay Hook, per steamer Swan, which leaves Bruner's wharf at o'clock, stopping at Arch and Christian streets

ARRIVAL OF THE TONAWANDA .- This staunch ARRIVAL OF THE TONAWANDA.—This staunch steamship has just arrived, with a full cargo of freight, and the following passengers:—Mrs. E. A. McWhorter and family, Mrs. M. A. Rippard and family, Mr. David Baer and family, Mr. James A Fox and lady, Mr. A. Reppard, Dr. J. Mizell, Messrs. W. T. Lapham, W. W. Burnham, C. M. Tinker, William Starr, M. Jones, S. Ludd, Thomas Haggarty, Thomas P. Kennedy, I. Buttler, Ott Rosenbach, Miss Fox, Miss K. Lewis, Miss Wortsman, Miss L. Sheftall.

We return our thanks to James M. Clement, purser of the Tonawanda, for full files of Sapurser of the Tonawanda, for full files of Savannah papers.

CARRYING CONCRALED DEADLY WEAPONS. This morning a man, too much intoxicated to give his name, was arrested at Ninth and Filpert streets. On being taken to the Station House and searched, a loaded revolver was found in his pocket. Alderman Jones held him in $600 to answer. A drunken man with a sixshooter in his pocket is a dangerous individual, and had he not been arrested, probably in a moment of rage he would have sent some poor human being to that "bourne from whence traveller returns.'

THE DISEASE OF AMERICA .- Dyspepsia is said to be the disease of America. Its victims may be found in all stations of life. The poor as well as the rich are sufferers from its life-destroying influence. The symptoms of this disease vary greatly in the different stages of the complaint. It generally commences with a sensation of fullness after eating, and a changeable, diminished, or lost appetite. In some instances the appetite is voracious, and when-in obedience to its promptings-a large portion of food is taken into the stomach, pain follows in that region, with general distress, nervousness, and nausea. Flatulency and heart-burn invariably attend this disease. For all these symptoms

THE TRIAL OF JOHN H. SURRATT.

Washington, July 17—The trial of John H. Birrait was resumed this morning in the Criminal Court, Judge Fisher presiding.

Mr. Bradley, Sr., and—When the Court adjourned washington, July 17—The trial of John H. Sifrait was resumed this morning in the Criminal Court, Judge Fisher presiding.

Mr. Bradley, 87., asid—When the Court adjourned yesterday a proposition was made to introduce an agreement between Booth and others in relation to the conspiracy. He admitted that the paper could not be evidence for the prosecution, became it would show that Surrait was not in the conspiracy, but it was clearly admissible when offered by the defense.
He held that it was pertinent to the Issue, and when any evidence was offered it was for the Court to determine whether the evidence offered is pertinent to the issue, and it is for the jury to determine the weight of the evidence. If the Court can see that the jury may draw an inference from a test offered, it must go to the jury. It is exceedingly difficult to ascertain whether any positive rule of law governs the admissibility of testimony, and be had therefore honted up no authorities. What is offered in evidence is a fact bearing upon the issue which the jury is now trying, and in the abachce of any positive rule of exclusion is must go to the jury. If there is such a positive rule, it is for the prosecution to show it. This is not a case where the prisoner might have manufactured the proof but it is the declaration of the party made at the very act, and it is as much a tart of the response to prove the agreement to execute;
and in view of the testimony at ready given, no one would suppose that the prisoner assisted in fabricalling the proof.

Two questions are involved in this—one, whether he was a compirator to murder the President? and the other, whether there was a nonspiracy to kill, and that is the gist of the inquiry here. Who were the conspiracy is a question for inquiry, Ordinarily, a conspiracy, is a question for inquiry, Ordinarily, a conspiracy, is a question for inquiry here. Who were the conspiracy that a testimony is the murder? and there are totally distinct questions. The charge here attended in March, 1885 afte

from which they infer that Surratt was in that conspiracy, and the delense meet that by offering the agreement of the conspirators and by showing that Surratt was not a party to that agreement. The prosecution has produced Booth's diary to, show that the murder was decided upon on April 14, and can the defense then be precluded from offering the agreement to murder, in which the name of the prisoner does not appear. It is not the confession of the party who had done the deed, but it is the agreement to do it, and the prisoner is excluded from the agreement and he could therefore see to reason, or culd conceive no rule of law, why the evidence should not be admitted. He (Mr. Bradley) admitted that elementary writers argued that denomistantial proof was better than positive proof, but no writer ever held that circumstantial evidence was better than positive written proof. Here was a contract that committed men to the gallows, a contract that committed men to the gallows, a contract that would never have oeen entered into, except by men who had lost their reason, madmen; a contract to commit a morder that has not had its parallel; it was not kept in their possession and sorreted by them, but handed to a third party to be used as evidence agalast those four men who boldly offered the meaves as a searcince for what they deemed to be the nation's wrongs. In the contract the prisoner could not participate, and it is due not only to the prisoner, but to the others that baven en nurdered, that all the racts connected with the conspiracy should be brought out, and this paper cannot be excluded, except up on the mest inexorable rule of law. If it were the prisoner's own act it could not be offered in evidence, but it is the act of the conspiracy and the excluded, except up on the mest inexorable rule of the admissibility of this evidence is for the Court. The question of the prisoner was not a conspirator accept by the agreement signed when he was not there? The lirst conspiracy is a question for the lirst conspiracy agre dence, and the evidence of a third party, and he did not suppose for a moment the court would entertain it.

In regard to the unjust imputation cast upon honorble men, that the conspirators trued at the arsenal had been murdered, he would answer that at the proper time and in the proper manner. All who were condemned by the Military Commission met a deserved murderer's death. The presection would show to the country that Surrait was the armor-bearer of Booth, a man who was false to his country, false to his Government, and who deserted his mother, and by flight had admitted his guilt.

Mr. Merrick, interrupting, asked Mr. Carrington what authority he was questioning? He supposed this was a question of law.

Mr. Carrington said he understood these feeble attempts at wit. It was to create laughter, and the same spirit would create a mob if possible. In conclusion, Mr. Carrington argued that the testimony should be excluded.

Judge Fisher ruled that the testimony was inadmissible. It might have been the very object of the conspirators to thus screen some of the parties to the complicators to thus creens some of the parties to the complicators to thus screen some of the parties to the complicators by getting up this argument.

Mr. Matthews was recalled, and cross-examined by Mr. Pierrepont—Witness was born in the United States; during the Rebellion the witness sympathized with the Union side, and preferred that the Robellion should be put down otherwise than by war; had at that time confidence in the Legislature, but had not much confidence in the Legislature, but had not much confidence in the Legislature but had not much confidence in the Legislature, but had not say anything about the letter; possibly he might have said that the day witness saw Booth on horsehack was the last time witness saw Booth on horsehack was the last time witness saw him: witness testified that Booth had had presented witness with a box, but that was several days before the interview sliuded to; witness saw Booth had had presented witness might become involved in the matter.

THE BROCK CASE-HEARING BEFORE U. S. COMMISSIONER SMITH,—A further hearing was had to-day in the case of Edward Brock, who is charged with conniving at the execution of a false and fraudulent bond by which the pay-ment of the Internal Revenue tax or duty on distilled spirits should be evaded, and for the purpose of withdrawing distilled spirits from a oonded warehouse.

John Miller sworn—I am Revenue Agent, and have been since last August or September. I know defendant; he is a clerk in the office of the Collector of the Third District: a few days after November 9, 1865, I called at the office of the Collector of the Third District and read to him a letter from Thomas Harlan, beputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue; and requested him to make a copy of it; this letter was addressed to myself; I remember asking the Collector to take a copy; this was immediately after the receipt of the letter; I got from the office of the Collector for the Third District a list of bonds and the sureties thereon; I saw defendant about the time I called on the Collector; my first interview with defendant was in reference to obtaining from him a list of distillers, with the names of the sureties on the bonds: sometime in the latter end of January or month of February I called on all the collectors in Philadelphia, and on the Collector of the Third District; I saked Mr. Brock if they had taken any transportation bonds, and received on all an ecolectors in Philadelphia, and on the collector for an answer that they had taken none; I saw Mr. Brock more than once: during the months of March and April I called on defendant in reterence to transportation bonds; I remember an interview at the District Attorney's office; during the months of March and April I called on defendant in reterence to transportation bonds; I remember an interview at the District Attorney's office; during the months of the removal of spirits: It was understood that they would take no bonds without my approval; I never received from the defendant any notice of bonds marked by the Commissioner Nos, I. 2, and 4, and have no knowledge of them: these bonds were brought to the District Attorney's office by the Collector himself; this was the first time I saw them. Cross-examined—Defendant and General Zullck understood that no bond would be taken without my approval; I nov

[From the Rev. E. D. Fendell, Assistant Editor Chris-tian Chronicle, Philadelphia.]

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoof-land's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to re-commend them as a most valuable tonic to all who are suffering from general debility, or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly, E. D. FENDALL.

[From Rev. D. Merrige, Pastor of the Passyunk Bap-tist Church, Phitadelphia.] From the many respectable recommendations given to Dr. Hoofiand's German Bitters, I was induced to give them a trial. After using several bottles I found them to be a good zemedy for debility, and a most excellent tonic for the stomach.

D. MERRIGE.

From Rev. William Smith, formerly Paster of the Vincentown and Mi Ivilie (N. J.) Baptist Churches.]
Havirg used in my family a number of bottles of your Hoofland's German Bitters, I have to say that I regard them as an excellent medicine, especially scapted to remove the diseases they are recommended for. They strengthen and invigorate the system when debilitated, and are useful in disorders of the liver, loss of appetite, etc. I have also recommended them to several of my triends, who have tried them and found them greatly beneficial in the restoration of health.

Yours truly, William SMITH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15, 1885.

Some eighteen months since, I was a severe sufferer from dyspepsia. I was not only unable to take plain for d without suffering great distress, but had become so deblitated as to be aimost unfitted for active business of any kind.

After trying a variety of so-called remedies, all of which proved worthless, I was induced, at the suggestion of a medical friend, to give Hoofland's German Bitters a trial. I accordingly purchased six bottles, which were taken in accordance with your directions.

The result was accomplete removal of all distressing symptoms after eating or drinking, and a full restoration of strength, so that I now eat all ordinary kinds of food with impunity, and am able to attend to all the scrive dules of a large and ardious business as well as at any period of my life the good effects of the Bittern were manifested before I had taken the first bottle.

I have also used it in my family with the happiest results and taken the first bottle.

taken the first bottle.

I have also used it in my family with the happiest results, and take great pleasure in adding my testimony to that of the many others who have been benefited by it. I find great benefit from the use of a bottle in the spring and fall. They not only create a vigorous appetite, but give a healthy tone to the atomach by strengthening its digestive powers.

If the above testimony while the means of inducing any who suffer from Dyspepsis to give your fifters a trial (when it. I sed confident, will give them relief), it is at your service.

Yours truly,

A. M. SPANGLER.
