THE LATE GENERAL MEAGHER.

Particulars of His Death.

A private letter from Montana Territory, dated Virginia City, July 6, gives the following account of the death of General Meagher:—
"He was at Fort Benton, waiting for the arms the Government sent up. He arrived there on the 1st of July, having ridden thirty miles on horseback in the hot sun on that day. He spent the afternoon in conversation and letter writing, after the dearly to his berth on board the seamboat G. A. Thompson. There was no ralling on the guards opposite his state-room door, it having been broken off in some way. About 10 o'clock at night he went on the guards. Here, it is supposed, he stumbled on a coll of rope, lost his balance, and was precipitated over the side of the bost. The river is greatly swollen, and the current so strong that the best smimmer and the current so strong that the best smimmer has no chance in it. It is stated that he called for help, when the deck hands ran with their lights and saw him floating away. There was no boat ready. Everything appears to have been confusion and excitement. I have received a charming letter that he wrote me, late that afternoon (his last on earth), telling me that he hoped to start for home by the last of the week, so that he evidently had no presentment of his dreadful fate. * * A gentleman who was in his company for over an bour late in the afternoon, before the accident occurred, has in-formed me of most of the circumstances of his last hours in this life, as I state them to you. 1 fear that his remains will never be recovered, though the citizens of Montana are making every effort to find them."

A Virginia City paper adds the following interesting particulars;-

"After our forms were closed for the press this morning, the passengers by stage from Fort Benton brought the thrilling and very sad news of the untimely death of General Thomas Francis Meagher. He went on board of the steamer G. A. Thompson, lying at the levee, to spend the evening and night of the 1st inst. He was heard to get up from his couch during the night and go out of his state room on to the guards. Upon hearing a splashing sound in the water, the passengers rushed out to find that one who had stood foremost among the few truly brilliant men of our country, and he who had taken so prominent a part in the administrative affairs of prominent a part in the administrative affairs of our Territory, winning all hearts by his nobleness of nature and purpose—had been swept down the terrible torrent, perhaps never again to be recovered even in death. All efforts to recover his body had, up to the leaving of the coach, proved fruitiess. This is a bereavement in which not only those near and dear to the deceased will be bowed down with irrepressible griaf but many very many of his fellow. sible grief, but many, very many of his fellowcitizens and his fellow-countrymen throughout the land will most sincerely mourn. We regret that circumstances prevent our dwelling upon this most lamentable calamity in words which we feel to be due to the occasion—but we must leave this to another time. Our profound and heartfelt sympathies go forth in condolence to that adored wife and noble lady who, more than all the rest, must suffer the shock of this most sad and unwelcome intelligence." The authorities and people of Montana have been paying the highest tributes of respect to the memory of their lost fellow-citizen. Governor Green Clay Smith has issued the following proclamation:-

Helena, M. T., July 3.—Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to take from us by acci-dent our esteemed friend, Secretary (late Acting Governor) Thomas Francis Meagher, who was drowned at Fort Benton on the night of the 1st instant, by falling from the steamer G. A. Thompson

Now, therefore, I, Green Clay Smith, Governor of the Territory of Montana. do direct that the headquarters of the military which were established under his direction and authority in the various districts of the Territory be draped in mourning for thirty days.

I further request that the offices of the Federal officers of the Territory be likewise draped in mourning for the same length of time. It is but due to the memory of our deceased friend and fellow-officer, that we should hold blm in fond remembrance. He was a man of high social qualities, great urbanity, a high order of intellect, a brave soldier, a true gentle-man, and an honor to his Territory and Govern-ment. This sad bereavement will be felt by every one who had the pleasure offils acquaintance throughout the Territory and the nation. GREEN CLAY SMITH. Governor of Montana Territory.

THE ORIENTALS AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC. -This evening the great Beni-Zoug Zoug Troupe of Arabs and a troupe of Japanese jugglers will commence a brief season. The performances of this great double company are sald to be truly wonderful. Many of the acts are entirely new here. Wherever this combination company of aerialists, jugglers, acrobats, and magicians have appeared, they have been greeted by the most flattering appliause. A lad who belongs to the Japanese troupe is said to be as accomplished and fearless as the great "Little All Right," and, since the death of the latter, is now at the head of his profession. During the "heated term" the Academy ventilators will be opened, and the building will be rendered as cool as possible. This will be good news for the "Stay-at-homes" and "Can't-get-

SUNDAY-THE WEATHER-SQUALL ON THE RIVER, AND LOSS OF LIFE.—The aphorism that "a just reward cometh at last" has lost none of its truthfulness with reference to this particular community at this time of the year; in fact, it has additional force, from the condition of the weather for the past week. For the long period of cool weather we have bad, and the pleasure connected with the same, we have for five days connected with the same, we have for nye days past been afflicted with scorching rays and a roasting condition of body. Yesterday seemed to be the culminating point of the hot season, and the sun poured down his sweltering rays with unrelentless intensity all day, thereby keeping one in a continuous state of puring season for the part of the sun of t and foaming. when opposite Five Mile Foint, the cry arose of the capsizing of a sail-boat near the steamer. Two passengers jumped over to the rescue of the persons struggling in the water, who were all saved by help from the boats of the steamer. One of the two passengers who jumped over was drowned. When the Edwin Forrest reached the Arch street dock, some disturbance, it is said, took pace upon it, the friends of the drowned man attempting to damage the boat, and laying all the blame of the catastrophe upon the captain.

Many pleasure boats were overturned by the suddenness of the squall. Two occupants of a boat, near Beverly, were thrown out and drowned, one of whom is supposed to be William Trowert, who resides in this city. A boat containing three women was upset on the Schuzikili, emptying its contents into the river, hear Race street wharf. All were rescued, Corsiderable damage was done in the Park. THE POOR ARE NOT ALWAYS MERK AND LowLy -An Irishman, big, brawny, and lazy, named William Charabers, with a family of six, was sent to the Almshouse to obtain the wherewithal to keep body and soul of himself and family together. Rejolcing in the excellent soup he there obtained, and yet incited to evil, probably because of a taste of a noted beverage, he commenced to belabor his wife vesterder. noted beverage, he commenced to belabor his wife yesterday morning. And soon such a swearing and tearing of the enraged Celt. and such yelling by the afflicted spouse, and such roarings from infantile throats that rung through that public institution, have never been excelled since its foundation. Officer Herr was called in, and in attempting to arrest Chambers was violently beaten by that person; but drawing his hardened locust, he laid it about the violent man's sconce and shoulders in a manner that made him succumb perforce. Chambers was held by Alderman Good to Chambers was held by Alderman Good to answer.

THREATENING TO KILL.-James and William Threatesing to Kill.—James and William Bradley boarded for a time at a house in Bodine street, above Columbia avenue. Desiring to leave—perhaps their quarters were too hot to hold them—they prepared to move their things away without footing their little bill. The landlady seized the goods, put them under lock and key, and refused to give them up until she should be properly remunerated. They went into the house yesterday, burst in the door, seized the goods, and threatened to kill her if she opposed them. She did, with commendable spirit, and they were arrested, and held by Alderman Heins in default of bail.

An Impostor Caught .- Alfred Deringer was ninely caught by a police officer of the Second District yesterday, just as he was about to crook up his nipper-like arm, in order to give himself a maimed, soldier appearance, for the purpose of imposing upon public credulity. He has been engaged in that manner of making his living for some time past. Alderman Tittermary committed him to answer.

A "Hoss."-Jake Gunsenhouser, a Dutchman, of course, sold a man a horse for $190, which he warranted in good condition. This was proved to be the contrary, and the man returned the spavined equine, and demanded his money Jacob seized the horse, and holding on to the funds made off. He was caught, and Recorded Eneu committed him in default of Robbing a German,-Joseph Williams, aged seventeen, at 1 o'clock this morning asked a German named Camac, who was making his way along Front street, near South, the time of night, and when Camac had pulled out his watch and was about to ascertain, Williams snatched it and made off. An officer caught him before he had gone a great distance, and Alderman Morrow committed him.

ATTEMPTING TO KILL. - Edwin Milner was taken into custody at his residence, Thirteenth and Market streets, for threatening to kill William Hinds, by putting two shots through that gentleman's body. It was not done, however, and for the peace of the latter and of the community, Milner was held in $800 bail to

HIGHWAY ROBBERY .- George Grim and John Max were arrested on a warrant issued by Alderman Shoemaker, on a charge of highway robbery committed eight days ago. The Value of Pure Wine in Sickness.—
The chief difficulty with reliable wines has been their scarcity and exorbitant price; but this has been removed by the introduction of a pure native wine, prepared from the port grape extensively cultivated by Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey. We understand he has submitted his wine to the test of many of our celebrated physicians, and all concur in its purity, medicinal properties, and superiority to the best port wine. Most of them, to signify their just appreciation of its salutary effects, prescribe it in cases of debility, affections of the kidneys, and chronic complaints requiring a tonic, sudorific, or diuretic treatment.—Examiner.

THE WASHINGTON LIBRARY COMPANY AND THE HIVERSIDE INSTITUTE,—The plan adopted by the Washington Library Company for raising the necessary funds for the endowment of the Riverside Institute is one not only most liberal and generous in all its particulars, but has also received the sanction of eminent legal authority, and is being conducted in strict accordance with the terms of the charter granted by the Legislature to the Washington Library Company. This charter allows them the privilege of working under the plan which they have adopted. The Company have issued stock, which they sell at one dollar per share, each share entitling the purchaser to one fine steel-plate engraving, which, at retail, could not be bought for less than one dollar and a half. To those who purchase two, three, four, or five shares of stock, other engravings are given, each of which is worth fifty per cent. more than the price of the stock. In addition to this, each share of stock guarantees one present in the great distribution which comes, off in September, The aggregate value of these presents is $300,000, there being one worth $40,000; one worth $20,000; one worth $10,000; one worth $5000; two worth $2500 each; several worth $1000 each, and so on to the end of the list. The plan thus far has met with the greatest encouragement, and from quarters where least expected. It enables all to aid in rearing one of the noblest monuments that can be erected to the memory of our deceased soldiers and sailors, while, at the same time, every one who contributes towards the grand work not only receives for a certainty more than the value of his money, but stands his chance, with the other stockholders, of being awarded some of the most valuable of the presents offered. Many may express wonder and surprise as to how the Washington Library can be so extraordinarily liberal and generous towards those who aid them in their great enterprise. The Company are able to fulfil all they promise, from the simple fact that they have made a binding contract with the publisher of these engravings for many thousand copies. Taking a large number in this way, the price per single copy is, of course, greatly reduced, and consequently the same engraving which is retailed at many stores in this city for eight dollars, the Washington Library Company can present to the purchaser of five shares of stock, costing five dollars, with a good profit left to the Institute. The $300,000 worth of presents to be awarded have also been obtained in the same manner. Having purchased everything in the largest possible quantities, the cost is, of course, much reduced, while to buy one of the same articles at retail would require fifty per cent. more cash than is necessary to invest with the Washington Library Company.

WELL WORTH READING .- Who is there that does not desire to be always exempted from indigestion—to have a good appetite, a painless stomach, a clear head, a regular pulse, a healthy complexion? If this meets the eye of any who are not thus blessed, let them try HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. We guarantee that this delightful tonic will restore any stomach, however weak, to a healthy condition; that it will bring back the truant appetite, and give permanent vigor to the whole system. The feeble and emaciated, suffering from dyspepsia or indigestion in any form, are advised, for the sake of their own bodily and mental comfort, to try it. Trial of John H. Surratt. nied from Second Edition.

Mr. Carrington cited from 3d Greenleaf, section 89, to show what a conspiracy was, and contended that the prisoner conspired to commit an unlawful act, and the act was committed by the same one of the conspirators, then he was guilty, and guilty of murder. Where would our safety be if the law were otherwise? Now apply that law to the facts in the case.

conspirators, then be was guilty, and guilty of murder. Where would our safety be if the law were otherwise? Now apply that law to the facts in the case.

The first scene of that conspiracy is laid on Pennsylvania avenue, in April, 1864. Three men are engaged in conversation, and the subject is the murder of Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States. One suggests as the instrument of death the telescope rifle; another, whose heart is touched with pity, says. "No, we might kill his wife and children; but "no," says the first, "we will kill all if necessary. We'll murder all, if necessary to the execution of our bloody purpose." Is this doubted? If does not depend upon imported testimony, but on the testimony of Mrs. McClernand, a lady born and bred in your own city, whose character no attempt has been made to impeach. What do you see? In April, 1864, malles hissing and hot, and murder contemplated against the President of the United States. Who were that party? John W. Booth, the friend and associate of the prisoner, and the especial pet of Mrs. Mary E. Surrait, Atzerott, to whom the ladies at No, 347 gave the name of "Port Tobacco," and Haroid, who drank whisky given him by Mrs. Surrait to nerve his arm for his bloody deed.

The second scene of this bloody act occurs in a Third Avenue car, of New York, where a lady overheard a conversation relative to the murder of the President. The conspirators attract her attention. They are disguised, but by one of the mysterious providences of God, they drop certaintietters, which are secured by the lady and taken to General Scott, who, conceiving them to be of importance, sends them to the submorties. Mr. Pierrepont here read the letters found by Mrs. Hudspeth. He cared not who the persons overheard were, for it showed that by solemn vows there was a pledge made to murder Abraham Lincoln with the pistol, the dagger, and the cup. Do you remember that at this very time Harold was the clerk in a drug store? and the command was plain;—"If the pistol and the dagger will

Who next? There sits old Satan, Booth, and next to him Beelzebub Surratt; for he would show that Surratt was second in power, in command to Booth.
Who next do you see? Oh! that it were not so that an American woman could be found in such company siving her support and counterance to that company siving her support and counterance to that company giving her support and countenance to that conspiracy! There sat Mrs. Surratt! There was no infernal delty she could properly personate, for hell has no fury like the haired of a deprayed and wicked woman. Has the English language words to express the deprayity of this woman, who in cold blood requested the prisoner at the bar to shoot down Union soldiers escaping from Rebel prisons? A brave man's heart melts with pity when he sees his bitterest foe at his feet; but here is a man and a woman murdering in cold blood men in distress who appeal to their elemency.

ing in cold blood men in distress who appeal to their clemency.

But what is the next scene in this bloody tragedy? Can you doubt the testimony of Miss Houora Fitzpatrick? If not, you cannot doubt the truth of the fourth scene in this tragedy. This lady goes to the theatre with the prisoner. Booth enters and calls the prisoner aside, and they have a private conversation, What was it? No ear heard it but that ear that hears the gentlest sound. But can it be doubted that the subject of this conversation was the murder of Mr. Lincoln?

the gentlest sound. But can it be doubted that the subject of this conversation was the murder of Mr. Lincoln?

What is the next scene? On April 14, 1865, we find the conspirators at Ford's Theatre. Booth enters the theatre, and he fires the fatal shot. A whistle sounds. A whistle making a similar sound is found in the house of Mrs. Surratt.

At that signal Payne invades the sacred precinct of the family circle, and, raising his murderous arm, he makes an assault upon the faithful nurse. He enters the sick chamber and sirkes with the fury of a demon at the almost lifeless corpse of a feeble and emacated old man. By a miraculous interposition of Providence his life is spared. Payne escapes, and where does he go? To the arms of Mary E. Surratt, the mother of the prisoner at the bar. He goes there reeking with the blood of an American citizen. He goes to the general rendezvous, whence all had issued goes to the general rendezvous, whence all had issued on their murderous undertaking. Dees not all this prove a conspiracy? It has not been necessary to refer to the testimony of Lewis J. Weichman, for without if the conspiracy is proven complete.

But he (Mr. Carrington) now came to Welchman's testimony. Why should it be discarded? Ignorant men are governed by prejudice, but not so an intelligent jury. No witness' testimony can be discarded, unless his character is proven bad, or other reasons; that a different state of facts is proven by other witnesses. From what had already fallen from Mr. Merrick, it would be attempted to show that Welchman was one of the accomplices. He spurned the accusation. It has been said that it was fortunate a Union clerk was boarding among these infernal spirits, for was ever such another conclave assembled this side of hell? Welchman was among the faithless, faithful. If Welchman had been an accomplice Surratt would have made of him a confidant, and would have conversed in his presence. If Welchman was allar, how easy it would have been to have sworn. I saw the prisoner here on April 14, 1865. He did not see him, became the prisoner did not permit him to see him, and told the truth, and the whole truth.

But suppose Welchman was an accomplice? If he turned and repented, that was his conciliation. During this conspiracy Welchman met the officers facto face. He told them all he knew. He pursued the prisoner, and, like a true American clizen, he comes here and testifies against him. It must be remembered that Welchman remonstrated with Mrs. Surrat, and she replied that John was with this party, and Booth was crasy upon one subject. But has Welchman been contradicted in any one material point? He (Mr. Carrington) defied the detense to point to one prominent fact wherein Welchman habeen contradicted by any credible winness in behalf of the prisoner.

Mr. Carrington read from Greenleaf to show that if a man is an accomplice, and repents during the conspiracy, he is relieved from all resposibility, but not being connected with it, and giving information, shows that he had no connection with the conspiracy. He gives all information as soon as possible. The defense has signally falled to prove that Welchman was placed under arrest b But he (Mr. Carrington) now came to Welchman's testimony. Why should it be discarded? Ignoran

Richards.

It would be shown that Welchman's testimony was corroborated in all material points of the transaction from its inception to its consummation. He (Mr. Carrington) was somewhat amused at Welchman's cross-examination, and asked if Welchman did not bear himself manfully and Mr. Bradies himself foliad for once in endeavoring to discredit this witness. He came through the flery furnace well tried, and confirmed by all the witnesses.

The first point testified to by Welchman is corroborated, and that is, that No 5ti H street was the rondervous of these conspirators. dervous of these conspirators.
Secondly, he testifies to the infilmate relations of the prisoner and the other conspirators, and no one contradicts him in that.
Weichman also testifies to the mysterious mexings

Welchman also testifies to the mysterious mexings and conversations, cyphers and geographical projection, after he forms the acquantance of John Wilkes Boets, spop the introduction of the prisoner at the bar. In this he is uncontradicted, 'In relation to the conversation at the theatre he is confirmed by Miss Fitspatrick (Welchman's testimony in relation to Payne and Surratt practising with howic knives was here read, and Mr. Carrington said this was also uncontradicted.) Again, when Welchman received a mysterious telegram from Booth, and sake Sarratt what it means, he is told not to be so inquisitive, and is given no satisfaction. Couple this with the fact of Surratt's immediate visit to the Herndon House, and it shows that Surratt and Booth were endeavoring to secure a hiding-place for Louis Payne. Booth telegraphs to his tool Surratt to prepare a room where they may conceal one of their instruments.

after part of April,
Escobedo made the following address to the subaltern officers of the Imperial army before releasing them:—The supreme Government might dispose of the lives of those who, forgetting they were Mexicans, fought for a foreigner elevated to power by the invader; but the Government magnanimously forgives all who until now have been enemies of their country, because it expects that their future conduct will correspond with the clemency used towards the misled sons of Mexico. You are at liberty, and may ask your passports for any point where you desire to reside.

Corona, writing from the capital, says that all the garrison, with all its chiefs and officers, except Marquez, are in our power. O'Haran and Labera are prisoners. Lovar, Arbano, Lopez, Partillo, Elguera, Locunga, and the Regent Solas surrendered themselves prisoners. It is said that several persons in the capital will be said that several persons in the capital will be punished with death.

The following particulars of the occupation of the capital are from La Preuga, from Guada-

At daybreak on the 21st the parapets of the enemy were perceived to be abandoned. Shortly after the announcement was telegraphed that all the fortifications were also abandoned, and the order for an advance into the city was given. Everywhere were found trains of ammunition, and the baggage of the enemy and arms were scattered along the road and in the streets of the city. The entire garrison had deserted and re-tired to their homes. Labera was the only one who presented himself, saying he had remained to insure good order, and to deliver up the position, and place himself at the disposal of the besiegers as a prisoner of war.

One prisoner at Queretaro, since he was liberated, writes from Morelia, and says that he received good treatment by the Liberal army. A special train left Guadulajara for Man-gapillo on the 3d, and several French prisoners lately released accompany the train.

Fears of an Outbreak in Tennessee.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Official as well as private accounts from Tennessee represent the danger of outbreaks or riots all over the State next Thursday, at the election. The Government has, for some days past, been maturing such measures as may preserve the peace. Major General Thomas telegraphed to the President to-day that all the troops in Kentucky will be engaged in preserving order in that will be engaged in preserving order in that State, but he believes he will be able, with other forces at his command, to prevent rlots at Memphis, Nashville, and other large towns. He will to-morrow go to Memphis.
