Meteoric Showers-Display Expected in August. The following communication is published in the Boston Transcrip :-The public excitement over the magnificent meteoric display of last year has not, perhaps, so completely evaporated as to denude the expected shower of the coming August of all interest to the popular mind. It is needfal, however, to give warning that this exhibition will be tame compared with that seen last November. ame compared with that seen last November on the other side of the Atlantic. The August and November meteors belong to independent streams, and it could only be by a most remarkstreams, and it could only be by a most remarkable coincidence that the August shower of this year should be very different in character from the usual run of such appearances. In fact, if the reader, on the evenings of the 9th and 10th of August, should succeed in counting shooting of August. stars at a greater rate than three or four a minute, for any length of time, he may retire to rest with the confident assurance that he has witnessed a very satisfactory and unusual display; for, though its recurrence is more regular and certain, the brilliancy of the August shower has, of late years at least, been inferior to that of November. The existence of the August meteors, as distinct from the sporadial, has been known for more than a century. Muschenrock, in 1762, first called attention to the great abundance of meteors during the month of August. Quetelet, Olbers, and Benzenberg afterward nailed the matter more closely by the discovery that the maximum number occurred on the nights of the 9th and 10th of the month. The latter date being St. Lawrence's Day, this shower has been familiarly known as the Lawrentius period.

The Chinese and other ancient records supply accounts of great showers of shooting stars evidently belonging to the August stream, in the following years of the present era:—811, 820, 824, 830, 833, 835, 841, 924, 925, 926, 933, 1029, 1243, 1451, 1779, 1784, 1789. From these the astronomer Schiaparelli, who has of late made some valuable contributions to meteoric theory, finds what he thinks evidence that this strea of meteors has a period of revolution of 108 years. This, however, is uncertain, and cannot as yet take its place among the recognized and indubitable facts of science.

It will doubtless be remembered that the me-teors of the 13th of November appeared to ema-nate from a point of the constellation Leo, in a part of it commonly known as the Sickle. This apparent divergence of the meteors from one point of the heavens—the necessary perspective effect of paths which, for the small space of time occupied by the earth in passing through the ring, are nearly rectitinear and parallel-obtains also in the case of the August meteors. This point must, of course, depend upon the direction in which the earth is moving at the time of the shower, and also the inclination of the ecliptic of the plane in which the meteors revolve. The point for the shooting stars of the 9th and loth of August is actually found to be beneath the sword-arm of Perseus, between the constellation of that name and Cameloparda'us There are also, it is thought, indications of three other radiants for the same nights, of which two are said to be in Draco, and the third near the North Pole. It these are to be depended upon, it would seem that there are several streams having a common node and inclined at different angles to the plane of the terrestial orbit, and into which the earth plunges at the same time. It will then be a matter of great interest for ob-servers to determine on the nights in question whether the apparent paths described by the meteors, when traced back, indicate more than one source of emanation.

One item regarding the Lawrentius meteors very worthy of notice is that the earth's encounter with them takes place later and later in the year at each successive annual revolution. During the minth century it occurred about July 25; in the thirteenth century on or about August 2; in the fifteenth century on August 7. It now happens nearly three weeks later than it did one thousand years ago, which is as far back as our accounts extend. This phenomenon is relerable to the influence exerted by the larger plane is of our system in disturbing the position of the meteor ring, and thus changing the point of intersection with the terrestrial orbit. This shifting of the point of intersection along the nated the secular variation of the node, though imperceptible from year to year, becomes very notable in the march of centuries,

A motion of the node analogous to this has also been found to exist in the November ring; in which case, indeed, its amount has lately furnished a valuable criterion as to which is the true of five possible periods of revolution of the ring. This element of the nodel variation may, at some time, perform for us a similar service in the determination of the period of the August

An Old Scandal Revived.

Several literary journals in England have recently published articles about the mythical Quaker wife of George III, "Hannah Lighttoot." Notes and Queries attempted to show that she was nothing but a myth. Mr. J. H. Jesse at once sent a long letter to the Alhenœum, in which he brought forward several documents, etc., showing that Hannah Lightfoot really existed at the time referred to in the story; that her lather was Matthew Lightfoot, a tradesman residing at Wapping; that he was a Quaker; that Hannah's maternal uncle, Henry Wheeler, carried on business as a linendraper, in Market atreet (or lane), St. James'; that it was here the Prince saw and fell in love with Hannah; that from this house she suddenly and mysteriously cloped, about 1753 or 1754; and that shortly afterwards she was clandestinely married to one Isaac Axford, a grocer on Ludgate Hill, from whom she separated either at the church door, or a very brief time subsequently, after which her family were never able to obtain any authentic information respecting her fate. Notes and Queries returns to the charge as tollows:-"One of the stories respecting Hannah Light foot tells us that she was married to Axford at Keith's Chapel, May Fair; leit him at the door of the chapel, joined her royal lover, and was never seen afterwards by her desponding husband. There is this much of truth in the story, as I have ascertained by an examination of the registers of marriage of the chapel in question, namely: that Isaac Axford and Hannah Lightfoot really were married there on December 11, 1753; at which time the Prince, 'bigoted, young, and chaste,' to whose arms she is said to have flown, was fifteen years of age. Is this a very probable story? years of age. Is this very phosine sory; which add that Isauc Axford married a second wife on December 3, 1759—something less than six years after his marriage with Hannah Lightfoot, and that he then described himself as a 'widower,' and that this was nearly a twelvemonth before George III ascended the throne-I have told my readers all that I have gathered upon the sub ject up to this time. I am still pursuing my inquiries, and they shall be made acquainted with the result. But I feel assured that those who tairly weigh all the evidence which already exists upon the subject, will be prepared to share the conviction which I have already avowed, that, as far as George III is concerned, 'the story of Hannah Lightfoot is a fiction, and nothing but a fiction, from begin-

An Eight-Mile Walk and One Bettle of Claret a Day,

An entertaining book of sporting gossip, cently published in London under the odd title of "Sportascraptana," gives, in the words of Captain Horatio Ross, the secret of the remarkable preservation of his fine, vigorous physique te a late period of life. "I attribute it," he says, "in a great measure to having always kept myself in a state of moderate training. I have always lived well, and for many years have drunk nothing but light claret, one bottle per diem; but I have never omitted, wherever I was, whe ther in town or country, whether the weather was fair or the reverse, to walk regularly eight miles, and generally twelve miles, every day of my life, unless I had an opportunity of going out shooting. I have also, for a great many years. been very particular in taking a sponging bath of cold water every morning." And now, at sixty-five, he can walk his fifty miles, at three and a half miles an hour, without fatigue; and he is still the best rifle shot in England.

Four-cared Boat Race for the Cham-pionship of the World.

From the Boston Advertiser, Aug. 2. The challenge of the Ward brothers to the The challenge of the Ward brothers to the champion St. John crew, four oars, to row a race at Springheld, Mass., for the championship of the world, is generally known. A meeting of representatives of these crews was held yesterday afternoon in the office of the Boston Water Power Company, to make arrangements for the race, the St. John men having accepted the challenge. James Lee, Joshua Ward, and Henry B. Munn appeared for the Ward crew, and John Morris for the St. John men. Articles were drawn up and signed, according to which the conditions of the race are substantially as follows:—The time is Wednesday, September 11, 1867, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon; the place is 1867, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon; the place is the Connecticut river, af Springfield; distance, 6 miles; the water to be smooth, and the weather good; the stake is 1000 each side, in greenbacks. Captain John T. Gardner was chosen as referee, and Mr. William T. Blaklie stakeholder. Each gide deposited. $250 to the heads of the letter. side deposited $250 in the hands of the latter gentleman as forfeit money. A determined though smicable spirit prevailed at the meeting, and there is every indication that the race will be conducted fairly and satisfactorily to all parties. The precise location of the course has not been decided upon. The three-mile course at Springfield, used at begins at the railroad bridge, and extends down the river. It is straight for about a mile and a quarter, when it curves to the stake. A straight course for four or five miles down the river may be obtained from this stake, and it is quite probable that it will be taken for the race. The number of judges has not been decided upon. It is to be hoped that when it is, provision will be made for watching the entire course. The crews have not been indicated ex-plicitly, the articles of the race providing that any one crew from New York shall compete with any other from St. John. Of course each side will send its best men, and it is reasonably certain that the Ward brothers, Hank (stroke) Charley, Gilbert, and Joshua (bow), will represent New York, and the St. John crew winning in Paris, the other side. The remainder of the stake-money, $750, will be deposited on the 3d of September

The Education of Workingmen, In a recent letter from Dr. Percy, of the British School of Mines, the following passage "Not many years ago, notwithstanding the prominent position which Great Britain then held among the iron-producing nations of the world, scarcely a chemist could be found in any iron-work in the kingdom, and such a thing as an analysis of an iron ore or of iron was hardly ever thought of. What is the fact now? Why, the absence of an expert chemist from a great iron-work is the exception and not the rule could supply you with the names of able chemists thus scattered throughout our ironworks. And what is true of this is equally true of other branches of metallurgy. During the last few years I have had the opportunity of seeing the examination papers on metallurgy of workingmen, sent to the Science and Art Department at South Eingston, and I say with confidence that at least in that branch much progress has been made in the diffusion of technical education.' I am personally acquainted with many of our chief metallurgical works, and have had ample opportunities of conversing with the workingmen they employ, and I have been delighted to observe their de sire for knowledge concerning the principles of their art, and on many occasions how much knowledge of those principles they have ob-

A Charitable Will.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican. In making his will the late Paschal P. Pope, of Boston, remembered, out of his $700,000 estate, the institutions of that city in the following gitts:—To the Beston Society of Natural History, $20,000; to the Temporary Home for the Destitute, $10,000; to the Boston Dispensary, $20,000; to the Saylors, Saylors $20,000; to the Sailors' Snug Harbor, $30,000; to the Howard Benevolent Society, $20,000; to the Boston Provident Association, $10,000; to the Home for Aged Men. $30,000. He left also to Harvard College, $50,000 to found the Pope Pro-fessorship of the Latin Language and Litera-ture. James Haywood, of Boston, who died worth $200,000, besides his private legacies, left $20,000 each to the American Institute of Technology at Boston, to Harvard College for an Astronomical Observatory, and the American Unitarian Society; $5000 to the Boston Young Men's Christian Union; $2000 to the Arlington Street Caurch; and $1000 apiece to almost every charitable institution at Boston.

A Telegraph Story.

The Telegrapher remarks that "a somewhat singular cause of trouble on the telegraph line was recently discovered by Mr. S. C. Hendrick-son while making an inspection of the Sandy Hook wire. This wire uses the Lefferts block insulators, and it was found that the fish-hawks which abound in that vicinity had made use of the block as a convenient resting-place whereon to tear in pieces and devour their prey. The entraits and refuse of the ush had formed a solid mass, in many instances covering the insulator and adjacent wire, causing a great amount of 'escape' in wet weather. It has been found necessary to substitute the gless and bracket insulator, which will improve the working of the line, though at the expense of considerable inconvenience to the tish-hawks. The wires are also found in many instances in the vicinity of the sea-coast to be completely incrusted with salt, deposited from the spray of the surf."

Return of the French Monitor Onondaga. Yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, the French gunboat Mercedita, having in tow the monitor Dnondaga, which started some days since for France, came up the harbor. From the way in which the Onondaga behaved she appears to have her rudder damaged, as, in passing through the Narrows, she yawed from side to side, and steered wildly. If such should be the case, this monitor has met with a similar acci-dent as that which befel the Dunderberg, she having to put back to port under the same circumstances five days after she first started for Surope. These vessels could not have suffered from any stress of weather, as the Onondaga has all her boats and deck fittings complete. The French trigate Thenmis has also returned, probably on account of the accident to her consort.-N. Y. Hera d.

Severe Rain Storm in the East. Boston, August 2. - The most severe rain storm here for years occurred this afternoon, accom-panied by a high wind. Accounts from the surrounding country state that there has been great damage to the crops, and there have undoubtedly been many disasters along the coast. Excursion parties which left here for Nahant, Gloucester, and other points, have been obliged to remain over night. The Portland boat did not attempt to start, and the Boston boat from Portland also discontinued her regular trip. Four inches of rain tell in Boston in three hours and a half, and three in Concord, N. H., in three hours, Democratic Barbecue near Louisville. Louisville, August 2.—An old-fashioned bar-becue took place at Woodlawn to-day. Two thousand people were present, and were addressed by ex-Governor John L. Helm, Measrs. Rodman and Winchester, and Hanns, of Indiana. Several fights occurred, as usual at barbecues, but nothing serious resuked. The Democrats are very actively prosecuting the election campaign.

Singular Accident in a Theatre-An Actress Caught in a Trap. From the Chicago Post, July 29.

On Wednesday night, at the Opera House, a very funny episode occurred on the first production of the Night Owl. In the first scene, where the lover (Paul Martinelli) seizes his sweetheart in the ball room and jumps through a picture in the first entrance with her, a little confretemps not set down in the bill, nor usual to the scene, transpired. Selzing the fragile form of his beloved in his arms, he rushed across the stage, made a dart at the picture, and didn't go through—one side of the panel either being fastened, or else the performer did not jump high enough. The young hero, nothing daunted, pushed the dummy through the trap, and ran pushed the dummy through the trap, and ran off at the second entrance with his inamorata, when the audience breathed again.
