Whe Order Removing General Sheridan Ready to be Issued-The Reasons Assigned for His Removal.

WASHINGTON, August 4 .- It was rumored to day that the order removing General Sheridan had been issued by President Johnson. I have it on the best authority that such is not the fact; but I have good reason to believe that the order is all ready, and would have been issued some time ago but for some little hitch that has not yet been removed. After all, I believe there is a lack of backbone in quarters where great stiffness was expected. Combinations have been formed that embarrass the President in his policy and render him uncertain how to act, whether to push forward boldly or to recede.

It is rumored now that there is a defection in the Cabinet, and that another member besides Stanton has kicked against the anti-Sheridan policy. However this may be, I believe the President will not yield in his determination to remove "Lattle Phil." The order will assign as a cause for the step that Sheridan himself is an impediment in the way of rational and constitutional reconstruction and that therefore he tional reconstruction, and that, therefore, he should be removed in the same way that Sheri-dan himself removed Governor Wells, of Louisiana. It will direct General Han-cock to assume command of the Dis-trict, and to so administer the laws of Congress as to conflict as little as may be with the letter and spirit of the Constitution. The President believes that, though the recent acts of Congress clothe military commanders with apsolute power, still these commanders should use [the utmost discretion, and exercise their powers so as to bear as lightly as possible upon the people, and so as to give satisfaction in their districts. He considers that Sheridan has not thus acted; that he had been unwise, arbitrary without cause, and in many instances despotic in the exercise of power. Some other person, he therefore considers, equally patriotic and far more efficient and discreet, should be substituted for him as commander of the Fifth Military District. In General Hancock he believes such a man will be found.

Rumored Resignation of Secretary Stan-ton and Appointment of General Grant as Secretary of War, Ad Interim.

Among the rumors of the day is one that the President has worried Secretary Stanton into a resignation, and that General Grant has been called upon to act temporarily as the head of the War Department. We cannot trace this report to any authentic source, although it is known that Mr. Stanton has become a difficulty block to Mr. Johnson, of which it would please him to be relieved.

The Proposed Assembling of the Mili-tary Commanders at Washington. The difficulty in the way of Sheridau's removal has suspended for the present the project of summoning all the military commanders to Washington for a general conference. The idea, however, has not been abandoned.

No Complaints Against General Pope. Statements have been made recently in some of the New York papers that a deputation of people from Alabama waited upon the President and preferred complaints against General Pope. The only knowledge the President has of the is the statement of these newspapers. No such committee waited upon the President, and no recent complaints have been made against Pope.—N. Y. Herald.

THE RECONSTRUCTION IMBROGLIO.

Reported Resignation of Secretary Stanton-General Grant Opposing the President, Etc. From the New York Tribune of to-day.

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The old story of the resignation of Stanton as Secretary of War is being revived. This time there seems to be good foundation for the story. It is known here that the President's contemplated removal of General Sheridan is opposed by both Stanton and Grant. The order for the removal would have been issued long ago had it not been for this opposition. The President stated last week that he would remove Stanton first and then that he would remove Stanton first and then Sheridan. Some doubt is expressed as to the President's power to remove a Cabinet officer under the Civil Tenure of office law. Stanton's opponents are of the opinion that, as Stanton was never appointed or confirmed as Secretary of War under the Administration of President Johnson, therefore he has the power of removing him. The idea was advanced in the Senate at the time the bill was passed and the law seems to be explicit. was passed, and the law seems to be explicit that the President cannot remove an officer under the above circumstances. The Presi-dent's friends say that, if he cannot make Stanton resign, he will suspend him until the meet-ing of Congress. The whole matter has been the subject of much talk herewithin the last 24 hours, it not having become known until then that there really was a quarrel between the Presi-dent and Stanton. General Grant has had sevdent and Stanton. General Grant has had several interviews during the last week with the President and Secretary Stanton on the proposed removal of Sheridan. It is said that General Grant construes the Reconstruction act to eral Grant construes the Reconstruction act to place on him a part of the responsibility for its faithful execution by officers under his command, and hence his opposition to Sheridan's removal. He is opposed to Sheridan's removal, and, when consulted by the President in the matter, gave it as his opinion that he had no one under his command in whom he could place more trust than Sheridan. place more trust than Sheridan.

A TRIEVISH CLAN FERRETED OUT,-For a A THIEVISH CLAN FERRETED OUT.—For a year or so past there has been in existence an organized body of young thieves in the Eleventh District, who united individual effort for the purpose of carrying on with greater success their thieving operations. Houses have been laysteriously entered by night, and boldly by day; stores have been robbed with an audacity marvellous to contemplate; clothing, seemingly by the motions of some Harlequin's wand, has disappeared from yards and off lines. None knew who the perpetrators were, but it has disappeared from yards and off lines. None knew who the perpetrators were, but it was evident from the successive larcenles that they worked in unison. Last year a store on Germantown road, near Girard avenue, was robbed of $425. Officer Grant, of the Eleventh Police District, had before ferretted out one of these secret organizations, and set out with a determination to discover this notorious body. His investigations and searches have proved successful, and five of the youthful purioiners were arrested. Lately one Meran and Edward Dockerty were arrested for belonging to the gang, and yesterday Officer Grant took John Looney in custody for being a leading member. He was held in $1000 bail to answer, by Alderman Clouds. This party have made the Sixteenth and Eighteenth Wards their field of operations, and in all, by petty larcenies and robberies, have stolen at least three or four thousand dollars' worth of goods. thousand dollars' worth of goods.

This portrait is a heavy and dark oval, the inner circle of which represents a wreath of oak. This surrounding is a fine specimen of artistic work, and displays the utmost intricacy and exactness, a fit accompaniment to the rugged, thoughtful features which it serves to set forth in bold relief. The likeness is pronounced by Mr. Stevens and his friends to be the most accurate and life-like that has ever been produced. The admirers of the foremost statesman of the Commonwealth should not neglect this opportunity of securing his counterfelt resemblance.

HIGH-MINDED FRMALES IN DURANCE VILE-BUNDAY EVENING SCENES IN A STATION HOUSE.—Yesterday afternoon a mau and a woman, whose relations towards each other were evidently not in accordance with the law, either human or divine, visited Smith's Island. At this summer retreat they both became intertexted the woman, unpappily getting in a At this summer retreat they both became intoxicated, the woman, unhappily, getting in a worse condition than her male companion. They returned to the city about nine o'clock in the evening, and as they were passing down Second street, below Walnut, a dispute arose, which ended in the application of a club or billy to the female's head. The blow was too much for the load of liquor under which the woman staggered, and caused her to topple over on the aidewalk. The man thereupon started down second street as fast as his shaky legs would carry him; but his movements had been observed, and a large crowd started in pursuit, with all the hue and cry that a cold-blooded murder would have created. Before the fugitive had reached Pine street he was overhauled, and conducted by an officer to the Union Street Station House. Another officer, assisted by Station House. Another officer, assisted by three or four gentlemen, gathered up the limber, bleeding form of the woman, who was carried, apparently half-dead, to the same point. Both parties were placed in durance, and nothing further was heard from the man. and nothing further was heard from the man. But the woman no sooner found herself in close quarters than she suddenly and marvellously revived; and then, to her horror, she discovered that one of her fellew-prisoners was of sable hue. This discovery infuriated her to such an extent that she forgot her bodily injuries in the full sense of her insulted dignity. "Turnkey! turnkey!" she yelled; "take the —— nigger out, or I'll break her head! Take the nigger out, or I'll mash her face! Take her out! take her

I'll mash her face! Take her out! take her out! take her out!! The door was quickly opened, and the difficulty investigated. On the floor lay the high-minded Caucasian female, screaming and kicking in her wrath. On the bench by the wall say the "grellow att!" with her arms collect and Ing in her wrath. On the bench by the wail sat the "yellow girl," with her arms folded and the utmost composure depicted upon her countenance. She was evidently nerved for the conflict, and quietly informed the turnkey that "she would not touch the nasty thing unless she was pitched into," in which case, she boldly asserted, "she would pound her, golly but she would!" The rampant Caucasian was informed that, unless her demonstrations ceased, she would: The rampant Cancasian was informed that, unless her demonstrations ceased, she would be conducted to the "orib" below.

Expressing a desire to see the "orib," we were shown into the cellar, and there found in one corner a large space fenced off with close, stout lattice-work. Through the wooden bars peered a well-dressed woman, who meekly asked for a drink of water. We inquired why she had been brought below, and were informed that she had quarrelled with and severely beaten a woman who was confined in the same cell with her. At this rought the invest of the "resist" brokes. who was confined in the same cell with her. At this point the inmate of the "crib" broke out:—"Why did she say that she was a respectable woman, then, and that she was locked up for nothing? Respectable women don't get locked up in Station Houses." This, it appeared, was the whole cause of the quarrel. The beaten woman had put in a claim to respectability and her antagonist was so duarres. The beaten was an antagonist was so shocked by such an exhibition of depravity, that she proceeded to pummel her for her impudence and arrogance. This is what the sale of liquor on the Sabbath does for the women of the city. Is it a matter of wonder that children are born in wretchedness and crime, and in-herit both as their only birthright?

A FIREMEN'S RIOT occurred on Saturday evening between the members of the Independence Hose and Globe Engine Companies, at Front and Mascher streets. Spanners, cranks, etc., were freely used, and several persons were seriously injured, and others slightly hurt. Charles Bigler, of the Independence, had his head cut in two places with a horn in the hands head cut in two places with a horn in the hands of an adherent or member of the Globe. No arrests, however, were made. Early yesterday morning, several parties visited the Independence Hose House, it is supposed with the intention of renewing the quarrel, but they were driven away, and one of them, Hughey Haddock, of the Globe Eugine, was badly beaten. The disturbance on Saturday night, it is alleged, grew out of an attempt on the part of the Globe grew out of an attempt on the part of the Globe to beat the Independence in a race. The latter company was presented with a new carriage on the Fourth of July, and since that time, it is said that the other company has endeavored on several occasions to pass them on going to fires.

A BURGLAR AFTER THE PENNIES .- This morn ing, at an early bour, as officer Cook, of the Tenth District, was passing Rheinhardt's lager beer saloou, on the corner of Howard street and Girard avenue, he heard a curious jingling and rattling coming from within, which excited his suspicion. He soon became satisfied that a burglar was within. The officer gained access to the room, and could see the midnight prow-icr filing his pockets, his shoes, his stockings, and every pocket-like cavity of his garments with pennies, while a large pile of the same lay upon the counter. While the burglar was thus engrossed, he was suddenly selzed, captured, and aken to the lock-up. He gave his name as William Myers, and had upon his person, stuffed in every conceivable place, about ten dollars' worth of nickels, while he left about twenty dollars' worth upon the counter. Alderman Shoemaker committed him in default of

A "Straight" Drinker Distures a Temperance Meeting.—Yesterday afternoon, the good citizens living about the vicinity of the Second street market, near Brown street, convened in that place for the purpose of furthering the temperance cause, and upholding the Sunday prohibitory law. Now it so happened that an individual of belligerent qualities, whose name is given as "William Byred," sat dangling his pedals over a meatblock, listening attentively all the while. The "inferno" in the shape of a number of "straight" drinks began to have their effects upon the aforesaid "Byrd," and he began to shout and sing and hoot, and finally, as it is alleged by respectable citizens, to lay about him in a manner inconsistent with the deportment of any gentleman, especially on Sunday. He was arrested, and held by Alderman Toland in $500 bail to answer. A "STRAIGHT" DRINKER DISTURBS A TEM-

A Longing FOR "PRISON" QUARTERS .- John Priger alias "Kit Prizer." and a prize indeed, had lately served out his time in prison, and had come back to Philadelphia again. About one year ago, he entered a lager beer saloon on Ridge avenue, but blundered about so in the dark, bumping up against counters and over chairs, that he had to make off without obtain-ing any booty. He lately returned to this city, and Saturday evening, going by Wallace street on Thirteenth, he stepped in a tavern and asked the keeper thereof in not a very lucid manner, whether or not a man was there, whom he desired to see. Being informed negatively, he went out, and coming in again, struck the proprietor over the head with a black jack, which felled him to the floor. For this unwarranted assault he was arrested and held by Alderman Massey in $800 bail.

WHAT IS "BILKING?"-As we have it in an occurrence which took place last evening, we define it, upon the evidence of things, seen to be the art of inducing, enticing, or drawing in by persuasion, or vi et armet, verdant gentlemen into out-of-the-way places, for the purpose of robbing them. It is generally practised by women, who sometimes have a masculine phasery women, who sometimes have a masculine phasens. lanx, kept dark, in case of emergency. Last night two amazonian colored women, named Mary Brown and Elizabeth Redding, drew, as it ls alleged, by main force, a farmer from Chester county into a disreputable place on Seventh street, below St. Mary, and there robbed him of $40. They were arrested and held by Alderman Patchell, in default of ball, to answer at Court for the crime of "bilking."

Assault and Highwar Rossery.—Conrad Clark and John Harley, travelling down the Gray's Ferry road last evening, feil in with an old farmer, haiting from Chester, who was making his way homeward. Under the guise of friendship and personal interest in his welfare, they crossed a lot, and "when no eye was there to pity or ear to hear," they knocked him down, and beat him in 80 dreadful a manner that he was soon helpless and at their mercy. The drunken wretches then pilfered what money he had—$16—and his watch. As luck would have it, they were seen by an officer and arrested. This morning the old gentleman identified them, and they were sent to prison by Alderman Mink, in default of $1000 ball each. ASSAULT AND HIGHWAY ROBERY .- Conrad

An Oppicial Quietus Authorized and Executed.—It was alleged that a house having for inmates a multiplicity of disorderly and even rampant individuals, and which had its location in famed "Boyd's place," near Tenth and Market streets, was officially authorized to be renovated and cleared of all its disreputable inbabitants. Public officials, therefore, in the shape of faultiess official police officers, did go in, clear out, and arrest Miss Mary Sherrard, alleged proprietress, and also one Ellen Thompson, who had got herself into an exceedingly nice scrape. A gentleman called to see her, and she robbed him of $46. Both these females were held by Alderman Jones in default of $1000 bail. AN OFFICIAL QUIETUS AUTHORIZED AND EXE

The Attempts to Delay Reconstruction by the Southern Leaders. [SPECIAL DESPATOR TO EVENING TELEGRAPH.]

WASHINGTON, August 5. The reports to-day from the South show that the election in Tennessee has had a profound effect, The leading men in the South now openly oppose the proposed conventions authorized by the Reconstruction acts of Congress. They boldly assert that Sheridau, Pope, and Sickles will shortly be replaced by more conservative men, and advise the whites to keep aloof from the "Nigger State Conventions" as they are called. The Union men still have confidence in Grant. They look to him to curb the President by the authority conferred in the extra session bill, and would feel greatly disheartened if the Generals named are to be removed. The difficulties at the White House, of which I spoke on Saturday, seem to be angmenting. General Grant stands firm in his opposition to the removal of Sheridan, and in this position he is supported by Stanton, Butler, Washburne, and all of the leading Republians now here.

Attorney-General Stanbery is expected here to-morrow, and the whole question at issue will be thoroughly considered in the Cabinet. It is rumored that General Grant and Chief Justice Chase have been invited to attend the Cabinet meeting, probably for the purpose of expressing their views in a formal manner.

The President's Southern friends are very arxious to have the whole matter pressed to an improved and the purpose of the purpos issue at all hazards, and they are consulting with Johnson almost constantly.

Mr. Stanton's friends say that he is of the opinion that any further delay in reconstructing the Southern States will deprive them of representation in Congress until 1870, and haps later.

Trial of John H. Surratt. Continued from the Second Edition.

The testimony of Callenback's finding the gun: of Thompson, who testified to Harold's bringing two guns to his house, saving that he expected John surratt; and the testimony of Morton, corroborative of Thompson, were read.

At this time Mr. Pierrepont said that Harold's excuse was that he was going to the Patuxent to shoot ducks, and it would be perceived that he and the others always had some excuse. Now we see how the gains came to Lloyd. Surratt concealed the guns. After the assassination Harold got the guns, and when Booth was killed they were taken from his possession. The defense have asked the prosecution to connect the circumstances, and he (Mr. Pierrepont) thought this about the guns had been connected. How did Mrs. Surratt know about the guns? She was not there when Harold took them or when Surratt held them,

How did she find it out on that day of the murder. How did she find it out on that day of the murder, when she took the glass there, that the guns and the glass would be wanted that night? How did she know of the concealment but from her son? Old Mr. Watson, who was called here by the defense, said he believed Mra. Surratt was guilty, and he believed at yet, and he was about to say he was satisfied from the evidence when he was stopped by Mr. Merrick. Mrs. Surratt could not get the information from any one but her own son, a full grown man, who had secreted the guns. The opinion must be that of Mr. Watson—that all were guilty—Harold, Mrs. Surratt, and all the knowledge of secreting the guns came from nose but the prisoner. Justice Piles, of Prince George's, testifies that John Surratt came there to him to have some paper signed. (Piles' testimony was here read.) What these papers were we don't know, but they mean something, or the papers would have been expianed.

The restimony of David Surry was read. This wit-mean something, or the papers would have been explained.

The restimony of David Barry was read. This witness brought the horses back that surratt took to Port Tobacco after the latter had taken Mrs. Slater down to get her across the river. Mr. Barry had two sons in the Rebel army, but he told the iruth, and connected Surratt with the conspiracy.

Rebel though he was he told the truth. All men of honor will tell the truth. It is the coward who is afraid to do his duty. It is the innocent who is bold as a lion. A brave man always tells the truth, and he (Mr. Pierrepont) would be willing to submit the case to twelve brave Confederate prisoners.

We come now to the testimony of Mr. Smart, who was a rejuctant witness. Whether he was terrified by Mr. Merrick's saying he was after him with a sharp stick or not, he (Mr. Pierrepont) did not know; but he was certain the witness was either terrified or reliantant, because there was difficulty in getting him here, When we did get him on the stand, he testified in a very re octant and evasive manner. Surratt tells Mr. Smart in January or February that if the Yankees knew what he was doing, they would stretch his neck. What did he mean?

SAFE BLOWN OPEN .- Emergencies cause burglars to work with whatever they can lay hands on. Where an operation is intended, everything essential to its success is prepared beforehand; but in a great number of instances beforehand; but in a great number of instances a burglary is almost the result of a moment's deliberation, and the individuals engaged in it work upon the "sledge-hammer or crow-bar principle," knocking off hinges, smashing locks, using any means to remove the thin coats of Iron, the outer covering of the door, so as to reach the locks. About one o'clock on Sunday morning a burglar effected an en-trance into Mr. Thomas Hague's store, No. 975 North Second street, through a rear door. With burnlar's tools he managed to destroy the with burgar's tools he managed to destroy the lock, and tear out a portion of the door, forcing an aperture. Powder was inserted and the door blown open, but the noise was so great that the depredator was glad to get off in safety. Three years ago Mr. Hague had a large sofe pretty well demollshed on the "sledge-hammer" principle, with locks and knobs and hinges broken off. But that burglar, too, fearing discovery, made off without any booty. any booty.

The German Singers.

The German Singers.

The delegations representing the various German vocal and musical organizations of this city and vicinity, who were engaged in the late Philadelphia Sengerfest, held a convention at the Germania Assembly Rooms to wind up the affairs of the organization. Mr. Steffen presided, and an appropriation of two hundred dollars was made, to be presented to the musical leader of the singers, Mr. Agricol Paur, who by his untiring efforts during fifteen rehearsals has succeeded in training the singers to such an extent that most of the prizes for the prize singing at Philadelphia were carried off by succeeded in training the singers to such an extent that most of the prizes for the prize singing at Philadelphia were carried off by New York societies. Arrangements were made for a grand singer pienic on the 23d of September, for the benefit of the family of Mr. Hager, a member of the Mozart Verein, who died from injuries sustained at the hands of a gang of rowdies, during a pienic on Long Island. A committee was appointed for that purpose. The Finance Committee reported that the expenses of the organization, in preparing for the late Seengriest, amounted to $250103; the receipts were only $442776, leaving a deficit of $71.88; $901 were paid for an orchestra, which accompanied the New York societies to Philadelphia, and the expenses since the Philadelphia, and the expenses since the Philadelphia Sengerfest amounted to $857.95. The organization, which two years ago was established solely for the Tenth General Sengerfest, will be dissolved, but, in accordance with a resolution passed at the Philadelphia Fest Convention, a convention of the singing societies of this city and vicinity will be convened in a fortnight for the purpose of electing five delegates to a Congress of New York, Ballimore, and Philadelphia, in October, for the purpose of establishing a Union of the German Musical and Vocal Societies of the Eastern States, and to prepare a constitution for the government of the same,—N. LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

Government Brickingers on the Strike -Several Journeymen Assaulted by that Strikers - Ten Disabled from Works Etc., Etc.

SPRCIAL DESPATCE TO THE EVENING TELEGRAPS. Washington, August 5 .- Some time since the bricklayers employed upon the Treasury extension struck for eight hours' workjouly to the day. On Saturday the Government refused to accede to the request, and brought bricklayers here from other cities to take the place of the strikers. The bricklayers here have attempted to compel the outside bricklayers to quit work, and several scenes of violence have occurred in consequence.

Last week several of the striking bricklayers were arrested for assault and battery upon the Treasury bricklayers, some ten of whom were disabled from work in consequence of these assaults. A large police force is now stationed about the Treasury building to preserve order, and the bricklayers employed there have received permission to arm themselves to resist Did be think they would stretch his neck because he lived in Washington, or because he was conscious of the conspiracy in which he was enranged? Way did not the counsel bridg out why Surratt was isartuit on the kept secret. "Out of the abundance of the heart the Rept secret. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," and Surratt realized of what he was guilty, and this realization, ever present with him, smale him give unterance to the remark about the stretching of his neck. One of these witnesses has said he saw Surratt on April 2d (Welchman's testimony was again referred to).

On April 2d Surratt and Welchman walked down the street, and curratt and welchman walked down the street, and curratt and welchman walked down the street, and curratt and he was going to Montreal Booth furnished money to Mrs. Surratt to hire homes to go to the country. On April 3, 185, Surratt left home at 7 o'clock; he had returned from T. B. in the afternoon; he went out with Ovenshelmer, and they parted, and there is no proof that he went in the house that night; he was not seen there by Welchman or any one clase. He (Mr. Pierrepont) called attention to this to show that Susan Jackson any Jordes there then to be washed, but it was afterwards; Susan Jackson says that on that Friday night, and provided the standard of the same clothes were left there; it was on Friday night, april 14, after 9 o'clock at night.

The next week Hollahan goes there and finds the clothes lying on the bed. The defense brought out that, and did not know what a terrible fact they were bringing out. Welchman testiles that on April 14, when they lee surrates and laid she at mass and laid and the same sent provided the surrates and laid she and an analysis of the surrates and laid she and an analysis of the surrates and the surrate and the surrates and the

In 1864, as early as April, Mrs. McClernand. In 1864, as early as April, Mrs. McClernand, standing on the avenue, heard three men talking together. She heard them speak of the Telescopic rifle, She heard the allusion to the wife and child of the President, and she says who those men were. Now who was Harold? Booth says he was a boy. Booth had a sort of romantic gallantry about him, and he wanted to shield all who were connected with him. to shield all who were connected with him.

He even wanted to come out and fight all Colonel Conger's regiment. He wanted to sell the life dearly as possible. Now why was he sold and why was he brought in. He was a weak boy and had neither courage nor genius. He was a drug clerk in the store where Mr. Lincoln got his medicines, and it was supposed he could do the work with poison, and he was brought lato the conspiracy. Once in they had to keep him in.

He was out of employment, and the conspirators could not discharge him, for it will be remembered that he was discharged from the drug store in 1861, and he was kept in the conspiracy until he was captured, and disposed of by the Military Commission.

At this point, 12 o'clock, the Court took a recess for half an hour.
