A MAR ATTEMPTS TO COMMIT SUICIDE IN THE CENTRAL POLICE STATION BY CUTTING HIS THROAT.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Reserve Officer Jones airested, at Front and Walnut street, a man who was in an intoxicated state. He was taken to the Central Police Station, and after being searched, was placed in a cell for safe keeping. He gave the name of Michael Phillips, and said he was forty years of

This morning, about a quarter of 9 o'clock, the This morning, about a quarter of 9 o'clock, the city van arrived at the Station, and Officer Reeder entered the cell for the purpose of bringing Philips out. The officer halloed to him to get up, but he gave no answer. Reeder then went over to him, and as he approached he saw something on the floor, but it being very dark, he was unable to distinguish what it was. Phillips then commenced to get up very slowly, but as soon as he gained his feet he staggered back, and sat down on the edge of a bench.

Reeder then discovered that his throat was Reeder then discovered that his throat was cut, and that he had placed his culf against the wound as if to stop the flow of blood. Assistance was called in, the man was removed into the hallway, and Doctors Brooks and Gutherie, of the Dispensary, were called in and made an examination of the wound. The larynx, through which the food passes, was found to be entirely severed, and the windpipe was considerably cut, as were several smaller vessels. The wound was dressed, and he was conveyed to the Penusylvania Hospital.

Upon searching the cell the razor and case, which he had concealed around his neck by a string, and hence was not discovered when

THE OLD SLATE-ROOF HOUSE exists but in memory. And although the ancient building itself is no more of this earth, yet by the action of one of our citizens its appearance as it was and used to be, remains. Samuel Croft, Esq. who has gathered together many antiqui-ties illustrative of the times and progress of this city, who has become in fact an amateur virtuoso in collecting relics of interest, has had pictures taken of old landmarks and places which time and man have now effected, and which were during the embryo days of this Commonwealth, places of prominence. The Penn Mansion, or Old Slate roof Bouse—so called from the fact that it was the first house with a slate roo erected here—has its similitude preserved, since fine photographs have been taken from the original resisting of the old land mark by the original painting of the old land-mark, by Vernon Fletcher, for Samuel Croft, Esq. The collecting of interesting relics of days gone by, when Philadelphia was in its infancy, is a worthy enterprise, that can afford great pleasure, comprising as it does an individual historical scolety.

Trial of John H. Surratt. Continued from the Second Edition,

Cleaver knew Surrait, and he caunot be mistaken; either he told the truth or he committed withit perjury. He could not be mistaken. Now, how did the Government get hold of this testimony? He did not give it willingly. He gave a reason on the stand that he was inclined to shield Surrait. Cleaver was an Englishman, and an enemy of this Government, and he wanted to shield Surrait. he wanted to shield Surratt.

He would never have told this unless Conover had told on him. The subject was forced out of Cleaver, much against his will, by Mr. Ashley, a member of Congress and a member of the Judiciary Committee. Congress and a member of the Judiciary Committee, (Mr. Pierrepont here read further from Cleaver's tenimoby.) Cleaver gave this information in confidence to his fellow-prisoner Conover, and Conover told it to Ashley. He was a friend of Sorratt, and did not seek to implicate him, Referring to Mr. Reed's testimony, Mr. Pierrepont said that Reed said he was as sure of seeing Surratt as he was of standing on the witness-stand.

Mr. Merrick asked where that testimony was found? Mr. Pierrepont said Reed had testified to it, and it is ere (taking up a book of the conspiracy trial). Mr. Merrick—Not there, sir. You must speak of the

Mr. Merrick—Not there, sir. You must speak of the testimony in this case.

Judge Fisher said Mr. Pierrepont could speak of anything brought out on this trial.

Mr. Pierrepont then contended that Reed's testimony was plain and to the point, and must be believed, and he then referred to the testimony of B. W. Vanderped, who, he said, was a member of the "Lone Star" Clob, of which Booth was also a member, and he had an opportunity of knowing Booth. He swears to seeing Booth and the prisoner together in the concert saloon on the alternoon of the day of the assassination.

cert saloon on the atternoon of the day of the assassination.

He does not say there was a performance going on then. He simply says he saw one woman daucing. He could not be mistaken, and he was positive he saw Surratt. Now how did they attempt to discredit Vanderpool? Did they do it by showing he did not go to the concert hall, or that he did not go to the paymaster's office? Not at all. But they attempt to discredit him, by showing there was no performance at a piace called "Metropolitan Hail," on D street?

Nothing was said about D street, or about an afternoon performance. They asked about all the halls on the north side of the avenue and on D street, but they did not say a word about the Teutonia Hall, whch is on the south side of Penusylvania avenue. Vanderpool said it was along there some place, but he could not recollect the name. Teutonia Hall is the only one on Penusylvania avenue, and it was there Vanderpool went, and there he saw Surratt. A witness called by the defense themselves says that there was a rebearsal at Teutonia Hall, and that there was a rebearsal at Teutonia Hall, and that there was a rebearsal at Teutonia Hall, and that there was a corroborated.

Mr. Pierrepont then referred to the testimony of tables there, and in this Vanderpool was corroborated.

Mr. Pierrepont then referred to the testimony of John Lee, who swears he recognized Surratt on April itth, and he says Surratt had then no goates. This is in harmony with Wood's testimony, and there is no testimony here that is not in harmony with all other testimony, because it is all true. Again, Grillo awears to seeing Surratt. He is not positive about it, but thinks the prisoner is the man. He had walked up to Willard's with Harold, and there saw Surratt.

Trial of John H. Surratt. Continued from the Third Edition

Coleman testifies that on the afternoon of April 14 Coleman testifies that on the afternoon of April 14 be saw Booth in conversation with a man who he littinks was the prisoner at the bar. Taitanil's testimony was here read. This testimony, Mr. Pierrepout contended, confirmed Sergeant Dye's testimony relative to the lights in front of the theatre. The testimony of Susan Jackson was then referred to, and Mr. Pierrepout argues that simple minded people were more apt to tell the truth and to give a clear state meet that the more educated, and it was well known that a plain, simple story cannot be embarrassed by any cross-examination. Susan Jackson's testimony was here read.

any cross-examination. Susan Jackson's testimony was here read.

Susan says that on the Friday of the assassination she took some of John Surratt's clothes to wash, and she is corroborated by Holiahan, who afterwards found Surratt's clothes, cleanly washed, on the bed. Did this woman make up this atory about the clothes, or did counsel tell her to thus testify? No, but it dropped from her plain and simple, as all truth drops out. She then saw John Surratt, and had a conversation as to who he looked like. It occurred on April 14, and not upon April 2, as the counsel for defense attempted to show. It was in proof that on April 2 Surrattleft the house before? o'clock, and did not return that night, and the time Sman Jackson testifies was at 9 o'clock.

Surrattleft on April 2, and he returned on April 14.

rattleft the house before? O'clock: and did not return that night, and the time Sasan Jackson testifies was at 9 o'clock.

Surrattleft on April 2, and be returned on April 14. When asked if she was examined elsewhere. Susan Jackson said she was, and it was attempted to show that she had been examined, and the counsel for the defense would not permit it to be brought out. The winess is positive it was the Friday night Mrs. Surratt came from the country, and the night of the assassination that she saw Surratt. In all the cross-examination she insisted upon the same thing, and she could not be embarrassed in telling her simple story.

There were persons in that house on Friday night who knew whether Surratt wan here or not, and why were they not put upon the stand? But this festimony is not all as to Surratt's presence here, for Mr. Halston, a clerk in the Land Office, saw him in front of Ford's Theatre, and this brings us to the testimony of Sergeant Dye. He was one of the sariist witnesses in this case, and yet he has not been impeached. It is true nomething was said about his passing counterfeit money. He did not know whether the counsel knew of the whole record, he hoped they did not, but he had the record, which shows that the charge against Dye was erroneous, and that it was dismissed by the Prosecuting Attorney of Pailadelphia as soon as he heard the circumstances.

Here is that record (holding up a paper) and here is the very man who preferred the charge against Dye. He hoped the counsel for the defense did not know of this record, or they would not have done such injustice as had been done to this brave soldier.

Mr. Merrick said that when he said the defense would impeach Dye, that record was not in existence, and the District Attorney of Philadelphia had never dismissed the case.

The Indian War. Sr. Louis, August 6 .- The Republican's special, dated Fort Hays, July 3, says that Captain Ames, with fifty men, who went in pursuit of the Indians who murdered the nine men the day before, and stole the stage stock. caught the savages on the Sabine river, and fought them eight hours. The Indians were 700 strong, and had two white men for leaders, evidently deserters. We lost one man killed, and Captain Ames was wounded. Seven savages were slain, but the balance of the Indians escaped with the stolen stock. They were all armed with rifles, and used no arrows. Two large bodies of Indians appeared near Fort Hays this morning. There is hardly a corporal's guard of troops in the country, and the Government will have to take some action or give up the plains entirely. A sergeant and thirty men who went out to reinforce Captain Ames yesterday, are still absent, and much uneasiness is felt about them. Another account says that Captain Ames found the Indians too strong, and fell back to the fort with six or seven men wounded.

It is reported that Fort Wallace will be abandoned unless more troops are sent there. The cholera has abated at Fort Hacker and vicinity, but Lieutenant-Colonel Gill, whose wife died some days before, died on the 20th of July, near Fort Lyon, of cholera. Dr. A. M. Squires, United States Army, serving with the Kansas Battalion, died of cholera, near Fort Larned, on the 29th ultimo, and Mrs. May Douglass died at Fort Dodge, of the same disease, on the 2d instant. The death of Captain Bloodgood, previously reported, is not yet confirmed.

General Sherman was in Chicago yesterday, en route for home.
