A Card.

To the Editor of the Evening Telegraph .-

Sir:-That the public may not be misled by the advertisements and statements, "official" and otherwise, relative to the award of a gold medal for Sewing Machines at the Paris Exhibition, I desire to state that the Machines of the Grover & Baker manufacture were not exhibited, and, consequently, not tested at all at the Paris Exhibition.

" Very respectfully yours,

G. W. EDDY, Agent, Office of the Grover & Baker S. M. Co., No. 730 Chesnut street, Philadelphia, August 17, 1867.

THE STORM.

Further Particulars of the Damage Sustained by It-Fairmount and Its Miry Surroundings.

The Schuylkill has by no means recovered from the effects of the terrific rains of the past two days, the water being of a rich-mud color. The flood has subsided slightly, however. Last evening the river had attained a height of six feet and seven inches at the dam. At ten colocit this morping it had failen at that point o'clock this morning it had failen at that point to five feet and ten inches, but it is again on the increase. In the engine rooms and other apart-ments of the Fairmount Water Works there is a sand deposit six inches in depth, with several inches of water covering it, and more still making its way inside. The machinery has not work of the establishment has been injured to some extent. The engines were forced to sus some extent. The engines were forced to sus-pend operations on Thursday evening, and until four o'clock this morning it was not possible to reasme work. At that time, however, the four turbine wheels were set in motion, and will continue at the labor of replenishing the basins until high-water, when it will be necessary to suspend again. The old fashioned revolving wheels are still motion-less. It will therefore be seen that the greatest cess. It will therefore be seen that the greatest economy in the use of the Schuylkill water is still necessary. The streets and sidewalks have been so thoroughly scoured, that they can be suffered to rest from any further inundation for a few days. But our citizens should also bear in mind that a vast amount of water can be saved, by a little care and forethought, in household affairs. In the forebay adjacent to the water-works, the water has risen to within a foot of the level of the ground, while its usual height is about ten feet below that point. In the vicinity of the arbor at the eastern end of the dam the water has risen high above the wharves, a number of trees in that locality being almost entirely submerged. The wharf of the up-river steamboats is also under water for the distance of several yards. The little ticket office at the end of the wharf is likewise deluged, and at the end of the wharl is included and workmen were engaged this morning in bailing it out. The drives and walks in the Park are in a wretened condition, and before they are fully repaired quite an expense will be sustained by the city. The handsome drive along the river front is under water at several points, and several of the boat-houses in the vicinity of the Water Works are surrounded by the in-resume operations. The river below the Dam is filled with drift-wood and debris of all kinds, and the wreckers wood and debris of all kinds, and the wreckers are reaping a harvest in their way. A number of families have collected enough fire-wood to last them through the coming winter, and others are still laying in their stock. One of the principal sufferers in this respect is Mr. John D. Ward, who had a large quantity of fire-wood on his wharf at the foot of Ches-nut street. His loss will probably reach $2000. The building, on the western side of the Schuyl-kill were somewhat submerged yesterday, but this morning mo t of them were free from the watery plague. As the water is again rising, however, they may be subjected to still further annoyance and damage. The people of Camden were just near enough to Philadeiphia to reap the full benefit of the deluge, and considerable damage has been sus-

The manufacturing establishments in the neighborhood of the Water Works have been greatly inconvenienced by the effects of the storm, several of them being still unable to resume operations.

PERAMBULATING BEASTS OF PREY .-- In those good old days when everybody that is now old was young, the pitching of a circustent in one's neighborhood was an event which marked an epoch in our lives. The varied attractions which accompanied the show were of a character that appealed directly to the most ardent of our youthful impulses. The ringmaster, in his long-tailed, tinsel-covered coat, was a beau ideal of dignity; the slow wit of the streaked and striped clown was the very acme of humor; the gyrations and contortions of the Bonton Brothers surrayed all one to the other of Brothers surpassed all our ideas of the Olym-pian games; while the nimble heels of Made-moiselle De Haut, as she vaulted, and leaped and dashed around the ring, raised our excite ment and enthusiasm to the climax. But, atter all, the great attraction of the climax. Buy, after all, the great attraction of the circus was the motiey collection of wild and ravenous beasts which at times accompanied it. In truth, a circus that was not combined with a menagerie was little better than no circus at all. Taese was little better than no circus at all. These savage denizens of the forest and jungle were to be contemplated with awe as well as curicontemplated with awe as well as curiosity, and as we gazed admiringly upon the gigantic elephant, and the sleek and sprightly liger, our minds assumed a melancholy turn and reverted to that memorable disaster to the former, as described by the doggerel rhymster:

"The elephant stood on his head to take breath, And the tiger-cat cosily bugged him to death."

But in these more sober and practical days we are obliged to confess that the "Grand Trawe are obliged to contess that the "Grand ITA-velling Combination" of circus and menagerie is nothing more nor less than a nuisance. An established and permanent collection of the curious animals of all parts of the world is indeed a most desirable acquisition to the sources of amisement and instruction in any outro. The animals which are collected in one sources of amusement and instruction in any city. The animals which are collected in one department of the famous Jardin des Plantes, at Paris, are the principal attraction of that popu-lar resort, not only to idle curlosity-seekers, but to students of natural history. But there every-thing is orderly and secure, and such a lament-able occurrence as the accidental swallowing of a man by a hungry llon or a malicious leopard, is an event that rarely or never trans-pires. pires.

What Philadelphia most needs by way of a place of amusement, is just such a collection of the beasts of the forest and jungle. Such an inthe beasts of the forest and jungle. Such an in-stitution would be amply patronized by our permanent residents, and would prove the para-mount attraction to our country friends on their periodical visits to the city. It should embrace specimens of all the known quadru-peds of the world, should be arranged and conducted in a systematic manner, and, above all, such precautions should be taken as would effectually prevent the occurrence of those unfortunate encounters between the beasts of prey and their keepers or visitors which we are every now and then called upon to record.

now and then called upon to record. But as for these perambulating shows, we re-peat that their proper classification is in the order of abominable nuisances. They are always imperfect, and are generally made up of the more common, and at the same time most intractable animals. Accidents are of common occurrence, resulting from the grossest carelessness in securing the monsters placed on exhibi-tion. Tigers break loose from their cages and mutilate unfortunate spectators, while lions coolly stretch their paws through the rickety bars of their cages and trasp the arms and heads of unsuppecting children. Nor is this all. The keepers demean themselves towards the most ferocious animals as they would towards a harmless sourcel and as a consequence a harmless squirrel, and as a consequence are frequently transformed into an impromptu repast. Such an event occurred a few days ago in a menagerie which was perambulating through Central New York. The ilon-tamer, in the fulness of his conceit, was attacked by one of the beasts with which he was perform-ing and before the furious animal lot or blo ing, and before the furious animal let go his hold he had gnawed the "Professor's" back-bone, ribs, and arms into hash, and brought his unlucky victim to the verge of the grave. We are in great want of a permanent museum of animals, wild and tame, savage and docile; but of these dangerous travelling caravans we have had quite enough.

A MODERN MIEACLE, This is, indeed, an age of marvels, and some events are transpiring which so mystify us as to shake our belief in the stability of some accepted systems of science. In another column will be found the remarkable affidavit of Dr. William O. Snyder, relative to the astounding effects of Dr. L. Q. C. WISHART'S WORM SUGAR DROPS, in bringing from a child a large worm, which, upon being relative to the actounding effects of DF. L. Q. C. WishART'S WORM SUGAR DROPS, in bringing from a child a large worm, which, upon being opened, contained a tapeworm in which existed fourteen other living worms. The writer of this article yesterday called upon Dr. Snyder, in company with a distinguished elit-ion to have the statements made verified by zen, to have the statements made verified by actual observation. We found everything ex-actly as represented, and received assurances from Dr. Suyder that the certificate published elsewhere is entirely true, and that it was given to Dr. Wishart unsolicited and unpaid for, and is a fair statement of the facts in the case. We saw a fair statement of the facts in the case, we saw the little child, whose life has been saved by the Worm SUGAR DEOFS, and found him enjoy-ing good health, and giving promise of attain-ing sturdy youth and manhood. In view of these facts we cordially recommend Dr. WISH-ART'S WORM SUGAR DROFS, as the best and areast solitoble variations or tent and it is so most reliable vermifuge extant, and it is so pleasant to the taste as to be taken by little children without the slightest objection. LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS-Judge Brew-sier, -Henry Becker was tried upon a charge of keep-ing his licensed drinking saloon open on Sunday. As several of these cases have during the week been tried, and very fully reported, the public is, no donot, well acquainted with the nature of this charge. The bills of indictment charge merely the keeping open of a licensed tavern, not alleging far what purpose; and in order to a conviction the jury must not only find the fact of the place being open on the Sabbath, but must also be saliefied that the proprietor was doing business daily under license. In this case Reserve Officers Krant, Finley, Daw-son, and Hess testilied that they saw the defendant's tavern, No. 535 Chesnut street open on sinday, July z, and saw persons in there drinking and paying for liquor. Some of these efficients noticed on the wall of the bar-room a frame exactly corresponding in ap-tayern, No. 555 Chesnut street open on Funday, July 23, and saw persons in there drinking and paying for liquor. Some of these officers noticed on the wall of the bar-room a frame exactly corresponding in ap-pearance with those yearly issued by the Clerd of the Court of Quarter Sessions, to all licenses and expose them to view; and could distinguish on the paper contained in that frame the words "hotel" and "tayern," the most conspicuous words in a licenses and expose them to the trame the words "hotel" and "tayern," the most conspicuous words in a license. And, also, a lady testified that on Sunday, Aug, 4th, she went out to look for her husband, who had been absent from his family since the previous Saturday morning, and found him drinking at the defendant's tayern. The record of the issuing of a license for this year to the defendant could not be found; and on this ac-count the defendant presed for an acquittal. But the Judge charsed the jury that they were to be ver; careful in trying these cases not to stallify them-selves, and they must also be equally careful to do impartial justice. In these cases, it devolved upon the Commonwealth to prove that the defendant was doing business under license. In this case the papers necessary could not be found by the keeper of them. The police officers had described what they supposed to be a license, and the defendant had not produced that article to prove that it was not a license. They had a right to say that the defendant in this case conformed with the requirements of the law, in con-ducting his daily business under a lawid license. After remaining out all night, the jury came in this

After remaining out all night, the jury came in this morning, communicated their inability to agree, and asked to be discharged. The Judge said he thought the case a very plain one,

The Judge said he thought the case a very plain one, and that if this jury could not decide it, very likely no other twelve gentlemen in the city could. While a further consideration of the matter would keep them still longer from their business and families, still they owed a duty to the public that they should, if possible, perform; therefore, as the matter stood, he did not feel inclined to discharge them. After a forther delibera-tion, the foreman of the jury asked the Judge why the records of the Court had not been produced to prove that this man had a license. His Honor replied that the license. If existing, was in the hands of the defendant, and not with the Court. If the bond given by the defendant in taking out his license were produced, it would only be prima juck evidence of the existence of the license. But in this marificular case the papers could not be found, and accordingly the best evidence that we had should be received. The witnesses nuclestified in re-gard to the license, as had been before stated. In such a case the Commonwealth had a right to demand the production of papers in the nands of the defendant.

production of papers in the hands of the defendant, and his refusal to produce them went far to corrobo-rate the allegation of there being a license. After another short consultation the jury rendered a consequence of the storm. Telegraph com-munication has been interrupted at many points, especially along the line of the Balti-more and Obio Railroad and the Northern Central Railroad. The lines west of Harris-burg, and in the neighborhood of Williams-port, have likewise been interrupted. The storm, which has now apparently spent its fury, was one of the greatest ever known in this locality. Since the first of the month the rain-gauge at the Pennsylvania Hospital has registered the fall of 14565 inches of rain, and during the twenty-fours ending yesteriay noon we have had 6680 inches, the greatest rain-fall ever known in Philadelphia since the record has been kept at the Hospital. In September, 1853, 6011 inches of rain fell in about twenty-four hours, but August, 1867, has outdone that four hours, but August, 1867, has outdone that high figure by two-thirds of an inch.

After another short consumation the jury femiced a verdict of guilty. Henry Baxter was heard on habeas corpus on a charge of entering a house with a telonlous intent. There was made. The relator was, therefore, only ordered to give security in $500 to keep the peace. In the case of the Commonwealth ex rel. William Home vs. The House of Refuge, a writ of inbeas corpus for the discharge of the relator from the House of Refuge, before reported, evidence was heard this morning to prove that the boy was not a fit subject for confinement. But the evidence failed to prove this, and the Judge remanded the boy back to the custody of the respondents.

From A. M. Spaugler, Editor of he Culturist, No. 2 North Sixth Street.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 15, 1885. Some eighteen months since, I was a severe sufferer from dyspensia. I was not only unable to take plain focd without suffering great distress, but had become so debilitated as to be almost unfitted for active busi-uess of any kind.

so depiniting any kind. After trying a variety of so-called remedies, all of which proved worthless, I was induced, at the sug-gestion of a medical triend, to give Hoofinand's Ger-man Bitters a trial. I accordingly purchased six bothes, which were taken in accordance with your man inferior a track. I accordingly purchased six botties, which were taken in accordance with your directions. The result was accomplete removal of all disress-ing symptoms after eating or drinking, and a full restoration of strength, so that I now eat all ordinary kinds of food with impunity, and am able to attend to all the active duties of a large and ardnous busi-pess as well as at any period of my life; the good effects of the Bitters were manifested before T had taken the first bottle. Thave also used it in my family with the happies results, and take great pleasure in adding my fest mony to that of the many others who have been benefited by it. I find great benefit from the use of a vigorous appetite, but give a healthy tone to the stomach by strengthening its digestive powers. If the above testimony will be the means of inducing any who suffer from Dyspensit to give your Bitters a trial (when it. I find dent). They row un Bitters any who suffer from the digestive powers. A. M. SPANGLER it is at your service. Yours truly, A. M. SPANGLER.

Rev. J. S. Herman, of the German Beformed Church, Kutstown, Berks county, Pa., was cured of Dyspepala of twenty years' standing.
