Berious Riots at the Montreal Elections-The Candidates Guarded by the Military-Thirty Persons Wounded by a Cavalry Charge.

MONTREAL, August 29—A. M.—In the nominamons for members of the new Parliament in this city to-day, Mr. D'Arcy McGee was hooted down. He could not claim a hearing—in fact, was completely prevented from speaking.
Mr. Cartier's friends raised a riot.
At other places of nominations, Mr. Lanctot, the Liberal candidate, who favors annexation to the United States, had to be guarded to his homs by a force of police.
Three men were dangerously beaten during the melce, and several others were more or less injured.

The Troops in Collision with the People

A Cavalry Charge, and Thirty Persons Severely Wounded.

MONTREAL, August 20-P. M.—The election riet in East Montreal to-day was much more serious than at first reported.

The troops were called out, when the disturbance became alarming. The cavalry charged on the populace, or as the assemblage is termed, the m. h.

Two squadrons of dragoons had to guard the eandidates on their way to their homes from the places of nomination. The casualities resulting from the collision between the military and the people are very severe and number upwards of thirty. None of them are as yet reported fatal.

The Issues.

From the Montreat Herald, August 28, We have reason to believe that people in all parts of the Dominion, not least in the sister proyants of the Dominion, not east in the sister pro-vinces, are looking forward with interest and anxiety to the election contest now going on in Montreal West. Apart from the great personal popularity of Mr. McGee, the contest is in some sense viewed as one between Fenianism and good order. We find this impression coming good order. We find this impression coming to us in our correspondence from the extreme parts of the Dominion, and there is reason for it. It has been remarked toy Mr. James Smith, among others) that Mr. Devlin has made no denial or condemnation of Fenlaniam. He has not, of course, called himself a Fenlan. He will bot, of course, called himself a Fenian. He will be been an avowed one; but he knows full well the character of his support, which has split off from Mr. McGee, and he deals with Fenianism very tenderly accordingly. At his last West meeting in Victoria square he had Mr. David, advocate, to speak for him. Mr. David gave a very mild and neat definition of Fenianism as applied to the prisoners Mr. Devin defended at Sweetsburg. He said they were brave men, whose patriotism had unforbevin defended at Sweetsburg. He said they were "brave men, whose patriotism had unfortunately led them rather too far into danger; and that it "redounded to Mr. Deviln's honor that he had been so successful in his efforts to relieve them from their difficult ties." He abused the British Government in the most entrageous terms, describing it as the "common lyrant of Ireland and Canada, both of which countries are groaning under the yoke of oppression." This speech of Mr. David was uttered in Frencu. It is the ground on which the suffrages of the French-speaking electors of Montreal West were asked for by Mr. Devlin, and on which Mr. Devlin should be defeated.

The electors had better look the issue thus put fully and squarely in the face. There is no blinking it. There is no pretense of deniat or explanation of the correctness of the report of

Mr. David's speech, which has now been pub-lished two or three days, and been a subject of conversation in the streets onversation in the screets

If we turn to the East, and look at the character of Mr. Lanctot's opposition to Mr. Cartler, we find that it is based on communism, intense hatred of British connection, and open prefor-ence for a connection with the United States. In other words, to borrow a term from an evening contemporary, it "is French Fenianism of a malignant sort," In politics there is no middle feature. Every voter must support one principle or the other in issue in the elections. In Montreal East, it is Mr. Cartier and the Dominion, i.e., working out our separate career, under the protection of Great Bittain on one side, and Mr. Lanctot and demagoguism, communism and annexa-tion on the other. In Montreal West the issue is nearly the same. Mr. McGee represents the Dominion and British connection on one side; Mr. Deviln such views as those set forth by Mr. David on the other. And every newspaper and voter who does not support the one does support the other, whatever hypocritical pro-fessions may be made to the contrary.

The Reciprocity Treaty Between the United States and the Hawaiian Government Approved by the King in Cabimet Council-An Envoy to Japan-Cruise of the Lackawanna.

Cruise of the Lackawanna.

San Francisco, August 29.—Honolulu dates are to the 22d inst. The reciprocity treaty between the Hawaiian Government and the United States has been approved by the King in Cabinet Council, and the Legislative Assembly has been called together to ratify it and alter the laws so far as necessary, and the text of the new treaty will be published in a few days.

The text of the treaty is understood to be that Hawaiian sugars of not higher grade than No. 12, Dutch standard, rice, cotton, fruits, and some other export products are to be admitted free of duty, and that some of the principal products and manufactures of the United States are to be duty free at the Hawaiian ports.

The Hawaiian Government is about sending an Envoy Extraordinary to Jeddo to negotiate a commercial treaty with Japan, Daniel C. Waterman is named as Envoy.

Dr. F. Hutchinson, Hawaiian Minister of the Interior, has been seriously injured by a madox. His condition is preceditors.

Marriages of Protestants and Roman Catholics.

By recent orders from Rome mixed marriages between Protestants and Roman Catholics can only be celebrated by the Roman Catholic clergy is England, on condition that no celebration of the marriage ceremony according to the rites of the Profestant Church shall subsequently take place. It appears, however, that a Prince Gon-zaga, a Roman Catholic, after having been married the other day at St. James', Spanish Place, by a Roman Catholic priest, went through the marriage ceremony at a Protestant church. The priest who married him, hearing of this, addressed the following letter to the Westmin-

"ST. JAMES', SPANISH PLACE, W., August 1, 1867.—Sir:—My attention has been called to a statement in the Westminster Gazette that the Prince Gonzaga, after having been married at St. James', Spanish Place, went through the marriage ceremony at a neighboring Protestant church. Will you allow me to inform your readers that the knowledge of his intention of thus acting had been entirely withheld from me, otherwise I would not have assisted at his marriage.

"I am, sir, truly yours in Christ, "Edward Tayler."

Repudiation.

The Round Table's leader this week deals with Mr. Pendleton's recent exposition of modern Democracy after this manner:—

"Mr. Pendleton, who was a candidate for Vice-President at the last election, and who was a neavy load for his ticket to carry, is striving to rise into new distinction by means which, we trust, will sink him out of sight. He is preaching in the West repudiation of the national debt; not an open, simple refusal to pay the debt, but a mean evasion of its obligations, such as skilled rogues resort to when they would hold fast to outward respectability." heavy load for his ticket to carry, is striving to

The Webb Sisters. The London News, speaking of the first appearance of the Webb Sisters in London, at the Olympic, where they played in The Grasshopper, alias Funchon the Oricket, saye:—"The two sisters, particularly Miss Ada Webb, were very warmly received and encouraged, but the drama appeared to meet with only qualified approval."

the Public Street and Killed - A Strangely Mysterious Case.

TROY, N. Y., August 29.—A terrible and mysterious woman murder was committed in the adjoining town of Lansingburg last evening. A partial statement of the facts, so far as ascertained, has sent a thrill of horror throughout these surrounding communities, the detective experts, up to this time, having afforded the public no satisfactory clue as to how the dreadial circumstances took piace. At about 8 o'clock last evening, a gentleman named Bulson, walle walking along State street in Lansingburg village, had his attention attracted by groaning noises proceeding from a passing carriage. Strangely Mysterious Case.

noises proceeding from a passing carriage, Sergeant King, of the Metropolitan police, was at once notified by Mr. Bulson of the strange accident, who at once gave chase to the carriage, the guilty occupant of which had by this time discovered the pursuit, and, turning into a dark street, made his escape, only after having thrown the body of a dying girl from the carrisge upon the highway. Upon retracing his sueps the police sergeant discovered the body of the girl dead by the street side. A little further on a considerable bundle of clothing for female has was found considerable bundle of a locker hat white on a considerable bundle of clothing for female use was found, consisting of a jockey hat, skirt, underclothing, and a naudkerculef marked "Carrie." There is no donot that the girl was thrown from the carriage, as already stated, and thus met her death, though she could have lived but a very short time anyway. The remains were at once removed to the station house, where they were laid out for identification. Soon after the occurrence, two relatives of Miss Apple Conners, of Coloner, appear d and identi-Annie Connors, of Concer, appear d and identi-fied the nody as that of a relative of theirs by that name, though there was a want of positive-ness in the identifying. It was subsequently accertained that Miss Conners was at home,

The remains were finally ascertained to be those of a well nigh unknown woman, name I Carrie Hubbard, a beautiful creature, formerly residing at Pittstown, in this county, which place she left some time since for Lansingburg, where she has lived for several months past. Chief Detective Lemuel Hariburt is now at Pittstown solving out the antecedents of this last unfortunate. She could not have been more than outless very several are and was about more than nineteen years of age, and was about five feet in height, with a florid complexion, and suburn hair. A post mortem examination reveals duministakably the fact that Miss itubbard was, previous to her being thrown from the car lage, the victim of a most rough and unsuccessful surgical operation, and that when it was ascertained that she was beyond hope of recovery, and must die within a very short time, she was violently thrown upon the street, to the end that the detection of the living might be avoided. A coroner's jury was empanelled this morning, before which appeared a sister of the deceased, who had not seen her since last November, when she was employed in dress-making. more than nineteen years of age, and was about entered a carriage and drove away very rapidly. The doctors testified that the post mortem disclosed a dreadfully diseased womb and howeis. A Pittstown woman testified that she had employed the deceased, but discharged her on the ground that she was not strong enough to do the work. She regarded her as of good character, and never knew of her keeping male company.

A man named Burt Gardner, living at the house of the last witness, Kate G. Groff, left there at about the same time as the deceased. He has been sent for and will be examined this evening. Gardner is described as a tall, shim young man, with dark complexion, but not dark halr, wearing a straw hat and light spotted clothes.

P. S.—John Henry, an alleged paramour of Mrs. Wager, supposed to have performed the operation on the person of the murdered woman, and who is suspected of naving thrown his victim from the carriage, has been arrested, as has also Christopher Oscar Williams, the alleged seducer of the girl.—N. General Beauregard at Long Branch-His Political Views, Etc.

LONG BRANCE, August 28 .- Having noticed in your issue of yesterday the arrival at Long Branch of General Beauregard, who held a command in the late Confederate army, I was induced to seek, see, and converse with him. I found him quietly ensconced in the vicinity of the Mansion House, where he was surrounded by a few select souvenirs of other days, and in his conversation expressed himself feelingly and frankly in relation to that trying order. and frankly in relation to that trying ordeal through which the country had passed, and the equally terrible one through which it is now aking its transition.

I found the Generul to be, in manners, person, and appearance, a fair representative descendant of the Hoguenots. He is rather below the medium height, and of a slight but muscular physique. I had the pleasure of meeting him in the winter of 1851 on board a flat-boat en his way to New Orleans to be one of the counsel in an important case between prominent members of the bon-ton, which many of of the disciples of Blackstone may yet rememthe disciples of blackstone may yet remember. His locks were then raven black, now they are touched with the frosts of time. He is sanguine of the future if conciliatory measures be adopted, and that the Government will for ages present an undivided front, standing as a monument of terror, and receiving the homage of an appreciative world.

When interrogated in relation to Mexican affairs, he very frankly disclaimed having at any time sympathized or encouraged the Austrian-French alliance for the possession of Mexico, and looked upon the invasion as an eutopian idea generated in the brain of Louis Napoleon. He also entertained a hope that there would yet arise one that would in time bring out of chaos the distracted elements now existing in Mexico, which would eventually become an integral part of the American Union. He spoke of General Grant in very complimentary terms, and pronounces him a thorough military tactician, but in a square stand-up fight, with equal numbers, he considered Lee his superior.

In making allusion to some of the generals connected with the late Rebellion, Stonewall Jackson came in for a share of comment, as among the faithful defenders of the Confederate cause; although at times he was led to believe that through reshuses.

among the faithful defenders of the Confederate cause; although at times he was led to believe that through rashness and recklessness he sacrificed unnecessarily the lives of many Southern soldiers. He cherished the hope that through the instrumentality of President Johnson, and the conservative reconstruction policy inaugurated by him, the Government would be again restored to its primitive purity, as transmitted by the fathers of the republic. The General in conclusion expressed a desire that the American people in future would, in the language of Clay, know "no North, no South, no East, no West," and that they were of one common family, pledged, for weal or woe, in support of the only true system of government extant, and that the past should be forgotten while we cling to the shelter of the same old vine and fig tree, away from kingly same old vine and fig tree, away from kingly misrule, where nothing can make us afraid. He trusted that at no distant day Congress would gently yield a system of reconstruction, in accordance with the wishes of a majority of the people of the several Southern States. This agreeable interview with one of the several southern states. agreeable interview, with one of the most dis-tinguished among the Generals of the late Con-federacy, terminated much too soon.—N, Y.

The Drowning of the Beecher Children. The Boston Traveller gives particulars of the leath by drowning of two daughters of Rev. Charles Beecher, and a son of Dr. Edward Beecher, in Pentucket Pond, at Georgetown. There were with them in the boat at the time another son of Rev. Edward Beecher, D. D., and a son of Rev. William Coffin, of Batavia, N. Y., who is a brother-in-law of Mr. Charles Beecher, and the boat was capsized probably by an entanglement of the sail. These two per-sons were rescued, and the bodies of the drowned were recovered in about three hours. Esther and Harriet, daughters of Rev. Charles Beecher, were aged sixteen and twelve years, and Albert, the son of Dr. Edward Beecher, was aged twenty years. It will be remembered that a cousin of the deceased—a son of Mrs. Harriet a consin of the deceased—a son of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe—was drowned at Hanover, N. H., while bathing in the Connecticut river, a few years ago. This calamity, so sad to the parents and friends of the deceased, will insure to them, in their bereavment, the sympathy of thousands in all parts of the laud. The accident occurred on Tucsday morning. Mr. Albert Beecher was a young man of excellent character and agreeable manners. He had been visiting in Hartford, and left that city to visit his uncle Charles and his family.

Captain Turner, of the schooner Algerine, who reports having witnessed, about 11 o'clock on Wednesday night, a splendid phenomenon in the descent of an immense meteor into Lake Ontario, which struck the water not more than three hundred yards from his vessel. The cap-tain was standing on the main hatch. The ves-sel was about twelve miles off the Niagara lighthouse, bearing S. S.W. Attention was attracted by a sudden illumination from the northwest, which almost instantly increased to a dazzing brilliancy. On turning he beheld a large body of fire in the heavens, which seemed to be ap-proaching at a descent of about thirty degrees, and growing rapidly large as it came nearer the observation of time being so brief as hardly to admit of computation in seconds.

The momentary impression of Captain Turner was that certain destruction awaited his vessel, as the terrific missile seemed to be directed to strike the vessel broadside. The time for reflec-tion, however, was brief, and the light emitted was so blinding in its effect that the man at the wheel and another of the crew on deck fell pros-trate, and remained stupefied with terror. The captain himself, as he states, remained transfixed, and saw the fiery body enter the water some three hundred yards ahead of his vessel, about two points to the windward. A loud explosion attended the contact with the water, which was sharp and dealening, equal to a thunderbolt close at hand, and a large volume of steam and spray ascended into the air, which was noticed for some moments afterward. The captain estimates that the meleor was a body of about twenty feet in diameter. A long trail of flame of the most intense brilliancy was noticed as it struck the water.

Quinine.

It is a good thing, says an English paper, that India seems likely to be able to supply the whole world with quining, for not only was the American supply nacertain, it was actually threatened with extinction, owing to the reckless way in which the Indians killed the trees in the process of stripping, planting, of course, no new ones.
Mr. M'Ivor, who has been ably seconding Mr.
Clement R. Markham's effort at chinchona planting, finds that by removing only one long strip of bark and immediately covariant the bark and immediately covering the wound with moss, the bark is renewed, provided the cambium be not injured. The new bark, moreover, is thicker and richer in alkaloids than the original one. Indeed, Mr. Broughton, the newly-appointed "quinologist" at Ootacamund, tells us that the average yield of cultivated plants is nearly two per cent, higher than that of the wild American samples—7 per cent., instead of from 4.16 to 5.66 per cent. The only drawback is that the kind which grows most treely in India is the red bark, the quinine from which is usually mixed with a considerable portion of chinchonidine and other allied alkaloids, along with resin and coloring matter not easily separable. Still, however, since we shall use probably more and more quinine every year, it is better to have the mixture than none at all. Mr. Broughton suggests that these "amorphous alkaloid substances" may have virtues of their own; but possibly, with more perfect processes, they may be found separable. Anyhow, it is better to take what India can give us for dispensary use, than to prepare (as they do in some dispensaries) their mistura quiniæ out of concentrated intusion of quassia and calumba, with a dash of aromatic sulphuric acid.

Martyrs to Carelessness.

If all the teeth that have been ruined by neglect could be strung together, they would reach thrice round the world. There may have been some excuse for this havoc in days gone by, when there was no absolute safeguard against dental decay in existence, but there is no apology for it now.
