-Some years ago, Mr. Lomax, of Netley, in Surrey, and the late Lord King, the father of the present Earl Lovelace, were walking on the lawn at Netley, and, great cronies as they were, they were deep in the discussion of politics, scandal, and passing events, or such topics as in the year on or about 1838 were available to ventilation, and likely to interest men of their standing. Suddenly a voice, considerably imbued with the graceful taint usually on the tongue of a native of the Emerald Isle sounded close to the elbow of Mr. Lomax, and in a whining tone those syllables prayed for "the laste taste of a bit vittels." Startled out of propriety, and turning short round upon a tall beggar man, and without much choice of expression, Mr. Lomax told the suitor for carrity to "go to -," thundering forth, at the same time, that "he had relieved such a constant succession of beggars, that he had resolved to do so no more," Lomax made this annunciation, he and his friend Lord King faced about to take another turn on the lawn, and the Irish beggar-man, leaning on his stick, came face to face with them. "Lord love yer honor," said the beggar, "is it to — you bid me go? I've just comed from it." Mr. Lomax, amused with the cool, sly twinkle of the old man's eyes, as he stated whence he had so immediately come, asked him, in a more good-natured tone of voice, "Well, what were they doing "Down on their knees they was," replied the beggar-man, "every mother's son on 'em, a praying for the arrival of Mr. Lomax, who, they said, had long been due, and a-swearing as he'd give 'em a shillin' all round in the way of drink to pay his footin', as soon as ever he come." "Here, you old humbug, said Mr. Lomax, laughing, giving him a guinea for his wit, "that's better than the shilling, should you be there to meet me."

-Among Lord Eldon's humorous answers to applications for preferment should be re-membered his letter to Dr. Fisher, of the Charterhouse: on one side of a sheet of paper, "Dear Fisher, I cannot to-day give you the preferment for which you ask. I remain, your sincere friend, Eldon. Turn over;" and on the other side, "I gave it to you yesterday." This note reminds us of Erskine's reply to Sir John Sinclair's solicitation for a subscription to the testimonial which Sir John invited the nation to present to himself. the one side of a sheet of paper it ran-"My dear Sir John, I am certain there are few in this kingdom who set a higher value on your services than myself, and I have the honor to subscribe," on the other side it concluded, 'myself your obedient faithful servant, Ens-

-When Count d'Orsay first came to England as a very young man, and was about twenty-two years of age, he was invited to dine at Holland House, where he was seated next to Lady Holland herself, who supposed that the handsome stranger was a shy young man, awe-struck by her majestic selfishness. Owing to & considerable abdominal development, her ladyship was continually leaving her napkin slip from her lap to the ground, and as often as she did so, she smiled blandly, but authorifatively, on the French count, and asked him to pick it up. He politely complied several times, but at last, tired of this exercise, he said, to her great surprise, "Ne ferais-je pas mieux, madame, de m'asseoir sous la table, afin de pouvoir vous passer la ser-viette plus rapidement?"

-In a very scarce book, Hal's "Parochial History of Cornwall," published at Exeter in 1750, mention is made of Killigrew, the celebrated Master of the Revels temp. Charles II, though he never was formally installed as Court Jester. The following anecdote will show that, at all events, he deserved the ap pointment even though he did not get it. When Louis XIV showed him his pictures at Paris, the King pointed out to him a picture of the Crucifixion between two portraits. "That on the right," added his Majesty, "is the Pope, and that on the left is myself." "I humbly thank your Majesty," replied the wit, "for the information; for though I have often heard that our Lord was crucified between two thieves, I never knew who they were till now.' -Old M'me Rothschild, mother of the mighty capitalists, attained the age of ninetyeight; her wit, which was remarkable, and her intellectual faculties, which were of no common order, were preserved to the end. In her last illness, when surrounded by her family, her physician being present, she said in a suppliant tone to the latter, "Dear doctor, try to do something for me." "Madame, what can I do? I can't make you young again." "No, doctor, I don't want to be young again, but I want to continue to grow old."

-Joseph Jekyll was at the same time the brightest wit and the most shameless punster of Westminster Hall in the reign of George III. One of his best displays of brilliant impudence was perpetrated on a Welsh judge, who was alike notorious for his greed of office and his want of personal cleanliness. "My dear sir," Jekyll observed, in his most amiable manner, to this most unamiable personage, "you have asked the minister for almost everything else, why don't you ask him for a piece of soap and a nail-brush?

-Everybody knows the story of Gunter, the pastry-cook. He was mounted on a runaway horse with the king's hounds, and excused himself for riding against Alvanley by saying, "O, my lord, I can't hold him; he's so hot." "Ice him, Gunter! ice him!" was the consoling rejoinder.

-Madame de Sévigné had a German friend, the Princess of Tarente, who was always in mourning for some sovereign prince or princess. One day Madame de Sévigné, happening to meet her in colors, made a low courtesy, and said, "Madame, je me rejouis de la santé de l'Europe."

-Lady Wallace sent a very civil message to Mr. Harris, the patentee of Covent Garden Theatre, offering him her comedy for nothing. Mr. Harris observed that her ladyship knew the exact value of it.

-Lord Alvanley wrote to a friend, "I have no credit with either butcher or poulterer; but if you can put up with turtle and turbot I shall be happy to see you."

-Louis XIV, playing at backgammon, had a doubtful throw; a dispute arose, and the surrounding courtiers all remained silent.
The Count de Grammont happened to come in at that instant. "Decide the matter," said the King to him. "Sire," said the Count, "your Majesty is in the wrong." "How, replied the King, "can you thus decide with-out knowing the question?" "Because," said the Count, "had the matter been doubt-ful, all these gentlemen present would have given it for your Majesty."—London Society.

—The Petersburg Index, asserting that General Pryor, now of New York, is "as good a radical as Theodore Tilton," says that there are in that city "twenty respectable witnesses to the fact that he has long since indorsed the Congressional action in reference to the South. The Richmond Enquirer "hopes the Index is mistaken."

I FOR ADDITIONAL LOCAL STEMB SHE OUTSIDE PAGES.] COMMISSION ON SOUTH STREET BRIDGE,-Yesterday afternoon the Commission to superintend the building of a bridge over the Schuylkill at South street held a meeting, Mr. John Weish in the chair, and Mr. Dropsie acting as Secretary.

A motion was made "that the quorum of this Committee be fixed at nine members."

Mr. Phillips moved to amend "Provided, That a contrast appropriation of the contrast and th

After some discussion the resolution, as amended, was adopted.
Mr. Phillips, of the Cemmittee on Law, made Mr. Phillips, of the Cemmittee on Law, made the following report:—

To the Commission for building a bridge over the river Schuylkill at South street—Gentlemen:—Your Committee on Law respectfully report, that they employed William M. Meredith Rsq. to represent the Commission in the suit by the city to restrain them by a bill in equity from building the bridge; that the case was argued by Mr. Lynd, the City Solicitor, and Mr. Meredith, on September 2, 1807, before Judge Read, and on the following day the bill of the city was dismissed. Mr. Lynd has stated that he will appeal to the Supreme Court. Your Committee state that it is the opinion of your counsel, as also their opinion, that the city has no case.

Mr. Wetherill desired to know if, under the circumstances, the Commission had law enough circumstances, the Commission had law enough on their side to proceed with the work? Mr. Phillips said that if the decision of Judge Read should be reversed by the Supreme Court, the Commission would have no power.

Mr. Dropsie was of the opinion that the city had no case, and he had no doubt of the power of the Commission to proceed at once with the

Mr. Lawson moved that the Committee on Plans be instructed to atvertise for proposals for plans and estimates for the construction of the bridge. Agreed to.

The subject of employing an architect and superintendent was discussed, but no final action was taken.

Mr. Wetherill desired to know how the expenses of the Commission are to be paid?

Mr. Welsh, Chairman, stated that if the acts of the Commission are legal and right, the Councils would have to make an appropriation.

Mr. Wetherill moved that an application be made to Councils for an appropriation of $1500 to defray the expenses of the Commission. Mr. Mann submitted the following:-

Mr. Mann submitted the following:—

Resolved, That the officers of this Commission be instructed to communicate to Councils the action taken by the Supreme Court, dismissing their bill, and to request the co-operation of Councils to carry into effect the laws relative to the duties of this Councilson; and further, to take such action as will afford us the benefit of the attendance of the Mayor and President of each Council at our meetings, and the sid and assistance of the Chief Engineer, to superintered and direct, as is contempiated and required by existing laws. Adjourned.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' MEETING, -A meeting of Sunday School teachers, superintendents, and friends of the cause was held at the Presbyterian Church, Eighteenth and Arch streets, last evening. Matthew Newkirk, Esq., presided, and the opening prayer was given by Rev. Mr. Bar-nitz. A portion of sacred Scripture was read by Rev. Mr. Torrence, and the exercises then opened formally by an address from the pastor of the Church, Rev. A. A. Willitts, giving a comprehensive view of Sabbath School work, and urging those engaged in it to persevere and continue. He was followed by Rev. G. A. Peltz, who gave some interesting hints regarding the establishment of adult Sunday Schools, illustrating the subject by facts drawn from his own experience.

At the conclusion of Mr. Peltz' remarks, Rev. Alfred Taylor gave some illustrations of the plan of teaching Sunday Schools by the use of the blackboard. The attendance was large, and the proceedings quite interesting. There were representations present from most of the reli-gious denominations of the city.

This afternoon the same gentlemen will ad-dress a meeting to be held in the church at 3 o'clock, as will also Rev. Richard Newton, D.D., and Rev. Ralph Wells, of New York. The meetings promise to all prove interesting and bene-

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS .- The following cases were admitted to the Pennsylvania Hospital yesterday:—Isaac Rosenberry, nineteen years old, while at work yesterday at Stuart, Peterson & Co.'s stove manufactory, had one of his feet dreadfully burned by his shoes becoming partially filled with melted iron.

Hugh Harrison, forty-two years old, residing near Front and Catharine streets, fell from a scaffold yesterday, at Broad and Lombard streets, and had a leg broken. Joseph Stevenson, colored, residing at No. 1010 Hmes street, had a leg broken yesterday, on a steamboat, while coming from New York.

George Hubbard, colored, was run over by a passenger car last evening, at Third and Market streets, and had one of his legs crushed.

Robert Chase, while on the roof of a twostory house, yesterday, at Seventeenth and Vine streets, fell off and broke three of his ribs. He resides at No. 318 S. Fifteenth street.

INCORDIGIBLE.—Just one year ago Edward Dougherty was convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions of assaulting Sergeant Broomall, of the Third District Police, with a knife, by which his life was endangered. Dougherty was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, but yesterday he made his appearance on the streets, and, in connection with another man, was arrested at Sixth and Lombard streets, on the charge of violently assaulting a colored woman named Ann Watkins. Being taken to the Union Street Station, the men were locked up for a hearing. Dougherty was then asked how he got out of prison, and said that the Judge who sentenced him reconsidered his action, and reduced the term of imprisonment to one year.

FIRE AND EXPLOSION .- Last evening there was a fire at Lardett's & Co.'s dyeing establishment, No 910 Sansom street, which was accom-panied by an explosion of what was supposed to be benzine. The noise created considerable alarm in the neighborhood, but not much damage was done. A loss of several hundred loliars was sustained.

LINCOLN INSTITUTION FOR SOLDIERS' ORPHANS. -The Treasurer of the Lincoln Institution for Soldiers' Orphans desires to acknowledge the receipt of $134'60, through Mr. Samuel Kenyon, Treasurer of the St. Mark's Literary Institute, Frankford, being the proceeds of a tea party held in Frankford on Christmas, 1866.
