CITY COUNCILS. - The regular meetings of City Councils were held yesterday afternoon. The business was this:---Select Branch .- President Spering, the President, was in the chair.

A variety of petitions were presented and re-ferred, mainly private ones.

An ordinance to increase the supply of water in the Twenty fourth and Twenty-lifth Wards passed finally.

A report was received from the Committee on Schools, with an ordinance appropriating $150 for an outbuilding to the school at Twenty-fifth and Thompson streets.

An ordinance to change the place of voting in the Eleventh Precinci, Twenty-lourth Ward, passed

Mr. Smith offered a resolution, with a pre-amble. The inter covered the resolutions passed by the Directors of the Girard College, in the removal of Major Smith. The resolution of Mr. Smith called for the appointment of a committee of five members from each Chamber to investigate the causes for the dismissal of Major Smith, President of the College. It was suggested that Common Council had the same matter before them, and that this body could concur in the resolutions they adopted. Mr. Smith showed this to be a mistake, and the preamble and resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Smith made a statement that the Survey Committee recommended the changing of the name of a portion of Armat street, Twenty-second Ward, to Locust street, and Wilson street to Magnolin avenue, the property owners to pay the expense. He introduced a resolution to this effect, which was reterred.

Mr. King offered an ordinance, with a voluminous preamble, relative to Girard College, de-claring that it is the duty of the city to see that the will of Stephen Guard is faithfully carried out, and providing for certain radical changes the Board of Directors. Mr. Stokley made an elaborate speech, contending that Mr. King, in offering such a resolution, was promoting the very object of which his preamble expressed reprodution. He was without giving them an opportunity to show why they dispensed with the services of Mr. Smith. Mr. King took for granted that, because some of the newspapers had condemned the course of the Directors of the College, the entire public did so. This was not the case by any means. In this very instance the editor of a daily paper of this city called upon a member of the Board at his house, and asked him to make a statement concerning the action of the Board. The member, after some hesitation, furnished the reporter with the facts; and, despite the solemn assurance of the editor that the article should appear in his paper the next day, he never printed it. Mr. Stokley asked leave to present a state-ment-for which he held himself responsiblesetting forth that for a long time past the Col-lege has been grossly mismanaged; that widows bitterly complained to the Directors of harsh discipline, cruelty and excessive punishment in-flicted upon orphans; that there has been no harmony among the officers nor any sufficient safeguards in the distribution of the supplies for the institution; and that Major Smith has brought about an entire loss of cordiality between the legislative and executive departments. A motion to lay Mr. King's resolution on the table was lost by a vote of 16 to 5.

Colonel Page favored the resolutions, and gave his opinion that as a Board the present one was far inferior to most of its predecessors. There was at least one man in it who was undt to be there. In their course towards Major Smith their conduct had been brutal, even beastly. No man here would so treat even a domestic servant.

Mr. Stokley warmly denied this statement. He believed the present Board to be superior to most of its predecessors, and declared that in the Board to which Colonel Page referred as so superior to this one, there were two or three men who could neither read nor write. whole matter was finally referred to a special committee. Mr. Wagner offered a resolution appointing a committee of three to fix a time and regulate the trial of William J. Ovens. He did not want to be chairman of the committee, but action in the matter is imperative. It passed, and the Chair appointed Messrs.

than for the license. 8. For sinks, where the opening exceeds one and one quarter inch diameter, and cellar drains, when used for any other purposes than spring or flood-water, the sum of $2,

Mr. Hancock moved to strike out the first two ections. This led to debate, and during the progress of the same the hour of 5 o'clock arrived, it having been made the order of the day for the consideration of the boiler inspection bill.

The boiler bill was then considered. It provides for an inspector of steam engines and boilers, who shall be nominated by the Mayor and confirmed by Select Council. The Mayor is to appoint an advisory commission of five persons, who shall examine candidates for the office of inspector. The bill further provides rules and regulations for the government of the inspector.

Mr. Simpson moved to indefinitely postpone the bill.

Mr. Harper said the bill gave extraordinary power to the inspector, and that that power might lead to corruption. This was why he opposed the bill.

Mr. Evans and Mr. Shoemaker argued in favor of the bill, and said it should be passed, as the citizens of Philadelphia demanded it.

The debate was further continued, and on the The debate was further continue to yeas and motion to indefinitely postpone the yeas and nays were called, resulting as follows:-Yeas-Messre, Billington, Oram, Potter, Simp-

AMUSEMENTS.

THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION of the Pennsyl-vania Horticultural Society, to commence on Tuesday next, September 24, at Horticultural Hall, promises to be one of the largest and finest exhibitions of the kind ever given in Philadel-pbia. The most ample preparations have been made to insure its being such, and we doubt not it will prove shundantly worthy of the most extensive patronage of the public.

extensive patronage of the public. BLIND TOM.—Is there any one who has not yet seen Blind Tom? If so, let him hasten to Uoncert Hall ere Tom leaves it. This miracu-jous planist, the first marvel of the age, cannot be fully appreciated until seen and heard. No newspaper description can give any adequate idea of Tom. His rolling eyes, his apish ges-ures, bis convulsive motions, his countless pe-culiarities and eccentricities, all must be seen before any one can do complete justice to the marvelious powers of Tom. One of the most re-markable traits in Blind Tom is his mode of exercise to strengthen his physical power. At markable traits in Blind Tom is his mode of exercise to strengthen his physical power. At one period be gave specimens on the stage of his mode, which consisted in bending his head nearly on a level with the floor, and wheeling around the stage at a rate that alarmed the be-holder, for, being nearly blind, it seemed as if he would dash his brains ont at every turn. This he now practises in his room, and it is one of his favorite amusements. It is a dangerous one, however, for Mr. Bethime informs us that his head not unfrequently comes within an inch of the sharp point of the plano.
