The Jewise Holidays.—At sunset on Sunday, September 29, the Jewish year 5628 began, and the event was duly commemorated by imposing religious exercises in all the synagogues in this city. These services were continued on Monday following, the Jewish New Year's Day, a peculiar feature of the ceremonies being the blowing of the shophar, or ram's horn, to which it is incumbent upon all believers in Judaism to listen. The New Year's Day is known by the stitle of Rosh Hashana, and on that day, according to the traditions preserved in the "Talmus," the Creator inscribes in the Book of Life the names of those who are confirmed as just, and in the Book of Death those who are confirmed as sinful. The first ten days of the year are known as the penitential days, and are observed throughout with great strictness, by daily confessions of sin and supplications for pardon. Wednesday last, October 9, was the Day of Atonement, which was even more penitentially observed than the preceding days, and on that day, according to the "Talmud," the Creator decided the fair of those whose future was undecided on Rosh Hashana, those who preglected during the penitential days to ex-THE JEWISH HOLIDAYS,-At sunset on Sunwas undecided on Rosh Hashana, those who neglected during the penitential days to ex-plate their sins being then doomed to the condemnstion of the law.

An interval of five days follows the Day of Atonement, and then commences the great Feast of the Tabernacles, or Succoth, which begins this year with the setting of the sun to-morrow. The ceremonies peculiar to this featival of the Jewisn Church are enjoined in the following pressure of Serializar for Leville. the following passage of Scripture, from Levili-cus xxiii, 54-48:—

festival of the Jewish Church are enjoined in the following passage of Scripture, from Leviticus xxiii, 34-48;—

"Break unto the children of Israel, saying:—The fitteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of Tabernacies for seven days unto the Lord. On the first day shall be a hely convocation; ye shall do no servile work therein. Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord. On the eighth day shall be a holy convocation unto you, and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord. It is a solemn assembly, and we shall do no servile work iberon. These are the feasts of the Lord, which ye shall preclaim to be holy convocations to offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord, which ye shall preclaim to be holy convocations to offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord, and drink offering, everything upon His day. Beside the Sabbaths of the Lord and beside your gifts, and beside all your yows, and beside all your yows, and beside all your yows, and beside all your get which ye give unto the Lord. Also on the lifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye shall keep a feast unto the Lord seven days on the first day shall be a Sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a Sabbath. And ye shall take on the first day the fruits of goodly trees, branches of the palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees and willows of the brook, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days. And ye shall keep it a feast unto the Lord seven days in the year; it shall be a Statute forever in your generation: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month. Ye shall dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God."

One of the ceremonies inculcated above—the sacrifice, by fire, of meat and driuk offerings—has been made obsolete by the destruction of the Temple; but the other injunctions are religiously observed. The four species selected from the vegetable kingdom, in accordance with the Ecrop made obsolete by the destruction of the Penyle; but the other injunctio prayer for a prosperous season is then offered, after which the branches are waved three times each to the leit and right, up and down, and forward and backward, as if to waft the blessing of Heaven from all quarters. Then follows the recitation of the prayer of Hallel which consists of the six Psalms beginning with the listh and closing with the listh. A procession around the synagogue is likewise joined in by persons carrying the Lulais, preceded by the minister with the Holy Scroll.

The changeableness of our climate renders it impossible to carry out strictly the injunction to dwell in booths or tabernacies, but almost every Jew who has a back yard attached to his house has a Succoth erected on his premises, in which he takes his meals with his family during the festival. These booths, or Succoths, as they are called, from which the Jewish name of the festival is taken, are built so that the canopy of heaven can be seen through the roof. The latter is constructed of lattice work, covered with fresh leaves. Inside of the Succoth splendid decorations are generally fixed, such as golden apples, peanuts, oranges, paper decorations, and pictures, while in the centre of most of them dangles a "Menotron," or seven-armed lamp, made of silver or brass, which, when lighted, gives the whole a gay appearance.

The first two days of the festival are strictly observed. Then follow five half-holidays, on which work is allowed after the morning service. The last of these five days, or Hoshano Rabbo, is the one on which according to tradition, the Creator finally decides the fate of those who have exhibited signs of repentance for their errors, but who have not yet communicated their atonement. It is ushered in by reciting the Psalms and other words of wisdom, which leaves beaten off with a prayer that God might clean man of his sins as the stem is cleaned of its leaver.

The eighth day of the festival is known as Shemini Olsereith and the louth of them being close holidays. On the of h's sins as the stem is cleaned of its leaver.

The eighth day of the festival is known as Shemini Olsereith and the ninth as Simchath Thora, or "joy of the land," both of them being close holidays. On the eve of the former the faithful forsake the Succoth, or booths, with prayers; and on the following morning prayers for copious rains and abundant crops are uttered with great solemnity. The latter is the day on which the reading of the five books of Moses, or the Pentateuch, is commenced.

It begins with the reading in the synagogue of the 33d and 34th chapters of Deuteronomy, and is continued in the family circle by weekly instalments of Several chapters each. All the scrolls of the law are then taken out of the ark and carried aroun" the synagogue, children attired in their best, and bearing flags and beakers of flowers, accompanying the procession. After the conclusion of the religious services of the day, the Fess of the Tabernacles is brought to a close by public and private entertainments, in Deuteronomy xvi, 13-17, is given an injunction to complete charity with the rejoicings of the holidays, and large contributions are taken up in the synagogues, the process being distributed among the orphan asylums, free schools, and other Jewish institutions.

Sr. Louis, Oct. 12.-The steamer J. H. Lacy, of the St. Joseph and Omaha line, was snagged and sunk night before last twenty-five miles above St. Joseph. The loss is not stated, but is said to be insured in Cincinnati offices.

A difficulty recently occurred at Camaron crossing, on the Santa Fe road, between the escort of a passenger stage coach, in which thres men were killed, and the sergeant in command of the escort wounded. The trouble grew out of the drunkenness and quarrelsome conduct of the sergeant.

The Kansas Pacific Railroad and Telegraph line reached Hayes City yesterday. The Santa Fe Stage Company and United States Express line will make this their terminus this winter.

There is no Indian news. The Democrats will have a grand jollification over the result of the recent elections to-night. St. Louis, Oct. 12 .- The clothing store of J. M. He was, we believe, born in Fredericksburg, Virginia, but in his latter years has resided in our own city. His name has been associated with the naval history of our country for years. After serving honorably for a quarter of a century, he was placed on the relired list on the 21st of December, 1861, with the rank of Commodore, to await orders of the Navy Department. His sudden death has caused deep sorrow and universal regret.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is not an intoxicating beverage, but is a good Tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of deblity and want of nervons action in the system. Yours truly, GEORGE W. WOODWARD.

[From the Rev. E. D. Fendell, Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.] I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoosland's Gesman Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic to all who are suffering from general debility, or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver.

Yours truly,

E. D. FENDALL.

From Rev. D. Merrige, Pastor of the Passyunk Baptist Church, Philadelphia.]

From the many respectable recommendations given to Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I was induced to give them atrial. After using several bottles I found them to be a good semedy for debility, and a most excellent tonic for the stomach.

[From Rev. William Smith, formerly Paster of the Vincentown and Milville (N. J.) Baptist Churches,]

Havirg used in my family a number of bottles of your Hoofland's German Bitters, I have to say that I regard them as an excellent medicine, especially adapted to remove the diseases they are recommended for. They strengthen and invigorate the system when debilitated, and are useful in disorders of the liver, loss of appetite, etc. I have also recommended them to several of my friends, who have tried them and found them greatly beneficial in the restoration of health.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM SMITH. Yours truly, WILLIAM SMITH.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15, 1868.

Some eighteen months since, I was a gevere sufferer from dyspensis. I was not only unable to take plain food without suffering great distress, but had become so debilitated as to be almost unfitted for active business of any kind. nos of any kind.

After trying a variety of so-called remedies, all of which proved worthless, I was induced, at the suggestion of a medical friend, to give Hoodand's German Bitters a trial. I accordingly purchased six hottles, which were taken in accordance with your man Bitters a trial. I accordingly purchased six bottles, which were taken in accordance with your directions.

The result was a complete removal of all distressing symptoms after eating or drinking, and a full restoration of strength, so that I now est all ordinary kinds of food with imponity, and am able to attend to all the active duties of a large and ardinous business as well as at any period of my life the good effects of the Bitters were manifested before I had taken the first bottle.

I have also used it in my family with the happies results, and take great pieasure in adding my tests mony to that of the many others who have been benefited by it. I find great benefit from the use of a vigorous appetite, but give a healthy tone to the stomach by strengthening its digestive powers.

If the above testimony will be the means of inducing any who suffer from Dyspepsia to give your Bitters a trial (when it. I feel consident, will give them relief) it is at your service.

Greeley is good authority for stating that the President two weeks ago offered the Secretaryship of the Treasury to Erastus Corning, of New York, but it was declined by Mr. Corning. Reports of Cabinet changes still prevail. Some of McCulloch's opponents declared to-day that he would not be in his present position ten days longer, while his friends assert that he will not be removed, that the President, in yielding to the clamor against him, only tendered the Secretaryship to Corning to satisfy the hungry crowd of Democrats who were ravenous after McCulloch's money-bags, and having done this, and finding that no unexceptionable man would take the place under present circumstances, the President will make no further demonstration in that direction at present.

A movement is on foot to have a Pennsylvania. Democrat appointed to a seat in the Cabinet, on the ground that Pennsylvania, having been restored to the Democratic fold, is entitled to this mark of Executive favor, and as McCulloch's position controls the largest share of patronage, some of the Democrats are casting round for a suitable man from Pennsylvania to present to the President for McCulloch's place.

Dan Vorhees, of Indiana, was with Mr. Johnson this morning trying to strengthen his back bone for more decisive meatures against the radicals. The Democrats say Johnson talks sweetly to them, but they can't get him to General Schofield is still here, and this morning waited on the President.
