Greenbacks, Bonds, and Gold. Par the bonds with greenbacks, say the semirepudiators. But that does not help matters any, for it is merely changing the form of the debt without paying it at all. The greenbacks are United States notes-promises to pay-and must themselves, sooner or later, be paid in gold. We gain nothing, therefore, as to ultimate payment, by changing the form of the indebtedness from bonds to notes. Both are promises of the United States to pay, which must be redeemed or repudiated.

Oh! but the interest. We should save the Interest, say the Butler-Pendletonians.

It is true that the bonds bear interest, and that the notes, or greenbacks, do not; but for every dellar that we should save in interest. we should pay back two, or three, or five dollars in the enhanced prices of everything, from the inflation of the currency. Suppose only five hundred millions of the bonds to be now paid by the issue of that amount of greenbacks, what would be the result? Simply that gold would instantly mount up to a pre mium of from one hundred to two hundred per cent., carrying with it the prices of tea, coffee, sugar, clothing, boots and shoes, rents, and everything else. The immediate burden would fall upon the laboring classes, for wages are among the last things to rise, and never keep pace with the prices of other commodities. Long before the mechanic, the artisan, the day laborer would get a paltry advance in his wages, he would be paying double and triple prices for all the necessaries of life. And to what good end? The Government debt would not have been diminished by a single dollar. The five hundred millions of dollars would still remain to be paid in gold. The fact is, the payment of the bonds in greenbacks is simply impossible without bringing universal ruin and bankruptcy upon the

But, say still others, of the New York Herald school, we only propose to pay off the debt gradually, without any increase of currency, out of the surplus receipts of the Government. A large amount of the debt, they say, should be paid before specie payments are resumed, so as to realize the advantage of the premium on gold. To this we reply that the Government can have surplus revenues only by maintaining a high rate of taxation, and the country is already too highly taxed. Taxes must come down, instead of being increased so as to commence paying off the debt. They are now too high. They are oppressive, and already operate to stagnate business. Instead of increasing them, or keeping them where they are, they should be cut down from one hundred to two hundred millions of dollars. The proposition to commence paying the debt now is a proposition to put this generation, already impoverished by the war, under an onorous burden of taxation, to save, not to ourselves, but to the people of forty or fifty years hence, the present difference between greenbacks and gold. This may be very generous to posterity. But it is not just to ourselves. The war for the Uzion was in the interest of those who shall live after us, quite as much as for ourselves. It was to save free government for the future hundreds of millions who shall inhabit this great country, not less than for ourselves. that this debt was incurred. This generation has given the lives of its sons, besides paying abundantly of its substance, for the salvation of the Republic; and it is no more than just that a part of the burden shall be borne by those who, equally with ourselves, will share in the great boon that has been secured.

The true policy, in our opinion, is to fund the entire indebtedness of the country into long bonds at a low rate of interest, to resume specie payments, and to reduce taxation to the lowest limits. The redemption of bonds by a new issue of greenbacks, even if it could be justly done, would not advance us a single step on the road to the payment of the debt, either now or at any future time. Its only result would be national embarrassment, confusion, and disgrace. The payment of any material portion of the debt at present is impossible, without such a burden of taxation as must inevitably crush out the industry of the country, and thus impair the very fountains of the revenue itself.

Horamo Seymour writes to a friend that he would "cast his Democratic goggles forever from his eyes if he could see another State of the Union in which an election could be held." He is evidently elated, and believes that the Democracy, greenbacks, and Hon. George H. Pendleton will rule this country in 1869.

Double Track from Pittsburg to Philadelphia. The following statement from the Mount Union Times, of the 31st ult., imports an im portant fact in connection with the completion of the double track on the Pennsylvania Railroad from Philadelphia and Pittsburg:-The extensive job of masonary in Jack's Narrows, which the Pennsylvania Bailroad Company has been engaged on for a long time past, is now nearly completed. This work has given employment to an average of some thirty men for the last three years. The wall is nearly a mile in length, and from fifteen to twenty feet in height. It is built in order to admit the second track through the Narrows, and, when it is graded, together with a few sections between Mount Union and Van Devander's bridges, will complete the second track from Philadelphia to Pittsburg.

JAY COOKS.—Mr. Jay Cooke, about whose personal history and circumstances prior to the war so much has been said, and who is again pefore the public in his recently published defense of the national banking system, was born in 1822, in Sandusky, Ohio. His father was Mr. Eleutherys Cooke, an eminent lawyer and pro-minent citizen, one of the earliest ecitlers of that section of the State, who, for a time, represented section of the State, who, for a since, and the district in Congress. Jay Cooke, a self-reliant and energetic boy, commenced his business life at the age of thirteen, and from that time succeeded. For four years he was employed in mercantile houses, first in Sandusky, and then in St. Louis. At seventeen he entered the banking house of F. W. Clark & Co., Phila-delphia, as a clerk, and at twenty-one became partner in that firm and its connections, Clark, Dodge & Co., New York: Clark, Brothers & Co., St. Louis; and J. W. Clark & Co., Boston, and soon after he became managing partner of the Poliadelphia firm.

His connection with these houses resulted in rompetency, and about 1858 he retired from business. In 1860 in connection with Mr. Wil liam G. Moorhead, a wealthy capital at, Cooke established the banking-house of coke & Co., Philadelphia, and in 1861, after the breaking out of the war, the negotiation of the original seven-thirty loan was the occasion of the first connection of Mr. Cooke and his house with the finances of the Government, The Washington house of Jay Cooke & Co. was opened in 1862, and co-operated with the Phila-delphia house in popularizing the first five-twenty loan and the three series of seven-thir-ties. The New York house of the same name was opened after the war, in March, 1867. all his Government negotiations Mr. Cooke has appealed directly to the people, and, after his own remarkable energy and enthustasm in all his pursuits, his great success in these matters has lain in his unwavering faith in the good sense and patriotism of the masses .- N. THE GALE ON THE LAKES.

Particulars of the Loss of the Propeller Acme-Damage to Other Vessels.

From the Buffalo Courier, Nov. 5. The propeller Acme, of the Western Transpor tation Company's Line, encountered the gate in all its fury, and foundered fifteen miles N. N. E. trom Dunkirk, near the middle of the lake. She was bound to this port, had no passengers, and all her crew were saved. He cargo consisted of 7397 bushels corn, consigned to Messrs. Barclay, Bruce & Co.; 75 barrels of flour to Harvey & Allen: 344 green hides to Rumsey & Co.; 2190 barrels of flour, 238 barrels and 1000 tierces beef, 200 tierces of lard to the [Eric Railroad; and sundries to other parties. When Captain Dickson saw that all hopes of saving his vessel were gone, he ordered the men to take to their life-boats, which was done.

One of the bouts was discovered when some distance from land, by the officer of the deck of the revenue cutter Perry, which was lying at Dunkirk, and a boat well manned was at once despatched, under care of a Beutenant, to tow in the shipwrecked party, which was promotly done, and the men cared for. Another boat anded safely four miles cast o Dunkirk, and the third and last landed at Silver Creek. The Commodore Perry arrived here about dark last night, and brought the crew of the Acme and their boats. The Acme was built in 1856; was valued at $50,000; was 762 tons measurement, old style, and ranked as B 1. The General Worth was owned by Mesers. Richardson and Rosenbury, of this city; was 257 tons measure-ment, old style; was built in 1648; was valued at $7000, and ranked as B 2. A vessel is reported sunk above Sturgeon Point, on the south shore. Her fore gaff was visible above the water. Nothing was heard of the crew, and it is feared that they are lost. A schooner laden with cold went ashore at Black Rock, the name of which we did not learn.

The schooner Mountaineer, bound to Ogdensburg, from Toledo, laden with corn, dragged her anchor at Cedar Island, and went asbore. cargo is badly damaged. The schooner Atlanta had a very narrow escape from founder-ing, but by knocking off a portion of the bulwarks and keeping the men hard to work, Cap-tain Crowley managed to weather the gale, and made this port yesterday morning. The schooner George Worthington lost her foremast and maintopmast, and sustained other damages. She reached here last evening. The barque Cream City lost her large anchor and most of her large chain; the barque Corning lost her large anchor. A few hours will, in all probability, bring us tidings of fresh disasters, for seamen report that they had the roughest time on Lake Eric doring the gale that they have ever experienced.

Santa Anna out of Liberal Clutches-The Election Now Looked Upon as Doubtful - A Revolution to Follow Juarez' Victory, So it is Thought.

Havana, Nov. 5.—The royal mail steamer Fider, Captain Bax, from Vera Cruz November 2. has arrived here. General Santa Anna is on board, and is on his way to St. Thomas. The Elder brings the news that the court which was so lenient as to exile the old fellow has been, in turn, imprisoned for their regard towards him.

The election of Juarez is now reported as doubtful, further returns having been received from the strong opposition States. However, should be come out victorious, the opinion is freely expressed among foreigners that there be a revolution in two months.

The remains of Maximilian have not yet been delivered so Admiral Tegethoff. Frederic Hall, of California, Maximilian's late defender, has arrived by the Elder, and goes to the North by way of New Orleans.

ST. THOMAS.

Fearful Record of Disasters in the Carribean Sea-The Aspin wall and Southampton Steamer Lost-The Company's Property all Destroyed.

HAVANA, Nov. 5 .- Official advices have been received from the Superintendent of the Royal Mail Line at St. Thomas, by the British Consul here, to the effect that the steamer Rhone was lost at Peter Island; the steamer Wye, Captain Taylor, at Buck Island; the steamer Conway, Captain Hammack, went ashore at Tortola and the steamer Derwent at St. Thomas. The steamers Solent and Tyne have been dismasted, and all the company's property is de-stroyed. The town of St. Thomas is in ruins, and five steamers, with fifty other vessels, are ashore. The loss of life has been terrible. All the officers and engineers of the Rhone have been lost; and, out of all the passengers of the Rhons and the Wye, only forty have been including Captain Taylor, of the Wye, and Mr. Hodgson, of Southampton, England, The steamer had one hundred and fifty passengers, mostly for Southampton, only twelve of whom are known to be saved.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF GENIUS .- It is one of the mysteries of life that genius, that noblest gift of God to man, is nourished by poverty. Its greatest works have been achieved by the sorrowing ones of the world in tears and despair. Not in the brilliant saloon, furnished with every comfort and elegance-not in the library well fitted, softly carpeted, and looking out upon a smooth green lawn or a broad expanse of scenery-not in ease and competence is genius born and nurtured, but more frequently in adversity and destitution, amidst the harassing cares of a straitened household, in bare and fireless garrets, with the noise of squalid children, in the midst of the turbulence of domestic contentions, and in the deep gloom of uncheered despair, is genius born and reared. This is its birthplace, and in scenes like these, unpropitious, repulsive, wretched, have men labored, studied, and trained themselves until they have at last emanated out of the gloom of that obscurity, the shining lights of their times—become the companions of kings, the guides and teachers of their kind, and exercised an influence upon the thought of the world amounting to a species of intellectual legislation.

THE TRIALS OF HANDSOME ACTORS IN BOS-TON-No "leading man," writes a Boston correspondent, if he is tolerably good looking, is safe from the machinations of admiring fair ones, who fall in love with him in the costume of Romeo, Claude, or a Corsican Brother, The ingenuity of these moths is equalled only by their boldness; they devise schemes for making known their state of mind-they rarely "let concealment," etc.-that are truly triumphs of strategy. But the subject would grow in my hands if I entered into it, and I must be content with relating what happened to a popular actor of one of our theatres recently. He received a note from a lady, evidently intelligent and cultivated, to the effect that she was not a frequenter of theatres, and had no acquaintance with professional people; yet she admired genius wherever she saw it; she was called "singular" by her friends, and perhaps she was so; she would be pleased to have an interview with him, and would he call on her? The actor, callous to such compliments, cruelly replied that she could have the privilege of seeing him on application at the box-office and payment of the usual admittance fee; he did not exhibit himself gra-

AN APPEAL TO THE AMERICAN PE PLE.
The object of this Association is to provide, by public exertion, a National home for our disabled solicies, to erect an asylum for those was, in their patricular, have served their country at the expense of their health and happiness; who in the ballle for the nation's life were malined, and are now incapable of working for their own maintenance. France has her Hotel des Invalices where rest the ashes of the great Napoleon, Ergiand, her Greenwich and Cheisea Hoapitals, the former being one of the fluest architectural structures ever devited to charly. Rossia, Prussia, and in fact nearly all European countries have magnificent retreats for the unfortunate soldiers. Monarchies provide for the nileviation of the suffering caused by war, but free, prospectous Republican America has no place for her crippied and sick soldiers but the country poor-no see or the aldewalks of her crowded citles. We enjoy the result of their sacrifices. We must not be recreant to our obligations.
