A WOOD-SAWING CONTEST.

Bovel and Exciting Contest at Lafayette -36 Amateurs Saw 36 Cords. From the Lafayette, (Ind.) Journal, Nov. 2. The wood-sawing tournament about which so much has been said and written came off yester-day, according to announcement, and was a much has been said and written came off yester-day, according to announcement, and was a complete and decided success. It was something more—it was the biggest thing that ever occurred in the State, or even in the West. The day was beautiful, though a little windy, with just enough of sunshine and chill to make woodsawing almost a positive luxury. The affair was witnessed by not less than one thousand person, as near as we could judge, though people kept almost constantly coming and going, on foothoreback, and in carriages and wagons. The procession formed in the following order:—1. Lafayette Silver Cornet Band; 2. Young Men's horseback, and in carriages and wagons. The procession formed in the following order:—1. Lafayette Silver Cornet Band; 2. Young Men's Christian Association, nine, as follows:—Colonel Thompson, J. W. Graham, N. G. Hoover, Frank H. Levering, D. H. Flynn, William T. Underwood, Edward Ball. G. Clav Smith and Thomas Emerson. 3. Hoosier, Base Ball Club, nine, as follows:—Messrs, Martin, Tinney, Hood, Brown, Gallagher, Jenners, Rhoads, Weisenberger, and Krutz. 4. Main to Main, up Main to Main to Main to Ma W', ch their saws at what the tactics call a right shoulder shift. The Hoosiers were dressed in the uniform peculiar to the club to which they belong. The other boys were garbed in their working clothes, and all wore that martial and determined look so noticeable in those who have resolved "to do or die." Arrived at the ground, some little time was consumed in arranging the preliminaries. The principal or primary contest being between the Housiers and the Young Men, those two organizations tossed up for the choice of piles. The former winning the first choice, selected the pile at the south and of the west side of the lot, the others taking the north pile on the same side. There was some little difference in the quality of the wood furnished for the contest, but none in the measurement, except in that for the Indepen-dents, which was nearly three-quarters of a cents, which was hearly three-quarters of a cerd short. A portion of it was also soft wood, and much easier to saw than either of the others. In the other three piles the quality was about equal, though, if anything, the Unknowns had a little the most hard wood. Everything being arranged, and the sawyers in position, at the tar of the draw and music recommend. the tap of the drum and music from the band, the fun commenced amidst the almost designing shouts of the spectators. At just twenty-five minutes after 10 o'clock each man sprang for his stick simultaneously, and each saw commenced at almost the same instant. It was indeed a grand sight, and such a one as was never before witnessed in the country. Thirtysix wood-saws all rasping through the wood and splinters at the same time—some of the boys going in with all their might and strength, others taking it slow and easy, after the manner of experienced knights of the saw and buck. The friends of each party rallied around and encouraged them by their presence and counsel. hile others stood back and offered bets at odds in favor of their winning. There was a percepti-ble difference noticeable in the sawing of each until the first hour or hour and a half had passed, when the piles of those who took it slow passed, when the piles of those who took it slow and easy began to grow gradually larger. At a little after 12 o'clock the labor was suspended for thirty minutes, while the sawyers partook of a lunch and hot soffee, furnished them by Messrs. Taylor & Son, of the Bramble House. After lunch the labor was again resumed, without intermission, until it was completed. At intervals during the day buckets of water were passed around to the buckets of water were passed around to the sawyers, and boys stood ready, bacon-rind in hand, to grease the saws. At five minutes past 2 o'clock the Independents completed their last stick—having made their nine cords (three-quarters short) in just three hours and ten minutes. The result was hailed with deafening cheers. Miss Lydia Brockenbough then steppe I forward and decorated each of the nine with a red ribbon, taken from her own dress and cut into suitable lengths on the spot, then and there. At precisely half-past 2 o'clock the Unknown nine completed their job, having Unknown nine completed their job, having made the time in three hours and thirty-five minutes. We heard considerable complaint from various parties that several of this party slighted their work in only sawing the wood once in two, whereas the rules required that it should be sawed twice. For our own part, we only noticed one or two instances of this kind. Towards the close of the centest, and after the Independents had finished their job, the friends of the Unknown stepped in and rendered them efficient service by placing the wood upon the bucks and holding it while the wood upon the bucks and holding it while it was sawed. Taking the contest through be-tween the Unknowns and Independents, and considering the latter's short measure and soft considering the latter's short measure and soft wood, it was very nearly an even thing with them. At precisely thirty-seven and a half minutes past 2 o'clock the Hoosier Boys sawed their last stick, making the time in three hours and forty-two and a half minutes, thus beating the Young Men fully ten minutes. As the main contest was between these two nines, this result was halled with deafening cheers, and the boys modestly received the congratulations of their friends, a large majority of whom were of their friends, a large majority of whom were of the fair sex. The friends of the Young Men, seeing they were fairly beaten, kindly stepped in and assisted them with their ten or fiteen minutes' remaining work. Taken throughout, the contest was a very severe one, and one which fully tested the endurance and bottom of those engaged in it. The result is also one cal-culated to cheer the heart of many a poor person, who, during the cold and bleak winds of winter, cannot help but bless the brave hearts of those who have so nobly contributed to their comfort, if not to their very existence. The present results may be summed up thus—thirty-six cords of nicely sawed wood, seventy-two blistered hands, thirty-two lame backs, and thirty-six pairs of sore legs. At first no admis-sion fee was charged, but some of the ladies connected with the Benevolent Society passed the "platter," and succeeded in raising no inconsiderable sum. Afterwards a person was the "platter," and succeeded in raising no inconsiderable sum. Afterwards a person was shationed at the entrance, who insisted upon a fee of ten cents for going in. The sum thus raised for entrance must have amounted to seventy-five or a hundred dollars. The whole affair closed up with an auction sale of the saws, donated for the use of the Hoosiers by Messra. Falley & Beach, five quarter barrels of flour donated by the miliers of the city, Messra. Beard, Geiger & Cobler, George Forestman, Breckinridge & Jenkins, and Potter, Daggett & Martin—and of a dilapidated saw-buck donated by us—we don't know who. Mr. F. B. Freese engineered the auction. The first saw was knocked down to William H. Hatcher, Esq., at five dollars; and the others to different parties at various sums ranging from $1 to $1.50. The Hatcher, at $4.50; the second to D. A. James, at first sack of flour was knocked down to W. H. Hatcher, at $4.50; the second to D. A. James, at fit sher, at sums ranging from $3.50 to $4.50. The premium saw-buck was bid od by Colone! Jim Tulius, at $14. Several other saws were soid, ased by the young men were donated to the such poor people as needed them. The whole ended one of the most interesting and exciting and exciting sand one which, judging from what our excitances as y, will be spread until we hear of the Lord."
