HABELMANN'S CONCERTS On Thursday and Friday evenings, in Concert Hall, are calling the attention of the public to their superior attractions and low subscription rates. Mr. Joseph Hermanns, the great basso from the German opera, is to sing his wonderful part of "Mephistopheles," in Faust, the almost equally great part of "Rocco" in Fideio, and introduces a new song composed for him by Carl Evers, called "To the Stotm-winds." Mme. Johannsen, Jean Louis, and Mr. Habelmann have also fine operatic parts to sustain. Carl Sentz's orchestra is also engaged.

CARL SENTE'S ORCHESTRA has its pinth Matinee on Thursday afternoon, in the new Horticul-tural Hall, and offers a splendid programme of new compositions, introduced for the first time. Mr. C. H. Jarvis, an executant of superior abilities and acknowledged reputation, performs a Mendelssohn Concerto, with orchestra accom paniment. This is the first of a series of star piano forte performances at these brilliant Concerts. The energy and spirit of Mr. Sentz are well displayed in this enterprising movement. The prices of admission remain unchanged.

An entirely new bill is offered at Tunison & Co.'s New Philadelphia Opera House, Seventh street, below Arch, every evening this week. Frank Moran, Eph. Horn, Budworth, and others

Concerning the Cut of Beards. The author of a new volume on Italy tells us that from 1848 to 1859 political tendency was much indicated by the cut of the beard. A elean shaved face, like a priest, or a clean shaved face with whiskers, such as were worn in England before neckcloths disappeared, were the outward and visible signs that the love of the House of Bourbon burned brightly in the wearer. A moustache was allowed, and in some cases was highly proper; but a shaven chin was incispensable, and any obstinate or unlucky individual who allowed his beard to grow over the inch or two below his mouth was pretty sure to receive a visit from the police, an order sure to receive a visit from the police, an order to repair to the barber, and a little bill for being shaved by superior orders, but at his own expense. But with the decadence of the House of Bourbon a fashion was introduced of just the oppusite mode of trimming the beard and its appendages. The old busts and portraits of the Counts and Dukes of Savoy are marked by a heavy moustache and thick, pointed beard, something like that worn by Charles I, of England. When King Victor Emanuel visited Engized he was distinguished by the gisantic moustache that hung over his by the givantic moustache that hung over his uniform like a pair of fox's tails, the beard being removed from the chin, so that, while the bair was natural, the moustache was artithe hair was natural, the monatache was artificial. The King's monataches were singed in the campaign of 1859, and either from this cause, as a mark of opposition to the regulation inch of clear chin, his Majesty adopted the style of his angestor Testa di Ferro – shaven cheek, full monatache, pointed beard. As soon as the police ceased to have power over beards this style became prevalent in Naples. Its adoption was the expression of devotion to the Italian cause; the perfectly untrimmed beard rather denoted the extreme or Republican carts. rather denoted the extreme or Republican party. The transformation, particularly when effected in the person of elderly men, was remarkably amusing. The most devoted Bourbonists, known by their clean faces and neat whiskers, reappeared as the Italianissimi of the Italians, with clean cheeks and Savoyard imperials. Any other expression of change of opinion could be even more rapidly adopted.

GRAND POPULAB MOVEMENT TO ERROT THE

GETTYSBURG ASYLUM

INVALID SOLDIERS,

UNDER A SPECIAL Charter from the State of Pennsylvania PASSED MARCH 6, 1867.

AN APPRAL TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The object of this Ameciation is to provide, by public exertion, a National Home for our disabled soliers, to crect an asylum for those was, in their patriotism, have served their count y at the expense of their bealth and happiness; who in the battle for the mation's H'e were maimed, and are now tocapable or working for their down maintenance. France has her Hotel des Invalices, where rest the ashes of the great Napoleon; Ergland, has Greenwheh and Chelsea Hospitals, the former being one of the linest architectural structures ever deviced to charity. Russia, Prussia, and in fact nearly all European countries have magnificent retreats for the unfortunate soldiers. Monarchies provide for the alleviation of the suffering caused by war, but free, prosperous Republican America has no place for her crippled and sick soldiers but the country poor-house of the aldewalks of her crow ded cities. These noble patriots left happy homes to save our common country in the hour of the deep distress. We piedged to them our lasting gratitude, and now those who are dependent look to us in their utter need to redeem those piedges. They have performed their part. We enjoy the result of their sacrifices. We must not be recreant to our obligations. Let us each devote but a single dollar to this purpose, and the Gettysburg Asylum will afford the soldiers a home, and our country will be bonored by the noble institution.
